The Charlotte Street League on Monday night closed a most successful six month's term with an entertainment which far surpassed anything of the kind given by the organization during the year. The invitations issued to the Official Boards, sister societies, choir and general congregation, were generously responded to and by eight o'clock a fairly representative assemblage gathered in the lecture hall of the church.

The first part of the programme consisted of an account of the league operations, embodying a report of the work done during the past six months and a prospectus of the work for the next term. The president's report gave the general scope of the work while reports from the various committees showed in detail the executive earnestness of the organization. Not the least cheering feature was the treasurer's statement, which showed liberal receipts, judicious and generous expenditure and a comfortable balance.

The refreshments were served in banquet style. Continuous tables tastefully ornamented with cut flowers were arranged round three sides of the room and to these visitors and members adjourned, the business for the evening being finished. The chairman, Rev. Crossley, addressed the gathering in his usual felicitous style, pointing out particularly the excellent programme for the next six months. This was followed by an address of welcome from the associate-president, and then the refreshments were served by the young men, resplendent in their snowy aprons. Strawberries and cream, coffee, iced-lemonade, and abundance of cake, furnished by the fair leaguers, were rapidly placed upoon the tables and partaken of with relish.

The latter part of the programme was of an informal nature, consisting of replies to the address of welcome interlarded with excellent music. Mr. James Stevenson replied on behalf of the trustee board. He congratulated the league on its success and gave a few reminiscences of the early days of the church. Mr. J. R. Kidd, for the Sunday School, thanked the leegue for their invitation and demonstrated that energetic work in that department induced energy in other branches of church work. Rev. Mrs. Kilgour represented the Ladies' Auxiliary, and commended the Young People for their aggressive spirit and briefly spoke of the work of the Auxiliary. Mr. Main president of the choir, thanked the society for the invitation and praised their general work, and then took the opportunity to lay the claims of the choir before the people. Rev. Crossley spoke briefly for the Quarterly Board and the Ladies Aid.

The musical programme was varied and extremely enjoyable. Miss May Huffman gave an excellent opening instrumental. Mr. E. Hodgson accompanied by Mrs. Hodgson, rendered brilliantly a flute solo and was warmly applauded. During the serving of refreshments the orchestra furnished a delightful selection and Mr. E. Hodgson, this time accompanied by his younger brother Alfred, who possesses unusual musical talents favoured the company with another flute solo. The instrumental music was brought to a close with a duet, violin and flute, by Messrs. Hancock and E. Hodgson, accompanied by Miss Campbell. The selection was ably executed and very favourably received. Mr. C. Parks sang a martial ode in that voice of his, so admirably adapted to a spirited interpretation of patriotic and martial music.

THE TRADERS' BANK OF CANADA.

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders.

Proceeding of the Sixteenth Annual General Meeting of Shareholders, held at its Banking House in Toronto on Tuesday, the 18th June, 1901.

The chair was taken by the President, Mr. C. D. Warren, and the General Manager was requested to act as secretary, when the following statement was read:

The net profits for the year, after making provisions for bad and doubtful debts, and reserving accrued interest, amounted to	$145,387 83
Premium on new stock issued	34,770 00
Balance at credit of profit and loss last year	14,511 67
	$194,819 50
Appropriated as follows, viz.:
Dividend No. 30, three per cent, payable 1st Dec., 1900	31,968 00
Dividend No. 31, three per cent., payable 1st June, 1901	39,460 33
Written off bank premises	10,000 00
Transfer to rest account	100,000 00
Balance at credit of profit and loss new account	13,391 11
	$194,819 50
Average paid up capital for the year	$1,201,300 00
Percentage of Net Profits (exclusive of premiums received on new stock issued)	12 11

The average paid-up Capital for the year was $1,201,300, the net profits on which, exclusive of premium on new stock issued, were 12.11 per cent.

The deposits, now $7,672,591, show a healthy increase of $1,144,517 during the year, a considerable portion of the increase, viz., $346,222, being non-interest-bearing deposits.

During the year, through the lamented death of Mr. W. J. Thomas, a vacancy occurred on the Board, of which he had been a valued member for some years.

The different offices of the Bank have all been inspected during the year.

C. D. WARREN,
President.

A VOLLEY WAS FIRED

Fortunately Only 20 Strikers and 11 Police Were Injured.

A WARM TIME AT ROCHESTER.

The Rapid and Timely Dispersal of the Strikers Prevented Serious Bloodshed —Other News of Strikers Elsewhere —The Status Quo in the C. P. R. Trackmen's Strike Is Maintained—Latest News.

Rochester, N. Y., June 27.—The anticipated trouble with the strikers came yesterday morning. The men, numbering about 1,500, clashed with the police at Mill and Commercial streets at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning, and many heads were broken.

A volley was fired over the heads of the strikers, when the policemen were assaulted with bricks, stones, shovels and pices of wood. The dispersing of the strikers then prevented serious bloodshed, for the next volley from the police would have been directly at the strikers.

As it was, 11 policemen and 20 strikers were injured. The police say the shooting was precipitated by a shot from one of the strikers. As the column of marchers turned into Mill street they encountered 50 laborers employed by the Rochester Gas and Electric Company, digging a trench at the junction of Commercial street, and, with a shout, the strikers advanced on the run and drove the workmen from the trench. The latter sought refuge in the power house of the company, and the police undertook to disperse the mob, when the trouble came.

THE STRIKE ON THE C.P.R.

Striking Trackmen Still Confident—Strikers Returning to Work—One Man Who Did Not Like His Job.

Toronto, June 27.—Local striking trackmen of the Canadian Pacific Railway maintain that prospects for a victory in their favor are as bright as ever. Yesterday, they reported that, on the line from Toronto to London, one man had returned to work, and that a trackman on the London and Western Division had joined their ranks.

General Superintendent Timmerman yesterday reported that a number of the strikers had returned to work on the London and Windsor, and Toronto and Smith's Falls Divisions. The places of the strikers, he said, were being rapidly filled.

His Duty Was Not Pleasant.

Ottawa, June 27.—A young man returned on Monday to the city from Chalk River, after performing two days' duty as a special C. P. R. constable. He had been sworn in by Magistrate O'Keefe, but found his duties rather disagreeable, and not what he expected. The work of the constables, he says, is to keep the road in repair, which means considerable labor, and also keep armed for attacks by strikers, the interference of whom they must always be watching for. During his term he repaired a switch and inspected a portion of the road. While at work the specials wear no uniform, and pass as ordinary day laborers. Mr. H. B. Spencer, superintendent, stated yesterday that special constables merely did patrol duty, and did not have to do any repairing of the tracks or road.

More Go Out on Strike.

Reading, Pa., June 27.—Thirty additional Reading Railway shopmen struck yesterday, while six endeavored to work, but were refused employment.

30,000 Workers Interested.

Cleveland, O., June 27.—As the result of the conference between the American Tin Plate Company and representatives of the Tin Plate Workers' Protective Association, which has been in session here for several days, a wage scale has finally been agreed upon. The new scale gives the workmen an advance of about 2 per cent. The men asked for a 10 per cent. increase. The new scale will affect about 30,000 workers, and will go into effect July 1.

Lehigh Valley Affected.

Pittston, Pa., June 27.—Two hundred machinists are on strike at the Coxton yards of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. Pickets from the strikers' ranks patrol the shops.

Quebec Fur Workers on Strike.

Quebec, June 27.—Fifty-two fur-cutters and fifty-five men in J. Arthur Paquet's fur factory at Hare Point went on strike yesterday morning. The strike will take on threatening developments, if it is not immediately settled.

Body Found in the Bay.

Toronto, June 26.—The body of little Tom Sutherland, the 7-year-old boy who disappeared from his home at 144 John street on Friday last, was taken from the bay yesterday afternoon.

LUSITANIA WRECKED.

Fine Elder-Dempster Steamer on Rocks Near Cape Race.

LIKELY TO BE A TOTAL LOSS.

Frenzied Passengers Fought for the Boats and Endangered Their Own Lives—The Crew Stood by Their Ship and Eventually Quelled the Trouble and Saved All on Board.

St. John's, Nfld., June 27. — The steamer Lusitania, with 300 passengers on board, was wrecked Tuesday night on Cape Ballard.

The steamer belongs to the Orient Steam Navigation Company, and was bound from Liverpool for Montreal, in charge of Capt. McNay.

Cape Ballard is situated on the coast of Newfoundland, about 60 miles south of St. John's.

The Lusitania was built at Liverpool by Laird Bros. in 1871, and is 380 feet long. The Lusitania was bound round Cape Race for Montreal with a large cargo and a shipload of passengers. She mistook her course in a dense fog, and went ashore near Renews, 20 miles north of Cape Race, before daybreak. The ship ran over a reef and hangs against a cliff. The passengers had a terrible experience. The first knowledge which they had of the disaster was when, owing to the ship's rasping over the rocks, they were all hurled from their beds by the shock. Many of them were bruised, and they all hurried on deck in their night clothes. A scene of great excitement ensued. Five hundred people were clamoring to escape, while the crew tried to pacify them, and launch the boats. The male passengers, in their attempts to seize the boats, trampled the women under foot, and as already cabled, fought the crew with knives. Some of the more clear-headed of the passengers assisted the crew in their efforts to get out the boats. One boat, it now appears, was upset and its occupants were immersed. It is still supposed that some of these were drowned, but the point has not yet been definitely established. It is certain, however, that one boat, having on board 20 people, has not yet been reported. She is supposed to be adrift in the fog, and this may have given rise to the report which reached that 20 persons were drowned by the upsetting of a boat.

The women and children rescued were almost naked. Drenched with spray, they were pulled up the cliffs by the coast people. Some of the boats were demolished in the surf while attempting to land, and their half drowned occupants held on to rocks, shivering with cold until rescued.

Yesterday morning the unhappy passengers, after shivering for hours on the hilltop, tramped over weary miles in their endeavor to reach the houses of the fishermen, which they eventually succeeded in doing, and where they are now sheltered.

Previous to reaching the cliffs the passengers passed two hours of terrible anxiety on the wreck.

Continued fears are expressed that the Lusitania may prove a total loss, as a furious rainstorm and heavy sea raged all night. The last reports received last night said that the steamer was breaking up; that her foreholds were full of water, and that her cargo was being salvaged.

There is hope of saving the effects of the passengers, as, where possible, they were stowed above decks.

Six steamers are now on their way from here to the scene of the wreck. It was expected that the rescued passengers would be brought here last night.

Later reports received here show that the wreck of the Lusitania did not result in any loss of life. All the passengers escaped, though several of them were injured. The boat-load of passengers reported as missing have landed safely.

The Lusitania has been badly forced on the rocks, has listed to one side, and is half full of water.

Mrs. Thomas Jones of Cedar Springs, Ont., and her son, are among the injured.

Ship Cannot Be Saved.

Montreal, June 27.—The Elder-Dempster manager received a despatch last evening from Capt. McNay of the beached steamer Lusitania, saying that the ship is hard aground, all the holes are full of water, and it will be impossible to save the ship. All the passengers are safe ashore with sufficient provisions. A boat is coming to the rescue. Baggage is floating in the holds.

Passengers at St. John's.

St. John's, Nfld., June 27. — The steamer Glencoe arrived here at midnight, bringing six first, fifteen second and 436 steerage passengers, and ninety-three of the crew of the Lusitania. Captain McNay and the chief officers of the ship remained with the wreck.

EDUCATION IN ONTARIO.

What an English Educational Journal Says.

A Wider Spirit and a Greater Freedom From Tradition Said to Prevail Here Than in England.

The Schoolmaster of London, England, of May 25th, says:—"It is refreshing at times to turn from the chaos of English education to the reports of what has been done and is still doing in some of the younger portions of the British Empire. The same problems that vex our souls at home arise there also, but in the majority of cases they are tackled in a wider spirit and with a greater freedom from the narrowing bonds of tradition than seem possible here at the centre of things Imperial. The common saying is that "as the young cock cackles the old cock crows"—in educational matters the old bird, i.e., the mother country, crows in a style vastly different from that of many of her colonial cockerels. The report of the Canadian Province of Ontario for 1900 contains much that forms a severe comment on home conditions. It is backed by the full statistics of 1899, into which, as being of more interest to the Canadians themselves than others, we do not intend to enter fully, contenting ourselves with using only the main lines of policy indicated by the Minister of Education and his subordinates. So much of the report is occupied by an exhaustive study of the high schools and continuation classes of the Province and by elaborate recommendations concerning them that one feels tempted to think that the reporters were mentally comparing Canada and the home country in a way that was prophetic. For these high schools and continuation classes correspond pretty closely to what we know in England as higher grade schools and higher grade departments attached to ordinary primary schools.

School Age in Ontario.

To begin with, the school age in Ontario, which was fixed from 5 to 16 in 1867, has since 1887 been placed from 5 to 21. That, taken with some remarks to be made further on about the gratuity of education, is of tremendous importance. Think what it means: that a full, free education up to the age of 21 is considered as the birthright of a young Canadian of Ontario if he chooses to avail himself of it.

Naturally it is not expected that all this time will be passed in a primary school, and so, where the locality permits it, secondary education in the form of a high school is provided; where this cannot be completely carried out continuation classes, i.e., higher grade departments, are tacked on to the primary schools of the district, in which, says the Minister, "the course of study is wisely made the same as that prescribed for the lower forms of high schools." There is no quibbling here about the line of demarcation between primary and secondary. Indeed, he says, further on, "It would be a shortsighted policy to limit public expenditure for education to the elementary schools. Our high schools are of great value in promoting the efficiency of the public schools. Secondary schools exert a powerful stimulus for good upon the schools below, just as the universities have a marked effect upon the efficiency of the high schools." Which is sound common sense, and which, further, assumes the continuity of this education by whatever name or names it may be known. It is positively exhilarating to read a report that can speak of education alone without making a shibboleth of artificial numerical divisions.

Free Schooling.

One of the special reports contained in the larger one carries the discussion a step further. The writer had made a thorough study of the American system and pronounces strongly in favour of the adoption of the American plan, i.e., of free schooling for all, passing in succession through the primary, higher grade and high schools. For him, "the separation of school boards (read school systems) is a survival of the theory which once existed, but which has now pretty nearly disappeared, that the public school is for the lower and poorer classes, and the high for the upper and richer,"—a state of things and feeling which he cannot brook.

Comparing the gratuity of this higher education in Ontario with that in the States, he says as follows:

"Of our 130 high schools and collegiate institutes, 46 are free to residents, and eighteen are free to all; 33 which charge fees, charge none in Form I. to residents, and the annual charge of those which charge fees for Form I is $8.29, 24 of them charging less than $10. The time has not yet come, unfortunately, when all our high schools can be made free by law. No one, however, who studies the history of educational movements can doubt that we shall eventually follow the example of the republic to the south of us. Even on the low ground of economic expediency, the course will be a necessary one, for we cannot otherwise compete successfully with the rival at our doors."

This frank avowal of the necessary conditions under which commercial strife is to be carried on contrasts charmingly with the Pecksniffian attitude of bewailing the loss of supremacy, commercial and industrial, and at the same time shutting off the avenues by which commercial and industrial supremacy can alone be maintained.

Class of High Grade Pupils.

One argument which has often been hurled at higher grade instruction in England, is that it has drawn off pupils who would otherwise have gone naturally into secondary schools. In Ontario records have been compiled bearing on this and the following list showing the occupation of parents of higher grade school pupils is not without interest just now. It was found that the proportion of occupations was approximately as follows:

Agricultural... ... . 33 per cent.
Commercial... ... ...29 per cent.
Mechanical... ... ...28 per cent.
Professional ... ...10 per cent.

Which effectually explodes the objection so far as Ontario is concerned.

The public spirited action of this province is evinced in the proposals made in another connection — the question of rural schools.

To avoid the drawbacks attendant on many country schools, which are nothing but odds and ends of classes, poorly equipped and worse staffed, it is proposed to adopt a plan that has been successfully initiated in some of the United States, viz., the grouping of districts, whereby one well-equipped and fully organized school is maintained on the footing of a town school and the children are conveyed to and from school at the expense of the local authorities. Great efficiency is thus gained, and in the States alluded to, a saving of expenditure has also followed. At any rate, "where there is a will there is a way," and the effort to level up rural education is most laudable.

Empire Day.

One other remark, and we leave the report for the present. The Canadians have introduced the custom of observing the school day immediately preceding May 24, as "Empire Day," a day on which all the school functions are specially arranged with a view of instilling into the young Canadian a feeling of patriotism. History lessons, lessons drawn from literature, special lessons on Canada, its relation to the mother country, and its history, are prepared for one part of the day's course, and a school function of a public kind is arranged for the concluding session. In this way something is done towards instilling a feeling that one is "a citizen of no mean country," and forming, not a blatant, jingo patriotism, but one that is founded on intelligent knowledge. The notion strikes us as being an extremely good one, capable of use here at home, and of being extended in an admirable manner in connection with historical instruction.

In the largeness of mind with which the question of education is approached; in the evident intention to go forward to a full, free education for all; in the wise statesmanship which sees in a continuous, not a sectional or disjointed education, the strongest warrant of political stability and commercial improvement, and in the desire to make rural education as efficient and complete as in towns, Ontario has, in this report, furnished a striking object lesson.

YOU CAN CURE IT.

A New Cure for Catarrh in Tablet Form.

The old time treatment for catarrh was in the form of douches or sprays; later on, internal remedies were given, with greater success, but being in liquid or powdered form, were inconvenient, and were open to the same objection to all liquid remedies, that is, that they lose whatever medicinal power they may have had on exposure to the air.

The tablet is the ideal form in which to administer medication, but until recently no successful catarrh tablet had ever been attempted.

At this writing, however, a most excellent and palatable remedy for catarrh has been placed before the public, and sold by druggists, called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, composed of the most recent discoveries in medicines for the cure of catarrh, and results from their use have been highly gratifying.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain principally highly concentrated antiseptics, which kill the catarrh germs in the blood and mucous membranes, and in this respect are strictly scientific and modern, as has been known for some years past by the ablest physicians that the most successful catarrh treatment was by inhaling or spraying antiseptics.

The use of inhalers, douches and sprays, however, is a nuisance and inconvenience, and moreover can in no wise compare with the same remedy given in tablet form, either in efficacy or convenience.

A clerk in a prominent insurance office in Pittsburg relates his experience with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in a few words but to the point. He says, :—"Catarrh has been almost constantly with me for eight years; in this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. I awoke every morning stuffed up, and for the first half hour, it was cough, gag, expectorate and sneeze before I could square myself for my day's work; no appetite, and a foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly.

"I used Stuart's Catarrh Tablets for two months and found them not only pleasant to take, but they did the business, and I can sincerely recommend them to all catarrh sufferers."

Druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package. They can be carried in the vest pocket and used at any time and as often as necessary. Guaranteed free from mercury, cocaine, or any mineral poison; absolutely safe.

NORWOOD NEWS.

(From our own Corresponent.)

Miss Annie Raddon spent a few days in Millbrook last week.

Miss Mary Nicol left on Monday for Gravenhurst, where she will spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. C. Miller.

Rev. Dr. Thompson, of Hastings, was in town on Saturday.

Mr. R. M. Merritt, science master in the High School here, has gone to his home in Smithville for the summer vacation.

Miss Elizabeth Fowlds, of Hastings, is spending a few days at "Cessnock," the residence of Mr. W. E. Roxburgh.

Colonel Miller, of Peterborough, was in town last week and inspected the High School Cadet Corps and was greatly pleased with the bearing of the boys.

Mr. D. A. Fraser is improving the appearance of his store by a new coat of paint.

Mr. Lumsden, the C.P.R. civil engineer, arrived in town to-day to make a preparatory survey of the Norwood-Apsley Railroad.

On Monday evening the Y.P.S.C.E. in connection with the Presbyterian Church, decided to discontinue their meetings for the months of July and August. The next meeting will be on the first Monday evening in September.

Mr. Orlando Morran, of Centerton, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. E. P. Cuff spent last week in Hastings visiting her brother Mr. Robert Morrison.

Miss Perrin and Miss Pruan, of Peterborough, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rork on Sunday.

The strawberry social held under the auspices of the Baptist Church at Mrs. Parkers on Monday evening, was a decided success. Our young people turned out in force and a most enjoyable evening was spent. The proceeds amounted to $24.50.

On Friday afternoon our town football team drove over to Warkworth to play the return match with the team of that place. The game had scarcely started when one of the boys was hurt and had to stop. The Warkworth boys refused to put off a man, so the game was finished with ten men to elven, but resulted in a victory for Norwood by a score of 1 to 0.

Mr. Arthur Brethen has purchased a fine cushin-tired buggy and has the honour of being the first to bring one into this vicinity.

The Deaf Made to Hear.

St. Thomas—A modern miracle was made known to-day when Mr. Riddle, of this city, announced that he had recovered his hearing. He has been almost entirely deaf, and it borders on the marvellous to find him able to hear everything with great distinctness. As his case is proving of such universal interest, we give Mr. Riddle's own statement. "My hearing was always poor, and not long ago I became almost deaf. It was the result of catarrhal inflammation, but nothing did me good until I used Catarrhozone. It cured my trouble and I strongly recommend it to the deaf." Fully nine-tenths of the deafness is the result of Catarrh and can be cured by catarrhozone. The cures of deafness wrought by this remedy in cases of even twenty years standing are really astounding. Among many others, ministers of the gospel testify to the wonderful powers of Catarrhozone, and your druggist can tell of some astonishing cases in his own experience. Better give it a trial, if your hearing is impaired. Price $1; small size 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.,

GORE'S LANDING.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Misses Connor and Fox were the guests of Mrs. F. D. Herald on Sunday.

Masters Henley Sorby and James Smart are home from the Cobourg Collegiate Institutte for the holidays.

Miss Maggie Hawken was out from Cobourg for a day or two last week.

Some ladies from Cobourg are the guests of Mrs. Bonbright.

Mrs. Henry Delaney returned to Cobourg Thursday.

The North Star commenced her regular daily trip from Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. Tom Hawken is recovering from an attack of appendicitis. Master Willie Manley is at present a sufferer from the same disease.

Rev. Mr. Deloe preached his fare well sermon in the Methodist church on Sunday morning.

Mr. Alfred Harris has moved into Capt. Thos. Harris' cottage for the summer, while his own house is being renovated.

LEAPED FORTY FEET.

Wabash Limited Engine Cleared a Great Gap, but Fell Back—16 Killed, 50 Injured in Train-Wreck.

Peru, Ind., June 27. — Sixteen persons were killed and about fifty seriously injured in a wreck of train No. 3, the westbound Wabash Limited, nine miles west of this city at 12.30 a.m. yesterday. The dead are all Italian immigrants en route to Colorado. Many of the injured undoubtedly will die.

Two sections of train No. 3 — one coming from Detroit and the other from Toledo — were consolidated in this city into a train of 11 cars, making up the flyer for its journey to St. Louis. It consisted of a combination baggage coach, three chair cars, combination baggage and smoker, day coach, immigrant coach, three chair cars, three sleepers and the private car of General Superintendent William Colter of the Iron Mountain Railway. Having left this city one hour late, the train was speeding westward at a high rate, when, at a point nine miles west, the engine plunged through a trestle which had been undermined by the recent heavy rains. The embankment on both sides of the little streams dropped at a sharp degree, a distance of 40 feet.

Owing to the momentum of the train the engine leaped across the abyss, plunged into the soft earth on the opposite side and fell back to the bottom. Engineer Butler and Fireman Adams were thrown from the cab, but were not seriously hurt. The express car and the first chair car were telescoped. The immigrant car, followed by two cars, went down on the left side of the track, and the first sleeper pitched forward upon the mass of wreckage. Its windows and trucks were broken, but none of the occupants were injured. The remaining cars also left their trucks, but were not badly damaged. It was in the immigrant and in the day coaches that most of the deaths and injuries occurred.

OWES HIS EYESIGHT TO A MIRACLE.

Indebtedness to Dodd's Kidney Pills Acknowledged by Thomas St. Pierre.

Health Entirely Re-established by Dodd's Kidney Pills—Another Triumph for that Wonderful Remedy —His Eyesight Has Been Strengthened.

St. Epi, Que., June 23.—(Special).—One year ago a miracle was announced in Chicago. R. A. Wade, the great criminal lawyer, regained his sight after having for years been totally blind. His case was published throughout the length and breadth of America, and it attracted more attention to Dodd's Kidney Pills than any medicine ever got before. For it was Dodd's Kidney Pills that restored his sight.

A similar case has turned up in the village of St. Epi, Que. Though this sufferer was not stone blind, his eyes nevertheless were utterly useless to him by lamplight. And they have been completely restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills, which is another point of similarity.

There is no attempt made to assert Dodd's Kidney Pills are a cure for blindness. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest kidney medicine ever known. That is the claim made for Dodd's Kidney Pills, and there is evidence enough to prove that claim. But in cases where Kidney Disease has left poisons in the blood, and the said poisons attacking the weakest spot, injure the eye, Dodd's Kidney Pills are just as infallible as where the poison attacks the joint of the arm or the small of the back. That the eyesight of Thomas St. Pierre was restored is but another argument that Dodd's Kidney Pills make the blood absolutely pure.

Here is Mr. St. Pierre's letter: "I am happy to-day to see my health entirely re-established by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I owe that wonderful remedy a thousand thanks. Before using Dodd's Kidney Pills I had consulted many physicians and taken medicine of various kinds, but each made me worse. I had a constant pain in the back and limbs. At night I couldn't rest and I could not see by lamplight. Having taken only two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I am perfectly cured. My eyesight is clear. I advise all those whose health is not good, from whatever cause, to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Nine times out of ten they will be exactly what is wanted. Two dollars spent for Dodd's Kidney Pills will do more than millions spent otherwise, for who holds anything in the world more dear than health, or would spare any means to save it?"

Clergyman's Leg Broken.

Orillia, June 27.—Rev. John Lawrence of Rama had the misfortune to break his leg on Thursday last while on his way back from attending conference at Toronto. He had stepped off the train at Atherley and was getting in his buggy when his foot slipped and he fell to the ground, with the result that his leg was broken above the knee.

Shakespearian Constituency.

London, June 27.—The election just held to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons for the Stratford-on-Avon division of Warwickshire, caused by the death of Victor Milward, resulted as follows: P. S. Foster, Unionist, 4,755; Bolton King, Radical, 2,977.

AT THE PAN-AMERICAN

Hon. Dr. Borden and the Highlanders Will Attend.

CANADIAN PAVILION'S OPENING.

Dominion Day Will See Its Formal Opening—Probable Party to Accompany the Minister of Militia—The Arrangements Not Yet Fully Completed, but the Kilties Will Toot on the Grounds.

Ottawa, June 27.—Hon. F. W. Borden, Minister of Militia, will represent Canada at the formal opening of the Canadian pavilion at the Pan-American Exposition on July 1st, and the 48th Highlanders of Toronto will also attend the Exposition on that day. The Minister will probably be accompanied by Colonel Pinault, Deputy Minister of Militia; Colonel Aylmer, Adjutant-General; Lieut.-Col. Hodgins and Lieut.-Col. Evanturel. The party will leave here on Saturday night and spend Sunday morning in Toronto. On Sunday afternoon they will go on to Buffalo.

The Highlanders Notified.

Toronto, June 27.—Lieut.-Col. Macdonald has received official notification from the military authorities at Ottawa that an invitation has been extended to the 48th Highlanders to visit the Pan-American Exposition on the occasion of the dedication of the Canadian building, on July 1. Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, will represent the Government at the ceremony, and the militia regiment will form an escort for him.

Col. Macdonald has accepted the invitation, and the regiment paraded last evening, preparatory to their departure.

Arrangements have not yet been definitely concluded, but it is certain that the regiment will leave Toronto either next Saturday night or Sunday morning. While in Buffalo, they will be quartered on the Exposition grounds, where 110 tents have been erected for the especial purpose of receiving military organizations. The only difficulty encountered in connection with the trip was in the case of the pipers and the band, both of which are engaged for Dominion Day, the former at Port Elgin and the latter at Alliston. These engagements will, of course, have to be cancelled.

Male Boers Arrested.

Kenhardt, Cape Colony, June 26.—The German authorities of Damaraland have arrested a number of male Boers, who emigrated thither after the recent fight at Naroegas. Thirty-eight families of women and children have been placed in camp at Schmidt Drift.

Kruger Honored by Dutch.

Rotterdam, June 26. — Mr. Kruger was welcomed at the railroad station on his arrival here to-day by the Burgomaster, deputations from numerous societies and many ladies. An official reception followed. Great enthusiasm was manifested everywhere.

Mr. Kruger, in a brief reply to the Burgomaster's speech, deplored the fact that his country was cut off from supplies and ammunition, whereas the Dutch had had their own supplies during their struggle. He was fully convinced the Lord would deliver his country in His own good time.

Spencer on War Spirit.

London, June 27.—Herbert Spencer has written a letter pleading for mitigation of the war spirit, in which he says:

"Whatever fosters for militarism makes for barbarism; whatever fosters peace makes for civilization. These are two fundamentally opposed principles, on which social life may be organized—compulsory co-operation and voluntary co-operation, the one implying coercive institutions, the other free institutions.

"Just in proportion as militant activity is great, does the coercive regime more pervade the whole society. Hence, to oppose militancy is to oppose return toward despotism.

"My fear is that the retrograde movement will become too strong to be checked by argument or exortation."

To Take Horses to Africa.

Montreal, June 27.—The British Government has chartered the SS. Rombrandt of the Elder-Dempster Line, and the India of the Leyland Line to take 800 horses each to South Africa.

St. Catharines Man Drowned.

Port Dalhousie, Ont., June 27. — William Melvin of St. Catharines, was drowned about two miles from here at 5.30 yesterday afternoon. He had been camping at the "Sixteen," and was out fishing in a boat. It is not known whether he was sunstruck, or what happened, except that the boat was upset, and the young man was thrown into the water. The deceased was a stepson of Capt. Delaney of St. Catharines.

Sore Throat and Hoarseness.

with their attendant dangers may be speedily averted and remedied by the use of Polson's Nerviline. Excellent to gargle with—ten times better than a mustard plaster and more convenient for the outside. Nerviline penetrates the tissues instantly, soothes the pain, allays inflammation, and cures sore throat and hoarseness simply because that's what it is made for. The large 25 cent bottle of Nerviline is unexcelled as a household liniment. It cures everything.

MASSING OF TROOPS.

Ten or Fifteen Thousand Will Gather in Toronto When the Duke Comes.

Ottawa, June 27. — The preparations for the coming visit of H.R.H. the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York are beginning in earnest. Government House is being redecorated, and the dining-room is already done, and is most effective. The tastefulness of the decorations is largely due to Her Excellency, who is taking a great interest in the matter. The military preparations will keep Hon. Dr. Borden here the bulk of the summer. The present plan is to have a demonstration by the Quebec garrison, on the landing of the royal visitors; to have a demonstration by the whole garrison of Montreal, when that city is visited, and then to have the grand review and massing of troops at Toronto. There ten or fifteen thousand men will be gathered, and a grand field day held.

FOUR MINERS MISSING.

It Is Feared They Have Been Suffocated by Gas in the Mine.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 27.—A large breaker at No. 2 mine of the Delaware & Hudson Company was completely destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The loss will be fully $100,000. Seven hundred men and boys will be thrown out of employment until the breaker is rebuilt. Condy Connor, Jacob Bucks, Peter O'Connell and John Bugdale, who were at work in No. 2 mine when the fire occurred at noon, are missing. It is possible that they failed to reach the surface and were suffocated by gas which rapidly accumulated after the fire.

Two Men Took Paris Green.

Woodstock, Ont., June 27.—Armour Potter, son of a well-known farmer near Eastwood, yesterday drank a 4-ounce bottle, which was filled with Paris green. He was offered some milk, but he refused to take it, as he admitted he had taken the poison for the purpose of ending his life. A Woodstock doctor was sent for, and with the aid of a stomach pump the young man was brought around.

St. Thomas, Ont., June 27.—John McNeil of the first concession of South Dorchester, near Lyons, Tuesday took Paris green with suicidal intent. He was mixing the poison in a pail, when his brother saw him. On his brother approaching he put a handful of the unmixed Paris green in his mouth. He died yesterday morning at 4 o'clock.

Charged With Forgery.

Toronto, June 27. — A warrant was issued yesterday at the instance of the Molsons Bank for the arrest of W. H. Matthews of Hempville, Manager of the firm of W. H. Matthews & Company, private bankers. The warrant charges Matthews with forging the names of J. Whitesides, and of R. B. Whitesides to several cheques amounting to $500. Mr. Matthews was married yesterday and is now on his wedding trip in the United States. The warrant will be executed as soon as he ventures back to Canada. His wedding trip is to New York.

Drowned in Murray Bay.

Quebec, June 27. — Adjutor Morissette, the well-known tanner of this city, lost his life by drowning last night at Murray Bay. Mr. Morissette was on a few days' outing, together with several friends, and last evening took a walk along the wharf. Failing to return his friends went in search of him, but no trace of the missing man could be found. It is believed that Mr. Morissette must have fallen into the river and been drowned.

Another Father Drowned.

St. John, June 27.—A son of Jas. W. Cameron, I.C.R. clerk here, was drowned in Marsh Creek yesterday afternoon while bathing.

Very Unusual Reductions in Ladies' Hats.

Preparatory to a midsummer clearance, Miss Delaney is offering this week great reductions in trimmed and untrimmed millinery. The hats thus marked down are all of that handsome and stylish design which have been so favourably noticed this season in our regular stock. They are quite new, high-class and desirable—just what you are looking for prior to the holiday week, as well as for travelling, outing or home wear. The prices have been lowered to nearly a half, which is quite an unusual concession at this still brisk period of the season. Miss Delaney. dw

THE SHIRT WAIST.

The Hot Weather Introduces the Latest Fad Into Peterborough.

The summer shirt waist for men has at last secured a foothold in Peterborough and this latest innovation in male attire is bound to become a fixture.

Yesterday a clerk in a well known local gents' furnishing store was seen going to his dinner on his wheel attired ina shirt waist, and of course he attracted considerable attention, but he was looking for comfort, and that was all. He described his experience as a delightful one. As the gentle breezes percolated through the shirt waist it made him imagine he was enjoying a cream soda under an electric fan.

Last evening fully a dozen gentlemen were noticed in this new attire, which gives promise of becoming the rage before the season advances very far.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—A dog tag case was settled at the police court this morning.

—Fishing is reported to be exceptionally good in Little Lake and the river.

—A travelling orchestra discoursed sweet music in the different hotels last evening.

—The Kennedy Davis Co., lumber merchants of Lindsay, are building a new boat.

—The 57th Regimental Band will play on St. John's Church lawn from 8 to 10 this evening.

—The proposed trip of the Fifteenth Regiment of Belleville, to the Pan-American has been declared off.

—The garden party to-night at St. John's is for the joint benefit of the King's Daughters' charitable fund, and the 57th Band.

—A little daughter of E. W. Elcombe, of Campbellford, formerly of town had her arm broken last week through a fall.

—Next Saturday's Bridgenorth - Bobcaygeon trip of steamer Manita, is cancelled. The Manita will not be able to make her usual trip on that day.

—Mr. Walter English, whilst fishing in the river close to his boat house yesterday, succeeded in landing a sixteen and a half pound lunge.

—On the new coins the King's head will look from left to right. The late Queen is represented looking from right to left. According to a very old custom the new sovereign must not look the same way as his predecessor.

—A shoe social isthe latest thing in the entertainment line. The price of admission for men and women, old and young, is regulated by the size of their shoes. This would work well in Lindsay, where one's standing in society is regulated by the size of their feet.

—We are at present experiencing, some very warm, weather, and each day appears to be warmer than the preceding. The highest temperature in the shade yesterday was 88 deg. The thermometer marked the same degree of heat at Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto yesterday, and the hot wave is apparently far reaching. It comes from the western States.

ANOTHER DROWNING IN THE OTONABEE.

The Second Victim of the Year Claimed To-day.

BODY HAS BEEN RECOVERED

Little Eleven-year-old Wilfred Trew Caught by the Swift Current this Afternoon.

The second in the cycle of drowning accidents which annually occur in the Otonabee, took place this afternoon at a quarter to three o'clock, when little Wilfrid Trew, the eleven year old son of Mr. Solomon Trew, Water street, was carried away to his death by the swift current which runs by the C.P.R. spur line.

The little fellow was bathing in the river with a crowd of other small boys at a spot off the spur line directly east of the National Hotel. Suddenly the current caught him and carried him out beyond his depth and although he could swim a little his strength was not sufficient to battle with the swift running stream and after a brief but desperate struggle he sank beneath the water. Many of his companions could swim, but were afraid to venture to the rescue and even after he had disappeared one of the boys dove down and saw him lying on the bottom but declined the task of bringing out the body.

When the boy's mother was apprised of the drowning of her son, her sobs were pitiful to hear.

At about half past three Mr. Myles McDonough, who was one of a number who were trying to locate the remains by diving, succeeded in finding the body in a bed of weeds, just below where the drowning took place. He brought the remains to shore, where Mr. Trew had just arrived. Taking his drowned boy in his arms the father headed a mournful procession up the spur line to Hunter street, where the body was placed in a delivery wagon and removed to the home at No. 336 Water street, the drowning having occurred almost immediately in the rear of the house.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATION

The Bill of Fare for That Day Promises to be a Stunner.

The Indians, cowboys, owners of floats, and in fact everyone interested in the First of July Celebration, are urged to be on hand at the committee rooms this evening to perfect arrangements in connection with the demonstration.

The public can rest assured that the attractions for that day will be something unique and unheard of in that line. The parade in the morning will outrival any previous effort in that direction, and the afternoon and evening portion of the programme will not be behind it in originality and interest.

All workers are urged to be on hand early this evening.

HER INJURIES WERE FATAL.

The Third Death in Connection With the Oak Lake Fire.

The shocking accident at Oak Lake, in the north eastern part of the county, on the night of the 27th of May, when Mr. J. W. Post and the little boy, Kelsh, were burned to death in the family residence, has been made still more lamentable by the death of Mr. Post's mother, which recently occurred.

The aged mother, it will be remembered, was badly burned on several parts of her body while attempting to rescue from the flames her little grandson, and it was feared by the physician who visited her, as well as some friends, that her recovery was next to an impossibility.

The deceased was the relict of the late Rinard Post, who died four years ago. She was 79 years of age and always a hale, hearty, vigorous woman. Her remains were interred alongside those of her son and grandson in the little burial plot in the Oak Lake settlement, where many friends assembled to pay a last tribute of respect to one whose kindness will be treasured in the memory of future years. The loss of no one in that settlement will be more deplored.

A funeral service was held at the residence of Mrs. Kelsh, daughter of the deceased, conducted by Rev. R. J. Carson, pastor of St. John's church, Havelock, who delivered a sermon from the words, "Be ye also ready."

SUICIDE AT MILLBROOK.

John Whitfield a Well-known Resident Takes His Life.

Dr. Grey, Coroner, last evening received a telephone message requesting him to proceed to Millbrook to hold an inquest on the body of John Whitfield, who had committed suicide by hanging on Tuesday morning.

The unfortunate man was not discovered until seven o'clock last evening in an unoccupied cheese factory convenient to his residence. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition when found. On learning the facts of the case, the Coroner decided than an inquest was unnecessary.

The deceased, who was 48 years of age, was a well-known resident of the village, and leaves behind him a family of eight children, the youngest being three months old.

PURCHASED THE ISLAND.

Sugar Island in the St. Lawrence the Property of the A. C. A.

Commodore Britton, of the American Canoe Association, has, after a good deal of trouble, succeeded in purchasing Sugar Island for the use of the Association.

Sugar Island is one of the handsomest in the Dominion Government Reserve. It is situated in the St. Lawrence River, about six miles from Gananoque, and close to the international boundary. The necessity for a permanent camping ground on the St. Lawrence has been more apparent year by year, and at the last meeting of the Executive it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of Commodore Britton and J. McKendrick, of Galt.

The Association is very greatly in debt to these gentlemen for succeeding in getting this beautiful island as the camp for the St. Lawrence meets.

The camp opens this year on the 5th of August and will close on the 19th. Several local canoeists will attend.

A BANQUET TO LIEUT. McPHERSON.

No 6 Company Remember This Popular Officer.

A Pleasant Evening Spent Round the Festive Board in Speechmaking and Song.

That Lieut. McPherson of the 57th Regiment, is popular with the members of No. 6 Company, to which he is attached, was demonstrated last evening in the banquet which was tendered him at McCallum's Restaurant, where the men gathered in uniform to give him a "send-off" prior to his departure for the continent, where he intends pursuing his studies.

Mine Host McCallum had prepared an excellent spread for the evening, and the thirty red coats who sat around the festive board did ample justice to the good things provided.

Capt. Hayes of No. 6, occupied the chair, and seated on his right was Lieut. McPherson, and on his left the esteemed chaplain of the Regt., Rev. J. C. Davidson. Lt. Complin was unavoidably absent.

An impromptu toast list was run off by the chairman, which included toasts to "The King," "The Guest of the Evening," and "Our Chaplain," all of which were right royally received.

The speeches delivered were a feature of the evening. Capt. Hayes, in his remarks, paid a very high tribute to the ability of Lieut. McPherson as an officer and an instructor. He characterized him as an ideal soldier—one who understood the meaning of discipline, and an officer who at all times manifested the deepest interest, not only in the members of his company, but in the regiment as well. He regretted his departure from town, even if it was only for three months, as he was an officer the regiment could ill afford to lose. He assured him a warm reception on his return to town.

Rev. J. C. Davidson, Chaplain of the Regiment, also spoke in eulogistic terms of the popular young lieutenant, whom he wished every success on his three months leave of absence.

Lieut. McPherson, on rising to address the assembluge, was enthusiastically greeted. He assured the gathering that he appreciated their kindness very much, in thus showing their appreciation of their lieutenant. He felt that he had not deserved the enconiums that had been showered upon him by the speakers of the evening. He had simply done his duty as an officer of the regiment, which was expected from every soldier. He was delighted to know that such good feeling existed amongst the men of the company, and he urged them to be loyal to their company, be punctual at drill, and strive in every way to bring their regiment up to the standard of perfection, which is only obtained by incessant drilling. In conclusion he thanked the men for their good wishes.

A speech that proved a veritable treat was that delivered by Mr. Douglas McPherson, of South African fame, and brother of the guest of the evening. Mr. McPherson, who is an admirable speaker, gave a vivid and highly interesting account of his experiences in South Africa. He described the fighting qualities of the different regiments engaged, and in his estimation the Highland Regiments were the "daddies of them all." The Canadians, however, were the finest body of men physically, could stand the most hardship, and were not lacking the least in bravery. His description of the night attack at Paardeburg was immensely interesting, and the speaker held the attention of his listeners to the close.

During the evening, Lieut. McPherson was presented with a beautifully finished picture of the officers and men of No. 6 Company, and also an elegant pipe and case. The picture, which was handsomely framed, was the gift of the non-commissioned officers and men, and the pipe and case was presented by the officers of the company.

No. 6 Company possesses some excellent musical talent, and during the evening the toast list was interspersed by several numbers.

The gathering broke up at midnight. Lieut. McPherson left town this morning for Toronto

THE CATERPILLAR DISEASE.

It was Taken for Smallpox, and Puzzled the Physicians.

A citizen of the town has received the following account of a new disease, which will prove interesting reading in view of the fact that this town has had its experience with caterpillars:—"The people of Cambridge are afflicted with a pest of caterpillars. They crawl along the fence rails, along the sidewalks, and up the trees. Not for years has the city been so over-run.

But this is not all. They have brought along with them a brand new disease, which for weeks has puzzled the local doctors. For some time they have been called in to attend a kind of skin eruption. Some of them mistook this for measles, some for eczema, and still others for small-pox. But as it developed they saw it was none of these.

Turning to their medical books they went over everything under this head, and returned as unlightened as ever. Next they got down their microscopes and the mystery was solved.

They found beneath the skin short white hairs, which they quickly identified as those of the caterpillar. These had been driven far into the skin.

Although as yet no serious results have been reported, the doctors fear the effects would be serious should the eye be pierced.

The usual progress of the disease is first a slight itching, followed by inflammation and eruption which sometimes spread over the whole body. This subsides at the end of three or four days, leaving no bad results.

ONTARIO'S HEALTH.

Some Interesting Statistics for Public Perusal.

The Ontario Health Report shows a decrease in the total deaths for May. The total last year was 2,162; last month, 2,027. Consumption was responsible for 210 deaths, a decrease of 29.

There were two deaths from smallpox in May, making a total of 7 since the outbreak began in February.

The total number of deaths from all contagious diseases was 285; for last May it was 310. It is a startling fact that consumption was responsible for 210 of this number, and last year for 239.

BRIDGENORTH WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Marcy Nichols and Mr. Fred H. Stabler.

At eight o'clock on Wednesday evening, June 19th, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Nichols, Bridgenorth, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when their neice Miss Marcy Nichols, was married to Mr. Fredrick H. Stabler, of Smith. The house was beautifully decorated with evergreens and roses, which formed an arch at the entrance to the dining room, near which the bridal couple stood. As the bridal chorus was played by Miss Etta Garbutt, the bride entered the room with her uncle, Mr. Wm. Nichols, wearing a handsome gown of white dilleton cloth with veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Eva Nicholls, who was the bridesmaid and wore a grey cashmere suit trimmed with white satin ribbon and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groomsman was Mr. Nathan Stabler, brother of the bridegroom. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. Nickel, of Smith. The bride's travelling suit was of pearl grey albatross suiting trimmed with white satin and cream lace. Among the many magnificent gifts was a gold watch and chain from the bridegroom. After the ceremony the dejeuner was served, about fifty guests being present. The dining room was beautifully decorated with evergreens and ribbon. The evening was then spent in a social manner. Mr. and Mrs. Stabler will reside in Peterborough. They have the best wishes of a numerous circle of friends.

MARRIED IN BELLEVILLE.

A wedding took place at St. Michael's Church, Belleville, on Monday, when Miss Jennie MacDonnell, eldest daughter of Mr. James MacDonnell, Canifton Road, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph F. Cassie, a barber of Bracebridge. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mgr. Farrelly, in the presence of a large number of friends. Miss Sussie MacDonnell, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Louis Potvin, of Peterborough, did honours for the groom. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a wedding breakfast was partaken of. Mr. and Mrs. Cassie left at noon for the east and will visit Ottawa, Montreal and other places before taking up their residence at Bracebridge.

FROM THE CAMP.

The Kingston News contributes the following paragraphs concerning some of the Peterborough cavalrymen:

Paymaster Sergt. Clarry, of the 3rd Dragoons, is a reporter on the staff of the Peterborough Examiner.

Sergt.-Trumpeter Goldie is a member of the staff of the Review.

Lieutenant Poole, Veterinary Surgeon of the 3rd P. W. C. Dragoons, is a son of Surgeon-Major Poole, who served in the Imperial forces throughout the Indian Mutiny. He was born at Simla, India. The Lieutenant is a shrewd judge of horses and the owner of some fine stock in Peterborough, where he has a lucrative practice. Lieutenant Poole is a popular veterinary and officer.

Mr. Fox, Peterborough, accompanied the 45th Regiment to camp. He is an old journalist, serving as reporter and editor on papers in Peterborough, Ottawa, and Uxbridge. He was on the Ottawa Citizen when Secretary Macdonald of the Board of Education, and Mr. R. Uglow were on the staff. For the last fifteen years he has been totally blind. He still writes for papers in Lindsay and Peterborough.

THREATENED TO SHOOT.

George Harrison Points a Revolver at Mr. D. Kerr.

Campbellford Herald.

A better evidence of the character of a young man than that which was shown by George Harrison in Campbellford on Wednesday of last week, could not be given.

Harrison is a hockey player and for two seasons past he resided here and played with the local team, being supported at the expense of a number of the young men who took up a subscription for him, in order to have a fast man in the game. And he proved himself to be fast in more ways than one.

For nearly three months past Harrison was in the employ of Mr. Duncan Kerr, proprietor of the St. Lawrence Hall hotel, in the capacity of porter and waiter in the dining room. On Wednesday he appeared to be under the influence of liquor, not having recovered from the effects of a gambol till a late hour the night before. While going to and from the dining room some articels which he was carrying fell to the floor and were broken. Mr. Kerr went into the room and rebuked him for his carelessness, and at the same time advising him to go to bed, and saying he would do the work himself. This seemed to arouse angry and bitter feelings in Harrison, who straightway went up stairs, and returned afterwards with a self-acting revolver. Going into the bar room he confronted Mr. Kerr who stood behind the bar, and pointing the weapon at his head swore he would blow his brains out. A number of men who were present at the time interfered, and it is said that one of them seized Harrison by the arm. Fortunately however, the revolver was not discharged.

Harrison afterwards packed up his possessions hurriedly, hired a horse, and drove to Havelock, where he boarded a train for some place unknown to the autnorities here at present.

The revolver was secured and is now in the possession of Constable Robinson.

Mr. Kerr swore out a warrant for the arrest of Harrison and will keep it alive in the event of his return to Campbellford later on, which he will not likely do.

A DESERTER FROM QUEBEC.

He was Captured at London and Spent the Morning in Town.

There arrived in town Wednesday on the C.P.R. midnight express a military escourt composed of Lance-Sergeant Vass LeBar, formerly of town, and Private Mackness. They are from the Citadel, Quebec, and were on their way from London, Ontario, with a deserter, Pte. L. Harding, who was found by No. 1 Company, R.C.R.I. about a week ago attached to a militia battalion camping at that city. He had been at liberty about nineteen months. While in town Private Harding was taken ill and a doctor was summoned. He will probably be removed to Quebec to-night if his condition is improved.

THE CEREAL COMPANY.

To the Editor of "The Examiner":

Sir,—In a recent article you, with commendable foresight, pointed out the advantage it would be to the town to seize the opportunity now presented for improving the means of intercourse between the town and Ashburnham as well as with the country north-east of the village. The day is by no means distant when the two corporations must be united, in fact, there could be no more opportune time than this year for consummating the union, approved by the ratepayers of both municipalities some years ago. When this union takes place it will certainly be necessary to have more bridges over the river—one of the appropriate sites is certainly at London street. While the necessity for a bridge at that point has not hitherto appeared pressing, on account of the Dickson Company having generously permitted the use of their bridge by the public, a different state of things must now prevail, as in the construction of the new dam a carriage way can well be dispensed with so far as the Cereal Company is concerned. I have taken some trouble to inform myself as to their plans; the dam will be so built as to carry a railway bridge which is all that is required. The piers, however, can be sufficiently extended to carry waggon and foot passages and the expense entailed would be trifling compared with that of the whole structure. The Cereal Company cannot be expected to approach the town on the subject; surely, therefore, the Mayor and Council should take the initiative.

Now, as to the question of union; the difficulties which were formerly to some extent in the way, no longer exist. The water works system has already been extended and I understand a sewer system has been planned. Hitherto we have rather scoffed at the idea of becoming a "baby" city, but since United States capital has already been attracted to our town and we are anticipating considerably more, we should not lose track of the fact that on the other side, the title "City" has a good deal more significance than it has with us. Let Mayor Denne signalize his first term of office by taking up this subject vigorously and then he may well look for the honour of being the first Mayor of the City of Peterborough.

Yours, etc.,
PROGRESS.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

A farewell reception under the auspices of the National Home Reading Union, The Fortnightly Club, and a committee of citizens, will be tendered Rev. and Mrs. Symonds on Friday evening, June 28th, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall at eight o'clock. Addresses will be read and a programme of music given. Sheriff Hall will occupy the chair. The public are cordially invited.

TWO KILLED, EIGHT WOUNDED.

Disastrous Result of a Breech Blowing Out at Artillery Practice.

London, June 26.—During artillery practice on the Isle of Wight yesterday, the breech of a 12-pound rifle blew out, killing Captain A. Lem Bray of the Royal Regiment of Artillery and one enlisted man, and wounding eight other men, three of whom will die. Colonel A. J. Nixon of the same regiment was also slightly wounded by the explosion.

An Otonabee Victim.

Peterboro, June 26.—George Huston, a Scotchman, employed on the Grand Trunk at this point, was drowned in the Otonabee River last evening, while crossing from the steamer Water Lily to a barge which was in tow. A moonlight excursion was being given on the river, and as Huston crossed between the two crafts on a plank, his foot slipped. A friend prepared to jump in after him, but Huston called out: "There is no use of two of us getting wet, I can swim!" A bench was thrown overboard to the struggling man, and a lifeboat lowered, but he was never seen again.

Frenchman Drowned Himself.

Port Dalhousie, Ont., June 26.—A Frenchman calling himself Paul Joseph was drowned here at 7.30 last evening. He has been working for J. Riley, the contractor, and deliberately suicided by jumping into the harbor, where he sank before help could reach him.

THE LIBERAL CHOICE.

Mr. D. B. Maclennan, K. C., of Cornwall, Unanimously Nominated.

Cornwall, Ont., June 26.—Mr. D. B. Maclennan, K. C., of Cornwall, was yesterday tendered the nomination as Liberal candidate in the coming Provincial elections. There were five nominations placed before the meeting. Mr. Maclennan, John A. Chisholm, barrister; Mr. R. Smith, barrister, of Cornwall; D. P. McKinnon of South Finch, and Dr. Monros of Newington. All retired in favor of Mr. Maclennan, and the nomination was made unanimous.

Hon. J. R. Stratton was present at the convention held in McAvoy's Hall, and later in the afternoon the delegates and hundreds of other electors made their way to the Agricultural Hall, where Mr. Stratton held the close attention of the audience for more than two hours, notwithstanding the torrid heat.

Mr. Jupp For East Simcoe.

Orillia, Ont., June 26.—The Conservative Convention for East Simcoe was held here yesterday. There was a large attendance of delegates, particularly from the rural sub-divisions. The nomination for the Legislature was unanimously offered to the present member, Mr. A. Miscampbell, M.P.P., who was given a most enthusiastic reception. Mr. Miscampbell, however, having ceased to be a resident of the riding, declined to run again in East Simcoe. A number of gentlemen were then placed in nomination, but all retired in favor of Mr. R. H. Jupp of Orillia, who was made the unanimous choice of the convention.

Minister of Customs in Toronto.

Toronto, June 26.—Hon. William Paterson, Minister of Customs, paid his annual official visit to Toronto yesterday afternoon. During the day he visited about 30 business men, representative of many industries. They reported everything in a satisfactory condition, and had no complaints to make about the tariff.

Mr. Paterson was waited upon by a deputation from the photo-engravers, who wanted a question of interpretation cleared up. As the matter was somewhat complicated, the Minister was unable to answer off-hand, but will give the question his careful consideration. He leaves this morning for Brantford, and will return to Ottawa next week.

Bather Drowned at Quebec.

Quebec, June 26.—A sad drowning accident happened yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock in the Saint Charles' River, by which a young man named Poulin lost his life. The deceased was bathing, together with several other young men, when he got beyond his depth and sank before assistance could reach him. Deceased was about twenty years of age.

Wanted For Manslaughter.

Quebec, June 26.—At the coroner's inquest on the death of Mrs. Hobson the jury rendered yesterday the following verdict: "Death from congestion of the lungs, following a fracture of the right hip, caused by violence on the part of Edward Mahoney." A warrant for the arrest of Mahoney on the charge of manslaughter was immediately issued.

To Share Employes' Woes.

Chicago, June 26.—Joseph E. Tilt, the millionaire shoe manufacturer, who owns a palatial mansion at 543 Evanston avenue, has given up his Chicago home and taken a $1,200 farm house nine miles from Binghamton, N. Y., that he may for a time live on a plane with his workmen, experience their mode of domestic life and get in touch with them.

Ralph Munshaw Drowned.

Weston, Ont., June 26.—A sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday afternoon. Ralph, the eight-year-old son of Mr. Munshaw, of the Cleveland Bicycle Works, while bathing with a number of other boys at Cruickshank's dam, got beyond his depth and before help arrived life was extinct.

Saves Two From Death.

"Our daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland, of Armonk, N.Y., "but, when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and to-day she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for coughs and colds. 50c. and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by Jas. Lynch. Trial bottles free.

Caumff Haight Dead.

Toronto, June 26.—Caumff Haight, author, died last night at 446 Parliament street, the residence of his son, W. R. Haight. The deceased was born at Adolphustown, Lennox County, June 4, 1825. He was a graduate of Victoria College. He was the author of two well-known books. He was known as a pleasing writer and keen observer.

Woodstock, Ont., June 26.—To-day's market boarded 2380 boxes cheese, 1096 colored, 1284 white. No sales were made; highest price bid was 9⅛ cents.

Picton, Ont., June 26.—At our Cheese Board to-day 15 factories boarded 1360 colored and 50 white; total 1410; highest bid, 9⅜c; 200 boxes sold.

Peterboro, Ont., June 26.—At the cheese sale held here to-day, 5800 boxes of colored cheese were offered, the first half of June make. Sales were made as follows in round figures: Whitton bought 700 at 9⅜c, also 1150 from 9 9-16c to 9⅝c; Fitzgerald, 870 at 9 11-16c, 1000 at 9¼c to 9⅜c; Rollins, 1000 at 9 11-16c, also 150 at 9⅝c; Cock, 260 at 9⅜c; Bailey, 160 at 9⅛c. Two factories unsold at the close. Some of the buyers complained of the very poor boxes that were being made by the factories, buyers in England complaining of the state of the goods on arrival; also that the weight of each cheese was marked on the side of the box in pencil, instead of with stencil.

BLOOD POISON

If you ever contracted any blood disease you are never safe unless the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. At times you see alarming symptoms, but live in hopes no serious results will follow. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore Throat, Ulcers on the Tongue or in the Mouth, Hair Falling Out, Aching Pains, Itchiness of the Skin, Sores or Blotches on the Body, Eyes Red and Smart, Dyspeptic Stomach, Sexual Weakness—indications of the second stage. Don't trust to luck. Don't ruin your system with the old fogy treatment, —mercury and potash—which only suppresses the symptoms for a time, only to break out again, when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our New Method Treatment is guaranteed to cure you. Our guarantees are backed by bank bonds that the disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our New Method Treatment for over twenty years. No experiment, no risk—not a "patch-up," but a positive cure. The worst cases solicited. We treat and cure Nervous Debility, Sexual Weakness, Gleet, Blood Poison, Stricture, Varicocele, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, and all diseases peculiar to men and women.

CURES GUARANTEED.

Consultation Free. Books Free. If unable to call, write for question blank for home treatment.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

I was startled to my feet by the laughter which followed my question. A few yards behind me stood Gretchen.

"Can't you find a better confidant?" she asked.

"Yes, but she will not be my confidant," said I. I wondered how much she had heard of the one sided dialogue. "Will you answer the question I just put to that squirrel of yours?"

"And what was the question?" with innocence not feigned.

"Perhaps it was, Why should Gretchen not revoke the promise to which she holds me?"

"You should know, herr," said Gretchen gently.

"But I do not. I only know that a man is human and that a beautiful woman was made to be loved." Everything seemed solved now that Gretchen stood at my side. But she turned as if to go.

"Gretchen," I called. "Do not go. Forgive me. If only you understood!"

"Perhaps I do understand," she replied with a gentleness new to me. "Do you remember why I asked you to stay?"

"Yes; I was to be your friend."

"This time it is for me to ask whether I go or stay."

"Stay, Gretchen!" But I was a hypocrite when I said it.

"I knew that you would say that," simply.

"Gretchen, sit down and I'll tell you the story of my life, as they say on the stage." I knocked the dead ash from my pipe and stuffed the bowl with fresh weed. I lit it and blew a cloud of smoke into the air. "Do you see that, Gretchen?"

"Yes, herr," sitting down, the space of a yard between us.

"It is pretty, very, but see how the wind carries it about! As it leaves my throat it looks like a tangible substance. Reach for it, and it is gone. That cloud of smoke is my history."

"It disappears," said Gretchen.

"And so shall I at the appointed time. That cloud of smoke was a fortune. I reached for it, and there was nothing but the air in my hand. It was a woman's love. For five years I watched it curl and waver. In it I saw many castles, and the castles were fair indeed. I strove to grasp this love; smoke, smoke. Smoke is nothing given a color. Thus it is with our dreams. If only we might not wake!"

Gretchen's eyes were following the course of the languid river.

"Once there was a woman I thought I loved, but she would have none of it. She said that the love I gave her was not complete because she did not return it. She brought forth the subject of affinities and ventured to say that some day I might meet mine. I scoffed inwardly. I have now found what she said to be true. The love I gave her was the bud. The rose—Gretchen," said I, rising, "I love you. I am not a hypocrite. I cannot parade my regard for you under the flimsy guise of friendship."

"Go and give the rose to her to whom you gave the bud," said Gretchen. The half smile struck me as disdainful. "You are a strange wooer."

"I am an honest one." I began plucking at the bark of the tree. "No. I shall let the rose wither and die on the stem. I shall leave tomorrow, Gretchen. I shall feel as Adam did when he went forth from Eden. Whatever your place in this world is, it is far above mine. I am, in truth, a penniless adventurer. The gulf between us cannot be bridged."

"No," said Gretchen, the smile leaving her lips, "the gulf cannot be bridged. You are a penniless adventurer, and I am a fugitive from—the law, the king or what you will. You are a man. Man forgets. You have just illustrated the fact. His memory and his promises are like the smoke—they fade away but soon. I shall be sorry to have you go, but it is best so."

"Do you love any one else?"

"I do not. I love no one in the sense you mean. It was not written that I should love any man."

"Gretchen, who are you, and what have you done?"

"What have I done? Nothing! Who am I? Nobody!"

"Is that the only answer you can give?"

"It is the only answer I will give."

There was something in Gretchen's face which awed me. It was power and resolution, two things man seldom sees in a woman's face.

"Supposing, Gretchen, that I should take you in my arms and kiss you?" I was growing reckless because I felt awed, which seems rather a remarkable statement. "I know you only as a barmaid. Why not?"

She never moved to go away. There was no alarm in her eyes, though they narrowed.

"You would never forgive yourself, would you?"

I thought for a moment. "No, Gretchen. I should never forgive myself. But I know that if I ask you to let me kiss your hand before I go you will grant so small a favor."

"There," and her hand stretched toward me. "And what will your kiss mean?"

"That I love you, but also respect you, and that I shall go."

"I am sorry."

It was dismal packing. I swore a good deal softly. Gretchen was not in the dining room when I came down to supper. It was just as well. I wanted to be cool and collected when I made my final adieu. After supper I lit my pipe (I shall be buried with it) and went for a jaunt up the road. There was a train at 6 the next morning. I would leave on that. Why hadn't I taken Gretchen in my arms and kissed her? It would have been something to remember in the days to come. I was a man and stronger; she would have been powerless. Perhaps it was the color of her eyes.

I had not gone up the highway more than 100 yards when I saw the lonely figure of a man tramping indirectly toward me and directly toward the inn. Even in the dusk of twilight there was something familiar about that stride. Presently the man lifted up his voice in song. The "second lead," as they say back of the scenes, was about to appear before the audience.

Evidently Hillars had found "Jericho" distasteful and had returned to protest.

CHAPTER XI.

"Hello there!" he hailed, seeing but not recognizing me. "Have you seen any cavalry pass this way?"

"No; I have not," I answered in English.

"Eh? What's that?" not quite believing it was English he had heard.

"I said that no cavalry has passed this way since this afternoon. Are they looking for you, you jailbird in perspective?"

He was near enough now. "Well, I be dashed!" he cried. "What the devil are you doing here of all places?"

"I was looking for you," said I, locking my arm in his.

"Everybody has been making that their occupation since I left Austria," cursing lowly. "I never saw such people."

"What have you been doing this time?"

"Nothing, but I want to do something right away. They have been hounding me all over the kingdom. What have I done? Nothing, absolutely nothing. It makes me hot under the collar. Do they think to find the Princess Hildegarde by following me around? I'd give as much as they to find her."

"So you haven't seen anything of her?"

"Not a sign. I came here first, but not a soul was at the castle. Nobody knows where she is. I came here this time to throw them off the track, but I failed. I had a close shave this noon. I'll light out tomorrow. It isn't safe in these parts. It would be of no use to tell them that I do not know where the princess is. They have connected me with her as they connect one link of a chain to another. You can kill a German, but you can't convince him. How long have you been here?"

I did not reply at once. "About ten days."

"Ten days!" he echoed. "What on earth has kept you in this ruin that long?"

"Rest," said I glibly. "But I am going away tomorrow. We'll go together. They will not know what to do with two of us."

"Yes; they will. You will be taken for my accomplice. Hark! What's that?" holding his hand to his ear. "Horses. Come, I'm not going to take any risk."

So we made a run for the inn. In the twilight haze we could see two horsemen coming along the highway at a brisk gallop.

"By the Lord Harry," Hillars cried excitedly, "the very men I have been dodging all day! Hurry! Can you put me somewhere for the time being? The garret; anywhere."

"Come on. There's a place in the garret where they'll never find you." I got him up stairs unseen. If no one but I knew him to be at the inn, so much the better.

I took the lieutenant by the collar and flung him into the corner.

"Oh, say! This'll smother me," said Dan as I pushed him into the little room

"They'll put you in a smaller place," I said.

"Hang it all, Jack! I'd rather have it out with them."

"They have their pistols and sabers."

"That's so. In that case discretion is the better part of valor, and they wouldn't appreciate any coup on my side. Come back and let me out as soon as they go."

I descended into the barroom and found the two officers interrogating the innkeeper. They were the same fellows who had visited the inn earlier in the day. Gretchen was at her place behind the bar. She was paler than usual.

"Ah," said the innkeeper, turning to me, "am I not right in saying that you are the only guest at the inn and that no American has been here?"

I did not understand his motive, for he knew that I was an American.

"It is perfectly true," said I, "that I am your only guest."

"Ah, the Englishman!" said the lieutenant suspiciously. "We are looking for a person of the name of Hillars whom we are charged to arrest. Do you know anything about him?"

"It is not probable," said I nonchalantly.

I glanced at Gretchen. I could fathom nothing there.

"Well," snarled the lieutenant, "I suppose you will not object to my seeing your passports?"

"Not in the least," said I. But I felt a shock. The word "American" was written after the nationality clause in my passports. I was in for some excitement on my own account. If I returned from my rooms saying that I could not find my passports, they would undoubtedly hold me till the same were produced. "I'll go and bring them for you," said I. I wanted some time in which to mature a plan of action if action became necessary.

There was rather a sad expression in Gretchen's eyes. She understood to a fuller extent than I what was likely to follow when it was found that I had misrepresented myself. I cursed the folly which had led me to say that I was English, and I swore at the innkeeper for meddling. As I left the room I smiled at Gretchen, but she did not answer it. Perhaps I was gone five minutes. In that time I made up my mind to show the passports and trust to luck for the rest. When I came back, Gretchen had engrossed their attention. They took no notice of me. I have never understood how it came about, but all at once the lieutenant bent forward and kissed Gretchen on the cheek. She started back with a cry, then looked at me. That swift glance told me what to do. I took the lieutenant by the collar and flung him into the corner. The surprise on his face was not to be equaled. Then as he rose to his feet the veins in his neck swelled with rage.

"I hope others will do as I did."

"I suffered for six years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs. E. Waite, of Chicago, Ills. (Lake View Postoffice.) "Sometimes I could hardly walk, and when I had to cough it felt as though a knife was cutting me. My hands and feet were cold all the time. I had such a tired feeling and such a poor appetite, and when I went to bed I slept only about two hours at a time. I got a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' and by the time I had used two bottles I felt so much better that I continued until I had taken eight bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I am so well that my friends remark how well I am looking. I go to bed now and sleep till morning. My appetite is splendid and that tired feeling has left me. I hope others will do as I did—give Dr. Pierce's medicines a fair trial."

Before the bidding commenced a communication was read by the secretary from Mr. Jas. Alexander, Butter and Cheese Importer, Montreal, as follows:

"Will you kindly call attention of factorymen selling on your Board to the importance of having their weights stencilled on the boxes instead of being pencilled on. It will make a decided improvement in the appearance of the cheese, besides doing away with a lot of confusion that now arises.

"Very often when figures are put on with pencil, it is badly done; besides it only makes a little rubbing or dirtying of the boxes to make them illegible.

"Surely factorymen can afford this small outlay; twenty-five cents will get a stencil. If they object to paying this small amount send me their names and addresses and I will send them a stencil free.

"I wish you would call factorymen's attention to the fact that they are shipping their cheese far too green; this can only lead to loss of reputation.

"I may also state I find more loose-cutting cheese this season than ever before."

Several of the buyers complained of the tendency on the part of some boards to use inferior boxes and of placing cheese in boxes not suited to their size.

Mr. A. E. Richens, son of John Richens, Tooley street, London, Eng., an importer, addressed the board, giving those present an idea of the class of cheese that Englishmen liked and the manner in which they wished it shipped. They did not want big cheese, and the practice of stencilling the boxes saved a great deal of trouble.

Mr. Fitzgerald started the bidding at 9c, and Mr. Rollins advanced to 9 1-8c, Mr. Fitzgerald again bid 9 5-16, and was followed by Mr. Whitton with 9 1-2c. Mr. Fitzgerald then shouted out 9 5-8, but Mr. Whitton at 9 3-4 cents secured Shearer, Villiers, Westwood, Bensfort. He then bid 9 5-8 for further selections, and Mr. Rollins advanced to 9 11-16. Warminster, North Smith, Oakdale, Maple Leaf, North Dummer, Cedar Dale, Stony Lake, Young's Point and Daisy D accepted.

Mr. Rollins started the bidding again, at 9 5-8, and was followed by Mr. Fitzgerald, with 9 11-16. He took Keene, Central Smith, Lakefield, Pine Grove and Trewern. He then offered 9 5-8 for further selections, and Lang and Buckhorn accepted.

Mr. Whitton's offer of 9 5-8c was cepted by Norwood, Melrose Abbey, Ormonde. Mr. Whitton bid 9 1-2 for further selections and Mr. Rollin's 9 5-8 taking Warsaw.

Mr. Flavelle started out with 9 1-2 being followed by Mr. Fitzgerald with 9 9-16. Mr. Cooke's offer of 9 5-8 was accepted by Cavanville, and Mr. Fitzgerald's 9 9-16 secured for him East Emily, Myrtle and Peterborough.

For further selections Mr. Fitzgerald offered 9 1-2, and Mr. Whitton followed with 9 9-16. Shamrock and Fitzgerald accepted.

Mr. Fitzgerald at 9 1-2 secured Otonabee Union. Indian River here accepted a previous offer of 9 9-16 made by Mr. Whitton. Mr. Fitzgerald at 9 1-2 made further selections, securing Mt. Pleasant, Crown, Hope and Perrytown.

Darlington Union sold to Mr. Bailey at 9 1-2, and Missing Link and Frazerville remained unsold.

Shoemaker's Backache.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets a Positive Cure for This Complaint.

The constant bending over that of necessity a shoemaker must do when at work, comes hard on his back and hard on his kidneys. Backache and lame back are the great bugbears of a shoemaker's existence. That Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets can ease the aching back and cure the kidney trouble is amply proven in the following case:—

Mr. J. O'Shea, corner Main and Market streets, Lucan, Ont., the well-known shoemaker of that village, says:—"A shoemaker's work requires lots of sitting and leaning forward, and invariably, as in my case, in time brings on a pain in the small of the back and Kidney trouble. This has been my complaint for two or three years, and I was about tired of it. Some one told me about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and I got a bottle at John Farrell's drug store. The taking of this one bottle was followed by complete relief. This is naturally a big lift to me in my work and I am correspondingly grateful. I can recommend the Tablets conscientiously to others."

If you are anxiously desirous of being cured insist on having Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. Price 50 cents a box, at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto.

LAKEFIELD.

Dr. Chas. Amys has removed to Ashburnham, where he has taken up the practice of his profession.

Mrs. Lingwood of Kingston, is the guest of her father, Mr. C. Atwood.

Dr. and Mrs. K. C. McIlwraith of Toronto are spending a few days at Viamede.

Judge Weller of Peterborough, accompanied by Miss Dean and Miss Hay spent Sunday at Stony Lake.

Mrs. B. A. Huckell and children of Carberry, Man., arrived in the village on Thursday night on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. R. Graham.

On Friday the steamer Empress carried a large excursion that came from Millbrook.

The Sunbeam had an excursion of delegates from the Baptist convention.

Mr. Fred Barlee, who has spent the past four years in the Yukon, returned home this week on a visit to his wife and family.

Mr. T. G. Choate and wife of Peterborough, are the guests of their son, Mr. T. A. Choate.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

GOLF.

The Rosedale team of golfers, ten strong, will be down Monday for a game with the local club.

A handicap, strokes, competition for 18 holes, has been arranged open to all members of the Golf Club, under the following rules:

1. Two prizes, consisting of golf balls, will be presented to the winners.

2. Each competitor will fix his own handicap and choose his own opponent, of both of which he will notify the secretary.

3. The prizes will be awarded as follows:

(a) To the competitor whose net score is nearest to the better one of the scores in the match made by Messrs. J. H. Burnham and R. M. Hamilton, who will play scratch.

(b) To the competitor whose gross score in the match is the least.

No competitor shall receive more than one prize.

(c) The best score which has been made over the course by Mr. Hamilton is 83.

The best score which has been made over the course by Mr. Burnham is 84.

4. Entries for this competition will be received by the secretary until Friday, the 28th inst., inclusive but not afterwards; and each competitor will be given a score card which must be dropped in the box initialed by the opponent.

5. An entrance fee of 10 cents will be charged.

6. The match must be played between Saturday, 29th June, and Wednesday, 3rd July, both inclusive, and no extension of time will be allowed for any reason.

7. St. Andrew's rules, as modified by local ground rules, for Medal play, will govern.

8. If the score of two or more competitors in either of the classes should happen to be equal, the tie will be decided by playing one hole on a day to be named.

LACROSSE.

The Vaticans and the Y. M. C. A. teams will play the long looked for match on the Nicholls oval this evening at 6.30 sharp.

Port Hope Guide.—Peterborough will play here on July 2nd with the Ontarios. This will indeed be a good game, although the hatchet has been buried, and a proclamation of peace issued. The struggle may not be as fierce as those of '04 but will be equally as interesting from a lacrosse standpoint.

Port Hope Guide.—"Rolly Glover, the sturdy point player of Peterborough's senior hockeyists, is doing some fast work on the home field of the lacrosse team this season. Glover is one of the 'old scholars' but always played clean, fast lacrosse. The Peterboroughs are hard at work these nights in preparation for the game against our Ontarios here on next Tuesday. It is several years since these teams met, and the outcome will be watched with interest by everybody."

CRICKET.

The Colts met defeat yesterday in Lindsay by the Lindsay Collegiate Institute Club by the score of 143 to 54. The Lindsay boys batted and bowled better. For L. C. I. Cameron 34 not out, Ewart 25, Armour 15 and McKenzie 15, were the leading scores, while for the Peterborough boys but one man, Walkey, reached double figures, scoring 11. The day was a scorcher and the men felt the effects of the great heat. The return match will be played at Peterborough on July 13.

BASEBALL.

The Peterborough nine went to Lindsay to-day to play the Scugog nine. Clark Earls and Dr. Scott were unable to accompany the boys and "Bill" O'Brien of St. Mary's nine, Toronto, will take Chris Graham's place behind the bat.

There is some talk of forming a junior baseball league in town and Ashburnham. There are some splendid junior nines in town and the formation of such a league would create an interest in the game.

Lindsay will be unable to play here on Dominion Day and Secretary Hay is in communication with some first class teams for the purpose of arranging a game.

Toronto News,—"Pitcher Dan McCabe concedes O'Brien to be the best catcher in Toronto. The Saints' backstop made an impression of large proportions in Peterborough.

The following have been elected officers of the Cobourg Baseball club:
Pres.—Mr. A. R. Dundas.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. Ed. Hargraft.
Sec.-Treas.—Bert Climo.

Ex-Committee—Messrs. P. Duncan, Jake Brown, T. J. Turpin, R. Quinn.

KIND WORDS.

The Stratford Beacon, referring to the Hon. Mr. Stratton's address at Mitchell, on Tuesday evening, June 18th says: "It was Hon. J. R. Stratton's first appearance in the riding and many people were curious to see and hear this energetic young minister, for despite his grey beard, and rotund, well nourished figure, he is a young man, barely past the forty mile stone. However high the expectations they were not disappointed. Mr. Stratton is a business man and knows how to present the strong business features of a business government. His presentation of the financial affairs of the province was unusually clear and convincing, while his review of the work being done to develop New Ontario in the interests of the whole Province was masterly."

FRED. COLLINS' CASE.

His Death Sentence Commuted to Imprisonment For Life.

KILLED BANJO KID, DESPERADO.

The Fruit Markets Act—New Law Comes Into Operation July 1—Act in Response to Wishes of Growers and Shippers—Mr. W. A. MacKinnon to Look After Its Operation.

Ottawa, June 28.—The Cabinet yesterday afternoon decided to recommend the exercise of executive clemency in the case of Fred. Collins, sentenced to be hanged on July 26 for the murder of Banjo Kid, a local desperado, at Peterborough, in the Kootenay District. Instead of being hanged Collins will therefore be imprisoned for life. No other course was open to the Government than to commute the death sentence. The jury who found Collins guilty strongly recommended him to mercy, in which recommendation Chief Justice McColl, who sentenced the prisoner, concurred. It seems that the dead man had a bad reputation. He was exceedingly quarrelsome when sober, and even more so when in his cups. Shortly before the murder he wrecked the house in which Collins was living, and also assaulted the latter, giving him a nasty wound. Collins went to a local Magistrate to take out a warrant, but the Justice advised him to consult a lawyer. Thereupon Collins said he would take the law into his own hands. By paying a barkeeper $5 he obtained a revolver, and, forcing his way into Banjo Kid's room, shot the latter twice, one bullet entering the lung and the other lodging in the pelvis. From these wounds the man died shortly afterwards. Local feeling was strongly with the condemned man.

The Fruit Marks Act, which comes into operation on July 1st, is now available for distribution at the commissioner's branch of the Department of Agriculture. This is the act passed last session to carry out the wishes of growers and shippers as expressed to the Minister at a meeting in Toronto last spring. Mr. W. A. MacKinnon of Grimsby has recently been appointed to the commissioner's branch to look after the fruit business of the department. Requests for information or for copies of the act may be addressed to the commissioner.

Mr. Tarte at Collingwood.

Collingwood, Ont., June 28.—Hon. Israel Tarte and party arrived here at noon yesterday. After a drive around town for 30 minutes, they were entertained at luncheon by the corporation in the Grand Central Hotel. The party were then taken on board the Northern Navigation Company's steamer Majestic, and Mr. Tarte made a thorough inspection of the harbor and harbor works, inspecting the work being done by the various dredges and drill scows. The Minister expressed himself as being well pleased with the work done, and recognized the value of the harbor as a commercial necessity. The party next visited the steel shipyards, and they made a thorough inspection of the shops and dry dock, and also the 325-foot steel vessel, which is rapidly nearing completion.

BANK CLOSED ITS DOORS.

One of the Oldest New York Financial Institutions in a Squeeze.

New York, June 28.—William Norton Cromwell, attorney for the Seventh National Bank, has advised the bank to suspend payment.

The statement given out is as follows: "In justice to the depositers and stockholders of the Seventh National Bank, William Norton Cromwell, the bank's attorney, has advised the bank to suspend payment."

The bank's doors have been closed, and the following notice was tacked up:

"This bank is in the hands of the Comptroller of the Currency."

(Signed), Forrest Raynor,
National Bank Examiner.

The Seventh National Bank was originally the old Seventh Ward Bank, and was established in 1833. It was a member of the American Banking Association and the New York State Bankers' Association.

DEATHS BY DROWNING

Mark Selagosky Loses His Life While Swimming.

IN A CISTERN AT MARKDALE.

Mrs. Daff Supposed to Have Fallen In—Other Drownings at Peterboro, Renfrew, Arnprior and Weston—A Young Man and His Team Carried Over the Dam.

Toronto, June 28. — Everything points to the death by drowning in Long Pond, at Centre Island yesterday afternoon of Mar. Selagosky, a young man who sells cheap jewelry through the country, and who resided with his parents at 98 Elizabeth street in this city.

About 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon Selagosky and four friends, Wilfrid Wilks, 129 West Adelaide street; Simon Rotkin, 131 West Adelaide street; Isaac Silverstein, 128 York street, and L. Goldinger of East Adelaide street, arranged to go to the Island and started for the waterfront from York and King streets.

Rotkin, Selagosky and Wilks secured a rowboat at Ackyrod's boat house and crossed the bay to Centre Island, while Silverstein and Goldinger went over on the steamer Thistle from the Yonge street wharf. The four young men met at the Island, and Rotkin, who brought his bathing suit with him, suggested that the party go in for a swim at the baths on Long Pond.

Selagosky, however, induced Rotkin to lend him his bathing suit, promising to return it in less than half an hour. He left his clothes on the bank and was just stepping into the water when his three companions rowed away. Selagosky clung to the boat until it had got well out from shore and then started to make back towards the land. This was the last seen of him alive.

The young men, on returning could find Selagosky nowhere, and became alarmed at his disappearance and notified Policeman Miles. The officer secured the assistance of Island Constable Gray and Caretaker David Kimmins and the pond at the point where Selagosky had gone in swimming was dragged, but without success. Selagosky was 21 years of age.

Another at Weston.

Weston, Ont., June 28.—Another drowning fatality happened here last evening, the victim being Edward Hard, aged 21, son of James Hard of Weston. The young man was bathing, with others, at the lower dam, near the new bridge which the county is erecting, and he sank in the presence of his chums, never to rise again. The body was subsequently found among some submerged logs. Medical assistance was summoned but life had fled.

Teamster Drowned.

Renfrew, June 28.—J. G. Moulton drove his team into the river to water them yesterday, but they went beyond their depth, and were carried over the dam and the falls. His body was recovered about an hour afterwards half a mile down the river. His mother and brother live in Almonte.

Old Lady Drowned.

Markdale, June 28.—Mrs. Daff, one of the oldest residents of Markdale, was found drowned in the cistern at her home. The deceased was subject to spells of faintness, and, it is generally supposed that, while dipping some water, one of these came on, and she fell in.

A Boy at Arnprior.

Arnprior, June 28.—Wilbert Duncan, aged 7, son of Mr. James Duncan of this town, was drowned yesterday morning in the Madawaska while playing on a boom stick.

Gage's Fads and Fancies.

St. Petersburg, June 28. —Russia is in no wise trying to run the tariff of the United States, as mischievously suggested by The Tribune, but M. de Witte simply refuses to have Russia's laws arbitrarily misconstructed and distorted just to suit Mr. Gage's financial fads and fancies.

British Coal Tax Adopted.

London, June 28.—After a prolonged debate and considerable disorder, the House of Commons in committee, at 2 o'clock this morning, adopted the coal tax by a majority of 86.

CANADA'S LOSS IN BACON.

Farmers do not Produce the Right Sort of Hog.

Striking Difference Between Canada and Ireland in This Matter—Excellent Address by Manager Hodges of Brantford Co-operative Factory.

(The Weekly Sun, Toronto.)

At a meeting held at Pleasant Grove school house, near Galt, last Wednesday, C. T. Hodges, manager of the Brantford Co-operative Bacon Factory, delivered an excellent address on hog production and bacon curing. And Mr. Hodges speaks with authority on this matter, having had 20 years' experience with the best firms in Ireland, and a year's experience as head of the Brantford house.

Why Irish Bacon Leads.

"One of the first things that struck me on coming to this country," said Mr. Hodges, "was the difference between the breed of hogs met here and in Ireland. In Ireland I never once saw a pure bred Berk, Chester White, Duroc Jersey, or Poland China. The York predominates there.

"England draws her bacon supply mainly from four sources: Ireland, Denmark, Canada and the United States. And the quality of the bacon from the different sources ranks in the same order as the countries named. Ireland, where the York is practically the only breed used, ranks first; Denmark, which sent emissaries to Ireland for the purpose of learning what sort of bacon hogs to use, comes next; Canada, where there are too many of the undesirable breeds of hogs, has a third place; and the United States, which is full of Chester Whites, Poland Chinas, and Duroc Jerseys, is at the bottom of the list.

Where the Tam Fails.

"We prefer the York even to the Tam. The chief fault with the Tam is that it has a thin and deep flank. The flank is one of the cheapest cuts, and we want that part of the body well drawn up. You can't cut a rasher of bacon from a Tam flank.

"The Berk would be rather a good hog but for the thick shoulder and tendency to shortness. These are two of the characteristics of the original Berk, and even when you get a long hog of this breed without a thick shoulder, there is always a danger that the progeny will revert back to the original type. At our factory we give a bonus for hogs of the right type, and it is a rare thing for that bonus to go to a Berk. The Berk is not good even for crossing; while you get the colour of the York, you are apt to get the shoulder of the Berk. You had better let the Berk go.

Hogs that are Not Hogs.

"I would not consider the Poland China, Duroc Jersey, or Cheater White at all. They are simply not hogs at all, so far as the Old Country bacon market is concerned, and the sooner our farmers get out of them the better. The present period of prosperity will not last; there is bound to come a reaction, and then the fats and stouts will be practically unsaleable.

"Even as it is, Canadian bacon sells in England at 1c. to 1 1-2c. below the best. The extent of the loss sustained by this difference will be understood when I tell you that 90 per cent. of our bacon is exported, only 10 per cent. of it being consumed at home. Our main market is in England, and we should produce what the English market calls for.

Milk Gives Quality.

"It is not all a matter of breeding. It is partly a matter of feeding as well. In Canada, so far as my experience goes, not much milk is used in feeding; in Ireland a great deal of milk is used. The more milk you use in feeding hogs the more luscious and juicy will be the bacon produced.

"That Canada can produce as good a quality of bacon as any of them has been proved by experience. I sent some bacon from specially selected hogs to Dublin, and even in that critical market the bacon was pronounced equal to anything ever seen there. This shows what our people can do. And there is no limit to the market for such bacon when produced. Great Britain can take all you can make. Nor is this surprising. In London alone there are more people than you have in the whole Dominion of Canada, while in England, Ireland and Scotland combined there are nearly 60,000,000 people.

A Compliment.

"I understand that one of your ancestors was a horse thief," said Billings to Ricketts.

"He was. Glad you mentioned it. I regard that as a compliment."

"How's that?"

"It is an acknowledgment that I have improved on my ancestors."

The Farmer's Foes

are weeds. Unless they are kept down, they divert the nutrition which the soil provides from the growing crops and ruin their productiveness.

Diseases are to the body what weeds are to the soil. They divert the nutrition which is necessary to sound health, and the body, instead of being strong and hardy, drags out a sickly existence. When the stomach is diseased, and the other organs of digestion and nutrition are involved with it, there is a constant loss of nutrition by the body. The stomache and its allied organs are not able to convert the foods into nourishment, and hence the body and its several organs are deprived of the necessary elements of vitality. What is known as "weak" heart or "weak" lungs, "weak" nerves and other forms of so-called weakness, are generally caused by "weak" stomach. When the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition are cured, then the other diseases are cured with it. Diseases which are caused by a diseased condition of the stomach are cured through the stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases of heart, lungs, liver and other organs. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so that the whole body is nourished by an abundant supply of pure blood, rich in the bright red corpuscles of health.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it contains neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

Persons suffering from chronic forms of disease are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Suffered for Years.

"My gratitude to you and your 'Golden Medical Discovery' is so great," writes Mr. Ross Martin, of Arlee, Mason Co., West Virginia, "that I am at a loss to find words to express my true feeling. I had suffered for a number of years with lung and throat troubles, and doctored with specialists, but got no better. Then I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after using it I was greatly relieved. I have all faith that it has saved my life.

"I have one of your medical books and think it a grand work."

Torpid Liver Cured.

"I was a sufferer from torpid liver for over a year," writes Mrs. Nora Willis, of Wheatfield, Jasper Co., Ind., "and could not sleep, nor eat but very little, and then it would cause me great distress. I tried several doctors but got no relief. Was advised by a friend to write to Dr. Pierce, which I did, and in a few days I received a letter advising me to take his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and also his 'Pleasant Pellets.' After I had taken only half a bottle I was greatly improved. I only took three bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of the 'Pellets,' and, thanks to Dr. Pierce and his wonderful medicine, I am as well as ever in my life, and feel that life is worth living after all.

"Last winter I took a severe cold which resulted in pleurisy. Tongue can not tell what I suffered. For two nights and two days I could not move without it nearly killed me. I told my husband I could not endure another night of suffering. The weather was so cold and stormy that it was almost too bad for any one to go six miles to town, but he went, and got a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed, which gave me instant relief. I can say that for all pains that I have tried it for it has worked like magic. We keep a bottle of the 'Smart-Weed' in the house all the time. I cannot thank Dr. Pierce enough for what he has done for me."

Constipation has almost countless consequences. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and cure its consequences. They should always be used with "Golden Medical Discovery," when the use of a laxative is indicated.

MONTEREY ON FIRE.

A Terrible Battle at Sea With the Destructive Fiend.

THE BRAVERY OF TWO OFFICERS.

Heroic Achievement of the First Officer Reid and Fourth Officer Harriston—Their Daring Plan Successful—Vessel Saved but in Badly Damaged Condition—Now at New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., June 28.—The British transport Monterey, from Cape Town, has arrived in port, after a terrible experience with fire at sea. Twelve days out from St. Vincent, flames were discovered in the after hold, and gained such headway that the heat prevented the usual means of extinguishing fire on shipboard.

Flames and clouds of smoke poured out from the hold, and, when the officers and crew were about to abandon the ship, First Officer Reid and Fourth Officer Harrison volunteered a daring plan. They proposed to tie wire cables around their bodies, and have their companions lower them down the side of the ship until they were abreast the port opening into the burning section. It was a desperate expedient, but, after a short consultation, was adopted.

As the fire was near the water line, Reid and Harrison were lowered down until they were submerged in the sea nearly up to their waists. Hanging thus, half buried in the waves, with the ship under headway, the men battered in the port, a hose was then lowered to them, and, for several hours, they hung, swinging outward and inward, pouring a stream into the blazing hold. In this way they finally succeeded in checking the flames. The vessel was badly damaged.

THE TRACKMEN'S STRIKE.

The News Still Indicates Different Colored Glasses in the Reporting of the Same—Both Sides Firm.

Toronto, June 28.—Although no settlement has as yet been arrived at, the local Canadian Pacific trackmen are still hopeful of victory. They are holding out and declare that they will not return until their demands are acceded to. Yesterday Chairman Wilkinson of the local strike committee received an encouraging telegram from President Wilson. It read: "Committee from other orders endeavoring to make settlement on Maine Central Railway. C. P. boys standing firm."

If the strike is further prolonged, all the local men out will be in employment. It is estimated now that fully twenty-five of the Toronto strikers have secured employment, and some permanently. Out of the 14 men in the Eorth Toronto yards, only three are not at work.

Officials of the system still contend that the road is not suffering as a result of the strike. The places of the strikers, they say, are being filled.

Farmers Favor the Men.

Ottawa, June 28.—The Canadian Pacific trainmen, engineers, firemen, conductors and brakesmen are said to be anxiously awaiting a settlement of the strike of the trackmen. It is said there is a possibility of a general strike of the railway employes may be ordered unless the striking trackmen go back to work. A railroader said yesterday that in some sections the farmers along the line of the Canadian Pacific will not allow the men who replaced the strikers to get water from the wells on the farms. The farmers are said to be strongly in sympathy with the striking trackmen, and the men who have taken the places of the strikers cannot get supplies from the farms.

Strikers Arrested.

Montreal, June 28. — The only new developments in the trackmen's strike is the arrest and conviction of J. Clarke and J. E. Jordan, striking section foremen at Vermillon Bay, Ont., on a charge of stone throwing and other acts of intimidation against the new men whom the company engaged to take the places of those now out.

Aside from this Mr. McNichol said there was nothing new; the company regarded the struggle as practically over. There were no serious delays to traffic.

"If our men have been guilty of intimidating new men," said Mr. Wilson, president of the Trackmen's Organization, "we have not heard of it. We have repeatedly warned them to refrain from committing any act which might alienate the public sympathy, and those who violate our instructions shall receive no protection from our organization.

"The strike, however, is not over; nor have we heard of any wavering in our ranks. We are confident today, as we have been certain all along, that our cause is just, and we must win."

Resolution Favoring Company.

Fort William, June 28.—At a meeting of the different orders of railway men, held here last evening, a resolution was adopted, favoring the C. P. R. Company. There was a unanimous feeling that the demands of the striking trackmen were unreasonable, and that the strike was ill-advised.

Two Stories at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, June 28.—At a meeting of the trackmen, at which 25 were present, mostly foremen, reports were received from all parts of the Province, and these all declared that the statements made by C.P.R. officials as to the number of new man at work were greatly exaggerated, and that the regular trackmen were all firm, and looked upon the prospects as brighter than ever.

General Superintendent Leonard stated in an interview yesterday that the whole system on the Western Division with the exception of the West Selkirk branch, was working as usual. He said that the track was in good condition, notwithstanding the recent rains, although the wires in the east were still interrupted. Seventy men had gone out by this morning's westbound limited to take strikers' places.

The Appointing of Incumbents.

Kingston, June 28.—The topic of discussion yesterday at the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario was that of the canon giving power to parishioners in the appointing of incumbents. In closing the debate, Bishop Mills made a fervid address, declaring that no appointment would ever be made by him in the Diocese of Ontario without first consulting the parishioners interested. The canon passed by a vote of 61 to 21.

The Deaf Made to Hear.

St. Thomas—A modern miracle was made known to-day when Mr. Riddle, of this city, announced that he had recovered his hearing. He has been almost entirely deaf, and it borders on the marvellous to find him able to hear everything with great distinctness. As his case is proving of such universal interest, we give Mr. Riddle's own statement. "My hearing was always poor, and not long ago I became almost deaf. It was the result of catarrhal inflammation, but nothing did me good until I used Catarrhozone. It cured my trouble and I strongly recommend it to the deaf." Fully nine-tenths of the deafness is the result of Catarrh and can be cured by catarrhozone. The cures of deafness wrought by this remedy in cases of even twenty years standing are really astounding. Among many others, ministers of the gospel testify to the wonderful powers of Catarrhozone, and your druggist can tell of some astonishing cases in his own experience. Better give it a trial, if your hearing is impared. Price $1; small size 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S..

On Hull Bench.

Ottawa, June 28. — Mr. Rochon of Hull, took his seat on the bench yesterday, and the commissions of Messrs. Desmarais and Trenholme, the other two new judges, were forwarded yesterday.

Big Blaze at Albany.

Albany, June 28. — A large oil tank in the West Albany yards of the New York Central is on fire and the whole yard is in danger.

A Terrible Explosion

"Of a gasoline stove burned a lady here frightfully," writes N. E. Palmer, of Kirkman, Ia. "The best doctors couldn't heal the running sore that followed, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve entirely cured her." Infallible for cuts, corns, sores, boils, bruises, skin diseases and piles. 25c at Jas. Lynch's.

PASSENGERS OF LUSITINIA.

How They Are Being Conveyed by Rail and Vessel to Their Destinations—Vessel Breaking Up.

St. John's, Nfld., June 28.—The first trainload of the passengers of the steamer Lusitania, the steamer of the Orient Steam Navigation Company which was wrecked near Cape Ballard early Wednesday morning, started yesterday morning to cross the country. There were 360 of the passengers on board the train. On their arrival at Port aux Basques, they will be transferred to the steamer Bruce, which will take them to Sydney, Cape Breton. There they will take the Intercolonial Railway for Quebec. The remainder of the passengers will follow by another train. Many of the children among the emigrants were without any clothing. Charitable citizens provided them in this respect. The crew of the wrecked steamer will be forwarded to Liverpool by the first outgoing steamer. The Lusitania is gradually breaking up.

A Wonder That He Is Alive.

Saskatoon, June 28.—Government Telegraph Repairer Harrington, reported missing, was found by a search party at Hunter's farm, 11 miles from here. On Tuesday, 18th inst., when about 36 miles from here, the horse kicked the buckboard to pieces, pitching Harrington out, where he laid in a stunned condition and too weak to move for three days. Then for four days more he wandered over the prairie, having no food all that time, but a little tea and sugar. He reached Hunter's farm in an exhausted condition, on Wednesday morning at 1 o'clock, having been exposed to rains and flies and without food for over seven days. He is very weak, but has no injuries except a sprained shoulder and neck. He will be all right again in a couple of days.

OWES HIS EYESIGHT TO A MIRACLE.

Indebtedness to Dodd's Kidney Pills Acknowledged by Thomas St. Pierre.

Health Entirely Re-established by Dodd's Kidney Pills—Another Triumph for that Wonderful Remedy—His Eyesight Has Been Strengthened.

St. Epi, Que., June 28.—(Special).—One year ago a miracle was announced in Chicago. R. A. Wade, the great criminal lawyer, regained his sight after having for years been totally blind. His case was published throughout the length and breadth of America, and it attracted more attention to Dodd's Kidney Pills than any medicine ever got before. For it was Dodd's Kidney Pills that restored his sight.

A similar case has turned up in the village of St. Epi, Que. Though this sufferer was not stone blind, his eyes nevertheless were utterly useless to him by lamplight. And they have been completely restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills, which is another point of similarity.

There is no attempt made to assert Dodd's Kidney Pills are a cure for blindness. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest kidney medicine ever known. That is the claim made for Dodd's Kidney Pills, and there is evidence enough to prove that claim. But in cases where Kidney Disease has left poisons in the blood, and the said poisons attacking the weakest spot, injure the eye, Dodd's Kidney Pills are just as infallible as where the poison attacks the joint of the arm or the small of the back. That the eyesight of Thomas St. Pierre was restored is but another argument that Dodd's Kidney Pills make the blood absolutely pure.

Here is Mr. St. Pierre's letter: "I am happy to-day to see my health entirely re-established by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I owe that wonderful remedy a thousand thanks. Before using Dodd's Kidney Pills I had consulted many physicians and taken medicine of various kinds, but each made me worse. I had a constant pain in the back and limbs. At night I couldn't rest and I could not see by lamplight. Having taken only two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I am perfectly cured. My eyesight is clear. I advise all those whose health is not good, from whatever cause, to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Nine times out of ten they will be exactly what is wanted. Two dollars spent for Dodd's Kidney Pills will do more than millions spent otherwise, for who holds anything in the world more dear than health, or would spare any means to save it?"

Warning to Parrot Lovers.

A warning to those who keep parrots comes from the little port of Sant' Elpidio a Mare, in the Marche. The postmaster of that place was given a parrot. He tamed the bird and taught it to take food from his lips. The bird fell ill, but the man nevertheless continued to feed it in this way. One day it pecked his lip and drew blood. Soon after the postmaster was seized with an illness which in a few hours attacked his lungs, bronchial tubes and heart and brain, and killed him before the doctors could find out its nature. Owners of parrots may well take warning.—London Globe.

Her Way of Putting It.

"It is extravagance to buy such dress lining, Mrs. Bargains."

"It was real cheap, hubby, dear. Only a dollar something a yard."

"How much is 'something?' What was the price?"

"It was $1.98."

CHINA REDIVIVUS.

A Missionary Coincides With Sir Robert Hart As to the Danger of Boxer Menace in China.

Pekin, June 27. — Rev. Arthur Smith, the missionary and author, preaching at Tien-Tsin on the anniversary of the relief of that city (June 24), said he thoroughly agreed with Sir. Robert Hart in the statement that, unless there was a complete regeneration of China, in a few years the country would be menaced by twenty million Boxers. The Chinese would never forget that the Boxers' movement was fully approved by the Court.

DISCUSSION AT PEKIN.

Ambassadors Have Not Yet Agreed to All Points.

Pekin, June 27. — The Foreign Ministers at to-day's meeting only discussed minor points of the indemnity question. The British Minister, Sir Ernest Satow, refuses to agree to a 10 per cent. increase in the tariff in the event that China finds herself unable to meet her payments.

The Russian Minister, M. de Giers, has not yet agreed that the interest on the indemnity is to be 4 per cent. The United States' special representative, Mr. Rockhill, thinks there should be little further delay.

When these points are settled the work of the Ministers will be practically completed.

Not Believed in London.

St. Petersburg, June 28.—The despatch of The London Times from Pekin, saying the Russian Minister there, M. de Giers, has notified the Chinese authorities that the negotiations regarding Manchuria are to be re-opened, is classed in official circles here as being entirely inaccurate.

Six Men Fell Eighty Feet.

Buffalo, June 28.—As a result of the breaking of a temporary platform built on a scaffolding inside and bridging the top of a monster tank in the eastern elevator yesterday afternoon six men fe, a distance of 80 feet. Four were killed, one instantly, and the others died within a few hours. Another is at the Emergency Hospital. He is not expected to live. The sixth, the foreman of the gang, caught the side braces of the scaffolding as he was falling and escaped serious injury.

Circus Men Under a Car.

St. Thomas, Ont., June 28. — Three employes of Ringling Bros.' circus, who were paid off here on Tuesday, who were sleeping under an empty car on the L. E. & D. R. siding yesterday forenoon, when the car was struck by a shunting train. One man, Barney Murphy, of Buffalo, had his leg so badly smashed that amputation is necessary. The second, Edward Clerkin, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., had his big toe cut off, while the third, Charles Taylor, of Montreal, escaped injury.

Lords' Committee Appointed.

London, June 28. — In the House of Lords yesterday the Lord Chancellor, Lord Halsbury, announced the receipt of a letter from The Recorder setting forth that a true bill had been found against Earl Russell on the charge of bigamy, and moved the appointment of a committee to arrange the procedure in the case. The motion was agreed to.

Fought Till Sun Went Down.

Richmond, Cape Colony, June 28. —A large force of Boers, commanded by Malan and Smit, attacked Richmond at daybreak, June 25. The fighting lasted till dusk, when the Boers retired on the approach of British reinforcements.

An Educated Indian's Deed.

Denver, Col., June 26.—A special from Albuquerque says: "Tom McCormack, a Wallapal Indian, murdered his wife, threw her body in a fire, then shot himself, and plunged into the flames. McCormack is said to have been an educated Indian, who objected strenuously to the guardianship of an Indian agent, claiming he was a free citizen. It is said the Indians are in an ugly mood over the tragedy.

Michael King Fatally Hurt.

Hamilton, June 26.—Michael King, who had been a brakesman on the Grand Trunk, rode to the city early yesterday morning on a freight train from Niagara Falls. As he was about to jump off in the Stuart street yards, the cars jolted, and he was thrown down and his leg was run over. At the hospital it was found necessary to amputate the limb. King died last evening from the shock.

Kicked in the Face.

Ingersoll, June 26.—Hugh Kerr of North Oxford, a former highly-esteemed resident of Ingersoll, met with a serious and painful accident on Monday afternoon. He was engaged in drawing gravel, and, when near the residence of Jos. Wickens, he alighted from the load, when he was kicked by one of the horses. The side of his face was badly shattered, and his nose and some of his ribs broken.

Sore Throat and Hoarseness.

with their attendant dangers may be speedily averted and remedied by the use of Polson's Nerviline. Excellent to gargle with—ten times better than a mustard plaster and more convenient for the outside. Nerviline penetrates the tissues instantly, soothes the pain, allays inflammation, and cures sore throat and hoarseness simply because that's what it is made for. The large 25 cent bottle of Nerviline is unexcelled as a household liniment. It cures everything.

CONGRESSIONAL MEMENTOS

The Desire to Possess the Desks of Retiring Members.

The desks of the senate are all more or less sacred from use, but no sort of tradition attaches to the desks of the house of representatives, so far as known to the present employees. A secret mark is kept on all the senate desks, so that the holder of the list can tell which desk was used by Webster or Clay or Conkling or Logan or any of the men who have made names for themselves in that body.

But the desks of the house are liked by the men who have used them even for one session, and some of these admirers of furniture sanctified by their use are to have a chance to own their desks. According to the plan arranged for an enlarged membership in the Fifty-eighth congress, the desks are to be smaller, and the old ones are to be sold. It was announced that the sale would be by auction, but that members desiring to buy their desks at cost or appraised valuation might secure them by applying in time to the clerk of the house.

The desire to possess the old desks is almost unanimous, for the clerk has received some 300 notifications of a desire on the part of old members to own a desk. It does not appear that the desks used by Heed, Dingley, Holman, Wilson, Breckinridge, Bryan, Sulzer and Lents were marked by any secret sign known only to the clerk or that there has been any request for the desks once used by such men as Ben Butler, A. H. Stephens, Garfield, Cox, Proctor Knott, Thaddeus Stevens and Henry Clay, although it is asserted that they undoubtedly are among the desks recently in use in the house.

The number of desks in the house has been so much greater than that in the senate and members of the house are so apt to change their desks with successive sessions that it is difficult to keep track of those made interesting by the temporary use of prominent men. They are all made of mahogany, but are not specially commodious or elegant.—Cor. New York Times.

A New Dairy Product.

Many new industries have been developed in the British isles at the close of the last century. One of the most novel had its birth in the vicinity of Buckingham—namely, that of the manufacture from the milk of creameries, after the butter has been extracted, of a substance known by the highly classical name of plasmon. This substance takes its name from the Greek, meaning "that which gives form."

The fresh milk as it comes from the cow is put into a separator, all the cream being removed by this method. The separated milk is afterward treated so as to coagulate all the proteids of the milk, and this coagulated mass is then kneaded and dried at a temperature of 70 degrees centigrade under an atmosphere of carbonic acid gas. When perfectly free from moisture, the plasmon is ground into a granular powder which is completely soluble in hot water.

As to the economic value of plasmon there can be no doubt when it is known that the German government supplies it in very large quantities to the army and navy. As a portable, concentrated nutrient, according to the German government department for the investigation of foodstuffs for the troops, it has been found that one ounce of this powder is equal in nourishing and sustaining properties to three and a quarter pounds of the finest beefsteak or to about 10 or 12 pints of milk.

No Cause For a Scare.

London, June 28. — In the House of Lords to-day during the discussion of the requirements of Gibraltar, the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Lord Selborne, declared there was not a shadow of foundation for the apprehension expressed in some quarters in Spain of possible aggression on Spanish territory.

The Anaemic Young Girl.

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength, her beauty fails, because her strength fails, her eyes lose their lustre. How her spirit droops! It alarms you, but all this may be corrected quickly. Get her Ferrozone, it is a nerve tonic, it aids the stomach to do its work. Appetite? She'll eat anything, and digest it, too. Ferrozone is an absolute specific for the anaemia of young people. Ask your druggist for it. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Very Stylish, These

Ladies' Vici Kid Shoes. Polished, Graceful shape, light, easy and flexible, a very stylish shoe and exactly the thing for summer wear. Two qualities, with a difference of only 15c. in the prices, viz. $1.35 and $1.50.

R. NEILL, George street.

Neat things in Slippers

Ladies' Dongola Kid Slippers. Two strap, very dressy and the neatest thing we have. It holds its place as a charming article for ladies' foot-wear. Its lightness commends it, and the comfort of wearing a cool and yet graceful foot covering makes the slipper popular. The sole is turned—that is the sole is made on the slipper inside out and afterwards turned. Thus the sole is securely fastened and in the best possible way. Slippers in single strap. No difference in the price which is $1.50

R. NEILL, George street.

In Patent Leather

This stylish material has a place all its own. The gloss, polish, perfect surface, are highly admired. The outlines of the foot gain an additional grace when set off by a handsome Patent Leather Slipper. Very dressy, will keep polished, a desirable feature. The price $1.35

R. NEILL, George street.

The Buskin

A Shoe with a Purpose

The purpose that it may, when on the foot, closely clasp the instep and yet allow every freedom to the joints of the foot. It's a twin of the slipper, but has, inserted in the instep, a yoke of elastic. The proper thing for home wear. Nice broad heel and fairly narrow toe. In Dongola kid. The price only $1.00

R. NEILL, George street.

"Please keep off the Grass"

Is the injunction unless the tennis player wears a tennis shoe. The proper shoe affords an added facility to the movements in playing. Rubber soles, canvas tops, blue in colour. Only..... 50c.

R. NEILL, George street.

Genuine Comfort Slipper

These are superb. The nicest thing for summer wear where genuine comfort is desired. Not the appearance of comfort—but the real thing. A strap slipper with the Comfort sole and heel. That means something reliable to carry the weight of the body distributed over the sole of the slipper in a common sense way. A perfect foot covering for comfort. We can't emphasize that point too strongly. The toe is a trifle broad—not too broad for comfort, and yet held in that the outline of the foot may be graceful and shapely. The price smacks of comfort for the purse, and is only .. $1.00

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The Port Hope Methodist Sunday school will excurt to Peterborough on July 17th.

—An excursion arrived in town to day from Oakwood under the auspices of the I.O.F. and C.O.F.

—All Saints' Senior Girls' Guild hold a social re-union this evening at the residence of Miss Sabin, No. 46 Chamberlen street.

—The heat of the last few days will do a lot towards booming the summer resorts. Many Stony Lake Cottagers are making preparations to get away early next week.

—The City of Peterborough was launched at the Ashburnham dock yesterday and towed to the Wolfe street wharf, where the necessary machinery will be placed in position.

—The Junior Girls' Guild of All Saints' church, held their closing exercises yesterday afternoon. Refreshments were served, which brought a successful year's work to a close.

—A meeting will be held in the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow evening at eight o'clock of those interested in tendering a farewell reception to Mr. McLeod. The reception will be tendered on Friday evening next.

—The temperature yesterday was the highest of any day this summer and about as high as we will probably have it. Late in the afternoon 95 degrees in the shade was registered, and even at 6 o'clock at night the thermometer marked 94 degrees. Last night was a warm one, too, the lowest temperature during the night being only 74 degrees.

The results of the annual examinations of the Toronto College of Music have been announced, and amongst the successful candidates appear the names of Misses Estella Kelly, Hazel Dean and Lenore Elmhirst, who took first class honours in the first year examinations and Miss Lexa Denne, and Beatrice Flynn, who carried off first class honours in the Primary examinations. All of these young musicians received their training from the Sisters of the Convent of the Congregation de Notre Dame, Peterborough, and it must be a source of great gratification to the management of that excellent institution to witness the high standing taken by their pupils.

THE SEPARATE SCHOOL KINDERGARTEN EXERCISES

Held Yesterday Afternoon Were Decidedly Interesting.

Splendid Work Done by This Excellent Institution in Charge of Miss Frances Sullivan.

It is an undeniable fact that there is to-day a large number of people who do not understand the kindergarten system of education, and it is also to be regretted that that lack of knowledge in some is accompanied by prejudice in others. A visit to any of the kindergarten schools, however, proves a revelation to many who have gone away surprised and delighted with what they have witnessed. The education imparted there is a natural one. The body and soul, as well as the brain is duly considered in the daily instructions and the spirit of sympathy and love is brought into practice in everything undertaken. The question of force is not for a moment considered, and the tots adapt themselves to the exercises and instructions quite naturally.

After an experience in a kindergarten the child is able to enter into the higher branches of education with a thorough foundation laid, and with a mind fully developed and capable of comprehending the higher branches of study. Probably, however, the most important work of the kindergarten system is the development of health and happiness in the child.

The large gathering of mothers and fathers, who attended the kindergarten exercises in the Separate School Kindergarten, yesterday, had a splendid opportunity of seeing what this excellent institution is doing with their little ones and the comments that were made on the work of the afternoon is the strongest proof necessary that the kindergarten is a necessity, Miss Frances Sullivan, who is evidently in love with her work, certainly deserved the words of praise bestowed upon her during the afternoon.

The spacious hall was beautifully decorated with flowers, which had been gathered by the little tots. The girls were all arrayed in white, and the boys in natty sailor suits. Ven Archdeacon Casey and Rev. Father D. O'Connell occupied seats in the audience, as did Mr. M. O'Brien, Inspector of Separate Schools and several local gentlemen.

Miss Sullivan was assisted during the afternoon by Miss Davdison, of the South Central School, Miss Warner, of the Central School, and her sisters, Misses May and Lou Sullivan.

It was really a treat to listen to the manner in which the different songs were rendered by the children and the precision, as well as the judgment they exercised, was simply marvellous. Special mention must be made however of the really excellent singing of little Kathleen Conroy and Kathleen O'Brien, as well as the recitation so cleverly given by Nona Hayes. The different marches and the drills and the cake walk were all executed in a faultless manner, and were loudly applauded by the audience. The songs rendered by the children, twelve in number, were as follows: "Lips say Good Morning," "Good Morning," 'This is How All Thro' the Night," "Tumbtum, Says I'll Dance," "Good Morning, to the Sunshine," "Wake, says the Sunshine," "Blue Bird," "Away, Away," "Here is the Beehive," "Ant Hill," "The Grasshopper," "Little Boy Blue," "We'll Make up some Meal," "We Have a Fairy," "Little Jack Horner," "Humpty Dumpty."

There were twelve games in the exercises of the afternoon, several of them being dramatized, and very prettily carried out. An intermission was allowed during the afternoon to permit of parents examining the daily routine work of the Kindergarten.

At the conclusion of the exercises Ven. Archdeacon Casey addressed the gathering. He congratulated Miss Sullivan on the work of the Kindergarten and felt sure the little ones would profit by the instruction given.

Mr. M. O'Brien, inspector of Separate Schools, spoke briefly and referred to the Kindergarten as a great educational factor. He was pleased to see the teachers of outside Kindergartens present, stating that the spirit of rivalry was foreign to the Kindergarten schools.

The Separate School supporters of the town are to be congratulated on possessing such an excellent educational institution, and in Miss Sullivan they have a teacher who is thoroughly at home in Kindergarten work, and who has brought her large class of little ones to a high standard of intelligence.

It's Peterborough's share of a gigantic syndicate purchase secured by our buyer in Boston while en route for Europe. They go on sale this week, just in the niche of time, when everybody is looking for summer goods.

Pick out the one you want from this immense assortment. Cool, delicate and gauzy things for the hot days and a wonderful lot of fashion about them, too. If you want the popular things that will be worn at the big summer resorts, priced so low they are within reach of all, come early.

500 Yards Fine Quality Batiste Muslins, in light coloured, newest designs. The regular price is 20c per yard, our wash goods sale price, 12 1-2c per yard.

750 Yards Fine Quality Batiste Muslins, in navy blue grounds, royal blue grounds, black grounds and cardinal grounds, mostly in small patterns, including the new dots, regular price 25c per yard, our wash goods sale price, 15c per yard.

A SUMMER WAIST.

You'll have to get another Shirt Waist when you see this lot. You can get both fashion and comfort if you select from the material we are showing. There are many beautiful patterns in the lot, and women of taste speak enthusiastically about them. Prices are quite small—for instance, Beautiful High-class Dimities, in lovely effects, the real swagger stuff, nothing like it has been seen before and the price is only 30c per yard.

500 Yards Fine Quality India Muslin White, for fine white waists, our wash goods sale price, 25c per yard.

THE RIGHT LENGTH.

It requires great care in fitting you with a skirt that is all-ready-to-wear. We are particular about this matter because we are anxious that the fit should be perfect. We have a more than ordinary complete stock of ready-made Skirts, both in linen, crash and piques, and you'll find them quite different to the ordinary run of ready-made skirts. It is very probable that you can be suited here better than elsewhere at a price that will suit you, too. Prices like these :

A Good Quality well-made Linen Skirt at 75c, with the better and more tastely made ones at $1.00, $1.75, $2.25 and $2.50.

In White Pique we show an immense range with a particularly nice one at $1.50, and beautifully trimmed ones at $2.00, $3.00, $3.25, $4.00 and $4.50. You must see them.

A FASHIONABLE ARRAY.

It scarcely pays to worry over a new collar for each occasion when you can get such a variety of attractive ones here for these little prices. All that is new and smart in shapes and ornamentation. Cut to be comfortable, to look stylish, and priced to make short and easy work of the selling.

REV. DR. CADE LEAVING.

Parting Words From Members of His Millbrook Congregation.

Rev. Dr. Cade, of Millbrook, who was recently superannuated, has many friends in Peterborough who will be pleased to read the appended kind words which the Millbrook Reporter has to say of him:—"The departure of Rev. Dr. Cade of the Methodist Church and his family from Millbrook has been looked upon not only by his own people but by all classes of the community as a great loss to the district. While his residence here has been short he has by his many noble traits of character endeared himself to all, and none will receive a warmer handgrasp than the Rev. Dr. should he be permitted to visit us from time to time. His farewell sermon to his people and his farewell in the active ministry was preached on Sunday evening last to a crowded church, when he gave a brief sketch of his life and life work. On Monday evening a farewell reception was held in the basement of the church, when his congregation, the resident ministers and many friends met to say good-bye. Speeches of warm sympathy and affection were delivered by Revs. Moore, W. C. Allen, W. Johnston and Ven. Archdeacon Allen, each of whom spoke of his respect and deep love for the venerable Dr. A parting address from the congregation was read by Mr. R. W. Clarke, couched in tenderest words of sympathy to Dr. and Mrs. Cade and the Misses Cade, to all of which the Rev. Dr. spoke feelingly and eloquently. Miss Maud Pickup and Messrs. Stanley and Harry Pickup sang and the orchestra furnished good music and with the excellent lunch provided by the ladies of the congregation an enjoyable evening passed away, only saddened by the thought of those about to leave us. It would only be attempting to gild fine gold to add anything to the many loving tributes to Rev. Dr. Cade's noble personality, yet we cannot conclude this reference to his departure without adding our quantum. His unassuming patriotism, his kindly consideration for all classes and his interest in every matter pertaining to the general welfare was made manifest at every opportunity. "His creed was wider than his church." His generosity knew no bounds, his love of the land of his birth and of his adoption and his patriotic words cannot but be an inspiration to all who have listened to his eloquent words. "A British subject I was born and a British subject I will die," words uttered by one of Canada's foremost statesmen, express the idea ever held on high by Rev. Dr. Cade while amongst us, with this superaddition, "So fight I that I may obtain."

The Port Hope Knitting Works are showing this week, an excellent range of Men's Summer Shirts, with and without collars, all of them new stylish, seasonable and up-to-date, all prices and qualities, 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c, etc. Call and see them.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

BASEBALL.

The Peterborough Baseball Nine journeyed to Lindsay yesterday to play a friendly game with the team of that town, and the treatment accorded the boys was of such a nature as to warrant the statement that the sporting element in Lindsay has yet to learn the meaning of justice and fair play. There was a good sized crowd to witness the game, and in justice to Lindsay it must be said there were many on the grounds who were imbued with the spirit that should animate all lovers of clean sport, and had come with the intention of seeing a good game played. Then there was present that element which was virtually a disgrace to Lindsay. They crowded in on the grounds, called the Peterboroughs insulting names, and in every way possible acted as only hoodlums can act.

As regards the game, very little need be said. The umpire — the second umpire, for there were two in the game during its progress — stated that the score was 13—5 in favour of Lindsay, and of course his decision is final. It was evidently arranged beforehand that Lindsay must win, and the scheme worked most beautifully. The Peterboroughs ceased playing on four occasions, as they were simply astounded at the rank decisions of the umpire.

Peterborough was severely handicapped by the absence of Scott and Earls, who were unable to accompany the boys. The team arrived home last evening and strongly condemn the Lindsay aggregation for the treatment meted out to them. All the boys are credited with playing splendid ball, and the work of the battery, McCabe and O'Brien, was described as first class, but it takes more than a baseball nine to make an impression on an element that are certainly not elevating sport on the banks of the Scugog.

The suggestion thrown out in yesterday's issue in regard to the formation of a junior league in town and Ashburnham, is about to be acted upon. The quality of ball put up by the junior nines is of the highest, and the formation of a league in town is an accomplished fact.

The coming game of baseball on July 1st at St. Joseph's Hospital picnic is creating not a little talk, and the result is anxiously awaited by many. As is well known a great deal of keen rivalry exists between the Elms of Ashburnham, and the West Enders. They played four games last year, each winning two, so that the Dominion Day combat will picture a winner, and one can get a line on the proposed Junior League that is about to be formed. The teams are:

West Ends — W. Thornton, c.; W. Whaley, p.; J. Doris, 1b.; F. Whaley, 2b.; L. Doris, 3b.; J. Judge, ss.; W. Hagel, lf.; P. King, cf., and A. Delaire, rf.

Elms — J. Primeau, c.; T. Logan, p.; H. Gilman, 1b.; H. Crane, 2b.; C. Martin, 3b.; P. Boyle, ss.; M. O'Toole, lf.; H. Fitzgerald, cf.; and W. Tighe, rf.

Players are asked to be on hand on time, at 9 o'clock sharp.

GOLF.

The draw in the fourth round of the Stratton Trophy, Handicap Competition, is as follows:

Ray vs. Burnham.
Bradburn vs. ——.
Granger vs. Walker.
R. M. Hamilton a bye.

The matches in this round must be played off on or before Thursday, 4th July.

The winner will drop a card, initialled by his opponent in the box provided for that purpose, which will be found in the general room. If in the case of any pair no card is dropped in the box properly initialled both will be taken to have lost the round.

BOWLING.

At the bowling green last evening a scratch match was played with the appended result:

Geo A Cox,	W J English,
S Belcher,	Dr McClelland,
W G Ferguson,	W Pringle,
R Kerr, sk...14	K Houston, sk.....13

FOOT RACING.

An interesting footrace took place the other evening between Messrs. Tom McDonough and Ans. Henry, the course being on Charlotte street from George to Aylmer street. Victory fell to McDonough, whereupon he was promptly challenged by Mr. Paddy Carroll. The challenge was accepted and the race takes place next week. Both men are understood to be training hard.

LACROSSE.

The Vaticans and the Y.M.C.A. lacrosse clubs played an unfinished game on the Nicholls oval last evening before a fair sized crowd. Mr. Ed. Manning acted in the capacity of referee, and before the teams left the field, the Vaticans scored a goal. The game had not a very satisfactory ending.

CRICKET.

The Lindsay Post has the following account of the cricket match, which the Colts played in that town on Wednesday last:

"The fast Peterborough Colts' eleven were taken into camp by the local juniors in a splendidly contested game yesterday. The outsiders could do little with the clever bowling of Wheeler, Cameron and Armour, and as a result they piled up only 54 runs in two innings, while the town boys ran up the large score of 143 runs in their attempt. Both teams had finished their innings when the adjournment for lunch — which was very kindly provided by the ladies — took place. The only player to get into double figures in the first innings was McKenzie, who hit out in fine style for his 15.

The game commenced after lunch at 2 o'clock with the locals at the bat. Armour started the good going by hitting up the fine score of 15; then Capt. Cameron and Ewart got together and before they parted they had contributed 59 between them, Ewart making 25, when he was clean bowled. Williamson then went to bat and hit up 9 in quick order, when he was caught out. By the time the ten wickets were down the locals had put together 99 runs, Cameron making 34 runs, not out, by hitting freely and blocking well.

Peterborough then went to bat, with rather a forlorn hope of winning — they had to make 121 runs to win, and they made 32 runs off Wheeler and Armour's bowling. The only player to get into double figures was Walkey, who batted patiently and carefully for his eleven. The match on the whole was a splendid one and the good plays on both sides were frequently applauded by the large number of spectators who were present. Mr. Marsh and Mr. R. B. Allan very kindly acted as umpires.

YOUNG MEN'S GUILD EXCURSION

The Third Annual Outing Another Great Success.

The annual excursion round the lakes, under the auspices of the Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, was held on Thursday. It was the most largely attended of the series, as well as the most successfully carried out. The young men of the Guild in their efforts to make their annual outing more attractive every year, are not "content to let well enough alone," but keep adding new features to their trip, which add new laurels to their resourcefulness and management.

The day was a sizzling hot one from start to finish. The first part of the trip—from town to Chemong, in busses—was delightfully refreshing the seven miles drive through the country being greatly enjoyed. Arriving at the steamer wharf at Chemong, the party of over one hundred and fifty, found the steamer "Empress," Capt. Reynolds, with steam up, waiting for them. The lake breeze that sprang up, as the swift and trim steamer scudded through the water made everyone feel comfortable, and the two hour's sail to Buckhorn was thoroughly appreciated by the excursionists.

After dinner the party re-embarked and the steamer went "round the horn" through Deer Bay and Lovesick Lake to Burleigh Falls, where a short stop was made while locking through into the lower Stony Lake waters. "All aboard," and on to Mount Julian, where another stop was made to inspect the cedar store and curiosity shop up on the hill. From here the sail through Stony Lake's far-famed scenery and myriads of islands, was a delightful one. The Guild had secured the services of two expert musicians, whose charming music during the day was much appreciated. With the charming music and scenery, the happy party sailed down into Clear Lake, heading for McCracken's Landing, where the baskets were spread out on the green grass and supper enjoyed at about six o'clock.

The rest of the journey on the water was equally delightful. At Lakefield a special G.T.R. train had been arranged for by the committee to leave at eight o'clock, enabling the excursionists to enjoy five hours longer on the lakes than formerly. Everybody arrived home pronouncing the outing a splendid one. No mishaps occurred to mar the day's pleasure, and the committee made themselves more popular than ever by their zealous care for the comfort of their guests.

The intense heat which prevailed all day took away part of the pleasure from those specially susceptible to an extremely high temperature. That of course, was something the boys of the Guild could not avert. It might, however, be worth while reversing the order of the trip next year—going up by Lakefield and coming home by Chemong. That would have the effect of keeping the direct rays of the sun behind the excursionists, instead of sailing all day in the face of it as was the case yesterday.

CHEMONG.

(From our own Correspondent.)

93 in the shade to-day.

Mr. Wm. Hall, who represents the T. E. Braime & Co., of Toronto, spent to-day, Thursday, in the village.

Mrs. W. Hamilton Moore, drove over to Lakefield on Thursday.

Mr. Overend moved a piano into his new cottage on Wednesday.

The Kelly-Kondolph party spend most of their time on the lake these days. Mr. Pope, the pilot, is having good luck, as Mr. Brown's ice house is not sufficient to hold the fish that is being stored there day after day.

Mr. Hartshorne's cottage, "High and Dry," which has been undergoing some alterations will be completed this week.

Mrs. Sherwood and her daughter drove out to Chemong on Wednesday and were the guests of Mrs. Rufus Stevenson and Mrs. Dr. Pousette, who are at present occupying one of Mr. Elliott's cottages.

Mrs. Thompson, of Walkerton, who has been spending the last month with her brother, Dr. Morgan, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill wheeled out to Chemong one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Snowden and Mr. Wm. Buller drove out to Chemong on Wednesday morning with a cart load of canoes and fishing tackle. They were on their way up the lakes on a little fishing tour.

The funeral of the late Miss Lillie Black took place on Wednesday afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery.

The Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, held their annual excursion to-day, Thursday, from here to Lakefield, per steamer Empress. It took twelve busses to convey the party to Chemong. Among the party we noticed Mr. Wm. Menzies, of the Examiner staff.

The jolliest party which has sailed into Chemong for some time came down from Bobcaygeon on Thursday evening on the steamer "Manita." There were over 150 accompanied by the Bobcaygeon band. The party arrived here at about ten o'clock and remained at Chemong about two hours enjoying the cool breezes of the pines.

'BUS FOR CHEMONG.

On and after July 2nd, daily except Sunday, busses will leave R. H. Leary's Livery, Peterborough, for Chemong at 8 a.m., returning, leaving Chemong at 9.30 a.m., and from the livery at 5 p.m., and the G.T.R. depot upon the arrival of the 5.30 train from Port Hope; returning, leaving Chemong at 7 p.m. Busses will make close connection with Str. Ogemah for Bobcaygeon. All orders received at the livery office.

ANOTHER CLOUDBURST.

Pocahontas in West Virginia Damaged More Than Last Saturday—100 Lives Lost in First Deluge.

Bluefield, Va., June 27. —A railroad operator has just received word from Pocahontas, 12 miles west, that there has been a cloudburst, and that the water is three feet deep in the railroad yard, and is washing property away.

Roanoke, Va., June 27. — Word was received here at a late hour last night, confirming the report that there had been another heavy fall of rain in the West Virginia coal fields. The intelligence received here says another storm has occurred, and that Pocahontas is damaged more than last Saturday. All railroad repairs are threatened.

GOVERNOR WHITE

Says First Reports of Virginia Disaster Were Much Exaggerated.

Charleston, W. Va., June 27.—Governor White yesterday issued the following:

"To the Public—Advices received from personal representatives sent to Keystone and the flooded district in the flat top region, are to the effect that the loss of life will not exceed fifty, and that there is no distress that cannot be provided for by the home people, and no need of outside help of any kind. The offers of help from all over the country have been generous and highly appreciated. If it should develop that aid from the outside is needed, I will take occasion to inform the people of West Virginia of that fact. In any event, I feel sure that the citizens of this state will be willing and able to supply any aid that may be needed.

(Signed), A. R. White, Governor."

Theatrical People Missing

Columbus, O., June 27.—Anxiety is felt for the safety of the Bright Lights Theatrical Company, which was due in Keystone the night the cloudburst occurred. Some of the members belonged to this city. Nothing has been heard of them.

Deaths Are Over 100.

Williamson, W. Va., June 27.—Estimates of the loss of life by the flood have been raised again, and last night were placed at mote than 100. Parties reached here last evening from the upper end of the flood district, bringing the first authentic information.

25 Bodies Burned.

Bluefield, Va., June 27. — No bodies have been recovered to-day. A number of the largest heaps of drift were set on fire last night by some unknown friend of the public health. In this pile of debris it is estimated there were at least 25 dead bodies. The heap is now a pile of smouldering ashes.

Deadly Storm at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 27. — The storm which struck Pittsburg and vicinity yesterday afternoon was short in duration but terrible in power and disastrous in results. The lightning and thunder were practically continuous for about 308 minutes, the wind attaining a velocity of 30 miles an hour, and 46 inches of rain fell. Numberless houses and churches were struck by lightning. In Homestead, Mrs. Alice Leslie, aged 24, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Richard Rucker, also of Homestead, was frightfully burned by the electrical fluid, and will hardly recover. Rev. John Saulton and Clay F. Lands were badly shocked, but will recover.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

He was removed from Toronto jail Wednesday by four sheriff's officers.

Six-Year-Old Boy Drowned.

Salem, Ont., June 27.—Yesterday afternoon, while in the river bathing, Allan, aged 6, son of George Reuter, brewer, was drowned. Everything possible was done, but life was extinct. It is not known how long he had been in the water, as his little companions were further up the river and thought Allan had gone home.

Mr. Tarte Inspects Toronto Harbor.

Toronto, June 27.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte, Minister of Public Works, has paid his promised visit to Toronto harbor yesterday. Replying to the remarks of the Mayor at the luncheon tendered him, Mr. Tarte, in reply, said he would certainly like to see the harbor improved, and also the course of the Don diverted. The Government he was sure also approved of such a step; but they expected that the city would do something with its sewage. He did not wish to go into details, but said he would like to hold a conference with representatives of the Harbor Board, Board of Trade and City Council. A policy could then be outlined, and he would father it in the House. He was prepared to come to Toronto any time and discuss the question as long as they wished. He also added that the Dominion Government would advance at 3 per cent. sufficient money to meet the expenses that would be incurred in the change that is necessary to make in the disposal of the sewage.

Saves Two From Death.

"Our daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland, of Armonk, N.Y., "but, when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and to-day she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for coughs and colds. 50c. and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by Jas. Lynch. Trial bottles free.

Another Child Lost.

Halifax, June 27.—A sad drowning accident occurred at Lunenberg last evening. A five-year-old son of Geo. Rhuland, shipbuilder, left his grandparents' residence to return to his home. He wandered down to the Marine Slip and lost his life. The remains were found on the beach at 7 o'clock.

Bubonic Plague Ravages.

Hong Kong, June 26.—During the week ending June 23, there have been 155 new cases and 152 deaths from the bubonic plague here.

Didn't Marry for Money.

The Boston man, who lately married a sickly rich young woman, is happy now, for he got Dr. King's New Life Pills, which restored her to perfect health. Infallible for jaundice, biliousness, malaria, fever and ague and all liver and stomach troubles. Gentle, but effective. Only 25c at Jas. Lynch's drug store.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

"I'll pay you for that, you meddling beef eater!" he roared.

"Don't mention it," said I, with an assumption of blandness which I did not feel. "That was simply gratuitous. It is a sample of what I shall do to you if you do not immediately ask this lady's pardon for the gross insult you have just offered her."

"Insult! To kiss a common barmaid an insult!" he yelled, now purpling. "Why—why—what is this woman to you—this tavern wench, this"—

"Be careful," I warned. Gretchen was calmly wiping her cheek, but her eyes were like polished emeralds.

"You have come here, I believe," said I, "to see if my passports were proper."

"Curse you and your passports! Are you a gentleman?"

"Would you recognize one if you saw him?" I laughed.

"Can you fight?"

"Certainly," said I, thinking of the weapons nature in her kindness had given to me.

"Good! Otto, have the horses brought around. We will cut for the barracks and get the colonel's weapons, the rapiers." The word "rapier" sent an icy chill up my spine. A duel!

"The devil!" said I under my breath. I knew less about fencing than I did about aerial navigation, which was precious little. The fact that Gretchen was now smiling aggravated the situation. I could not help the shudder. Why, the fellow would make a sieve out of me!

"Will you look at my passports now?" I asked. "You may not have the opportunity again."

"Your passports from now on will be void," was the retort. "But I shall be pleased to give you a passport to the devil. I shall kill you," complacently.

"Think of my family," said I, a strange humor taking possession of me.

"You should have thought of your family before you struck me that blow," he replied.

My laughter was genuine. Even Gretchen smuggled a smile. The lieutenant had taken my remark in all seriousness. "You will not run away?" he asked.

"I shall probably be obliged to run away tomorrow," said I smoothly. "I should not be able to account for your presence here. But I shall await your return from the barracks, never fear." All this was mere bravado. Honestly, I shrunk within my clothes and shivered in my shoes. But I had an unfailing nerve. Some call it bluff.

Gretchen had been whispering to the innkeeper. When he moved from her side, she was smiling.

"What the deuce is she smiling about?" I wondered. "Does the woman take me for a modern D'Artagnan?"

"Innkeeper," said the lieutenant, "if this man is not here when I return I'll take satisfaction out of your hide."

The innkeeper shrugged. "I have never heard of an Englishman running away."

"And I have seen many a German do that," I put in. "How am I to know that your going to the barracks is not a ruse?"

He gasped. The words would not come which would do justice to his feelings. He drew off one of his gloves and threw it into my face. It stung me. I should have knocked him down but for the innkeeper stepping between.

"No, herr," he said; "do not disable him."

"You had best go to the barracks at once," said I to the lieutenant. My clothes were too small for me now, and I did not shiver in my shoes. My "Yankee" blood was up. I would have fought him with battleaxes.

"Herr," said the innkeeper when the two had made off for the barracks, "you are a man of courage."

"Thanks," said I.

"Do you know anything about rapiers?" he asked.

"I know the handle from the blade; that's all. But that does not make any difference. I'd fight him with any weapon. He struck me, and then—then he kissed Gretchen."

"I have wiped it off, herr," said Gretchen dryly. Then she passed from the room. I went up stairs too. I looked out of my window. There was moonlight, possibly the last time I should ever see moonlight in the land of the living. Nothing but a mishap on my opponent's part and that early in the combat would save my epidermis. The absurd side of the affair struck me, and I laughed mirthlessly, but none the less I laughed. If it had been pistols, the chances would have been equal. A German does not like pistols as a dueling apparatus. They often miss fire. A sword is a surer weapon. And then the French use them—the pistols—in their fiascoes. Rapiers? I was as familiar with the rapier as I was with the Zulu assagai. I unstrapped my traveling case and took out Phyllis' photograph. I put it back. If I was to hate a last look at any woman, it should be at Gretchen. Then I got out my cane and practiced thrusting and parrying. My wrist was strong.

"Well," I mused, "there's consolation in knowing that in two hours I shall be either dead or alive."

I flung the cane into the corner. To pass away the time I paced back and forth. It passed too quickly, and it was not long ere I heard the clatter of the returning cavalrymen. Some one knocked at my door. I swung it open and was thrown to the floor, bound and gagged in a tenth of a minute.

"Put him on the bed," whispered the leader of my assailants. When this was done, the voice added, "Now you can go to the stables and wait there till I call you."

It was the innkeeper. He surveyed me for a moment and scratched his chin.

"Will herr keep perfectly quiet if I take the handkerchief from his mouth?" he asked. I nodded, bewildered.

"What in tophet does this mean?" I asked. I did not say tophet, but it looks better in writing.

"It means nothing and everything," was the answer. "In the first place, herr will fight no duel. The man with whom you were to fight was sent on an errand to this out of the way place as a punishment for his dueling at the capital. I know him by reputation. He is a brawler, but a fair swordsman. He would halve you as I would a chicken. There is another who has a prior claim on him. If there is anything left of Herr Lieutenant at the end of the fray, you are welcome to it. Yes; there will be a duel, but you will not be one of the principals. It is all arranged."

"But I do not understand," I cried.

"It is not necessary that you should." He laughed and rubbed his hands in pleasurable anticipation. "There is a young man down stairs who arrived a few moments before the lieutenant. He has a special affair. There were words. Herr Lieutenant is mad enough to fight a whole company."

"Then why in heaven's name am I up here in this condition?" I cried. "Let me go and be the young man's second, though I can't for the life of me see where he has come from so suddenly and I might say opportunely. Come, cut me loose."

"It is too late."

"Too late?"

"Yes. Herr Lieutenant has been informed that you ran away."

"Ran away!" I roared. "You told him that I ran away? Curse your insolence! I'll break every bone in your body for this!" I cried, straining at the ropes.

"The ropes are new," said he. "You'll hurt yourself."

"You told him that I ran away?" This was too much.

"Yes. Ah, but you will be surprised. The duel will last five minutes. Herr Lieutenant will thrust. The thrust will be parried. He will feint; useless. Thrust on thrust, parry on parry. Consternation will take the place of confidence. He will grow nervous. He will try all his little tricks, and they will fail. Then his eyes will roll and his breath come in gasps. Suddenly he thinks he sees an opening. He lunges. Ach, the fool, it is all over!" The old man's voice quivered with excitement. He had passed his time in the barracks and had seen many a sword skirmish.

"Well, are you going to take off these ropes?"

"No. You would break every bone in my body."

I groaned in exasperation.

"You will soon be out of breath."

Oh, could I have but loosened those cords!

"Stahlberg, who left the service a year ago, will act in the capacity of second." Stahlberg was at the head of the vineyard. "I shall watch the affair from the window here. The scene of action will take place in the clearing beyond. It will be an affair worth witnessing."

"And where is Gretchen?"

"Where she should be—at the bar, a dutiful barmaid." Then I heard nothing but the deep cachinnations of the innkeeper. There was something in the affair which appealed to his humor. I could not see it. For ten minutes my vocabulary was strictly unprintable.

"Will you kindly tell me what the meaning of all this is?"

"Herr Winthrop, the idyl has come to an end. The epic now begins."

CHAPTER XII.

The golden summer moon was far up now, and the yellow light of it came into the window and illumined the grim face of the innkeeper, throwing a grotesque shadow of him on to the floor. The leaves rustled and purred against the eaves. As the branches moved so did the light and darkness move over the innkeeper's visage. He was silent and meditative.

"An epic?" I said.

"An epic."

"Innkeeper," said I, "if I give you my word of honor not to molest you or leave this room will you let me be a witness?"

He passed into the gloom, then back into the light. "This is no trick?" suspiciously. "I have a deal of regard for my old bones, old as they are."

"On my honor."

"Well, I'll do it. It is in the blood of us all. But a false move on your part, and I promise you that this knife shall find a resting place in you."

He cut the ropes, and I was free. But my arms ached. The two of us took our stand by the window and waited for the principals in the drama about to be enacted in the clearing. I confess that my conscience was ill at ease. Why I knew not. I was dreading something, I knew not what. The innkeeper's hand trembled on my arm.

"Sh! They come," he whispered.

As I looked beyond his finger I saw four figures advance over the award. One of them, a slight boyish form, was new to me. The fellow walked briskly along at the side of Stahlberg, who was built on the plan of Hercules. When they came to the clearing, they stopped. The seconds went through the usual formalities of testing the temper of the swords. Somehow I could not keep my eyes off the youngster who was going to do battle with the veteran, and I could not help wondering where in the world he had come from and why in the world he had chosen this place to settle his dispute in. There were plenty of convenient places in the village in and around the barracks. He took his position, back to me, so I could not tell what he was like. The moon shone squarely in the lieutenant's face, upon which was an expression of contempt mingled with confidence. My heart thumped, for I had never seen a duel before.

"I do not know where you came from," I heard the lieutenant say, "but you managed nicely to pick a quarrel. It is all on your own head. It is too bad that cur of an Englishman had to run away."

The innkeeper's knife was so close that I could feel the point of it against my ribs. So I gave up the wild idea of yelling from the window that I hadn't run away. The lieutenant's opponent shrugged. He placed himself on guard. That was his reply. Suddenly the two sprang forward, and the clash of swords followed. I could not keep track of the weapons, but I could see that the youngster was holding his own amazingly well. Neither was touched the first bout.

"Two minutes," murmured the old rascal at my side. "It will be over this time."

"You seem to have a good deal of confidence in your man," said I.

"There is not a finer swords—swordsman in the kingdom, or on the continent for that matter. There, they are at it again!"

If a woman is physically miserable and mentally unhappy, the child she bears will, in face and form, as well as in disposition, reflect her own condition. Every woman who anticipates motherhood ought to think of this and be a fairy godmother to her own child, endowing it with health, beauty, and a happy disposition.

The mental misery of the prospective mother is in general the result of her physical condition. She is nervous, her appetite fails, she cannot sleep. Restore her appetite, quiet her nerves and give her sleep and she becomes a new woman.

"It has made a new woman of me," is the constant testimony of women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"During the first month, when I looked forward to maternity, I could not keep anything on my stomach," writes Mrs. H. C. Anderson, of South Britain, New Haven Co., Conn. "Was so weak that I went to bed on the 26th of June and never got up till the first of August. I tried different doctors, but with little benefit. I read about many being helped by using your medicine, so I thought I would give it a trial. I began to take your 'Favorite Prescription' in November, and I had a nice little baby girl in February following. My baby weighed over eight pounds. I was only ill for about one hour, and got along nicely during confinement. Was up and dressed on the eighth day. I never had the doctor with me at all; just the nurse and one or two friends. My friends thought I was sick a very short time. This makes my second child. With the first one I did not take 'Favorite Prescription.' The little one lived just about two months, and she was sick all the time. This last baby is as plump and healthy as any mother could wish."

"SIN IS A LIE," SAYS MRS. EDDY.

In Annual Message Declares That Evil is an Illusion.

CENSURE FOR MEDICINE.

"If God Created Drugs for Medical Use Christ Would Have Used Them."

Boston, Mass., June 24.—Christian Scientists from all over the world, many of them titled personages from Europe, paid homage to the founder of the new religion at the mother church yesterday, when the annual message of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy was read at four different services, one in the morning, two in the afternoon, and one in the evening.

This was made necessary because the handsome church was unable to hold the ten thousand persons anxious to attend the service. Among those present were the Earl of Dunmore, who has become greatly interested in Christian Science; the Countess of Dunmore, Lady Victoria Murray, Lady Mildred Murray and Lady Ramsay.

They have been busy since their arrival here studing Christian Science and taking an active part in the meetings.

Former Judge Septimus J. Hanna at each service announced that the number of persons admitted to the communion was 2,496, the largest in the history of the church, and which brings the total membership up to 21,631.

After extending greetings, alluding to the "persecution of Christian Scientists, and the growth of the Church, Mrs. Eddy says in her message:—

"I have made the Bible and 'Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures,' the pastor of all the churches of this denomination, but that does not make it impossible for the pastor to preach. To my sense, the Sermon on the Mount, read each Sunday without comment, and obeyed throughout the week, is enough for Christian practice.

"The Word of God is a wonderful pastor, and to my conception is not too transcendental to be heard and understood. Whosoever saith there is no sermon without personal preaching forgets that his God is a person, and that he should be willing to hear a sermon from his personal God."

After discussing Christ, Mrs. Eddy alleges that there is no reality in evil or sin in this manner:—

"Incorporeal evil embodies itself in the so-called corporeal, and is manifested in the flesh. Evil is neither quality or quantity; it is not intelligence, a person or a principle, a man or a woman, a place or a thing, and God never made it.

"The outcome of evil, called sin, is another nonentity that belittles itself until it annihilates its own embodiment; this is the only annihilation. The so-called visible sin should be invisible; it ought not to be seen, felt, or acted; and because it ought not, we must know that sin is a lie, an illusion, nothing, and only an assumption that nothing is something.

"The evil-doer received no encouragement from my declaration that sin is unreal when I declare also that he must awake from his belief in this awful reality, repent, and forsake it, in order to understand and demonstrate its unreality. Sin uncondemned is not nullified. We must condemn the claim of sin in order to prove its claim false, therefore unreal.

"If anyone as yet has healed such hopeless cases as I have in one to three interviews with the patients, I shall rejoice in being informed thereof.

"It was that I healed the deaf, the blind, the dumb, the lame, the last stages of consumption, pneumonia, paralysis, etc., and restored the patients in from one to three interviews, that started the public enquiry, 'What is it?' If God created drugs for medical use Jesus would have used them for that purpose."

Alfred Farlow, a prominent Christian Scientist, denies the rumour abroad to-day that Mrs. Eddy was to resign as the head of the Christian Science Church. Her message, as generally interpreted, indicated that she intends to remain at her task.

It's the Baby.

If you lose a pound in flesh it doesn't matter much. But if it's the baby it may mean everything. There is no food in the world equal to Scott's Emulsion for making thin babies plump. If you have a thin baby in the house you'll be surprised to see how it will thrive on this nourishing and fat-forming food.

OUR MANITOBA LETTER.

It is some time since I have written but now that I am able to give your readers some items of information concerning the "West" with a reasonable degree of assurance I take the liberty of writing you again.

The great "Manitoba Railway Deal" has been ratified by the Federal Government and the bill will become law. There is a great deal of speculation in the province as to the merits and defects of the same, but notwithstanding so much small talk, the vast majority of the settlers are comparatively satisfied with the deal, feeling certain that the transportation question has been fairly attacked and that the C. P. R. which for so many years had a monopoly of the freight here, will now have a formidable opponent.

The liquor question—Hugh John MacDonald's Prohibition Bill—is now being threshed out in the British Privy Council. We know what the result will be. The "British American Act," wherein the powers of the federal and local governments were defined should certainly settle the question as to whether Manitoba had the power of legislating as they did. But this will not suffice; the question is a popular one.

The territorial government has its share of trouble. The North West Territory having no revenue of its own, must rely solely on the Dominion Government grant for all funds wherewith to meet the requirements of legislation.

With her large increase of population new demands for money appropriations are constantly coming before the assembly.

Roads must be made, bridges must be built and others repaired; education must receive support and the cost of administration must be borne. In a new country these demands increase rapidly and while it is gratifying that these demands are flowing in, because they show a steady influx of settlers yet the question—the financial question—of meeting these demands is becoming a serious one. What will be the result? In the recent session of the North West Assembly $180,000 of next year's federal grant was appropriated. There is only one thing to be done. The North West must be divided into provinces and raise their own revenue and this question—the provincial question is the live question with the people of the territories to-day.

The matter of Hail Insurance in the West has given the farmers considerable trouble and in many cases has been expnesive. A company doing business in '99 made such unreasonable assessments that many of the premiums have not yet been paid, and the validity of the assessment is about to be tested in the courts at Brandon. The territorial government have a scheme of provincial or government insurance under consideration.

Now a word or two about the crop prospects, which eastern people know as well as we do, aways the scales of prosperity in a strictly agricultural country. Good crops mean good times and vice versa.

Seeding commenced about the middle of April and fine weather prevailed throughout April and May so that the grain was sown in good time and in good shape. There was practically no rain during this period yet the vast amount of moisture stored up in the ground as a result of the rains of last fall and the heavy frosts of the recent winter sufficed to start the growth of the grain and keep it growing nicely. Some of the older land was beginning to suffer towards the end of May but no serious damage resulted. Rain fell on the second of June, then on June 5 a heavy snow storm raged generally. From that time till June 17, we had heavy daily rains. The prospects for a good crop have not been so promising since the bumper yield of '91. Already the yield is placed at 40,000,000 bushels of wheat as compared with 17,000,000 bushels in 1900. If such is the case we will require 15,000 additional men to harvest the crop. Where will we get them?

Health Officers Elected.

Brantford, Ont., June 28.—The executive health officers of Ontario concluded their sessions here last evening. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Dr. Kitchen, St. George; Vice-President, T. McFarlan, Ottawa; Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. Bruce, Toronto; Executive, Drs. Pearson, Brantford; Dr. Hoare, Walkerville; Dr. Dunton, Paris; Dr. Herald, Kingston; Dr. Arnott, Berlin; Berlin is likely to be the next place of meeting.

97 in the Shade in Toronto.

Toronto, June 28.—The heat in Toronto yesterday was more intense than on any June day in the history of the city. By noon, the temperature stood at 90 in the shade, and a couple of hours later, it had crept to 97 in the shade and 110 in the sun. This, besides breaking all previous June records, is only 2 degrees below the hottest day in the annals of the city, which was in 1854, on Aug. 24, when the mercury registered 99.2 in the shade.

Arm Crushed in Planer.

St. Catharines, June 28.—Aaron Schweitz, an employe in Mr. Henry Weis' planing mills, met with a painful accident on Wednesday afternoon, which nearly cost him his life. He was operating a planer, which was running at a high rate of speed, when he attempted to tighten up a belt running under the machine. His hand was drawn around the pulley, and both bones above the wrist suffered a compound fracture.

A Canadian Injured.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 28. — Fire broke out yesterday afternoon at the Lehigh Valley freight house on Buffalo Creek, and the building was soon destroyed. It is reported that several men were forced by the flames into the creek and drowned. At 3.30 the only person known to be injured was Lewis Casson, a Canadian.

Was the Woman a Canadian?

Utica, N. Y., June 28. — A woman about 25 years old came here from the West yesterday afternoon, and went to the Eagle Hotel, as Ida St. George, New York. She was assigned to a room, and did not again make her appearance. This afternoon it was found that she had committed suicide by taking laudanum. There is nothing whatever about her clothing to indicate her name or residence. In her pocket were found four Canadian one-dollar bills, and some small change. She appeared very lady-like, and was evidently a woman of refinement.

The King's Coronation.

London, June 28.—A proclamation of King Edward VII., issued yesterday, announces that his coronation is to take place on a day not yet determined upon, in June next, and that the ceremonies shall include only such as are traditionally solemnized in Westminster Abbey. This officially excludes the King's Champion and numerous ancient usages in connection with the procession.

Three Corpses Found.

Davis, W. Va., June 28.—Bodies of three flood victims have been found on Jacob's branch, a tributary of Dry Fork. Identification was impossible.

GAS HEATING.

English Practical Experience as to the Amount Required.

A question of every-day interest to a large number of people in this city, particularly at this season of the year, is the quantity of gas required to be consumed in an ordinary gas stove to heat a given-sized room. On this subject The English Journal of Gas Lighting recently published some data based on an experience extending over eight or nine years and covering rooms of every description. According to this journal, to heat a room 14 by 14 by 10, requires on an average not more than 60 cubic feet per day of twelve hours, or five cubic feet per hour. This is on the basis of reasonable care being taken not to waste the gas and to light the heater only when it is required. At ten cents per hundred cubic feet, the local rate, this represents a cost of six cents per day. Rooms, of course, vary in the amount of heat required to keep them warm, depending on their exposure, the character of the walls, amount of glass, etc. The most difficult task encountered during the author's experience, was to heat a room 21 feet square and 17 feet 6 inches high, which had three outside walls and very large windows. In this case an unusual consumption of 50,000 cubic feet was necessary.

She Would be a Lawyer.

In Scotland, where there are no women lawyers, a woman is suing the Incorporated Society of Law Agents, which is the Scotch Bar Association, to compel the society to admit her to examination, so that she may be entitled to practice as a full fledged attorney. The society does not seem to care much whether she becomes a lawyer or not. In an answer to her plea, filed with the court, it says that the court had better decide the matter. It does not feel itself called upon either by duty or interest to maintain that women might not be admitted to the practice of law. The society can only state that no woman has hitherto been admitted and that there are certain public offices open to lawyers for which women probably would not be suited. The court is likely to grant the woman's plea.

With Baden-Powell's Head.

Apropos of the Mafeking stamps, with Colonel Baden-Powell's head on them, says The Westminster Gazette, it does not seem to have been noticed that to put the head of any one not a member of the Royal Family on a postage stamp might be construed as an offense not altogether unlike high treason. The classical precedent is furnished by Canada, where a certain postmaster once put his own portrait on a stamp. No sooner did his proceeding come to the ears of the authorities than they administered a severe reprimand and withdrew the stamp from circulation. Specimens of it, however, are still procurable. The stamp is known as the "Connell" stamp, and fetches a good price in the auction room.

POISONED PORRIDGE.

Mr. Stephen Westney of Audley Dies From Eating It.

FOUR OTHERS WHO ATE SAVED.

Mrs. Westney and Three Children Were Also Very Sick From the Effects of the Poison, Which It Is Supposed Was Paris Green Accidentally Spilled Into the Porridge Kettle.

Brougham, Ont., June 29.—What nearly terminated in a wholesale poisoning case, and which resulted in the death of a well-known resident of the township, occurred at the home of Stephen Westney, third concession, near Audley. As far as can be learned at this moment, four of the family who ate porridge at breakfast took sick immediately after. Drs. Bateson and Fish of this village were hastily summoned, but arrived too late to save Mr. Westney. They succeeded in saving the lives of Mrs. Westney and three of the children, who ate of the porridge. Mr. Westney came from Scarboro about 15 years ago, was 58 years old, a well-to-do and prosperous farmer. The case was handed over to Coroner Bateman of Pickering. An inquest will be held, when an investigation will likely be made.

It is supposed that Paris green, which was hanging on the wall, blew, or was in some way accidentally spilled, into a porridge kettle below, and was not noticed.

A Quartette Drowned.

New Bern, N. C., June 29.—Hon. W. E. Clarke, his two daughters, Mary B., aged 12, and Frances B., aged 9, and George E. Bryan, the 10-year-old son of Green Bryan, were drowned here last night. The party was out rowing.

Victim at Smith's Falls.

Smith's Falls, June 29.—Harry Brown, aged 13, while fishing from a boat in the river here yesterday morning, was drawn by a swift current over a bywash and drowned.

An Orphan Boy Drowned.

Paisley, June 29.—Yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock a grandson of Mr. Hugh Patterson was drowned. He was in the Saugeen River close to the iron bridge at the Town Hall, in company with a smaller boy, and neither could swim. Lawrence Patterson waded out and stepped on a slippery stone near a deep hole. He slid and went under. An alarm was immediately given, and scores of men and boys were diving, but at least half an hour was gone before the body was recovered. He was about 12 years old. His mother is dead, and his father is living on a farm near Tilsonburg.

Was He a Brampton Man?

Owen Sound, June 29.—An inquest was held on the body of the unknown man, found drowned Thursday night. Though he bought a ticket under the name of William Smith, he is now believed to be Henry Roberts of Brampton. His son was expected on the night train, to identify the body. The inquest was adjourned until to-day.

Four Men Badly Injured.

London, Ont., June 29. — While engaged raising a barn for Mr. Christopher Robinson of the sixth concession of West Nissouri, on Wednesday, four men met with serious accidents, some of which may prove fatal. The men had just succeeded in raising a beam to its place, when those on the ropes pulled too far and brought down the whole side. Four men were badly hurt. They are John Walkem, George Macdonald, Roy Skinner and James Woods.

Samuel Gompers Seriously Hurt.

Washington, June 29. — Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, is lying dangerously ill at his home in this city, suffering from concussion of the brain and a possible fracture of the skull. While his condition is critical his physician says he probably will recover. He was injured Thursday night as he alighted from a car, in which he had been taking his two children for an outing.

Cruel Case of Stabbing.

Ottawa, June 29.—Howard Turner, a youngster, who resides with his mother at 90 O'Connor street, was stabbed yesterday morning in the leg while sitting in front of The Citizen office on Sparks street. An artery was cut, and but for prompt help the boy might have bled to death. Young Turner does not know who stabbed him. He was sitting over a grating and did not notice anything until he felt a sharp pain in the leg.

Part of His Skull Removed.

Toronto, June 29.—William Macdonald, J. P., postmaster of North Bay, underwent a critical operation yesterday in St. Michael's Hospital. A portion of his skull, which had become thickened and was pressing on the brain, was removed. It is thought that the bone had thickened as a result of a blow on the head Mr. Macdonald had received when a boy. He is on a fair way to recovery.

The King's Coronation Proclamation.

London, June 29. — The royal proclamation announcing that the coronation of King Edward is to take place in June next, the exact day not yet being determined upon, was read yesterday morning in St. James' Palace, Temple Bar, and the Royal Exchange, with all the quaint, mediaeval scenes which marked the occasion of the proclaiming of the accession of the King.

French Premier Triumphed.

Paris, June 29.—The Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, has carried the most important project of his ministry, the Law of Associations bill, which now only awaits the signature of President Loubet to become law.

$50 For Lump Jaw.

Woodstock, June 29.—Arthur Church of Bright decided that there was little use of him fighting the charge laid against him of selling a lumpjaw cow for beef. He came to town and pleaded guilty to Police Magistrate Field, who imposed a fine of $50 and costs.

They Spoiled the Targets.

Deseronto, June 29.—The competition at the artillery camp, which was to have taken up all yesterday, between the 2nd, 4th and 8th Field Batteries, ended at noon, on account of the firing being so accurate. The targets were unfit for further use.

CHINA OVERCHARGED.

A Mistake in Calculating the Indemnity to the Powers.

A BIG MISTAKE IN THE TOTAL.

The Ministers at Pekin Asked and China Agreed to Pay Twenty-Four Million Dollars More Than the Correct Total of the United Demands of the European Powers.

Washington, June 29. —A curious discrepancy concerning the amount of the Chinese indemnities has developed, by which it appears that China has agreed to pay about 35,000,000 taels, or $24,000,000, more than the united demands of all the powers. Just how this occurred is not clear to officials, but it appears to have been an error of calculation at Pekin in the first place by those making up the indemnities, and later by the Chinese in their hasty acceptance of the total. As finally made up this total was 450,000,000 taels, but the present calculation, after taking in all the demands that are known, makes the total only 415,000,000 taels. In the meantime China has agreed to pay the larger amount, so that the question now arises what will become of the excess of 35,000,000 taels.

Another question which has arisen in this connection is as to the amount of bonds which shall be issued to Japan, as that country has drawn attention to the fact that its share of the indemnity cannot be negotiated on as favorable terms as some of the powers can make. It is understood that the matter has been considered of sufficient importance to bring to the attention of the President, with a view to learning the general attitude of this government on the matter.

Chinese Exiles in Turkestan.

Pekin, June 29.—Word has been received here of the arrival of Duke Lan and Prince Tuan at Ulumski, Turkestan, in which place of banishment they have been sentenced to reside. A Russian consul is stationed at Ulumski, and he will notify the Russian Government should the banished Chinese leave the place.

Was Them to Leave Shanghai.

Shanghai, June 28.—The Taotai, Sheng, at the request of Liu Kun Yi, the Viceroy of Nankin, visited all the consuls to-day and urged that as the foreign forces were leaving Pekin, they ought also to evacuate Shanghai. The consuls are referring the matter to their respective Governments.

Whole Province in Revolt.

London, June 29.—A despatch from Chee Foo reports the entire Province of Sheng Kiang in revolt. The rebels are said to be overrunning the country, pillaging and burning. It is asserted that in the vicinity of Mukden all the villages are being burned, and that hundreds of inhabitants have been killed. The despatch says the Russian forces are not sufficient to maintain order.

Soldiers Must Be Better Paid.

London, June 29.—During the debate on the army re-organization bill, in the House of Lords yesterday, Lord Wolseley, the former Commander-in-Chief of the forces, declared the United States army was the finest of its size in the world. He said its superiority was due to good wages. Great Britain must face the alternative of conscription or L. S. D. (pounds, shillings and pence) to secure recruits.

Trial of Earl Russell.

London, June 29.—At a special meeting of the House of Lords yesterday a committee was appointed to arrange the procedure to bring Earl Russell, recently committed for trial at the old Bailey, on the charge of bigamy, to a speedy trial by his peers. The committee includes the Lord Chancellor, Lord Halsbury, the Lord Privy Seal, Lord Salisbury, and twelve other peers.

SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1901.

WHERE WAS IT SAID?

The following appears in the Toronto Mail and Empire: "Two weeks ago, the Hon. J. R. Stratton announced in London that there was to be no bye-election there. Now a bye-election is to be held."

If the Mail and Empire will look at the London Advertiser of May 9th, it will be seen that while in London, Mr. Stratton was interviewed by an Advertiser reporter, when the following interrogation by the reporter was replied to by Mr. Stratton:

"You have said nothing about London; I understand there is a vacancy there due to the resignation of Col. Leys?"

"Mr. Stratton said he had seen the statement that the Colonel had resigned. He personally had not official knowledge of it."

If the Mail and Empire desires to be fair it will quote Mr. Stratton's words where he said there would be no bye election in London.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of Freddie Girvin who Died Dec. 5. 1900

Oh! sad and lonely is our home,
The long, long, weary day,
Life seems but just a weary load,
Since Freddie went away.

He's gone from earth; God called him home,
We know His ways are best,
That up in Heaven our darling's safe
Forever with the blest.

An angel whispered as he slept,
"The Master calls for thee,"
Then bore him safe, without one pang,
Beyond the crystal sea.

But, ah, the empty, aching void
That's left within our home,
Since death's cold hand was laid upon
Our dear one for the tomb.

We seem to listen for his voice,
We miss his kindly thought,
And willing help about the place
Which he gave, all unsought

We had so learned to trust in him,
We thought to have him still
When we were old, to lean upon,
But such was not God's will.

And so we try to murmur not,
And underneath the rod,
We seem to see the beckoning hand
That leads us up to God.

And when we look around and see
The world's alluring way,
The fierce temptations guileless youth
Must meet from day to day,

We know that he is safe from all,
Yes, safe for evermore,
Our loved one is not lost to us
But only gone before.

And up in Heaven we know that he
Is watching o'er us still,
Our guardian angel in the sky
To help us do God's will.

And tho' life's sky seems clouded now,
Yet God's own time we'll wait,
We'll meet to part no more for aye,
Within the golden gate.

Sore Throat and Hoarseness.

with their attendant dangers may be speedily averted and remedied by the use of Polson's Nerviline. Excellent to gargle with—ten times better than a mustard plaster and more convenient for the outside. Nerviline penetrates the tissues instantly, soothes the pain, allays inflammation, and cures sore throat and hoarseness simply because that's what it is made for. The large 25 cent bottle of Nerviline is unexcelled as a household liniment. It cures everything.

CONCILIATION ACT.

Mr. King Settles a Nova Scotia Mining Dispute.

THE STRIKING C.P.R. TRACKMEN

The Men Standing Firm and Still Claiming the Road Is Insufficiently Patrolled—C. P. R. Officials, on the Contrary, Say Traffic Is Not Interfered with and That Road Is All Right.

Ottawa, June 29.—Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, Deputy Minister of Labor, has returned from Cape Breton, where he was instrumental in bringing about a settlement of what threatened to be a serious dispute between the Nova Scotia Steel Company and its coal miners. Some time since the Labor Department received a communication from the miners, numbering about 700 altogether, in which they took the ground that their wages ought to be increased, and that unless an advance was granted, there might be a strike. It was asked whether the department could not aid in effecting a settlement under the conciliation act. On receipt of this communication Mr. King wrote the company, drawing attention to the demands of the men and asking if the former were willing for the matter to be looked into. The answer came back that the manager was away in the States, but immediately on his return they would be willing for the department to make an investigation. Accordingly Mr. King went down to Cape Breton last week. First of all, he visited Sydney mines, and there met the coal miners of the company and ascertained the exact nature of their grievance. Then he went to New Glasgow and conferred with the managers and directors of the Nova Scotia Steel Company, who professed themselves willing to pay the miners, artisans and laborers employed in their coal mines the same rates of wages as were paid by the Dominion Iron & Steel Company. Accompanied by the General Manager of the former company, Mr. King again went to Sydney mines and the company's proposition was talked over in the presence of a committee of the men and accepted by them. Thus an amicable understanding was reached without the loss of an hour's work by the men and without relations between employers and employes being in the least embittered. It was agreed that the new rates of pay should go into effect when the new local manager, who is at present assistant manager of the Dominion Iron & Steel Company, takes office, which will be shortly.

THE SYMPATHY OF OTHERS.

Railway Conductors, Engineers, Firemen and Trainmen Express Sympathy with the Striking Trackmen.

Toronto Junction, June 29. — A large and enthusiastic meeting called by the Trackmen's Union, was held in Campbell Hall last night, and was addressed by representatives from the Order of Railroad Conductors, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. From the speeches delivered it was quite evident that the trackmen have the hearty sympathy of all the other railway organizations, and whilst none of them have as yet signified their intention of joining in the strike there is a feeling that within the next few days, unless the strike is sooner settled, all the other organizations will rally to the support of the trackmen. Mr. Wilkinson occupied the chair, and all the representatives of the various orders were loudly cheered on resuming their seats. Another meeting is to be held very shortly. In the meantime the situation will be laid before the other unions, and when they meet again it is likely that some definite action will be taken.

Contradictory Statements.

Toronto, June 29.—The local Canadian Pacific Railway striking trackmen were encouraged yesterday by reports received that the men on the entire system were standing firm. The men in Toronto are still confident of victory and expect to be successful in their efforts to secure better working conditions. They still maintain that the line is not properly looked after, and that few trackmen are at work. One striker reported that the line between Sunnyside and Toronto Junction had not been inspected for the past two days.

Things for the company were improved yesterday, reported General Superintendent Timmerman. He had received word that two men had returned to work on the Toronto-Havelock section, and two had gone back on Superintendent Brady's division. Mr. Timmerman declared that the roadbed and tracks were in the best of condition, and that the train service was up to the standard. Men were reported to be returning on various sections, and the places of the strikers being filled.

Special C. P. R. Constables.

A party of ten special constables left Toronto yesterday afternoon and will look after the interests of the C. P. R. between Winnipeg and Fort William until the strike is declared off or settled.

Strikers to Demonstrate.

Ottawa, June 29.—The striking carpenters will make a demonstration here to-day against some of the firms supposed to be bitterly antagonistic to the labor unions.

Mayor of Ottawa to Move.

Ottawa, June 29.—Mayor Morris said yesterday: "I am thinking seriously of endeavoring to take some prompt steps to settle the carpenters' and woodworkers' strike. I will bring the matter up in the council on Tuesday night." The Mayor would not state definitely on what line he proposed to move to bring about a settlement.

Want 25 Cents an Hour.

Rochester, N. Y., June 29.—The contractors have issued an ultimatum to the striking street laborers in the following terms: "We hereby notify the laborers that, if they do not return to work on Monday morning next, all propositions or agreements heretofore offered or existing will be abrogated." Yesterday the contractors rejected the strikers' latest proposition for a settlement of the difficulty by agreeing to shade their demands to $1.52 per day, an increase of only one-fourth of a cent an hour from the old schedule, and now the men are notified that if they fail to return to work on Monday morning next all negotiations are off. Serious trouble is anticipated. The strikers say they will not go back now until a schedule of 22 cents per hour has been agreed to.

DOMINION DAY AT THE PAN-AM.

Hon. Dr. Borden Will Formally Open the Canadian Pavilion—48th Highlanders as an Escort.

Buffalo, June 29.—Dominion Day promises to be one of the greatest of the Pan-American Exposition. Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, will be present and take part in the formal opening of the Canadian Pavilion, and he will be escorted by the 48th Highlanders of Toronto. Special music will be provided.

Toronto, June 29.—The 48th Highlanders will parade at 8.30 o'clock to-morrow morning at the Armories, and will entrain at the Union Station. The train from Ottawa, with the Minister of Militia on board, will not arrive until 10 o'clock, however. On its arrival the Minister's car will be attached to the train containing the regiment, and the start for Buffalo will be made immediately.

The regiment has been requested to include the ceremony of trooping the color in its evolutions on the Exposition grounds, and this, with the march past, will be the principal feature of the movements.

It is expected that the parade state of the regiment on the trip will be about 475.

Molakan Russians in Canada.

Ottawa, June 29. — A party of six representative farmers of the Molakan tribe of South Russia, arrived here yesterday, in charge of A. Landy of Hamburg, Germany. The men, who are fine, stalwart-looking agriculturists, are pioneers, coming after a delegation of the tribe who visited Canada last year. These six will settle, and at the same time look about them for good land. The tribe numbers some 12,000 in all, and are looking for a home where good land can be had and liberty enjoyed. They are a sect by themselves, neither smoking, drinking or eating pork. They are trinitarians, do not use the cross either as a sign or emblem. They refuse to do military work, but are not Quakers. They are seeking a new home for political reasons, and have plenty of money for all the men of the tribe to set up on well without requiring any aid.

YOU CAN CURE IT.

A New Cure for Catarrh in Tablet Form.

The old time treatment for catarrh was in the form of douches or sprays; later on, internal remedies were given, with greater success, but being in liquid or powdered form, were inconvenient, and were open to the same objection to all liquid remedies, that is, that they lose whatever medicinal power they may have had on exposure to the air.

The tablet is the ideal form in which to administer medication, but until recently no successful catarrh tablet had ever been attempted.

At this writing, however, a most excellent and palatable remedy for catarrh has been placed before the public, and sold by druggists, called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, composed of the most recent discoveries in medicines for the cure of catarrh, and results from their use have been highly gratifying.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain principally highly concentrated antiseptics, which kill the catarrh germs in the blood and mucous membranes, and in this respect are strictly scientific and modern, as has been known for some years past by the ablest physicians that the most successful catarrh treatment was by inhaling or spraying antiseptics.

The use of inhalers, douches and sprays, however, is a nuisance and inconvenience, and moreover can in no wise compare with the same remedy given in tablet form, either in efficacy or convenience.

A clerk in a prominent insurance office in Pittsburg relates his experience with Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in a few words but to the point. He says, :—"Catarrh has been almost constantly with me for eight years; in this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. I awoke every morning stuffed up, and for the first half hour, it was cough, gag, expectorate and sneeze before I could square myself for my day's work; no appetite, and a foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly.

"I used Stuart's Catarrh Tablets for two months and found them not only pleasant to take, but they did the business, and I can sincerely recommend them to all catarrh sufferers."

Druggists sell Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package. They can be carried in the vest pocket and used at any time and as often as necessary. Guaranteed free from mercury, cocaine, or any mineral poison; absolutely safe.

DOCTORS BAFFLED

By the Case of Mrs. Harrison of Orangeville.

She was Completely Run Down—Racked With Pains in the Back, Head and Limbs—Again Rejoicing in Good Health

From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

Many cases are constantly being brought to the light of persons being cured by that wonderful remedy—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—after doctors have failed to be of benefit. Among them may be noted the case of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, a well known lady who resides in the near vicinity of Orangeville, Ont. A reporter of the Sun hearing of Mrs. Harrison's wonderful cure called at her home to inquire into the facts of the case. Mrs. Harrison said she was pleased to be able to testify to the great curative powers of these pills. She said: "For some years I have been a constant sufferer. Just what to call my disease I do not know; even the doctors were unable to diagnose it. I was completely run down. I had racking pains in my head, back and limbs. I was unable to secure sound sleep, and on rising in the morning would feel as tired as before going to bed. My stomach was in a bad condition and the least movement caused my heart to palpitate violently. Doctors treatment failed to be of benefit to me and I was in a very discouraged state when a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Thinking that they might relieve me a little I procured a supply and began taking them according to directions. From the first I could see that they were helping me, and by the time I had taken half a dozen boxes I was free from the ailments that had made my life miserable. It is now several years since I took the pills and not the least sign of my old trouble has since shown itself. I would strongly urge the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for any person who has a weak or run down system and I am sure they will not fail to be beneficial."

To those who are weak, easily tired, nervous, or whose blood is out of condition, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills come as a blessing, curing when all other medicines fail and restoring those who give them a fair trial to a full measure of health and strength. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent by mail post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Fear Renewal of Massacres.

St. Petersburg, June 29. — Despatches from Erzeroum state that great consternation prevails throughout Armenia on account of the recently reported seizure of a quantity of cartridges consigned to a well-known Armenian. The seizure was ordered by the customs authorities of Constantinople. The action is regarded as a mere pretext for murderous assaults on the Armenians by the Sultan's soldiery. Previous massacres have been foreshadowed by similar events.

The Deaf Made to Hear.

St. Thomas—A modern miracle was made known to-day when Mr. Riddle, of this city, announced that he had recovered his hearing. He has been almost entirely deaf, and it borders on the marvellous to find him able to hear everything with great distinctness. As his case is proving of such universal interest, we give Mr. Riddle's own statement. "My hearing was always poor, and not long ago I became almost deaf. It was the result of catarrhal inflammation, but nothing did me good until I used Catarrhozone. It cured my trouble and I strongly recommend it to the deaf." Fully nine-tenths of the deafness is the result of Catarrh and can be cured by catarrhozone. The cures of deafness wrought by this remedy in cases of even twenty years standing are really astounding. Among many others, ministers of the gospel testify to the wonderful powers of Catarrhozone, and your druggist can tell of some astonishing cases in his own experience. Better give it a trial, if your hearing is impaired. Price $1; small size 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S..

Shipload of Boers.

Hamilton, Bermuda, June 29.—The British transport Armenian, having on board the first shipload of Boer prisoners to be quartered on Darrell's and Tucker's Islands here, arrived in these waters yesterday. The health officers only are allowed to visit the ship at present. It is rumored that there is much sickness on board.

The Armenian had a good passage of 11 days from the Island of St. Vincent. The prisoners seemed to be in good spirits, though rather ragged in appearance. The prisoners were a mixed lot of native Dutch and Europeans.

OWES HIS EYESIGHT TO A MIRACLE.

Indebtedness to Dodd's Kidney Pills Acknowledged by Thomas St. Pierre.

Health Entirely Re-established by Dodd's Kidney Pills—Another Triumph for that Wonderful Remedy —His Eyesight Has Been Strengthened.

St. Epi, Que., June 23.—(Special).—One year ago a miracle was announced in Chicago. R. A. Wade, the great criminal lawyer, regained his sight after having for years been totally blind. His case was published throughout the length and breadth of America, and it attracted more attention to Dodd's Kidney Pills than any medicine ever got before. For it was Dodd's Kidney Pills that restored his sight.

A similar case has turned up in the village of St. Epi, Que. Though this sufferer was not stone blind, his eyes nevertheless were utterly useless to him by lamplight. And they have been completely restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills, which is another point of similarity.

There is no attempt made to assert Dodd's Kidney Pills are a cure for blindness. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest kidney medicine ever known. That is the claim made for Dodd's Kidney Pills, and there is evidence enough to prove that claim. But in cases where Kidney Disease has left poisons in the blood, and the said poisons attacking the weakest spot, injure the eye, Dodd's Kidney Pills are just as infallible as where the poison attacks the joint of the arm or the small of the back. That the eyesight of Thomas St. Pierre was restored is but another argument that Dodd's Kidney Pills make the blood absolutely pure.

Here is Mr. St. Pierre's letter: "I am happy to-day to see my health entirely re-established by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I owe that wonderful remedy a thousand thanks. Before using Dodd's Kidney Pills I had consulted many physicians and taken medicine of various kinds, but each made me worse. I had a constant pain in the back and limbs. At night I couldn't rest and I could not see by lamplight. Having taken only two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I am perfectly cured. My eyesight is clear. I advise all those whose health is not good, from whatever cause, to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Nine times out of ten they will be exactly what is wanted. Two dollars spent for Dodd's Kidney Pills will do more than millions spent otherwise, for who holds anything in the world more dear than health, or would spare any means to save it?"

Yerkes Comes Out on Top.

London, June 29. — The Parliamentary Committee, having the matter in charge, was again occupied yesterday with the question of electrification of the underground railroads, as the companies are unable to settle their difference as to whether the Yerkes or Ganz system shall be installed. The committee eventually decided that the Board of Trade should appoint an arbitrator to determine which system shall be adopted. The committee subsequently approved the Legislation proposal to enable Charles T. Yerkes to electrify the roads subject to the decision of the arbitrator, and two engineers appointed by the respective railroads in regard to the system to be installed.

The Anaemic Young Girl.

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength, her beauty fails, because her strength fails, her eyes lose their lustre. How her spirit droops! It alarms you, but all this may be corrected quickly. Get her Ferrozone, it is a nerve tonic, it aids the stomach to do its work. Appetite? She'll eat anything, and digest it, too. Ferrozone is an absolute specific for the anaemia of young people. Ask your druggist for it. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, June 28.—Cattle—Fair enquiry. The basis of prices was unchanged. Calves were in liberal supply, and, with a good demand, sold fairly steady at the decline. Choice to extra, $5.75 to $5.85; good to choice, $5.50 to $5.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Dull, with 15 loads sale. Spring lambs, $5.50 to $5.75; good to choice, $5.25 to $5.50; winter lambs, $5 to $5.25; common to fair, $4.25 to $5.25. Sheep were very dull, and there were hardly enough sold to establish a basis. Strictly choice sheep, $4.25, but otherwise the basis was $4.10. There was a light clearance, and the general close was dull.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, June 28.—Beeves—Receipts, 53; steers, generally 10c higher, except for common stock; bulls and cows, steady to 10c lower; steers, $5 to $6; bulls, $3 to $4.12½; cows, $2.40 to $4.25. Cables quoted live cattle lower at 10c to 11½c; sheep, steady; refrigerator beef, lower, at 8½c to 9c; no shipments to-day. Calves—Receipts, 356; market slow; veals, 10c to 15c lower; buttermilks, nominal; veals, $4.50 to $6.15; mixed calves, $4 to $4.50. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 6330; sheep about steady; good lambs opened steady; others slow; market closed dull and medium and common grades 10c to 15c off. Sheep, $3 to $4.25. Lambs, $5.62½ to $6.50; yearlings, $4.50.

CHEESE MARKETS.

MOST MANUFACTURERS would rather fit Dunlop Tires on their machines, though they cost a little more. It's the wheel of "unknown quality" upon which the dealer usually refuses to fit Dunlop's. He may have a reason. He may be trying to make a little more money by selling a cheap tire.

Cheap tires are made of poor rubber and poor fabric. Dunlop Tires are made of genuine Para Rubber and Sea Island Fabric. Every pair is guaranteed.

MR. A. G. PARKER REMEMBERED

A Pleasing Presentation at the Bank of Montreal Yesterday Afternoon

Mr. A. G. Parker of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, who leaves next week for Belleville to take charge of the branch in that city, was yesterday afternoon the recipient of a very pleasing presentation in the Bank of Montreal rooms.

There were present, besides the bank staff, Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun, T. F. Matthews, L. M. Hayes, W. D. Parker, Dr. Boucher and Peter Campbell.

Mr. Campbell, in making the presentation, which consisted of three handsome pieces of cut glass, expressed regret at Mr. Parker's removal, and referred to the good feeling which had existed in his dealings with the other banks of the town.

Mr. Parker in reply thanked those present for their generous gift, and assured them he would always remember with feelings of pride, that portion of his life spent in Peterborough.

Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun and T. F. Matthews also made short addresses on behalf of those doing business with the Bank of Montreal, in which they voiced the regret of the general public on Mr. Parker's removal to Belleville.

Mr. Parker will leave town the latter part of next week.

MONDAY'S DEMONSTRATION.

The Arrangements About Completed Route of Procession.

The demonstration on Monday gives promise of eclipsing anything ever attempted in this line in town before. To-night the different owners of floats will put on the finishing touches, and on Monday morning at nine o'clock the procession will take the following route:— From the Bridge Works building west on Dalhousie Street to Aylmer Street, north to Hunter Street, east to Ashburnham to Mark Street, south to Robinson Street, west to Lake Street, north to Elizabeth Street, returning to Peterborough and proceeding north on Water Street to Murray Street, west to George Street, and south to the Bridge Works building.

TO-DAY'S MARKET.

Plenty of Garden Produce on the Square This Morning.

The market this morning was a big one, and the display of garden produce was large. Strange to say there were no strawberries on sale, but cherries and gooseberries made their appearance at 10 cents per quart. One man had a small display, (both in quality and quantity) of new potatoes, which he probably used as a reminder that others were on the way.

Coolest place in town—Lane's Ice Cream Parlour. Three electric fans going.

BAND IN THE PARK.

The Crowd Present Last Evening was a Record Breaker.

The warm weather brought out a very large number of people to Victoria Park last evening, who were thoroughly delighted with the programme presented by the 57th Regiment Band. Owing to some reason the lights could not be used in the band stand, and torches were brought into use. On all sides could be heard expressions of satisfaction and approval over the announcement that the band would appear in Victoria Park.

A portly gentleman was seen last evening with a small camp chair under his arm making his way to Central Park, where he was informed the band would play. He stated that he was present at the band concert in the above park, and decided to bring his chair the next time, as he drew the line on using a tree box.

RECEPTION TO REV. DR. SYMONDS

Citizens of All Denominations Assemble to do Him Honour.

MANY COMPLIMENTARY REMARKS MADE.

Kind Expressions of Good Will Towards the Retiring Rector of St. Luke's—Best Wishes for a Bright Future in His New Field of Labour.

A man possessed with less inate modesty than is Rev. Herbert Symonds, D.D., would assuredly have had his head turned last evening, by the many complimentary things which were said concerning him, at the farewell reception which was tendered the pastor of St. Luke's, prior to his departure to accept the headmastership of Trinity College School, Port Hope.

A reception partaking, as this did, of so representative a character and being tendered by a committee embracing delegates from the Fortnightly Club, the Ministerial Association, the National Home Reading Union as well as the citizens at large should carry with it an assurance of general appreciation which it falls to the lot of few men to be able to earn and retain.

The function took place in the Y.M.C.A. hall, where large numbers of Dr. Symonds friends and well wishers assembled. The chair, during the evening, was occupied by Mr. Sheriff Hall, who asked Rev. Dr. Symonds to take a seat upon the platform at the commencement of the proceedings and called upon Mr. D. W. Dumble to read the first address, which was that from the Citizens Committee.

Mr. Dumble expressed the pleasure it gave him in the absence of the Chairman of the Committee, to read the address, resulting from his hearty sympathy with the movement which led to the citizens at large adopting this method of expressing their good will and respect for Dr. Symonds. The address was read as subjoined:

To the Rev. Herbert Symonds, D.D.:

Dear Sir,—The nine years of your life spent as Rector of Ashburnham have brought you into such kindly and familiar contact with the citizens of Ashburnham and Peterborough that the announcement of your approaching removal has fallen upon us as an unpleasant surprise.

Your acceptable ministry, your genial fellowship and unfailing efforts as a clergyman and a citizen to benefit all classes, and especially your inspiring efforts to raise the tone of life in morals and literary culture, have given you such a hold on the community that the thought of your removal fills us with sorrow.

We gratefully thank you for the services so freely rendered to the community.

We realize that your appointment to the Rectorship of Trinity School will give you free scope along lines wherein you are peculiarly fitted, for in scholarship, genuine piety, catholicity of spirit, manliness of character, coupled with great energy, you possess all the qualities that will enable you to direct the education of the youth under your care, so as to make them invaluable citizens of Canada, and this thought greatly mitigates our sorrow, since it affords you wider opportunity for service, which we know is the main object of your life.

We pray you to accept our heartfelt expression of esteem and this pair of candelabra as a souvenir of our friendship and respect.

HAMPDEN BURNHAM, Chairman.
A. G. PARKER, Secretary of Committee for the citizens of Peterborough and Ashburnham.

Peterborough.

The gift, a massive affair of handsomely chased sterling silver, was presented by Mr. A. G. Parker.

The recipient of the gift stated that he felt it would be quite impossible to express at all adequately the feelings of gratification and the emotions of many kinds that he experienced when he listened to the too kind words in the address, which had been read to him by Mr. Dumble. He felt that nothing he had done, or could do, would be worthy of such praise. He might say, however, that the nature of the work which was praised was that which it was his aspiration to carry out. This was the most he could lay claim to and he felt a deep sense of gratification in learning that his efforts in the direction referred to had met with such recognition and it would encourage him to still continue in the work, if at any time he felt down hearted. Browning had remarked that while the beings in the lower scale of creation did not aspire to anything other than God made them, it was the peculiar prerogative of man to aspire and to endeavour in every way within his power to elevate both himself and his circumstances. This seemed to be a profound truth. It was a mistake to imagine that many were without aspirations. All had aspirations, though it was not the easiest thing in the world to put these feelings into language. It was indeed a profound thought of Brownings which found expression in the words "Not what I am, but what I aspire to be." The speaker felt deeply touched on learning that his own aspirations had met with such recognition at the hands of the citizens of Peterborough and Ashburnham. When any true man or woman looked back on life, they could not but feel full of imperfections on account of recollections of errors of judgment, errors of temper and errors of all kinds, but down in the bottom of their hearts in spite of all these errors there was the genuine desire to do the best one could with one's life. Whilst errors were recalled with sadness by those who had laboured faithfully to do well, yet there was a deep feeling of content experienced in the thought that their actions had been governed by the motive which purifies everything. One thing in connection with this address given to me by the citizens, said Dr. Symonds, which gave me the greatest satisfaction, was the names of the committee in whose hands it was placed. The names were thoroughly representative of the citizens. Every element, and every point of view to be found in our midst, was represented, and as one of the greatest efforts in life had been to bring men together for the consummation of those things in which they could agree, he felt that he had been understood and trusted that his efforts had met with some little measure of accomplishment. When there were certain things acknowledged to be for the common good, then individual feeling should be sacrificed, and all should unite for the achievement of the common good. He earnestly hoped that those organizations making for the propagation of the higher ideals of elevating human thought and achievement, and looking forward, not to the formation of little cliques, but rather to inspire the whole town with a right spirit, would prove capable of rising to even greater things. We are living in an age of specialism. It is impossible for man to know more than a very little of any one subject unless he devotes his life to its study, and it should be the endeavour of all to learn something each year of some one particular aspect of civic life. A first class authority should be brought to town at intervals in order that he could deliver his soul of that of which he had made a specialty. Money was voted by the Council at times for various things; almost always the object was to get something for that which was given—an equivalent in the same kind, something that would attract a crowd of people to the town by whom more money would be left than was expended. While not decrying for a moment such a course of procedure, yet the speaker felt that the citi-

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

GREAT SALE OF WASH DRESS GOODS.

We announce for this week a tremendous sale of Wash Dress Goods, comprising over 2500 yards of the latest American production of high-class summer goods. It's Peterborough's share of a gigantic syndicate purchase secured by our buyer in Boston while en route for Europe. They go on sale this week, just in the niche of time, when everybody is looking for summer goods.

Pick out the one you want from this immense assortment. Cool, delicate and gauzy things for the hot days and a wonderful lot of fashion about them, too. If you want the popular things that will be worn at the big summer resorts, priced so low they are within reach of all, come early.

500 Yards Fine Quality Batiste Muslins, in light coloured, newest designs. The regular price is 20c per yard, our wash goods sale price, 12 1-2c per yard.

750 Yards Fine Quality Batiste Muslins, in navy blue grounds, royal blue grounds, black grounds and cardinal grounds, mostly in small patterns, including the new dots, regular price 25c per yard, our wash goods sale price, 15c per yard.

A SUMMER WAIST.

You'll have to get another Shirt Waist when you see this lot. You can get both fashion and comfort if you select from the material we are showing. There are many beautiful patterns in the lot, and women of taste speak enthusiastically about them. Prices are quite small—for instance, Beautiful High-class Dimities, in lovely effects, the real swagger stuff, nothing like it has been seen before and the price is only 30c per yard.

500 Yards Fine Quality India Muslin White, for fine white waists, our wash goods sale price, 25c per yard.

THE RIGHT LENGTH.

It requires great care in fitting you with a skirt that is all-ready-to-wear. We are particular about this matter because we are anxious that the fit should be perfect. We have a more than ordinary complete stock of ready-made Skirts, both in linen, crash and piques, and you'll find them quite different to the ordinary run of ready-made skirts. It is very probable that you can be suited here better than elsewhere at a price that will suit you, too. Prices like these:

A Good Quality well-made Linen Skirt at 75c, with the better and more tastely made ones at $1.00, $1.75, $2.25 and $2.50.

In White Pique we show an immense range with a particularly nice one at $1.50, and beautifully trimmed ones at $2.00, $3.00, $3.25, $4.00 and $4.50. You must see them.

A FASHIONABLE ARRAY.

It scarcely pays to worry over a new collar for each occasion when you can get such a variety of attractive ones here for these little prices. All that is new and smart in shapes and ornamentation. Cut to be comfortable, to look stylish, and priced to make short and easy work of the selling.

AUSTRALIA'S STORY.

ANOTHER STRONG ARM ADDED TO ENGLAND'S PUISSANT MIGHT.

History of the Growth of the Commonwealth—Dark Days Which Have Evolved a Strong Nation Within the Greatest Empire Under the Sun—High Faith Expressed for Her Future Career.

"The love of all thy sons encompass Thee.
The love of all thy daughters cherish Thee."

The great act is completed. Australia is a nation ready to take her place proudly with her peers on the earth. It was appropriate that the first year of the twentieth century and the birth of the Australian Commonwealth should be coincident. Of both, we can as yet know little, but of both we can hope much.

A hundred years ago who would ever have anticipated that the few thousand men and women, without much character to make a fuss about with a currency of rum and a morality all their own, clustered on the shores of a harbor of which the beauties few of them could appreciate, racked by a heartless inhumanity or cursed by irresponsible authority, each equally hurtful, who of them would have been bold enough to think that they were having the proud honor of laying the foundation stone of a right royal Empire in those unknown seas, and fashioning one of its most precious glories for England's traditions?

The story of Australia is one of the most instructive lessons given to the world of racial development. When Greece sent forth her youth like swarms from the hive to carry her laws and civilization to other lands, they carried with them the high hopes and most sanguine wishes of the mother city. Rome sent her soldiery to conquer and occupy, but, with few exceptions, England has no aspirations for over-sea colonies. Her colonies were made by the people often in spite of Governmental opposition. Her fleet was always ready to conquer and seize on the possessions of her enemies, but it was always the same. The eye of the Government was always turned to Europe. Possessions in foreign parts were simply the pawns in the great continental game, and very little more, indeed. Her statesmen cared nothing for them for many years, and it was said she lost the American Colonies because the Prime Minister for the first time began to read the American despatches.

Australia for many years had little for which to thank English statesmanship. It is probable that nothing would have been done with the southern continent, but that a great social danger had to be remedied by politicians, and consequently the matter was forced on their consideration. It is a great pity that we cannot claim a higher origin, but that is just where the example of racial development comes in. What country would have evolved a great nation from such unpromising elements? Certainly not Spain, certainly not France, and, we think, not Germany. Spain abjectly failed with her colonies, France and Germany have not yet found the secret of success. Even our earliest colonists suffered from the taint of conviction, because, like slavery, it debases master and servant alike. But they were all Englishmen and Englishwomen into whom had been inspired by the past the spirit of self-reliance, however obscured for a time; and now we see in our noble cities, in our farms, in our flocks and herds, in our harbors bustling with a world's commerce, in everything from sea-board to centre, that God's heritage was given to no ignoble or unworthy hands. Australia teaches us another cause of pride of race.

The attitude of the powers that be in England towards the colonies is widely different from what it was when the few score men and women landed in New South Wales and shuddered at the blackness and savage sterility of their future home. At last the English politician has opened his eyes to the fact that England's greatest resource is in the strong arms of her children, whether they are born in London, Edinburgh and Dublin, or in Sydney, Melbourne or Adelaide. They have proved it by the best of proofs, and from what we see passing before our eyes in these days of the new-born national enthusiasm, we know they are ready to prove it again and again. It is significant of the future. We cannot explore the future, but we can consider tendencies. It is not likely that Australia will have always the interrupted prosperity—for her prosperity, with all the little obstacles has been mainly progressive—and the development uninterfered with, by which she has been hitherto blessed. She has possibilities in her surroundings which may at any moment become formidably threatening. Great nations are jealous of both England and her colonies, and it would be almost too much to hope for, that the day will never come when the flood of a swarming race will be tapped and will force itself into a destructive torrent far and wide. She is daily gaining strength and cohesion to meet any of the troubles and misfortunes of national life. We all have a high faith in her high future career, and with her greatest poet we may say of Australia as he said about the dear old Home country—

"Naught can make her rue,
If England to herself will prove but true."

—The Australian Leather Journal.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

Dodd's Kidney Pills

VARICOCELE

No matter how serious your case may be or how long you may have had it, our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure it. The "wormy veins" return to their normal condition and hence the sexual organs receive proper nourishment. The organs become vitalized and manly powers return. No temporary benefit, but a permanent cure assured. NO CURE, NO PAY. NO OPERATION NECESSARY. NO DETENTION FROM BUSINESS.

STRICTURE

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with this disease—many unconsciously. They may have a smarting sensation, sharp, cutting pains at times, weak organs, and all the symptoms of nervous debility — they have STRICTURE. Don't let doctors experiment on you by cutting, stretching or tearing you. This will not cure you, as it will return. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT absorbs the stricture tissue, hence removes the stricture permanently. It can never return. No pain, no suffering, no detention from business by our method. The sexual organs are strengthened, the nerves are invigorated, and the bliss of manhood returns.

Cures Guaranteed

We treat and cure BLOOD POISON, NERVOUS DEBILITY, IMPOTENCY, STRICTURE, VARICOCELE, SEMINAL LOSSES, BLADDER and KIDNEY DISEASES. CONSULTATION FREE. BOOKS FREE. CHARGES MODERATE. If unable to call, write for a QUESTION BLANK for HOME Treatment.

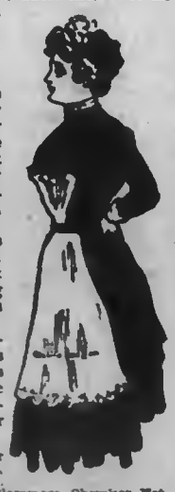
The Weak Spot.

If you are sitting in a restaurant where waitresses are in attendance, you will note now and again some young woman put her hand to her back, and straighten herself up, while her lips are tightened as if by pain. It's backache. Yet all day long she must be on her feet, lifting, carrying, hurrying.



That weak spot, the back, can be made strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the womanly diseases which cause headache, backache, sideache, nervousness and sleeplessness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, and is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

"I wrote you for advice February 4th, 1900," writes Mrs. Loma Halstead, of Claremore, Cherokee Nat., Ind Ty. "I was racking with pain from the back of my head down to my heels. Had hemorrhage for weeks at a time, and was unable to sit up for ten minutes at a time. You answered my letter, advised me to use your valuable medicines, viz., Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' also gave advice about injections, baths and diet. To my surprise, in four months from the time I began your treatment I was a well woman, and have not had the backache since, and now I put in sixteen hours a day at hard work."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

WITHOUT TURNING A HAIR.

A Londoner Calmly Returned Money Given to Him by Mistake.

A gentleman of my acquaintance had a curious experience of manners and customs of modern England a few nights ago at the theater. He had taken four stalls, but at the last moment found two of his party unable to come. On his arrival at the theater he left the two spare tickets at the box office, the clerk promising to sell them if he could and send the cash to him when they were sold. He took his place and soon afterward was gratified to see his two surplus seats occupied. The individuals who took them were attired in evening dress and bore the outward semblance of gentlemen. My friend began to look out for the money which was to come from the box office. Presently a concessionnaire entered, passed down the row of seats and addressed one of the two newcomers. My friend noticed that the commissionnaire passed something to one of the gentlemen, who put it into his pocket without a word.

A sense of uneasiness stole over my friend with regard to the 15 shillings that was due to him, and as the evening was getting on he thought he would go and make an inquiry at the box office. His suspicions were verified. The clerk had sent in the money by a commissionnaire. The commissionnaire was called from the door and on seeing my friend at once realized that he had given the money to the wrong man. He promptly went back to the theater, my friend following to see the fun. The commissionnaire went straight to the party to whom he had handed the money and said, "'Ere, you've got 15 shillings that don't belong to you." The other replied in an unconcerned way, "Oh, yes!" took the money out of his pocket and returned it to the commissionnaire. "He showed no trace of embarrassment," says my friend. "He handed back the money, as he had pocketed it, without turning a hair."

I always like to think the best of people, and possibly this individual, being a stranger to music halls, was under the impression that it is the practice of the proprietors of such establishments to send a commissionnaire around from time to time to distribute cash bonuses among the audience.—London Truth.

PECULIAR NAMES.

The Queer Way Ten Million Children Were Designated.

"In a long experience in the treasury department I have come across a very large number of names, many of which are rather peculiar," explained an old official, "but I think the list of names in connection with the subscription to the 3 per cent bonds surpasses anything in the way of peculiarity that I have ever observed. Of these the one that struck me most was a man who signed himself Ten Million and who resides out in Oregon. We thought the name was an imaginative one and wrote the man that it was desired that the bonds should be registered in real names only and that no further attention would be paid to his subscription until he was heard from. He replied that his name was Ten Million. His letter was written on the printed letterhead of the firm of Million & Million, two brothers.

"Then followed an explanation that his father and mother were unable to select names for their children that were mutually satisfactory and that as a result, though they had had ten children, none of them was ever christened formally. The first child was a girl, and she was known only as One Million. The second child, also a girl, was known as Two Million. Thus they ran along until Ten Million was reached, and he was the writer of the letter, the other member of the firm being a brother whose only name, as far as the family was concerned, was Seven Million, the seventh child. He added that One Million had afterward called herself Una Million, that the third girl was known after she had grown up as Trio Million. The others had taken on additions to their names, and he had adopted the name of Tenia Million, but his real name was Ten Million and nothing else. The bonds were issued to him and on the books of the department were registered in the name of Ten Million."

Mr. Tarte at Midland.

Midland, Ont., June 29. — Hon. J. Israel Tarte, accompanied by Mr. Dansereau of La Presse, Montreal; Mr. Louis Coste, Mr. Lafleur, chief government engineer; Mr. Leighton McCarthy, M. P.; Mr. Tiffin and Mr. Arthur White of the C. T. R., reached at Midland at 8 a.m. yesterday on a tour of inspection of the harbor. In the course of a speech here Mr. Tarte spoke of the greatness of Canadian products being carried in Canadian bottoms and handled at Canadian ports, and while now most of the Canadian grain is handled at American ports, he hoped to see that reversed in a few years. Midland certainly being situated as no other town to help along in that great work.

Bitten by a Rattler.

Parry Sound, June 29.—Last Friday James, 10-year-old son of Mr. Thomas Pesheau of Dillonsport, was bitten by a rattlesnake while playing near the home of his parents. Capt. William Oldfield happened to be at Shebashekong with his tug and volunteered to take the boy to Parry Sound for treatment. The boy was in the hands of the doctors within three hours of the accident and he had so far recovered as to be able to return home Sunday. This is the first case of rattlesnake bite in this district in years.

The New Independent Party.

Winnipeg, June 29. — The new Independent party is proceeding with its organization. The platform consists of these general points:

(a) Direct legislation, and
(b) Public ownership.
(c) Abolition of the patronage system and placing of the civil service under an independent commission.

A convention will be called to meet in Winnipeg during the week of the Exhibition.

Bank Scheme Fell Through.

Berne, Switzerland, June 29.—The bill constituting a Federal Bank, with the monopoly of issuing bank notes, has definitely fallen through because of disagreement as to the location of the central institution. The National Council wanted the main bank located at Berne, and the State Council was in favor of establishing the central bank at Zurich.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

Step by step the lieutenant gave ground. The clashing had stopped. It was needlelike work now. Gradually they began to turn around. The blades flashed in the moonshine like heat lightning. My pulse attuned itself to every stroke. I heard a laugh. It was full of scorn. The laugh—it recalled to me a laugh I had heard before. Evidently the youngster was playing with the veteran. I became fascinated. And while the innkeeper and I watched a curious thing happened. Something seemed to be slipping from the youngster's head. He tried to put up his free hand, but the lieutenant was making furious passes. A flood of something dimly yellow suddenly fell about the lad's shoulders. Oh, then I knew! With a snarl of rage I took the innkeeper by the throat and hurled him, knife and all, to the floor, dashed from the room, thence to the stairs, down which I leaped four at a time. Quick as I was, I was too late. The lieutenant's sword lay on the grass, and he was clasping his shoulder, with the sweat of agony on his brow.

"A woman!" he groaned. "A woman!" Then he tottered and fell in the arms of his subordinate. He had fainted.

"This will make a pretty story!" cried the young officer as he laid his superior lengthwise and tried to stanch the flow of blood. "Here's a man who runs away and lets a woman—God knows what sort—fight his duels for him, the cur!"

I never looked at him, but went straight to Gretchen. Mahlberg gave me a questioning glance and made a move as though to step between.

"Stand aside, man!" I snapped. "Gretchen, you have dishonored me."

"It were better than to bury you," lightly. "I assure you he caused me no little exertion."

Yet her voice shook, and she shuddered as she cast aside the sword.

"You have made a laughing stock of me. I am a man and can fight my own battles," I said sternly. "My God," breaking down suddenly, "supposing you had been killed!"

He tottered and fell in the arms of his subordinate.

"It was not possible. And the man insulted me, not you. A woman? Very well. I can defend myself against everything but calumny. Have I made a laughing stock of you? It is nothing to me. It would not have altered my"— She was very white, and she stroked her forehead.

"Well?" said I.

"It would not have altered my determination to take the sword in hand again."

She put her hand to her throat as though something there had tightened. "Ah, I am a woman, for I believe that I am about to faint. No!" imperiously as I threw out my arms to catch her. "I can reach the door alone without assistance."

And so we went along. I did not know what to do nor yet what to say. A conflict was raging in my heart between shame and love—shame that a woman had fought for me and won where I should have lost, love that strove to spring from my lips in exultation. I knew not which would have conquered had I not espied the blood on Gretchen's white hand.

"You are wounded!" I cried.

She gazed at her hand as though she did not understand; then, with a little sob and a little choke, she extended her arms toward me and stumbled. Was ever there a woman who could look on blood without fainting? Gretchen had not quite fainted, but the moon had danced, she said, and all had grown dim.

"Gretchen, why did you risk your life? In God's name, what manner of woman are you and where did you learn to use the sword? Had you no thought of me?" I was somewhat incoherent.

"No thought of you?" She drew the back of her hand over her eyes. "No thought of you? I did it because—because I did not—I could not—you would have been killed!"

I was a man—human. I loved her. I had always loved her. I had never loved any one else. I was a coward to do what I did, but I could not help it. I crushed her to my breast and kissed her lips, not once, but many times.

"How dare you?" weakly.

"How dare I, Gretchen, dear Gretchen?" I said. "I dare because I love you! I love you! What is it to me that you have dishonored me in the eyes of men? Nothing. I love you. Are you a barmaid? I care not. Are you a conspirator? I know not nor care. I know but one thing. I love you. I shall always love you. Shall I tell you more? Gretchen, you love me!"

"No, no, it cannot be!" she sobbed, pushing me back. "I am the most wretched woman in the world. Do not follow me, herr. Leave me; I beg you to leave me. I have need of the little strength left. Leave me, leave me!"

And she passed through the doorway into the darkness beyond. I did not move from where I stood. I grew afraid that it was a dream and that if I moved it would vanish. I could yet feel her lithe, warm body palpitating in my arms. My lips still tingled and burned with the flame of hers. An exultant wave swept over me. She loved me! She had not told me so, but I knew. She had put her heart before mine. My life was dearer to her than her own. I could have laughed for joy. She loved me! My love overwhelmed my shame, engulfed it. Then—

"I know you," said a harsh voice at my elbow. It startled me, and I wheeled swiftly. It was the lieutenant's brother officer. "I thought from what I heard of you that you were a man worth trouble and caution. Ach, you, the man we have scoured the country for? I should not have believed it. To let a woman fight for him! And she—she is more than a woman—she is a goddess!" with enthusiasm. "If I was betrothed to her, I'd find her if I had to hunt in heaven and hell for her. And what does she see in you?" He snapped his fingers derisively. "I warn you that your race is run. You cannot leave a railway station within the radius of a hundred miles. The best thing you can do is to swim the river and stop in the middle. The prince is at the village, and he shall know. Woe to you, you meddler!"

"Young man," said a voice from over my shoulder from the doorway, "you should by right address those impertinent remarks to me. I am Hillars, the man you seek."

And I had forgotten his very existence! What did he know? What had he seen?

"You may inform Count von Walden," continued Dan, "that I shall await his advent with the greatest of impatience. Now let me add that you are treating this gentleman with much injustice. I'll stake my life on his courage. The Princess Hildegarde is alone responsible for what has just happened."

"The Princess Hildegarde!" I cried.

Hillars went on: "Why she did this is none of your business or mine. Why she substituted herself concerns her and this gentleman only. Now go, and be hanged to you and your prince and your count and your whole stupid country. Come, Jack!"

The fellow looked first at me, then at Dan.

"I apologize," he said to Dan, "for mistaking this man for you." He clicked his heels, swung around and marched off.

"Come," said Dan.

I dumbly followed him up to my room. He struck a match and lit the candle.

"Got any tobacco?" he asked, taking out a black pipe. "I have not had a good smoke in a week. I want to smoke awhile before I talk."

I now knew that he had been a witness to all or at least to the larger part of it.

"There is some tobacco on the table," I said humbly. I felt that I had wronged him in some manner, though unintentionally. "The Princess Hildegarde!" I murmured.

"The very person," said Hillars. He lit his pipe and sat on the edge of the bed. He puffed and puffed, and I thought he never would begin. Presently he said, "And you never suspected who she was?"

"On my word of honor, I did not, Dan," said I, staring at the faded designs in the carpet. The golden galleon had gone down, and naught but a few bubbles told where she had once so proudly ridden the waters of the sea. The Princess Hildegarde! The dream was gone. Castles, castles!

"I am glad you did not know," said Dan, "because I have always believed in your friendship. Yet it is something we cannot help, this loving a woman. Why, a man will lay down his life for his friend, but he will rob him of the woman he loves. It is life. You love her, of course."

"Yes." I took out my own pipe now. "But what's the use? She is a princess. Why, I thought her at first a barmaid—a barmaid! Then I thought her to be in some way a lawbreaker, a socialist conspirator. It would be droll if it were not sad. The Princess Hildegarde!" I laughed dismally. "Dan, old man, let's dig out at once and close the page. We'll talk it over when we are older."

Beardless Soldiers.

Modern warriors generally wear hair on their frontispieces. It is thought to give them a martial appearance. But Alexander's invincible soldiers were all bare faced. He compelled them to shave for a sufficient reason—viz. lest the "outside barbarians" of Asia should seize them by their beards and so capture them.

H. N. AUSTIN, M.D.

72 HOWARD STREET, TORONTO, WRITES:

"I Regard Powley's Liquified Ozone as One of the Greatest Preparations of the Age."

THE OZONE CO., May 1st, 1901.

Gentlemen,—Have had chills and bilious attacks for the last twenty-five years. Would never go longer than two or three weeks without having a bilious attack. Have spent the past ten summers either in Virginia, Canada or the celebrated Eureka Springs, Ark., but with very temporary relief. I began taking Powley's Liquified Ozone last December and have found more benefit from taking four bottles of Ozone than ten Summers spent at health resorts. I spent last Winter in Southern Arkansas and found four very severe cases of chronic malarial trouble with enlarged spleen, liver and night sweats with great debility. Medical treatment had given no permanent relief. I advised Powley's Liquified Ozone. All improved from taking first bottle and when I left ten days ago were on the fair way to recovery from three months' treatment. I believe that Powley's Liquified Ozone is par excellence above all remedies in the treatment of all malarious diseases.

(Signed), H. N. Austin M.D.

72 Howard Street, Toronto.

The wonderful power of Powley's Liquified Ozone to cure disease has for a long time been recognized by the medical profession. Physicians are prescribing this preparation in their practice and are using it themselves whenever they suffer sickness. They recognize that condensed oxygen is the greatest health-giving element of nature and they see in Powley's Liquified Ozone the only preparation based on purely scientific principles which will destroy disease germs, the cause of all sickness.

Dr. Austin, a physician of great repute, has been so irresistibly impressed by the marvellous value of Powley's Liquified Ozone in therapeutics that he makes this statement.

Dr. Austin has been impressed not only by the results he has obtained in his practice, by the cures he has made with the preparation, but by the manner in which it has cured him of liver trouble.

Powley's Liquified Ozone, by means of the condensed oxygen, makes healthy tissues and pure blood. It acts beneficially on the entire system to make it healthy.

This preparation has been endorsed by physicians, clergymen, druggists, men of science and business men, in fact by people in every walk in life in Canada. You can write or consult any and every person who has ever given a testimonial for this preparation. That is our guarantee. If any physican has not as yet become acquainted with Powley's Liquified Ozone, we will send a bottle upon receipt of name and address.

50c and $1 00; at all druggists. Write the Ozone Co. of Toronto, Limited, 48 Colborne Street, Toronto, or the Liquid Ozone Co., 229 Kinzie Street, Chicago, Ill., for health literature.

zens should be educated to such a point, that the Council would feel it was doing the town a great service by bringing the level of public opinion up to such a pitch that a grant would be cheerfully endorsed to secure the services of a specialist, who would inaugurate a work of real and genuine progress. Competition was the law of life, and if we were going to keep our place in the ranks of the nations, or our town to the front, we must bear in mind that it was not only one rule in life which must be taken for our guidance. The encouragement of industries was well enough as far as it went, but what would we do after we secured these industries? What are we going to do for all these people? Are we going to seek to elevate their moral and spiritual standards? Or will it be said of us, as of those other great nations, who overlooked these things, that we are rotten at the core, and must eventually pass away? While we cannot all be specialists, yet we can by study obtain such an idea of things as to avoid making many mistakes. Few have time to devote themselves to astronomy, yet many are able to get an interesting idea of the movements of the heavenly bodies. We cannot all be specialists in political science, as it is called, but at the same time we may acquire a sufficient amount of knowledge to make use of the brains of those who have devoted their whole time to the subject. All, of course, are liable to error. Errors are natural, and it is much better to fall into error through trying to do right than than never to experiment at all. One deadly thing in any man is stagnation—indifference to progress—saying "This world is good enough for me," etc. Such ideas should be put away absolutely for the cultivation of that divine discontent which led Plato to give us so many good things. Regarding the address and the exquisitely beautiful candelabra with which he had been presented, he wished to say that they would recall many pleasant thoughts, not only of this evening, but of the innumerable kindnesses and courtesies which had been extended to him during his residence amongst the citizens of Peterborough and Ashburnham. He hoped the town would have continued prosperity and success, and trusted that the higher work of elevating the people as a whole would continue until Peterborough became a model and example for the whole of this fair Dominion.

After the applause had subsided at the close of Rev. Dr. Symonds' remarks, the chairman stated that amongst the many organizations had been rendered valuable assistance by the guest of the evening, was the Peterborough and Ashburnham branches of the National Home Reading Union, and he called upon Mrs. F. J. Rogers to read an address on behalf of the members of that body. The address was as appended:

To the Rev. Herbert Symonds, D.D.:

The members of the Peterborough and Ashburnham branch of the National Home Reading Union having learned of your approaching departure from Peterborough, to enter upon other and more important duties in connection with Trinity College School, feel that they cannot allow you to leave without giving expression to their high appreciation of the benefits which they have derived from you as their President, during the past four years, and their sincere regret that they are now to be deprived of that close and intimate relationship which has subsisted for so long a time. As a slight and altogether inadequate token of their esteem and affection they ask you to accept the accompanying volumes.

As in the case of many other movements having for their object the advancement of the Common Weal, the members of the local Union realize that it is largely due to your earnest and untiring efforts that so large a measure of success has been attained and that the meetings of the various circles have proved so enjoyable and profitable. Your wise and kindly counsels as President in the selection of subjects for reading and for study, and in the general direction of the affairs of the Union have been to them invaluable.

While expressing their deep regret that they cannot hope to enjoy your presence and guidance in the same measure as heretofore they will not allow themselves to think that you are to be altogether removed from them, and they trust that you will not only allow yourself to remain their President but that as often as your important duties permit they may be cheered and encouraged by your presence.

The members feel that what is so serious a loss to them is an undoubted gain to the community at large, and they are for this reason somewhat reconciled to the sacrifice; realising as they do, the value of your influence and work in moulding the character of the youth, many of whom no doubt will, under your direction, and influenced by your wise and broadminded teachings, be found taking a high place amongst those who, in the not distant future, shall shape and control the destinies of our young country.

While they realize that here,

Thy converse drew us with delight,
The men of rathe and riper years."

And it is abundantly true that:

"Now thy prosperous labour fills
The lips of men with honest praise."

They would certainly express their sincere hope and prayer that:

"As sun by sun thy happy days Descend below the golden hills."

It shall be;

"With promise of a morn as fair,
May all the train of bounteous hours
Conduct by paths of growing powers
To reverence and the silver hair."

Signed on behalf of the Reading Union: Vice-Pres., Amy Rogers; Sec-treas., Jessie Dennistoun; Lesbora, H. S. Boucher, Amy Halliday, Annie C. Dennistoun, Mrs. C. B. McAllister, John Jeffries.

At the conclusion of the address, Miss Jessie Dennistoun came forward and drew a covering from a number of handsome volumes, which filled a small table on the platform.

Rev. Mr. Symonds, in replying to the beautiful address, and in acknowledgment of the gift of books, which he stated he was impatient to sample, referred briefly to the beginning of the local branch of the Union. He disclaimed being the founder of it in Peterborough, stating that it really originated with Mrs. Greenwood, who had picked up the idea from some friends in Boston. When the proposition had been submitted to him for consideration he had thought it feasible, and if he had been of any help in organising the Union, he was pleased to learn of it. He felt that he had not done much—that he had not been called upon to do much, as the work had been entered into so heartily by the members as to leave little for him to do. He had been relieved of every atom of responsibility. Others were far more deserving of praise. The work of the two secretaries, Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun and Miss Jessie Dennistoun, had been most assidious in connection with their duties, and to them the society was greatly indebted. He was glad to learn that the members did not intend to discontinue their meetings. It would be a very discouraging and sad thing to him if any of the societies in the work of which he had interested himself were allowed to fall to the ground. He hoped the members of the Union would be inspired to even greater efforts, and would be even more successful. He had said this was an age of knowledge, and in this connection the speaker called the attention of those present to two ideals which had come down to us from the ancients. The first of these which he would mention came to us from the Greeks, whose ideal was the unfolding, development and evolution of every capacity and power in man. In a word—self culture. The training of a man to produce something more than he was naturally gifted with, enabling him to carry himself with ease and grace and beauty in the world of society. There was, however, another ideal of knowledge which the speaker felt was the foundation — the essential thing required in a life aiming towards perfection. This ideal comes from the Hebrew people and reference to it is found in numerous passages in the Bible. The prophet Hosea says "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge." This knowledge is not the knowledge implied in the general expression of the term. Wisdom is a thing which issues in practical "good living." If it does not issue in that way, it is a case of a foolish man lacking knowledge, and the Hebrews looked on that life as a failure which neglected to carry out the rules, laws and commandments of a higher life. Under this rule one may not become great, but it is Righteousness. It is well, with the Greeks, to cultivate our literary powers and capacity, but down deeper to be controlled by the law of what is right. Men should lay down as a foundation thought that the beginning of wisdom is the fear of the Lord. This is the beginning of all real, true and enduring wisdom. When man has got that idea firmly then may he cultivate every faculty and every gift which God has given him to be used. Referring to the National Home Reading Union, Rev. Mr. Symonds mentioned the fact of its being largely composed of women. He considered the intellectual activity of women as one of the most hopeful signs of the times. Of course there is no movement in the world which is not liable to exaggeration and absurdity, and in speaking of the intellectual activity of women, he did not refer to the New Woman. Prof. Watson, of Queen's University, probably the most profound thinker on philosophical questions in America, had recently informed him that the first four pupils in his class were women. The mental activity of women were placing them at the top in almost every phase of life except perhaps in politics and athletics. In concluding, Mr. Symonds wished the Union God speed in the effort to acquire a true idea of things. He hoped that when it was his privilege to again visit them, to hear that the Union where it now numbered its members by tens would be able to number them by hundreds. He knew that it was the earnest wish of the members that the advantages of the Union, and they were advantages, be not limited to the few, but be open to all.

Rev. Dr. Symonds then resumed his seat amidst applause, but his influence had spread into still other spheres, and Rev. Mr. Bastow, as a delegate from the Ministerial Association, rose to voice the feelings of that organization in connection with Dr. Symonds' departure. He opened his remarks by a reference to the Scriptural quotation, "The Son of Man came, not to be ministered to, but to minister, and to give His life for the ransom of the many." This expression he thought, applied to the dear friend and brother who was about to leave. He had sought to minister, not to be ministered unto. He had given of his strength, of his intellect and of his affection to all whom he might serve in any capacity. He had served his church well, and his self sacrificing spirit had drawn many to him. When Mr. Bastow came to town he was much pleased to find that in the Ministerial Association were representatives of all the Protestant churches in town. This was a new experience to him, and he thought he could number the Associations on one hand which included the Church of England clergymen among their numbers. This feature of the local association was entirely due to Rev. Dr. Symonds. An example had thus been set for other towns which might yet bring a rich reward. In Peterborough the Church of England clergymen were fully as cordial as those of any other denomination. He had been much pleased with an essay read at one of the Ministerial Association meetings by Rev. J. C. Davidson on "Worship." It had surprised him greatly to find how exceedingly broad minded were his views, and how acceptable they would be to all denominations. The best of good feeling had resulted from the discussion which followed the paper. He was confident that but for Dr. Symonds the ministers of the town would never have been found in one conference in this manner, thus enabling planning on a broad scale for the uplifting of the town. He had learned many lessons from Dr. Symonds personally, and delighted to study him, and watch this bearing towards the entire town. He had not only been the servant of his own church, but the servant of everybody. He was confident that Dr. Symonds would disappoint pleasingly, any that had criticised his apointment. All would unite to crown him with honour feeling that he was eminently fitted to the performance of the task which he had accepted.

In replying to Rev. Mr. Bastow, the guest of the evening voiced his warm feelings towards the Ministerial Association and stated that he appreciated his kind words the more inasmuch as they came from the ministers as a whole and not from any one denomination. He also referred to his ambition to yet see the movement well under way in the building of a great edifice of a reconstructed and united Christendom. He was glad that Mr. Bastow had mentioned Mr. Davidson's paper on "Worship." He had felt sore when he hankered for membership in the Ministerial Association, that the different denominations were not really so far apart as they imagined. This had been shown by Mr. Davidson's paper. With Dean Stanley he thought it was better to look for the resemblances in such matters instead of the differences. His connection with the Ministerial Association had been one of unmixed happiness and pleasure to him.

Mr. Sheriff Hall stated that it might be a matter of surprise to some that the Fortnightly Club had not made a formal presentation to Mr. Symonds, but this was explained by the fact that the members of the club were included in the memberships of either the Citizens Committee or the N.H.R.U. and they had expressed their appreciation of Rev. Dr. Symonds through either of those mediums. The speaker then traced the work of the Fortnightly Club from its inception and Dr. Symonds' connection therewith, dwelling on the great encouragement to young speakers, which had been extended by the Doctor. He knew Dr. Symonds would carry the same spiritual cheer down to Port Hope with him as had been felt by his presence in the club. He knew that it would be a blessing to all the young fellows who went through his hands and that it would be for their eternal good.

Rev. Dr. Symonds briefly thanked the Sheriff for his kind words and stated that the ideal which he had presented to him would be the ideal which he would certainly cherish.

During the evening the programme was enlivened by musical contributions from the Misses Dennistoun, Mrs. A. G. Parker and Mme. Decrey. Refreshments were served at the close.

KIDNEY IRRITABILITY

Causing Frequent Rising at Night, is Completely Cured by Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets

Many people are troubled with an irritable condition of the kidneys and bladder that compels frequent attention during the day and frequent rising at night.

For such an annoying and serious kidney trouble, there is no remedy so beneficial as the modern kidney medicine, Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They allay all irritability, regulate the kidney action and permit undisturbed rest at night.

Mr. Isaac Hutel, an old and highly respected resident of Mount Forest, Ont., has this to say:—"For some ten years past, owing to hard work in my younger days on the farm, I have had a constant pain in my back that ran at times up into my shoulders. The kidneys bothered me very much and my liver somewhat also. I tried a good many remedies with only indifferent success, until I got a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets at Yeoman's drug store in this town. The result of using these Tablets has been beyond my expectations. They stopped the pain and soreness in the back and allayed the kidney irritation, so that I can now rest well at night. They have also regulated my bowels and stirred up my sluggish liver, so that I am only too pleased to give this testimonial as to the good the remedy accomplished in my case."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

A MUSICAL REVIEW.

Highly Creditable Work by the Pupils of Miss M. McCabe.

Last evening the spacious music room of the Peterborough Music Store was the scene of a highly successful musical review by the pupils of Miss Maggie McCabe, which proved a decided musical treat to the large number of the parents of the pupils. Between thirty-five and forty pupils figured on the programme and the manner in which they acquitted themselves in the different numbers, showed the result of a steady application to the studies and the interest taken in them by their talented teacher. Every number was excellently rendered and it would be unfair to individualize when all done so well. The only vocal number on the programme was a pathetic selection, excellently sung by Master James O'Brien. At the conclusion of the programme Miss McCabe was warmly thanked for the opportunity thus afforded the parents of enjoying a musical evening. The following programme was rendered, the pianos used being the Dominion:

YOU CANNOT CURE PILES

By Internal Remedies.

The only sure way to cure every form of piles is to use a remedy like the Pyramid Pile Cure, which is applied directly to the parts affected, and its wonderful healing effects are apparent from the first application because the medicinal properties are rapidly absorbed by tissues and sensitive membranes of the rectum, and the cure is made speedily and almost before the patient is aware of it every trace of piles has left him.

This is one of the reasons why the Pyramid Pile Cure has been so uniformly successful. It is applied directly, just where it is needed, and where it will do the most good. Not by the roundabout way of the stomach, nor the harsh barbarous methods of various surgical operations and so-called systems.

Direct application to the seat of the disease is the only rational way, and this is fully accomplished by the Pramid Pile Cure.

If the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried this remedy is worth anything then no sufferer has any excuse for longer delaying in giving it a fair trial, knowing that when you do so the Pyramid Pile Cure will have made one more friend, the best possible advertisement we can have. The chief advantages of the remedy are: It cures without pain, the cure is lasting, it contains no poison, and, lastly, it is the quickest and cheapest cure yet found. Your druggist can tell you what it has done for others.

Testimonials of cures from all parts of the United States will be sent on application to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

"What Lovely Shoes!"

"Never dreamed that such shoes could be made in Canada!"

"Isn't that a beautiful finish?"

"I like the shape and cut of it, too, so graceful, you know."

"Yes, it's the "King Quality" shoe, and really, girls, I never wore shoes so comfortable and neat as these are. And, you know, we save all the customs duties, because they are made in Canada."

"They won the gold medal at Paris this year."

Two Heavy Freight Trains Collide at Bowmanville.

A BAD HEAD-ON COLLISION.

Worst in Bowmanville's History—An Immense Quantity of Debris Piled Up Beside the Rails Take Fire—Good Work Done by the Town Brigade and the Railway Wrecking Crews.

Bowmanville, July 1.—Dominion Day was marked in this town by a serious railway accident at the G.T.R. station. About 3.30 this afternoon two freight trains collided head-on on the bridge just west of the station, wrecking the engines and tenders and destroying 9 or 10 cars laden with flour, wool, hay, meat, machinery, etc.

The train from the west in charge of Conductor Michael Murray and Engineer Charles Blaylock had been given thru orders and was traveling about 35 miles an hour. The train from the east in charge of Conductor Joseph Mitchell, Toronto, and Engineer R. Milne, Belleville, stood on the main track, preparing to shunt out of the way of the thru freight, but did not get out of the way soon enough. The other train crashed into it with tremendous force.

The cars on the east train were only slightly damaged, but 8 or 9 cars on the thru freight were thrown off the track and several of them down the embankment to the creek below. The contents quickly took fire, and a mass of burning ruins now lies piled up on the north side of the bridge. The town fire brigade was quickly on hand and made every effort to put out the fire, working faithfully till after dark.

The bridge, which is an iron one, is considerably damaged, but the wrecking train gangs were quickly on hand clearing up the debris and relaying the rails, etc., so that by 9 o'clock the trains from each direction were enabled to pass in safety.

No lives were lost, but the fireman on the thru freight, Andrew McSorley of Bowmanville, leaped from the engine to the creek below and escaped with a broken leg. Prompt medical attendance was given him and he was removed to his home here.

The loss will be enormous, as the engines are badly damaged, and the cars and contents are a total loss, reaching to the neighborhood of $30,000.

CRUSHED BETWEEN BOATS.

Wheelman on Ill-Fated Barge Preston Was Killed..

Fort William, July 2.—The steamship Athabasca, at 6 o'clock Saturday, when about 30 miles southeast of Passage Island, sighted a vessel about six miles off flying a flag of distress. Captain George McDougall at once put about, and went to the vessel's assistance. She proved to be the barge Preston. Captain McDougall had a line over the vessel at 7 o'clock, and five times it parted, the last time the heavy sea carrying away the stern mast, smoke-stack and cabin. By this time the crew had taken refuge in the bow, all equipped with life-preservers, and and it was then decided to abandon the wreck. After a dozen attempts, 11 men and two women were safely landed on board the Athabasca. The fourteenth man, William Eckert of Algonac, Mich., wheelman on the ill-fated vessel, having jumped when the Athabasca was rolling down, the poor fellow was crushed between the vessels, and immediately sank. He leaves five children and a widow, who is dangerously ill and in destitute circumstances. The Athabasca passengers took up a subscription, and obtained about $130 for the widow.

SIR THOMAS GALT DEAD.

Sketch of Life of Late Chief Justice of Common Pleas.

Toronto, July 2. — Sir Thomas Galt, late Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, died on Saturday morning at his residence in this city.

He was 86 years of age. About six years ago he retired from the Chief Justiceship of the Court of Common Pleas, but retained until recently his vigor and interest in public events. He was able to transact his private business until a few days previous to his death.

The late Chief Justice leaves a family of four sons and four daughters. They are Alexander C., barrister, Rossland, B. C.; George F., merchant, Winnipeg; Thomas Percy, barrister, Toronto; Herbert, merchant, Chicago; Mrs. Oliver, wife of Surgeon-Major Oliver, Halifax; Mrs. Tupper, wife of J. Stewart Tupper, Winnipeg, and two unmarried daughters.

Off the bench as well as on, the late judge was one of the most genial of men.

Appalling Loss of Life.

London, July 2. — A blue book on India, just issued, shows £18,390,000 was expended for the relief of famine sufferers during the year 1899-1900. The mortality from the plague for the five years ending March, 1901, was nearly 600,000. The census completed in March, 1901, shows that the increase in population during the past 10 years was only five to six millions, instead of the normal nineteen millions. The loss represents death from famine and the decrease in birth in consequence of the famine.

Archie Bremner Dead.

London, July 2. — The well known journalist, Mr. Archie Bremner, died Sunday afternoon after a lingering illness of a complicated and incurable disease from which he had suffered for the past two years. He was for several sessions Parliamentary correspondent of The London Free Press, and had filled responsible positions on various newspapers in Ontario and Quebec.

THE LATE JAS. M. SULLIVAN.

A Former County Resident Passes Away in the Western States.

A Minnesota exchange gives the following particulars concerning the death of James M. Sullivan, son of the late John Sullivan, of Douro, and brother of Mr. Patrick Sullivan, of No. 949, Water street:

One of the best known and most popular men in Stearns County passed away early this morning in the person of James M. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan has been for a third of a century a resident of St. Cloud and during the greater portion of the time had been a deputy sheriff of the county. His position and the natural geniality of his character gave him a wide acquaintance and few men numbered more and better friends than he.

Mr. Sullivan had been sick for the past two months and from the first it was feared that his illness would result fatally. Pneumonia was primarily the cause of death. He was at his home, No. 125 Sixth Avenue north, but four weeks of his illness were spent at St. Raphael's hospital where as well as at his home, he received every care and attention. A few days since he was removed to his home and there the end came just after midnight this morning.

Jas. M. Sullivan was born sixty-eight years ago near Montreal, Quebec, and thirty-three years ago came to Minnesota, locating at St. Cloud, and ever since he has resided here with the exception of a few years passed at Sauk Rapids. Mr. Sullivan married Miss Elizabeth Welch in Canada when a young man and one son, John D. Sullivan, for twelve years county attorney of Stearns county, was the fruit of their union. Mrs. Sullivan died only a year or two after her marriage, and twenty-five years ago Mr. Sullivan was married to Miss Elizabeth Dirkes of St. Augusta, this county, who survives him with her four children, James Sullivan, jr., of Little Falls and Misses Clara, Sadie and Elvie Sullivan, daughters all living at home. The youngest is about sixteen years old.

The deceased was first appointed deputy sheriff by the late Sheriff Mat Mickley and served as active deputy during all the years of the latter's administration of his office. In later years he served under various sheriffs but in his advanced age acted as court baliff. He was held in high regard by the judges of the district court and by his superior officers. Mr. Sullivan owned at the time of his death a considerable real estate in the city and leaves his family comfortably provided for. He belonged to no secret society nor carried insurance. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock from the Cathedral and doubtless it will be largely attended by the old friends and neighbours of the deceased. The pallbearers will be old friends, having in some instances been nominated by Mr. Sullivan before his death.

MR. PECK'S GENEROSITY.

Donates Several Handsome Volumes to Ashburnham Public School.

Mr. E. A. Peck, of the Ashburnham School Board, a year ago donated several handsome books as prizes in Spelling and Arithmetic, to the pupils in Ashburnham Public School.

This year he has repeated his generous gift and as a result the following pupils have received the prizes. A prize was given in each class, for the combined results of the examinations in Spelling and in Arithmetic.

The teachers and pupils are very grateful to Mr. Peck for his thoughtfulness, thus manifested.

The winners of the very handsomely bound books are as follows,—

Senior fourth—Laura Smithson—"Ben Hur."

Junior fourth—Clara Adams—"Old Curiosity Shop."

Senior third—Leslie Russell—"Treasure Island."

Junior third — W. Henthorne — "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Senior second — Annie Hinds — "Bible."

Junior second — Norman Geale — "Gulliver's Travels."

Senior part second—Mabel Oliver—"Drayton Hall."

Senior first — Merton Adams — "Swiss Family Robinson."

HOME FROM CAMP.

The Local Men Returned to Town on Saturday Evening.

The two local sections of the 14th Durham Field Battery, "C" Squadron 3rd Dragoons, and Staff and Captain Johnston's Company of the 46th Durham Regiment of Infantry, arrived home from their annual two week's training on Saturday evening. The men are all pretty much bronzed up and looked very much fatigued as a result of the days trip home. The camp of the 14th Field Battery was at Deseronto and the other corps were at Kingston.

In transferring the baggage from the car to the waggons at the station here on Saturday night, some one, no doubt unintentionally carried away the tick belonging to Sgt. Major Goldey's camp bed. Will the party who did so kindly communicate with the Sgt. Major.

THE LICENSE LAWS.

(From the Toronto Globe.)

Mr. Stratton in his address at North Monaghan, in West Peterborough, presented a lot of most interesting and most gratifying figures. The most unbending tectotal advocate will agree that under we can have prohibition, good license laws, strictly, and impartially administered, are a most powerful agency in promoting temperance. Mr. Stratton's figures support this view in a most striking way. We by no means think that we have reached any finality or heard the last word with regard to the temperance question, but it will be generally admitted, that the record in this province shows what can be done under license when the licensing authority's sole relation to the question is a sincere desire to lessen its evils.

The figures which Mr. Stratton furnishes his auditors contain answers to more than one mooted question among those who have studied the statistics of the drink traffic. The number of licenses issued in this Province in 1874 stood in relationship to the population as 1 to 274, while in 1899 it was as one to 850. Another fact that may be put alongside is that the number of convictions for drunkenness in Ontario in 1874 was 4,797, while in 1899 it was 1,555, a diminution of 70 per cent. To put it another way, there was one conviction for drunkenness for every 295 persons in the community in 1899, and in 1899 one for every 826. We think it is fair to connect the two facts and to attribute this remarkable social improvement to the diminution of the number of licensed houses throughout the Province and to the vigilance with which the laws are enforced, particularly as to illicit selling.

The figures as to the consumption of liquor point in the same direction. We have but the figures for Ontario alone, but for the Dominion they make a very favorable showing as compared with other countries. The average consumption of liquor for Australia, United States, Great Britain, Germany and France, was 29.27 gallons per head, while the consumption in Canada is given at 5.245 gallons per head.

HAVE CONFIDENCE IN HIM.

The Millbrook Reporter, (Conservative,) comments as follows on Hon. J. Stratton's recent remarks at the Reform convention, in that village: Hon. J. R. Stratton gave a splendid address at the Reform Convention here last Thursday. The hall was well filled, and we are sure that even those who could not agree with the whole speech—and Conservatives like to listen to the Provincial Secretary—were glad to be present. Mr. Stratton has the faculty of making his audience believe in his sincerity, and more than that, he is progressive and practical. If the Ross government retains the confidence of the country for another term, it will be largely owing to the confidence instilled into the electorate by Mr. Stratton. He has put new life into every department of the Government and none are more pleased to extend congratulations to the Hon. J. R. than his friends in Millbrook, the home of his youth. His speech dealt chiefly with his own department, and his account of his administration of that department was very interesting. The Convention elected officers, but deferred the matter of bringing out a candidate until a later date. We look upon the Hon. J. R. Stratton as the coming leader par excellence of the Reform party in Ontario.

35,000 THEM INVOLVED

Strike in Subsidiaries of United States Steel Trust.

REAL BATTLE MAY BEGIN AUG 1

Sixteen Furnaces Crawl Out in the Lindsay and McCutcheon Mills, Allegheny — Conditions Tried Prevail. All Employees Now Almost Back at Work.

of Revolt From the Intense Heat.

Pittsburg, July 1.—As a result of the refusal of the representatives of the American Sheet Steel Company and the American Steel Hoop Company, subsidiary companies of the great United States Steel Corporation, to sign the workers' new scale at Saturday's conference, circulars were sent out from the headquarters of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers yesterday and today, declaring a strike at all the plants of the two companies. The great strike is now on—the first of the kind ever before its actual extent is known. At the outset, however, over 35,000 men will be involved—that is, all employed in the mills the first few weeks the situation will show the strength of the association and non-union like are demanding a short vacation, and the prediction is made that the companies will be unable to keep any one at work for two or three weeks after tomorrow. The heat is intense and the men, one vice-president said to-day, are almost insane from it. It will be often, perhaps, the last of August when the combine makes a certain attempt to start up in full, that the real battle will begin. If an settlement has been reached, and the time [illegible] in accordance with President Shaffer's order, the crews of the furnaces in the Lindsay and McCutcheon mills, Allegheny, Sts. out on strike, and the four other crews are expected to quit to-day. The men say they will remain out until the mills [illegible]

At the Isabella furnaces of the American Steel Hoop combine at Etna, it was stated today that the strike would not affect them. There are 300 employes, 200 of whom are Italians. The remaining 100 are machinists, and are satisfied with their position at the Lockhart Iron Works, McKee's Rocks. It was announced that the strike would not interfere with the operation of the plant, as the amalgamated scale was signed by the works on Saturday afternoon. A telegram from Aliquippa [illegible] says the plant closed down. Five hundred men are out. An early settlement is expected.

Signatures to the amalgamated scales from the following concerns were received at the headquarters this morning: Lockhart Iron and Steel Company, McKee's Rocks, Pa.; Sharon Tin Plate Company, South Sharon, Pa.; Stewart Iron Company, Limited, Sharon, Pa.; [illegible] Pearl Tin Plate Company, Cumberland, Md.; American Rolling Mill Company, Muskegon, Mich.; Southern Car and Foundry Company, Anderson, Ala.; Roemer Rolling Mill Company, Remsemer, Ala.

A telegram from Canton, Ohio, reports the Canton Rolling Mill of the American Sheet Steel Company closed down. Two hundred men are idle. The plant usually shuts down at this time for repairs.

At Scottdale, Pa., the Meadows plant is idle on account of repairs to the engine, but the Scottdale plant of the same company is working full. So far as can be learned, no orders have been received to stop work, and, except the union men are working [illegible]

At Leechburg, Pa., the mills of the American Steel Sheet Company are running full. The mills have been running non-union for a number of years and the call of President Shaffer does not affect them.

Lee & Company, this city, announce today that they would start the mills. The mill is closed down. The sheet mill will re-open on July 8 and the bar mill on July 15. No trouble is anticipated.

Ohio Strike Settled.

Binghamton, N.Y., July 1.—The [illegible] has been settled. The men, who number about 500, will return to work Monday, July 8. All the demands of the strikers, with the exception of the question of [illegible] have been granted.

Strike Settled in Half an Hour.

Hamilton, July 2.—There was [illegible] Grimsby and Beamsville Electric Railway on Saturday. The conductors and motormen, about 15 or 16 in number, went [illegible] Pay.

At 11.45 they met the directors of the road who conceded all the strikers' demands. They gave the men [illegible] an hour, with pay for time lost at the end of the trips, and the men went back to work, feeling that they had won a notable victory.

No New Developments.

Toronto, July 2.— There are no new developments in the G.T.R. strike. Both sides are encouraged by prospects and confident of winning.

Five American Looters.

Paris, July 1.—Five men, calling themselves Americans, were captured by Chinese troops in a town [illegible] miles from Pekin, and were turned over to Major E. B. Robertson, commander of the United States Legation Guard here. The men, who were armed, demanded 5,000 taels from the [illegible] got 500 taels. They filled five carts with plunder and then began shooting, not knowing that the town was occupied by Chinese troops. The United States Legation was notified and the quintet brought [illegible]

Deseronto, July 2.—The Deseronto Iron Company has gone out on a blast and given notice to the Standard Chemical Company that they will not require deliveries of charcoal until further notice.

Goderich Street Fair.

July 1.—Goderich Street Fair, with [illegible] of the best. The floral [illegible] place [illegible] Wednesday [illegible]

We shall tell you, in a few words, a remarkable story if it would be incredible if it were not absolutely true; the facts, like all facts are for those who will profit by them:

A young mother, 27 years old, contracted pneumonia in February, 1900; a severe cough followed; then hemorrhages; then consumption.

The doctors—four of them—did their best; no use; they gave her up. Her mother's care—no other care is like it—was useless; her husband devoted his care to her—he couldn't buy health. Then she gave herself up; home, babies, husband, all that makes life precious, had to be resigned. By August she was confined to her bed most of the time; slowly wasting away. She had her photograph taken with husband and children, that they might not forget her face after she was gone; the mark of death was on it; she even arranged details of her funeral, and selected the pall-bearers. She gave up; the doctors gave up; everybody gave up hope.

In January, 1901, she was led to take Powley's Liquified Ozone; she got better; gained strength, gained weight, gained hope. To-day she is with her family, attending to her household duties; well. Gained 25 pounds in about three months; doing her housework perfectly well.

You may call it a miracle, if you like; we should like to know what you do call it. But we vouch for the facts.

Her name is Mrs. Julia Sheffield, wife of Joseph Sheffield, Zephyr P.O., Scott Township, Ontario County, Ont. We have her legal declaration of the truth of the above statement. We have a similar declaration from her father, William H. Woodruff, of Mount Albert, of her mother, Mary E. Woodruff, of her sister, Ethel May Woodruff, and of John R. Dunn, the husband's employer.

What do you think of it?

CANADA'S PROGRESS.

The Theme of Canada Day at Buffalo and in London the Great.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN SPEAKS.

The Dominion Day Dinner—Opening of Canada's Pavilion at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo by Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, Who Was Felicitous in Representing This Country.

Buffalo, July 1.—To-day was Dominion day in Canada and in Buffalo. It was the occasion of Canada's first public display at the Pan-American Exposition, the occasion of the biggest demonstration she has perhaps ever made in this city. It was still more than that. It was a time of generous greeting between the land to the north and the land to the south of the great waters. British and American soldiers marched in the same line and both carried arms of destruction. All in all, it was a great and unusual day. It was productive of many of the little incidents which tend to weld the peoples of different countries together, to solidify their interests and to implant, in their hearts, love for each other.

The support the Exposition has received from Canada has been a source of much enjoyment to the Exposition officials. She has sent many distinguished men here to see the fair, has erected a handsome building, and has spent a great deal of money arranging for a suitable display of the Dominion resources and products.

The exercises, which were arranged to take place in the Temple of Music at 12:30 o'clock, were planned both to dedicate the Canadian building and to celebrate Canadian day. The Highland Regiment went to the Iroquois Hotel shortly before 10 o'clock to escort Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia of Canada, and his staff to the grounds.

The Kilties Create a Furore.

A large crowd gathered about the hotel and along Main-street. Led by the company of United States Marines which is quartered at the Exposition grounds, and by their own regiment band and company of pipers, the Highlanders started away from the hotel about 10:40 o'clock ahead of Dr. Borden and a number of other distinguished Canadians, as well as prominent Buffalonians. It has been a long time since an armed body of Canadian soldiers marched in the streets of Buffalo, and it is safe to say that a more picturesque body will never [illegible].

Crowds lined the curbs all the way up Main-street and for a long distance out Delaware-avenue, and everyone was enthusiastic. Almost exactly [illegible] continuously. It was [illegible] of Militia, accompanied by the members of his staff, marched along the forecourt in front [illegible] Highlanders, who stood with arms to shoulder, and the pretty United States Marines, who presented arms. A large crowd had congregated on the triumphal bridge, along the approach and on the Esplanade, and people cheered enthusiastically when the distinguished Canadians and the regiment of Buffalonians came along.

When the Highlanders marched and the pipers passed down the lines they were received with rousing cheers. Dr. Borden and staff went to the stage followed by many Buffalonians who were special guests. The band was stationed to the left of the stage and the pipers were placed on the right. [illegible]

Both Flags Interwined.

The Temple was very prettily decorated. A mammoth American flag hung in the arch of the stage, and just beneath it was a much smaller Union Jack bearing the coat of arms of Canada. The flags of the United States and Britain were interwined about the speakers' table, while suspended to the rail of each of the front balconies, both to the right and left, were two Union Jacks and an American flag. The Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack were draped side by side over the entrance. When Chairman Britton arose, the spacious Temple was comfortably filled, and it was noticeable that a majority of the crowd were women. The following named persons [illegible] the stage:

Mr. Britton was Chairman.

B. M. Britton, member of Parliament, from Kingston, Ont., [illegible] the capacity of Chairman. [illegible] the exercises, he said: "I feel it one of the honors of my life to-day to represent a representative of the Dominion on [illegible] anniversary. We come to Buffalo as representatives of the great Canada to the greater United States. We come not merely to spend the day, but to see the Exposition, to see what can be accomplished by a great nation like the United States. We [illegible] we come to wish you the greatest prosperity."

Mayor Diehl was called upon to extend a welcome to the visitors. He said it would be the desire of every one in Buffalo to make the visit of the Canadians a happy one.

John G. Milburn, president of the Exposition, was introduced by Chairman Britton. "I am very glad," said Mr. Milburn, "for this opportunity to express our deep obligations to the people of Canada for their generous support of and participation in this Exposition. It is a great pleasure to be able to say we have realized beyond our expectations, and that the participation of the other governments has made this World Exposition a reality. To-day Canada has added to the debt we owe her. She comes here bringing soldiers distinguished in the service of the King. I hope that as the years pass the ties between you and us will strengthen and in that hope I include the countries of South and Central America. I hope the [illegible] of all the Americas the blessing of peace and advancing civilization. There is a close tie between [illegible] continents, and great elements in the North. We have the same lineage, the same language, are governed by practically the same laws, read and enjoy the same art and literature. Between people bound by such ties, what should there be but the best of feeling. [illegible] the benefit of mankind."

Hon. Dr. Borden Speaks.

The next speaker was Dr. Borden. "I thank Mr. Milburn," said he, "and would like, if able to echo the sentiments so [illegible] and which represent the views of the people of this as well my own country. [illegible] the same lines. It is a South African country [illegible] from the [illegible] and we are always glad to publish that fact. Here we are [illegible] to commemorate the grand progress of the United States during the past century. Our soldiery has come with us not in effigy of peace. May God grant [illegible] that we may never be upon any other purpose. That [illegible] the American does honor to this great country and to the [illegible] to this city of Buffalo. Every part of the ground is a study; every detail is artistic. The [illegible] was a grand conception, and the materialization has been wonderful. I have been at many exhibitions, but [illegible] by far the best of all. It is a grand study. It is an educational agency which cannot be excelled. The [illegible] bringing into closer relationship the interests of the countries of the Americas inspired the enthusiasm which has characterized the efforts of the people of Buffalo in their enterprise.

Dr. Borden spoke of the Empire as an aggregation of nations, so free are the colonies to do what they choose. To-day they are practically free, and agreeing to live under the aegis of the British flag. You can't find a man in Canada who is not satisfied. We want nothing only to be let alone. We want to be taken by the hand by friends in working out the destiny of this continent. The minister then declared the Canadian building formally opened.

Troops in the Color.

Trooping the color, the ceremonial that constitutes the apotheosis of military pageantry, was presented before thousands of spectators in the Esplanade by the Highlanders at 1 o'clock this afternoon, directly following the exercises in the Temple of Music.

The troops stood up, drawn at attention facing the Triumphal Bridge, between [illegible] pylons [illegible] the Dominion colors. From each flank extended an [illegible] of spectators stretching in a semi-circle up to the bridge, while others viewed the spectacle from the band stands. [illegible] between the troops and spectators were Minister Borden, [illegible] Aylmer of the Canadian Militia, Col. Macdonald and his field staff.

At the command the field music paraded from the right flank around to the left, followed by K Company, escorting the color. Then [illegible] A and the field music marching [illegible] the line of troops, which stood at present arms, the musicians playing [illegible] Thru the Rye" and other airs. The ceremony was concluded when the regiment passed in review before Minister Borden, [illegible] Aylmer and their party.

The ceremony did not last more than a half hour, but it was one that required endurance under the circumstances. The Esplanade was as hot as an oven, and the baking warriors could feel their feet setting into the melting asphalt. The cordon of spectators took off whatever air might have reached the soldiers otherwise.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN SPEAKS.

He Refers to Canada's Progress and Commercial Statistics.

London, July 1.—Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal presided to-night at the Do[illegible] dinner, held at the [illegible] Cecil, London, and attended by 500, the company including Mr. Chamberlain, Lord [illegible] and other former Canadian Governor-Generals, Sir Edith Davies, David Mills and Sydney Fisher, and the other Canadian Ministers now in London, Gen. Ivor Hamilton, Rear-Admiral Douglas, Gilbert Parker and other well-known men.

Mr. Parker paid a high tribute to the French-Canadians in the South African war.

Admiral Douglas and Gen. Hamilton responded for the navy and army, the latter characterizing the fighting of the Canadians as the "triumph of individual intelligence."

The work of Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal was highly eulogized. Mr. Choate, in the course of a letter expressing his regret at being unable to be present, uttered sentiments of hearty good will, adding: "We are neighbors and we must always be good friends."

Mr. Chamberlain's Speech.

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking of Canada's material progress, said: "Thirty years ago your thoughts might have turned to the question of absorption by the powerful but friendly neighbor to the south."

This was received with cries of "No, no," from Mr. Bobell and the other Canadian Ministers.

Mr. Chamberlain: "Yes, you may say 'No, No,' but you would not have said it thirty years ago.

Of one thing I am convinced. If our colonies desire closer connection and will assist us with their counsel and [illegible] in addition to their arms, there is nothing this country would more readily welcome.

Colonies' Opinion First.

Referring to Great Britain's isolation, the Colonial Secretary said: "I do not think the opinion of civilized Europe to-day is likely to be the verdict of posterity. Of much more value is the opinion of our colonies than the uninstructed opinion of Europe, which is based upon lies foisted upon Europe by our enemies abroad and traitors among us at home. We may be isolated among the nations of the world, but so long as our children rally around us we are not alone."

Sir Louis Davies spoke of the work the Dominion government had done in maintaining order in the Klondike.

Enthusiasm in Toronto.

Miss Canada's thirty-fourth birthday was fervently and happily honored in Toronto. Citizens of all classes entered jubilantly into the spirit of the occasion, and altho the hot rays rendered with us, the weather was nevertheless pleasant for the holiday makers, and the first Dominion Day of the 20th century, and of the reign of King Edward VII. opened off with more gathering and all-round appearances of happiness than has characterized any previous celebration in Toronto of Canada's natal day.

"Come Back" Of the Province.

All over the province, in every habitation presuming to be even a hamlet, the celebration of Dominion Day was co-incident with the return of Old Boys to their old firesides. This fact made the celebrations everywhere take a more than usually enthusiastic turn. A program of sports, a procession winding up with speech-making and the gathering of persons who had not met for 20 or more years were the features in all outside cities, towns and villages. Many [illegible] turned to Woodstock [illegible] Dublin the gathering of the clan of Old Boys and the celebration of the national holiday [illegible] in connection with the Industrial City, the new [illegible] in Canada. It was a happy moment.

To-day's Fire.

At about 12.30 o'clock to-day fire was discovered on the roof of the building adjoining Warne's grocery store, corner of George and Dublin streets. A spark from the planing mill on Dublin street is supposed to have caused the blaze, which was making considerable headway when the brigade arrived. Considerable damage was done to the building before the flames were extinguished.

The Late Fred White.

The death occurred at 6.30 o'clock last night of Fred White, son of Mr. Robert White, proprietor of the White House, Charlotte street. The deceased young man was 26 years of age and had been suffering for several years from a chronic disease. He was widely known a number of years ago in lacrosse circles. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

Very Unusual Reductions in Ladies' Hats.

Preparatory to a midsummer clearance, Miss Delaney is offering this week great reductions in trimmed and untrimmed millinery. The hats thus marked down are all of that handsome and stylish design which have been so favourably noticed this season in our regular stock. They are quite new, high-class and desirable—just what you are looking for prior to the holiday week, as well as for travelling, outing or home wear. The prices have been lowered to nearly a half, which is quite an unusual concession at this still brisk period of the season. Miss Delaney. dw

A VETERAN HOTEL-KEEPER.

Mr. E. Phelan Retires With a Long and Honourable Record.

The retirement of Mr. E. Phelan from the hotel at No. 199 Simcoe street, is too notable in regard to his long and honourable record, not to be worthy of some particular reference. Mr. Phelan is an old and highly-respected citizen. He has been in the hotel business for forty-two years, thirty of which were passed in the same place — the solid old stone building which crosses the creek on Simcoe street. Mr. Phelan also conducted an hotel in Rochester at the time of the American war. From his long association with the business he is probably better known, and also more favourably known, throughout Peterborough and the Midland District, than any other man in the business. For years those who have been guests of the Phelan House have always known it as a neat, clean, quiet, orderly hotel, always in first class repair, with excellent service and courteous attention. Mr. Phelan was noted for scrupulous observance of the law, never having been subjected to a fine. In fact, in all respects, Mr. Phelan was a model Boniface, and thousands will pleasantly remember his well kept hotel, his cheery salutation, his jovial presence and hearty hospitality.

DOMINION DAY WAS CELEBRATED

By Peterborough Citizens in Fine Style.

KALITHUMPIAN PROCESSION.

The Sports in the Afternoon on Nicholls Oval—Splendid Display of Fireworks at Night—The day was hot but the Crowds Came.

Peterborough's 24th of May-1st of July Celebration is now a thing of the past and no one perhaps is more thankful than Mayor Denne and the members of the committee which had the management of the affair in hand. It was indeed a great disappointment to the public in general when on May 24th the rain came down in torrents and compelled the management of the demonstration to call the celebration off until a future date. Had the day been fine there is no doubt that the event would have proved to be one of the most successful and most attractive affairs of the kind that Peterborough ever saw. However, Mayor Denne and his able Lieutenants were not the kind of men to be discouraged but they at once started to work with a view of having on July 1st that which should have taken place on Victoria Day. Whilst a postponment of any affair as a rule takes off the keen edge of interest in the same, still there was sufficient enthusiasm shown in yesterday's demonstration to repay those who had worked so energetically to make the celebration a success.

The day was superb for a celebration although some may have considered it excessively hot. But the crowd came to town nevertheless, the townspeople turned out in large numbers and everyone appeared to very much enjoy the day's proceedings. The feature of the morning was of course the kalithumpian and trades procession. It was not as large an affair as it perhaps would have been on May 24th, had the event materialized, but what floats were put on, their management was carried out in a most commendable manner. It was about 10.30 o'clock when the procession left the old Bridge Works. The route of march was thickly lined on both sides with a jostling crowd of men, women and children, from town and country and surrounding villages.

The procession was headed by a portion of the 57th Regimental Band in uniform. The band, it might be stated, was divided into three smaller bands which occupied places in the procession at equal distances apart. They were surrounded and preceeded at times by Mr. Harry Winch's Indians, plumed and painted, on spirited chargers. Their fierce yells and daring manouvring announced the approach of the remainder of the procession. Mayor Denne, Mr. W. B. Bamford, Chairman of the general committee, and Mr. D. H. Burrett, Secretary of the same, followed in a cab. They were suitably robed and smiled blandly at everyone. Amongst the many amusing looking floats that were in line were, the Shamrock III. being a handsome outfit gotten up by the Canadian General Anglers Club, the Dead Wood Stage Coach, the cow boys; floats representing Mr. Carton's establishment, the McClelland Co., McAllister Co., the local Hospital, City Fathers, Back Town barber shop, Scott & Hogg, Parker's laundry, Bates' Bros., the Dark Town Swells, Carrie Nation Society, Uncle Tom's Cabin, patrol waggon, Common Weal Society and many others.

In the afternoon the various sporting events were run off on the Nicholls park oval. Notwithstanding the extreme heat there was a very large number of people who made their way to this beautiful spot and enjoyed the excitement of the races, etc. The events were keenly contested, and produced much enthusiasm. The results were as follows:

100 yards race — W. Crowley, Carrol, Gauthier. Time, 12 sec.

Bayonet bout. — Won by Sergt. Sturgeon, his opponent being Sergt. Mulligan, who put up an excellent fight.

Pick-a-back wrestling match — Won by Messrs. Crowley and Gauthier, with Messrs. Sturgeon and Mulligan a close second.

One-third mile race. — Crowley, Gauthier, Martin. H. Daley, who came fourth, made a very good showing, considering his youth.

Hurdle race — Crowley, second and third place in dispute between Thornbeck and Carroll.

Squad race — Entered by four teams, two from the band and two from the 57th Regt. Won by band team, consisting of Messrs. Mein, Wand, Bysh, Tivey and Veyette.

The officers who superintended the running off of the sports were Major Miller, chairman of committee, Capt. Bennett, vice-chairman, R. F. McWilliams, secretary.

Judges — Lieut.-Col. Edwards, Capt. Walker, Capt. Hounsell, Lieut. Cameron and Sergt. Montgomery.

Starter — H. R. H. Kenner.

Clerk of the course — Dr. Scott.

Timekeeper—Alex. Gibson.

The bayonet contest between Sgt. Sturgeon and Col.-Sgt. Mulligan, which took place on the Nicholls Oval in the afternoon, was most interesting to watch and was very evenly contested. Sgt. Sturgeon has become quite an expert in bayonet work and displayed great skill in his contest yesterday.

One of the most attractive features of the day was the fire works which were set off from Central Park in the evening. Many thousand people assembled in and around the park

BODY RECOVERED.

The Late George Houston who met his Death by Drowning.

The body of George Houston, who was drowned in the Otonabee River on Monday night last, was recovered last night near Campbelltown. The body had been carried by the current about nine miles, and was found by a fisherman, who came to town with the information.

Mr. D. Belleghem went down to Campbelltown last night and brought the remains to town. An inquest opened at two o'clock this afternoon.

The inquest to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of George Houston, who was drowned in the Otonabee River on the evening of Monday, June 24th, met in the Town Council Chamber at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The inquest was presided over by Dr. Gray, Coroner.

The jury was empanelled as follows: R. H. Kells, foreman, Thomas Ellis, A. E. Micks, T. C. Elliott, J. W. Butcher, John Lockhart, Wm. Fair, Wm. Yelland, J. H. Ames, J. S. Boswell, John Irwin, John Armour, J. C. Smith and John Fowler.

Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, conducted the inquiry for the Crown, and Mr. A. E. Dixon represented the deceased's family.

The jurors were duly sworn and then adjourned to the undertaking establishment of Mr. D. Belleghem for the purpose of viewing the remains. Upon returning to the council chamber it was decided to hold a post mortem examination on the body of the deceased. The same will be performed to-night, and the inquest was adjourned until 8 o'clock to-morrow night at the County Council Chamber.

THE ONTARIO LICENSE LAWS.

History and Effect of Legislation on This Important Subject.

MORAL BENEFITS DEALT WITH

Speech by Hon. Mr. Stratton—Reduction of Licenses—Nearly 4,000 Less Than in 1874—Decrease in Crime and Drunkenness.

At North Monaghan, West Peterborough, on Monday evening, June 17th, Hon. Mr. Stratton, addressing his constituents, after speaking generally upon Provincial issues, dealt with the License Legislation of the Ontario Government, showing the results that had followed repeated amendments and improvements of the law—numerical reduction of licenses, diminution of drunkenness and commitments for crime, and the creation of a healthy moral sentiment which has contributed to make Ontario, if not the most, one of the most temperate and law-abiding communities in the world. Upon this subject Mr. Stratton said:—

In view of the many agencies and methods in operation with the object of dealing with, regulating and abolishing the drink traffic, to the lessening or removal of the evils of intemperance, a request has been made by those deeply interested in the subject for some explanation and demonstration of the effects in these directions of restrictive and regulating legislation and administration. In compliance with such a request I have much pleasure in addressing myself for a short time to the consideration of the provisions of the Ontario Liquor License Act of and the stages of restrictive enactment that have brought it to its present condition, the objects which were aimed at and the results that have followed the administration in conformity with the legislation enacted. I think the proposition cannot be disputed that, if the liquor traffic is recognized as legitimate by the State, the State is, therefore, charged with a certain degree of responsibility in dealing with the consequences of the traffic. One of these consequences, not necessarily, but almost invariably, is drunkenness, and the train of evils and injuries to the individual to the home and society which follows. Whatever differences of opinion there may be as to the wisdom of even the moderate use of strong drink, there are no two opinions respecting the terrible evils of the excessive use of intoxicants. No one will deny that drunkenness is a crime against the State; that it unmans the subject of it; that it impairs or, according to degree, destroys his usefulness as a citizen, making him not only industrially unproductive, but actually a burden on society; and the conditions of life created in the home forbid the hope of domestic happiness or of the inmates growing up useful members of society and desirable citizens.

Therefore, apart from moral considerations, under a license system it becomes the duty of a Government, on economic grounds, to take such legislative and administrative action as will minimize the evils, and increase and develop the benefits and utility of the traffic. To effect these objects, the obvious means to be employed are regulation and restriction, and the more judicious and effective these are made the better the results. Numerical reduction of the number of licenses has long been recognized as an important factor in decreasing the terrible evil of drunkenness. This was recognized in the earliest License Act passed in England nearly 350 years ago. The preamble to this Act described it as an attempt,—

"To remedy the intolerable hurt and "trouble to the commonwealth of the "realm by common ale-houses and ot"ers called tippling houses."

The value of regulation and restriction as a means to the decrease of drunkenness and the improvement of the accommodation of hotels was recognized by the Liberal Government a quarter of a century ago. The Government has acted upon its convictions in this matter and the results have been, if not altogether satisfactory to the optimistic, at least very important and encouraging.

History of License Legislation in Ontario.

The history of the license legislation of the Liberal Government and its administration shows a steady advance in improvement in both respects. The successive steps in the direction of restriction have been positive and at the same time gradual; so that public sentiment has been in favour of the advances made to a degree that has rendered their requirements respected and their application correspondingly effective. At the time the Liberal Government took office in 1872, and for a few years afterwards, the licensing power was in the hands of the municipalities. Those interested in procuring licenses exercised so much influence in local politics that they could gain control of Municipal Councils and dictate as to whom were to receive licenses, and practically issue licenses to themselves. In this way, naturally, the character of licensees was often of low grade; the character of the houses they conducted corresponded, the number of licenses was practically unlimited and the prevalence of intemperance and the attendant evils was in proportion to the facilities available for obtaining drink. Indeed all the conditions were so unsatisfactory, as to fully warrant the first important step taken by the Government which was to assume control of the licensing system. It was natural and logical to argue that the power which was responsible for dealing with the conditions arising from the working of the license system, should, so to speak, become responsible for cause as well as effect. The first result in the way of advance following the Crooks' Act, adopted in 1876, was a decided diminution in the number of licenses issued. Two years before the passage of this Act the number of licenses issued was 6,185.

And the population of the Province was 1,700,000, or one license to every 274 persons.

In 1900 the number of licenses had fallen to 2,950.

The present population of the Province is 2,500,000; this gives a ratio of one license to every 850 persons.

Or in other words the increase of population has been 32 per cent.,

While the decrease in the number of licenses has been 67 per cent., figures that represent nearly 100 per cent. of improvement.

The benefit arising from the decrease of licenses, in the way of decreasing drunkenness, has the sanction of high authorities as well as the proof of actual experience. In the House of Lords, May 8th, last year, the Bishop of Winchester speaking in reference to amendments of liquor licensing laws, said—

"he believed that reducing the number of "licensed houses would conduce to tem"perance by limiting temptation and "improving the character of the licensed "houses that remain."

And Viscount Peel, Chairman of the British Royal Commission, investigating the subject of reform in the licensing laws, said on the same occasion:—

"He was one of those who believed "that the more licenses the greater the "temptation, and the more the licenses "were spread over the town the greater "the drunkenness."

Another evidence indicating the benefit of decrease of facilities for procuring drink in lessening drunkenness is found in the report of a recent investigating committee in England, composed of five physicians, two surgeons, a professor of bacteriology, an army surgeon and five general practitioners. After eighteen months' investigation, they decided that drunkenness is not due to inherited appetite, in other words that a craving for drink cannot be transmitted from parent to child. The committee was appointed by the London Medical Society and its finding shows that to decrease the opportunities for obtaining drink will tend to lessen drunkenness.

Reduction of Licenses.

In this connection it will be perhaps interesting to compare the number of licenses issued at various periods say, five year periods, with those issued at the present time:

YEAR.	LICENSES.
1874	6,185
1879	4,020
1884	3,970
1889	3,360
1894	3,151
1899	2,950

In the first period of five years, the reduction of the number of licenses was 2,165, or 433 per year.

During the next five year period the reduction was less, being only fifty, or ten per year.

In the third five-year period the reduction was considerably greater—410, or 82 per year.

In the next five year period the figures of reduction are also considerable—409, or 81 per year.

In the fifth period the number decreased by 201, or a decrease of 40 per year.

For twenty-five years between 1874 and 1899, the decrease in the number of licenses has been a decrease of 130 per year, the aggregate decrease being 3,235.

While the actual reduction is large it becomes relatively much greater when we recall to mind the great increase in population during the period named. If the licenses had been issued in 1899 at the same ratio that obtained in 1874—namely, one for every 280 of the population—the number of licenses that would have been issued in 1899 would be the very large number of 8,928, while the actual number of licenses issued in 1899 was only 2,950. The reduction in the number of licenses was the most striking feature of the Liquor License Act of 1876; and since that time there have been eleven amending Acts passed, all tending in the direction of numerical reduction of licenses.

Restrictive Effects of Amendments.

All these amendments, as I have said, have been in the direction of restriction, in the direction of improving the facilities for administration, lessening drunkenness and improving hotels as to accommodation and general character. I might briefly point out the principal improvements in these several respects produced by the several amending Acts beginning with the Act of 1876. In the Act of that year, popularly known as the "Crooks' Act," the principal provisions were:—

The issuing of licenses was withdrawn from the Municipal Councils and placed in the hands of License Commissioners.

The number of licenses was limited according to population.

Inspectors were appointed by Government to enforce the law.

Act of 1877.

The amendments of 1877 provided for the placing of:

Restrictions upon sales by druggists.

THE PROGRAMME OF SPORTS

The Winners in the Different Events—Meals Served by the Ladies of the Parish.

The annual picnic in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital was held yesterday in the Murray street school grounds and was attended by large numbers of citizens during the day. Many of the visitors from out of town also took advantage of the opportunity afforded to secure meals, which were excellently served by the ladies of the parish. Amongst the out-of-town visitors to the grounds during the day were Rev. Father McGuire, of Hastings; Rev. Father Conway, Norwood; Rev. Father McColl, Ennismore; and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Young's Point.

In the morning the chief attraction consisted in a baseball match between the West Ends, of Peterborough, and the Elms, of Ashburnham. Unfortunately, the game was left unfinished, the players having knocked the covers of three balls by the sixth innings. As the visible supply of balls was exhausted, the game had to be called, and will be played off on the P.A.A.A. grounds in the near future, when the ownership of the Calcutt Cup will be decided. Mr. Dan Devine gave splendid satisfaction as a referee. The two teams were composed as follows:

West Ends — Whaley, p.; DeRocher, c; 1b, Doris; 2b, Whaley; 3b, Doris; rf, King; cf, Anglesec; rf Hagel; ss, Judge.

Elms — Logan, p.; Primeau, c.; 1b, Gilman; 2b, Crane; 3b, Martin; ss, Craig; rf, Fitzgerald; lf, O'Toole; cf, Primeau.

Towards noon the grounds began to fill up, and soon the appetizing aroma from the tents announced that the ladies were ready to do business at the dinner tables, which were quickly filled with hungry visitors. The ladies of the various wards, Ashburnham and Otonabee, are deserving of great credit for the manner in which dinner was served and that their efforts were appreciated was shown by the patronage which was accorded them. The smaller stands, where lighter refreshments were served, also did a thriving business throughout the day.

The presence of the 57th Regt. band contributed greatly to the general enjoyment during the afternoon and the dancing platform was kept filled with devotees of the art of Terpsichore.

The sports were well handled, and as the entry list was large, plenty of amusement was afforded. The events results as subjoined:

Miss Ada McBain has returned from a two weeks visit to Kingston where she has been the guest of Miss Effie Robertson.

Miss Clara Butler, daughter of Mrs. (Dr.) Butler, left yesterday for St. Marys Hospital Training School for Nurses, Rochester.

Mrs. R. Morgan, of Ashburnham, is in Toronto attending the wedding of her daughter, Miss Maggie Rombough, formerly of Ashburnham.

Mr. Horace Ayers, physical instructor of the Y.M.C.A., left for Toronto this morning to take a three months' special course in physical culture.

Mrs. Whititan, of Cobourg, who has been visiting with her brother, Mr. P. Glover, Ashburnham, left to-day on a visit to Lindsay before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Connal have gone to Stony lake for a few weeks.

Sergt. W. Borland of "A" Battery, Kingston, is in town for a few days visiting his parents.

Messrs. R. E. Wood and F. D. Kerr represented the Peterborough Law Association at the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Toronto on Saturday.

In the pass list published in the promotions from the Junior to the Senior 4th Class, in the Central School, George Martin's name should have stood third in the class instead of further down the list.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox, jr., left to-day for Chicago, where he will take a position with the American Cereal Co. He will be attached to the Peterborough branch as soon as active operations are undertaken here.

Mr. George Revell, who has been a resident of the town for the past year or more, left on Monday morning to accept a situation in Quebec. Mr. Revell was a prominent member of the Peterborough Rugby Club and will be missed here by a wide circle of friends.

Miss Edna Macfarlane, of Port Arthur, neice of Mr. Andrew Macfarlane, Homewood Avenue, who formerly lived in town and was a student at the Collegiate Institute, has won the Governor Generals Gold Medal for general proficiency at Alma College, St. Thomas, and has had the degree of M. E. L. conferred upon her.

The DesMoines' Daily Leader says,—"Dr. A. F. Grant, of Peterborough, Ont., for the past few days a guest at the Hopkins home in University Place, will remain permanently in the city and open an office on Cottage Grove Avenue." Dr. Grant is a son of Mr. Andrew Grant, No. 26 Waterford street, and is well and popularly known to many here.

THE ONTARIO LICENSE LAWS.

Restrictions upon sales in vessels.
Increased penalties for second and third offenses.
And searching in unlicensed houses were provided for.

Act of 1878-81.

In the amendments of 1878-81:—
Provision was made for the enforcement of the Dunkin Act, and for paying the costs thereof.
In the amendments of 1881:—
Provision was made for the issue of brewer and wine licenses.
Further increase was made of penalties for second and third offences.
The actual seller of liquor was made liable.
Increased facilities for search and detection of liquor sales were provided.
Provisions for enforcing the Scott Act were made, and Police Commissioners and Chiefs of Police were specially charged with the duty of enforcing the License law.

Act of 1884.

The amendments of 1884 provided:
Provision was made for licensing [illegible] and for refusing licenses in towns having less than 5,000 of a population.
Provision was also made for publication of names of new applicants for licenses and description and location of premises proposed to be licensed.
Privileges were granted to electors to oppose by petition the granting of licenses—the majority of electors may prevent the issue of new licenses.
No new shop licenses to be granted to premises in which other goods are sold; and in 1888 no shop license whatever is to be granted to premises [illegible] other than those [illegible] were sold.
No appeals allowed except to the County Judge in Chambers.
Appeals permitted to the Court of Appeal from the decision of the County Judge.
Stringent provisions were made regarding sales to habitual drunkards.
One hour only to be allowed for meals.
No licenses hereafter to forty litres.
Penalties were imposed for refusing to give and for taking orders in pledge for liquor. Also for permitting drunkenness on the premises.
The sale of liquor to minors under six teen years of age was prohibited.
Purchasers of liquor during prohibited hours or on unlicensed premises were made liable to penalty.
Further increase of fees for licenses was made.
In 1885 purchasers not being members of the family were made further liable.

Act of 1890.

In the amendments of the year 1890:—
Increased duties for licenses were provided for, and increased penalties and punishments imposed for selling without license.
A Provincial Inspector was appointed to audit License Inspectors' Accounts, to investigate complaints and to attend to other specified duties.
More stringent regulations were made for Saturday night and Sunday selling.
Frequenters of bar-rooms on Saturday nights and Sundays were made liable to arrest.
Penalties for sales to unlicensed dealers were imposed.
Provision was made for permitting one justice to hear cases in rural municipalities.

Act of 1892.

The amendments of 1892 consisted of:
Further provision for enforcing the Scott Act and providing for expenses.
Increased penalties and punishments for selling without licenses.
Prohibited age of minors raised to 18.
Tavern-keepers [illegible] liquor is sold illegally, made liable.
No appeals allowed in cases of conviction [illegible] prohibited periods.
Further stringent provisions were made regarding the issue of licenses for unlicensed premises.
And the important provision was made for the submission and the passing of of Local Option by-laws.

Act of 1891-92.

In the amendments of 1891:—
Provision was made for hearing special cases, in Court of Appeal re Local Option by-laws, and for the re-hearing of cases where by-laws were quashed.
In the amendments of 1892:—
Provisions were made for the enforcement of the License Act applied to Local Option.
Increased provisions were made regarding the sale of liquor to habitual drunkards.
Appeals were allowed to County Judge from orders of [illegible] Magistrate.
Further restrictions were made regarding druggists.
Brewers were restricted to sale to holders of licenses only.
Members of Municipal Councils and Constables were rendered ineligible as bondsmen for license holders. It was provided that Local Option by-laws shall not be repealed for three years.

Act of 1897.

In 1897 the legislation:—
Increased the population limit to three licenses for the first thousand of the population, and one license for each additional 1,000 additional population except in cities and towns.
Further restrictions were placed on the granting of licenses to druggists.
The hours for sale of liquor were fixed at from 6 A.M. to 10 P.M. in townships and from 6 A.M. to 11 P.M. in cities leaving power in the hands of License Commissioners to still further limit the hours.

Here I might point out that the prohibited hours for liquor selling, that is the hours during which bars must be closed, are greater in Ontario than in any other Province. In Quebec bars are closed only on Sunday, that is at twelve o'clock Saturday night and open at five o'clock on Monday morning, subject, however, to an amendment empowering municipalities to pass by-laws to close at 7 p.m. Saturdays and at 10 p.m. on week days. In Prince Edward Island bars are closed on Sunday only, and in Nova Scotia only from 6 o'clock on Saturday night until seven o'clock Monday morning. In New Brunswick from seven o'clock Saturday night until seven Monday morning, and in Manitoba before prohibition was adopted the law required bars to be closed from ten o'clock Saturday till seven Monday morning. There are in none of these Provinces statutory restrictions such as are in force in Ontario (apart from Saturday night and Sunday) restricting selling through the week after ten o'clock and eleven o'clock p.m. on every week night for rural and urban hotels respectively.

An amendment was passed prohibiting the sale of liquor to any person under 21 years of age—the previous limit having been 18—and prohibiting license holders from permitting minors to loiter round their premises.
This amendment, all will admit, is of immense importance.
Saloon licenses were abolished.
License Commissioners were prohibited from granting licenses within 300 feet of churches and schools to premises not heretofore licensed.
And provision was made for the cancellation of licenses on the certificate of the magistrate showing that a license holder had knowingly broken the law by three violations of the provision forbidding sales during prohibited hours.

Effects of Amending Legislation.

As a complement to the restrictive amendments noted we must give some attention to the general effect of the legislation. I have just referred to, in the first place in relation to moral improvement. I have referred before to the universal recognition of the fact that, drunkenness is an evil to the individual, to the home, to society and to the State. In the first place statistics show that Ontario with her well-considered and continuously improved License Law, is far ahead of all the other Provinces in sobriety and in immunity from crime. And the fact of this improvement having been gradual and coincident with the improvements in license legislation, is, I am to very largely attributed the result to the cumulative effects of the amendments that have from time to time strengthened the provisions, and assisted the administration of the Liquor License Act. (Applause.) There is great reason for congratulation at this condition when we remember the injurious effects resulting from general habits of intoxication, which are thus set forth by the late Mr. Gladstone who said:—

"Greater calamities are inflicted upon mankind by intemperance than by the three great historical scourges, war, pestilence and famine."

In the statistical year book of Canada for 1899 we find returns of the convictions for drunkenness for fourteen years—from 1890 to 1899 inclusive. From the year 1890 to 1899 the improvement is quite remarkable.

In 1890 the convictions for drunkenness reported in Ontario amounted to 4,797.

But in 1899 this had dropped to the comparatively low figure of 1,892.

This is a decrease of 2,905, or over 60 per cent.

The same record show that in 1899 there was one conviction for drunkenness for every 295 persons, and in 1890 the conditions were one for every 82 of the population.

These figures indicate that between these years the reduction was progressive and there is reasonable ground for belief that it will continue.

Comparison With Other Provinces.

To emphasize the superiority Ontario enjoys in this respect, we have only to compare, and to the great advantage of this Province, the relative condition in this regard of the other Provinces. The number of persons to each conviction in the following Provinces for the year 1899 was as follows:—

Ontario	810
Quebec	440
Nova Scotia	448
New Brunswick	253
Manitoba	830
British Columbia	237
Prince Edward Island	347
The Territories	130

In the other Provinces the average number of persons to each conviction is 310, while in Ontario this figure is 810, representing nearly one third less drunkenness. Not only in this respect, has the Ontario standard of public morality been raised, but confirmation of the figures quoted is to be found in the statistics of crime. In Ontario the returns for each period of five years since 1881 show progressive improvement in the lessening of the numbers of commitments for misdemeanours and crimes.

In the period from 1886 to 1890, the total commitments were	4311
For the next five year period, from 1891 to 1895, the number of commitments had fallen to	3703
For the next five year period from 1896 to 1900, the figures had again dropped to	1930
This is a decrease in 15 years of	2381

This represents a reduction of over 55 per cent., a reduction which will be much emphasized when we consider the large increase of population in that time.

The Comparison Extended.

We might carry the comparison outside of Ontario and we shall find that this Province easily maintains there also its lead in sobriety. In the report of the United States Prohibition Commission of 1893, it was shown that in the State of Maine, where absolute prohibition is the law, the commitments for drunkenness for five years previously were 253 per thousand, while in Ontario for the same period the commitments for drunkenness were only 186 per thousand. Whether this goes to show the superiority of a well-considered License Law—fully abreast of the progress of public sentiment in regard to restriction—may be a matter of opinion, but I submit that the conditions mentioned afford a subject for thoughtful consideration. I have not quoted the above figures as wishing to determine the relative merits of Prohibition and the license control of the liquor traffic, but it is, however, a fact that in Maine, under absolutely prohibitory laws, there is, according to statistics, one third more drunkenness than in Ontario under a well-considered and well-administered License Law. In addition to what may be considered direct evidence there is collateral evidence of the improvement in drinking habits in Ontario under the License Act. In the "Twentieth Century Quarterly" is found an interesting statement of the liquor consumption of half a dozen principal countries of the world—Canada, Australia, United States, Great Britain Germany and France. Excluding Canada from the count, the average consumption of drink in the other countries named is 29.27 gallons per head in a year. The consumption of liquor in Canada is given as 5 1-3 gallons per head, which is only one-sixth of the average of the countries named; and, as Ontario furnishes nearly half of the population of the Dominion, this province is to be credited with a proportionate, if not greater share of this splendid evidence of national sobriety.

Decrease of Drinking in Ontario.

Not only is there statistical evidence of the improvement in morals of the population of the Province as influenced by drunkenness, which has been produced by the License Act, and its several amendments and their effective administration, but there are also evidences, other than statistical, in support of the claim that drunkenness is on the decrease in Ontario. Observation and our personal knowledge can be adduced in proof of the latter proposition. Any person visiting rooms and stages on occasions of large public gatherings, as at Exhibitions or Fairs, on holidays etc., and carrying back his recollection a few years, is forcibly struck by the absence of drunken persons and of brawling, fighting, etc., as compared with earlier days. Are cases of intoxication as much listed in police station now-a-days. Sobriety is a cardinal essential of employment in any position, whether mental or responsible. In addition to the effects of restriction and reduction of licenses in diminishing and preventing drunkenness, there may be mentioned (though it is not directly connected with the License Department) the educational influence that has co-operated. Under the School regulations Temperance and Hygiene have been taught in the schools, and the number of pupils receiving instruction in these subjects has risen from 33,936 in 1892 to 819,776 last year. Another gratifying result of the improvement from time to time in license legislation, is the improved character of the hotels of the Province in all respects; in the character of the patrons, in general respectability, in comfort and equipment and in sanitary and other conveniences. Yet another element in improving the character of hotels and indirectly decreasing drunkenness is the advance in license fees. In 1874 the statutory fees for tavern licenses was: Cities $30, Towns $15 and Villages and Townships $15. At present the statutory fees for tavern licenses are: Cities $250 to $350 (according to population) Villages $120 and Townships $90. The increase in license fees has co-operated with the statutory conditions in decreasing the number of licenses issued. These were:

In 1874	6,185
A decrease of	3,554

Here I might add a comparison of the licenses issued in Toronto, the largest city in Ontario, with the licenses issued in a few of the United States cities adjacent to this Province. Take the City of Buffalo. Last year there were issued 1,347 saloon licenses, and 420 shop and drug store licenses, a total of 1,767. Here is one to every 208 of population. Detroit, with a population of 250,000, issues 1,000 licenses, or one license to every 250 of population. Rochester with a population of 162,608, has 650 licenses, or one to every 250 inhabitants. Port Huron, Mich., with a population of 21,000 has 50 licenses, or one to every 332. Ogdensburg, with a population of 14,000 has 41 licenses, or one to every 340 of population. Niagara Falls, N. Y., with a population of 19,457, has 151 licenses, or, one to every 128. Here we have six American cities with an average of one drinking place to every 257 of the inhabitants, while in the city of Toronto under the Liquor License Act, there is one license to every 1,111 of the population, according to the latest municipal census. Here it may also be remarked that in Toronto in 1875, with a population of 60,000 there were 455 licenses, or one to every 132 of the population, instead of as at present over 1,100 of population to every license, and if, as I have shown, the evil of drunkenness is proportionate in extent to the facilities provided for obtaining drink, the conditions under the license system in Ontario are very greatly in advance of those obtaining in the United States. I do not intend to go into comparison of the statistics, comparing Ontario with Quebec, but I do remember reading in the Montreal Hearld, one of the ablest and most reliable newspapers in Canada, a short time ago, that there were 900 places in the City of Montreal where liquor could be purchased. There was one license in the City of Montreal for every 61 men. On some future occasion I propose to make a comparison between the License Laws of Quebec and the License Laws of Ontario, and no doubt the comparison will be in favour of this Province.

Local Prohibition Provisions.

Another evidence of the Government's desire to minimize the evils of intemperance so far as the legislation in its power can be effective to that end, is found in the local prohibitory enactments represented by Local Option legislation. In 1891 provision was made for the introduction and passing by municipalities of Local Option by-laws. Since 1890, by-laws for the adoption of Local prohibition have been submitted to popular vote on 79 occasions in 69 Municipalities. These by-laws, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors were passed in 51 municipalities and defeated in 28 instances. Of the by-laws passed were quashed on appeal to the Courts, chiefly on the decision of Judge Gait that the Act was ultra vires. A judgment that is reversed by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. At the present time Local Option by-laws are in force in 21 municipalities, by which 39 licenses and 3 shops have been cut off, and one of these is within a few miles of the place where we are assembled. During the past year three by-laws were submitted, four of which sustained Local Option. Two of these were quashed by the Courts on technical grounds and one by-law was repealed. Of course it cannot be expected that the prohibition in these cases is anything like absolute, but the law has enabled the people to try the experiment. In West Peterborough there is a healthy local sentiment. There is no bar in this riding, large wards not having existed, for the reason that people do not want them. The principle of the Liquor License Act is of course, not to strictly prohibit total abstinence, but to decrease drunkenness, and it may be claimed that the aim of the Government in framing, improving and administering the Act has been successful in decreasing the evil of intemperance and all its accompanying evils. I have shown how great has been the reduction in the number of licenses; I have shown by eminent authorities that the reduction of licenses leads to the decrease of drunkenness; I have shown that in Ontario there has been in this respect a remarkable improvement, and largely decreased commitments for crime making the record of this Province in this respect lower than that of any Province of the Dominion, or of any State in the Union, or of any other country. I have shown that Ontario has the best record—that is the best for sobriety—of any country in the world. And I do not think that I am far wrong in largely attributing this result to the Liquor License Act, amended from time to time as experience indicated necessary, with increased restrictions and with improved machinery for its effective enforcement. (Applause.

Concluding Observations.

I do not claim that the Act, as it has from time to time been amended, is perfect, or that its enforcement will, or can be, perfect. The obstacles in the way of effective enforcement of the Liquor License Act are very great. The temptations of the hotel-keeper most anxious to keep the law are many and great. He is subjected to all sorts of requests, from the artless to the crafty, to obtain drink in forbidden hours. The ingenuity of the dram drinker is proverbial, and it is no wonder that his wiles are often successful. If the same keen quality of inventive genius that is exercised in procuring liquor were exercised in a more beneficent direction, say in inventing a policy for our good friends of the Opposition, we of the Government party might have something tangible to deal with. Considering all the diverse elements that have to be dealt with in the enforcement of the Liquor License Act, it seems to me that the success achieved is highly creditable, and the results beneficial in the promotion of more temperate habits. The charge is often made by the Opposition that the administration of the License Act is complicated by political considerations, and the evil of this alleged condition has been greatly insisted upon. But the very satisfactory results that have followed in the decrease in drunkenness, in the improvement in morality in general, in the decrease in crime, in the improvement of our towns, born in connection with accommodation of these combine to render more emphatic, if not to render unnecessary, explicit denial of such charge. If such beneficial results as I have enumerated follow the political influence alleged to exist in the administration of the License Laws, then it is a good thing and not the evil the Opposition claim it to be.

An Objection Met.

Before concluding I may mention that another objection which is much urged by the Opposition is that the Liquor License Act represents a "robbery" of the Municipalities by the Government. Let us look for a moment into the extent of this alleged "robbery." The total revenue derived from Liquor licenses since 1876 amounts to the sum of $11,517,027.55. Of this sum the Municipalities have received over half, or $6,166,848.43. Besides giving to the Municipalities more than half of all our liquor license revenues, the Province has given them for various services the large sum of between eighty [illegible] dollars. Add to this the municipal share of license revenue, and we have a grand total of nearly a hundred million dollars as the extent to which the people have been benefitted by Government contributions which have practically saved the levy of a corresponding [illegible] of direct taxation. (Applause.) The gentlemen of the Opposition, or the party to which they belong, have not always been so solicitous for the welfare of the municipalities. They pretend to be indignant over the mythical "robbery" of the municipalities [illegible] they were condemned [illegible] applied the system of the Dominion Government, under Conservative guiding, to rob both the municipalities and the Government of the revenue from liquor licenses at one fell swoop. You all remember the ludicrous failure of the ill-conceived McCarthy Act. In conclusion I may fairly claim that the Government, through its license legislation and administration, deserves a large degree of credit for the excellent results in the way of moral reform, the development of healthy temperance sentiment, the improvement in the character, accommodation, and equipment of hotels and [illegible] which have tended to make the Province of Ontario the most moral community in the world, and the policy of the Government on this subject will warrant the assurance that future amendments of the law will be made in the same direction and with similar results. (Loud Applause.)

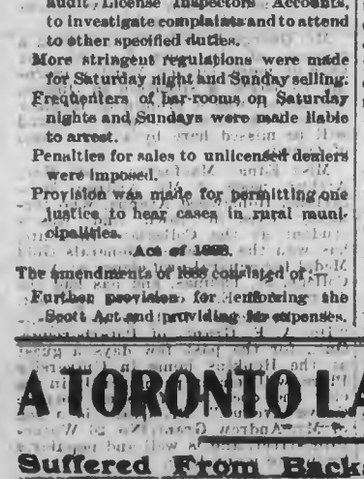
A TORONTO LADY'S STORY
Suffered From Backache So Severe She Could Hardly Raise Herself in Bed.
SHE THANKS DR. PITCHER'S BACHACHE KIDNEY TABLETS FOR COMPLETELY CURING HER AND GIVING HER STRENGTH AND ENERGY.



There are thousands of women in Toronto and thousands in Canada to whom life is an absolute burden on account of the unceasing ache in the back, the dragging pains in the loins, the headaches and sideaches.

Many, too, are suffering from kidney irritability, bladder and urinary troubles, who are reticent about mentioning their ailments to anyone.

To all these kidney and backache sufferers Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets come as a veritable boon and blessing. They clear out the clogged up kidneys, cure the backache and urinary troubles, roll away the burden of pain, and give health, strength and energy.

Miss Anna Defoe, a young lady whose address is 355 King street west, Toronto, recently wrote as follows:—

"For a number of years I have had kidney trouble and backache, so bad that in the morning I could hardly raise myself. A severe dragging pain would catch me in the small of my back, and I had no appitite, and often suffered from severe headaches, and a general breaking down of the entire system was the result. But, thanks to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, they put new life and energy in me, relieving me of that awful pain and soreness gently and easily, so much so, that I continued to get better, until I was entirely cured. I am in condition now to make known to the world what Dr. Pitcher's Tablets have done for me and for whose future welfare I have the best wishes."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE 57TH AT CHURCH.

They Attended Divine Worship at St. John's on Sunday.

The second church parade of the season of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, took place on Sunday afternoon to St. John's Church. The parade was to have been of a garrison nature including the 14th Durham Field Battery, "C" Squadron, 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons and Captain Johnstons Company of the 46th Durham Regiment of Infantry. However, owing to the fact that it was rather late Saturday night when the three last mentioned corps arrived in town from their annual twelve days camp at Kingston and being very much tired as a result of their journey home, they were compelled to decline the invitation of Rev. J. C. Davidson and E. B. Edwards, Commanding Officer of the 57th, to take part in the proceedings.

The turnout of the local regiment was disappointingly small, which was in a great measure due to their being a great many of the men of the regiment out of town on the 1st of July. However, the proceedings were quite interesting and attracted a great many spectators.

The regiment, in command of Lt.-Colonel E. [illegible] marched by the band, and marched [illegible] George street to Hunter, [illegible] thence east to the church. Lt.-Colonel H. [illegible] Commanding Officer of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, and Lt.-Colonel [illegible] Commanding Officer of the 57th Regiment, were also in attendance.

Monday being Dominion Day the usual quiet of a peaceful nature, a mark of respect to the very impressive discourse delivered by Rev. J. C. ARREST OF JAKE SKIN.

Cornwall Police May Now Have a Suit for Damages—There May Yet Be Fighting with the Indians.

Cornwall, July 3.—Jake Skin, the Indian, who has for several months defied the efforts of the authorities to remove him from Colquhoun's Island in the St. Lawrence River, has been arrested and locked up in jail here. J. D. McLean of the Indian Department, Ottawa, has been here trying to effect the abdication of Skin from his unlawful preserves, but the Indian fancied himself and his tribe immune from disturbance owing to the long inaction of the authorities, and refused to budge.

Last Thursday Chief Cameron visited the troublesome redskin, and, armed with the necessary documents, ordered him to vacate the island at once. Skin asked for further time, and promised to leave by Monday next if the authorities would give him until that date. Chief Cameron withdrew and a council of war was held on Colquhoun's Island, when it was decided that Jake was not to voluntarily give up the island, but should resist eviction, even if arrested, and then take proceedings to regain the property.

According to the program, Chief Cameron revisited the island Thursday, and on being informed by Skin that he had no idea of quitting the island the chief placed him under arrest, which the Indian quietly submitted to. Mrs. Skin asked leave to accompany her husband to jail, and the two were rowed across to Cornwall.

The news of the arrest of Skin spread like wildfire and a number of the tribe sought legal advice in Cornwall. It appears that the warrant calls for the removal of Skin from the island, and not his arrest, and the Indians think they have grounds for action against the authorities for the false arrest of Skin. Skin was liberated in the evening.

Mitchell Benedict, one of the most outspoken of the Indians on Cornwall Island, has stated that they will hold the disputed island at all costs, and, if necessary, bloodshed will follow.

It is feared that the arrest of the Indian is only the beginning of the trouble that will be experienced before the tribe are finally got rid of.

Union of All Coal Companies.

Cleveland, July 3. -- Before the 1st of September all the big companies producing bituminous coal will have been gathered into one organization, similar to the United States Steel Corporation, according to a story printed in The Leader to-day. The capitalization will be enormous, probably second only to that of the big steel trust. As an auxiliary to this movement being carried on by the promoters of one of the constituent companies of the great organization, a pool of all of the retail soft coal interests in Cleveland will be effected within the next ten days. J. P. Morgan started this coal combination three years ago and to the accomplishment of this end Mr. Morgan is said to have given himself wirhout reserve and will take up the work as soon as he returns from Europe.

An Italian Counsel Fled.

New York, July 3. — The World says: As a result of the many threats against his life by Anarchists an indefinite leave of absence has been granted Giovanni Branchi, the Italian Consul-General in this city. It is said that he has gone back to Italy, where he will remain until the left the Consul employed a bodyguard. their plottings. For weeks before he Paterson "Reds" are less active in and kept his place of residence a secret. His personal mail was received at the Lotos Club, but he was seldom seen there and sent a messenger daily to get his letters.

Before the Bar.

London, July 3.—Earl Russell appeared at the bar of the House of Lords yesterday. He was formally taken into custody on the charge of bigamy by Black-Rod, Gen. Sir Michael Biddulph. When asked if he had any application to make, Earl Russell requested that the trial be postponed beyond July 18, in order to enable him to prepare his defence. His application will be heard July 4. The earl was released on bail. The proceedings were private.

Two Dead, Two Injured.

Butte, Montana, July 3.—Two dead, two severely if not fatally injured, and a score more or less hurt, is the result of a fire which broke out at the Pullman Lodging House, 114 West Mercury street, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The lodging house contained about a hundred guests, none of whom were able to save anything except what they wore.

Railroad Men Pensioned.

Chicago, July 3.—Two hundred employes of the Illinois Central Railway were retired yesterday from pensions. BATTLE AT SHANYANG

Chinese Native Troops Defeated the Mohammedans.

RUSSIA IS AFTER MANCHURIA.

Has Installed a Civil Administration at Newchwang, Who Has Already Been Recognized—British and Japanese to Suggest to Li Hung Chang an Effectual Barrier to Russian Aggression.

Tien Tsin, July 3.—Fresh reports of fighting in Manchuria and on the frontier of Chi-Li Province have been received. A battle has been fought at Shan Yang, in which the natives defeated the Mohammedans. Gen. Tung Fuh Sian is reported as attacking the Chinese converts in Shan Si Province.

Russia Is After Manchuria.

Pekin, July 2.—The installation of Russia as a civil administrator in Newchwang, Manchuria, has caused the question of the occupation of that Province by the Russians to again become prominent. Some of the powers have already recognized the administrator, but the Ministers of other nations are doubtful as to the course to be followed in the matter, and are awiting instructions from their home governments. Among those thus awaiting instructions is the representative of the United States. It is understood that the British and Japanese Ministers will recommend to Li Hung Chang some plan for opening Manchuria to the world in such a way as to constitute an effectual barrier to Russian aggression and to avoid trade and other complications that are otherwise bound to follow a Russian occupation. The matter has not yet been presented to the court.

KITCHENER'S LATEST REPORT.

Over Four Hundred More Killed, Wounded and Captured.

London, July 3.—A despatch received at the War Office Monday from Gen. Kitchener states that since June 24 the various British columns in South Africa report: Boers killed, 74; Boers wounded, 60; Boers captured, 160; Boers surrendered, 136; rifles captured, 131; ammunition captured, 15,800 rounds; wagons captured, 304.

Have Lots of Ammunition.

Chicago, July 3. — The Record-Herald prints the following from its correspondent at The Hague: The Record-Herald correspondent is informed from reliable journalistic sources that the Orange River Colony is supplied with ammunition sufficient to last another year. It is added that the Orange River Colony's resources in shells and powder exceeds those of the Transvaal.

Peace delegates direct from the field are expected home in Holland within a few weeks. All parties on the Boer side insist that no peace is possible, as far as republicans are concerned, without a guarantee of absolute local autonomy.

Train Wrecked Near Chatsworth.

Owen Sound, Ont., July 3.—As a heavy through freight train from Toronto, on the C. P. R., was approaching Chatsworth about noon yesterday, eight cars were thrown down an embankment. The accident is supposed to have been caused by a turned rail. The engine and several cars passed over the spot safely, but six cars of freight, an empty passenger coach and the van went over the bank. The 1.20 passenger train up was held by the break, and the passengers transferred. No one was injured, and it is expected that the line will be opened in a few hours. The auxiliary from this place is at work at the point at present, and little delay is anticipated.

Sir Thomas Galt Buried.

Toronto, July 3. — Although it was the wish of the family that the funeral yesterday of the late Sir Thomas Galt be strictly private, yet a large number was present to pay their last respects to the departed former Chief Justice. At the family residence, 95 Pembroke street, an impressive service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Waters of New Orleans, assisted by Rev. H. C. Dixon, who also officiated at the grave in St. James' Cemetery. Many prominent members of the bench and bar from all parts of the province were present.

Killed by a Train.

Berlin, July 3.—About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, as Conductor Hanson, with his train, was coming out of Waterloo on the Waterloo Branch of the G. T. R., an old man named Schilter deliberately threw himself in front of the engine. He was instantly killed. Deceased lived near the scene of his tragic end, and was over 70 years of age. No reason is given for his rash act.

THE OTTAWA PROTEST

Examination of Mr. Thomas Birkett, M.P., the Respondent.

HE SUBSCRIBED $1,500 TO FUND

How His Expense Account Came to Total $1,640—Ignorant of How the Money Was Expended—Feeling Strangers for Votes—The Patronage of the Riding—Canada's Customs Revenues.

Ottawa, July 3.—Mr. Thomas Birkett was examined for discovery yesterday morning in connection with the petition to set aside his election as Conservative member for Ottawa. The examination was conducted by Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, who was assisted by L. Lorne McDougall. Mr. Aylesworth asked what Mr. Birkett had subscribed to the election fund. The latter answered $1,500—one check for $1,000 and one for $500. Of this amount his agent, Mr. R. G. Code, returned $360. After this other accounts of the association came in during February. The association had no funds to meet its indebtedness. He was asked if he would settle them. He replied that he would do so if there was nothing illegal to pay. He referred them to Mr. Code, and afterwards gave his check for $500. This made his expense account $1,640. He did not know how any part of the money was expended. In giving further evidence Mr. Birkett said that Mr. Champagne had not subscribed as much as he did to the fund. He understood that Mr. Champagne, the defeated Conservative candidate, gave $700. He did not know who else subscribed or what the Conservative association gave. Witness denied that there were any refreshments in the Conservative committee rooms. He did not buy any drinks after nomination and but once before then. This was on October 19, when he and Mr. Champagne were in Ashburnham Hill. They were out feeling. He had asked two men that day that were in the hotel to have something, and they had done so.

Mr. Aylesworth—Were you feeling these men?

Mr. Birkett replied that nothing was said about elections. He did not know the men. As far as he knew, no payments were made for speakers.

When the patronage question was broached Mr. Birkett said the Conservatives were hopeful for a change of Government, but they hardly expected their hopes to be realized.

Mr. Aylesworth—If a change of Government took place you would have expected to have considerable to do with patronage? Mr. Birkett said the possibility of a change was so far in the distance that the matter was not discussed.

CANADA'S CUSTOMS.

The Year Shows the Largest Receipts in the Dominion's History.

Ottawa, July 3.—The year in Dominion finances closed with June. The actual amount received at the Accountant's Office, Ottawa, as customs revenue for June last was $2,340,201, an increase of $148,463 over the same month of last year, when the receipts were $2,191,737.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, the revenue was $81,236 in excess of the preceding twelve months. The figures are: 1901, $28,990,254; 1900, $28,909,018. The receipts from customs duties at outlying points, which will probably amount to $100,000, have yet to be received. When these are in hand they will make the aggregate increase of revenue for the year $200,000.

This is an excellent showing, more especially when it is remembered that there was an 8 per cent. decrease in the duties on British goods last year, as compared with the year previous.

The customs revenue has increased by about $9,000,000 since 1896. In that year the customs receipts were $20,219,037, in 1897 $19,891,996, in 1898 $22,157,783, in 1899 $25,734,228, in 1900 $28,909,018, and 1901 $28,990,254.

LONDON BYE-ELECTION.

Colonel F. B. Leys and Mr. F. J. Darch Formally Nominated.

London, July 3.—Col. F. B. Leys, the city's former representative in the Legislative Assembly, and Mr. F. J. Darch, the candidate for the Socialist Labor party, will contest London in the election of July 9, rendered necessary by the resignation of Col. Leys. The official nomination took place yesterday morning, and was followed by the usual speeches. Col. Leys was nominated by Mr. Geo. C. Gibbons, seconded by Mr. James Herrick. The nomination of Mr. Darch was made by Mr. F. Hazelgrove, seconded by Mr. David Ross. It was announced that Mr. Alex. Purdom and Mr. H. B. Ashplant will act as agents of Col. Leys and Mr. Darch respectively.

BOTH SIDES ARE WINNING.

Strikers Declare Men Are Staying Out—Train Wrecked at Cranbrook

Toronto, July 3.—In the Canadian Pacific Railway trackmen's strike both sides continue to claim to be winning. There is as wide a difference as ever in the reports handed out by the men and the officials as to the situation of the strike. The men in Toronto appear as confident as ever that they will win and are holding out to a man.

Engineer William T. Upthegrove of the C. P. R. yesterday stated that the engineers had not endorsed the action of the trackmen in going out on strike.

Wrecked a Train.

New York, July 3.—Th? Commercial has the following special from Vancouver: Word was received from Nelson, B. C., yesterday that some of the thousand trackmen on strike on the Canadian Pacific Railroad wrecked a train at Cranbrook, B. C. They signalled a heavy freight "O. K." at the Cranbrook switch. They then opened the switch, and as the engine jumped the track they fired a volley of stones into the cab. The engine jumped the track they followengine rolled down the embankment and was wrecked.

The engineer was dragged from the engine more dead than alive, but may recover.

Committed For Trial.

Peterboro, July 3.—At the preliminary hearing before Police Magistrate Edminson last night, John Hays, a bailiff, and constable of Arden, was committed for trial upon two serious charges of intimidating the employes of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and obstructing the free use and maintenance of the railway, bail being fixed at $2,000.

The evidence showed that the accused acted as ringleader of a body of 30 or 40 men, who came to the railway station on the evening of the 28th ulto., and compelled a gang of nine men employed by the company as sectionmen to abandon their work on the track by threats that they would blow up or burn their boarding car, giving them intoxicating liquor, calling them scabs, etc.

The magistrate, in committing the accused for trial, commented upon the danger of the traveling public if such efforts resulted in the track not being properly inspected, and the enormity of the offence charged.

Two Arrested.

Fredericton, N. B., July 3.—The striking section foreman, E. Appleby, and sectionman, T. Kennedy, formerly employed on the Gibson Branch, have been arrested and brought here for trial on a charge of interferring with sectionmen at work on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

AN APPEAL WILL FOLLOW.

Lord's Day Alliance Wins Suit Against Sunday Excursions.

Fort Erie, Ont., July 3. — Capt. Harry Tyrie of the steamer Pennsylvania, was arraigned before Police Magistrate Logan in Fort Erie on June 24, on the charge of having violated a section of the provincial law of Ontario, known as the Lord's Day Act, in running the steamer to and out of Port Colborne on Sunday June 23. Chief of Police Griffin of Fort Erie was named as the complainant, but the Port Colborne section of the Lord's Day Alliance was the real complainant. After argument the case was then closed and the magistrate reserved judgment yesterday. The magistrate's decision given out yesterday finds the captain guilty and fines him $25. The captain will appeal.

A young probationer was preaching his trial sermon in a church in one of the inland villages of Scotland, says The Scottish American. After finishing the "discoorse" he leaned over the pulpit and engaged in silent prayer, an act which rather surprised the congregation, who were unaccustomed to such procedure. Suddenly the young preacher felt some one slapping him gently on the shoulder, and on turning round he beheld the beadle, who said:

"Hoot, toot, man, dinna tak' it sae muckle to hert. Ye'll maybe dae better neat time."

SAVING A MOTHER.

It is no small matter to save a young mother to her little children and her husband after she had been given up to die of consumption by her physicians and her family—she had given herself up.

Anything that would bring her back to life and loved ones is worth knowing about and talking about. We think so; you think so, too—we know you do; she thinks so, and talks about it.

Powley's Liquified Ozone saved the life of Mrs. Julia Sheffield, of Zephyr Post-Office, Scott Township, Ontario County, Ont. A small place—a humble home. Any home and any mother is worth saving. Here is her statement—better read it :—

DOMINION OF CANADA, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, COUNTY OF ONTARIO, To wit:— } IN THE MATTER OF JULIA SHEFFIELD, of the Township of Scott, in the County of Ontario, and in the Matter of Her Restoration to Health.

I, JULIA SHEFFIELD, of the Township of Scott, in the County of Ontario, married woman, DO SOLEMNLY DECLARE that on the 15th day of February, 1900, I was taken down with Pneumonia and inflammation of the lungs, and was in bed seven weeks, and during the course of my illness I had frequent bleedings of the lungs, and was unable to work, and was in bad health all the following summer, and had an extreme cough, and would cough for two and three hours at a time. On the 24th of June, 1900, I moved into my father's home, Wm. Doodruff, at Mount Albert. About the 13th August I was forced to take to my bed again, and was in bed most of the time until the end of the year. At that time the attending physician told my father that there was not a half-pound of flesh on my body, and the doctor said it was impossible for me to recover, and that it was only a matter of a short time until death would come. I was sinking rapidly each day. At this time I was taking Creosote to the extent of sixty drops a day. I had four physicians attending me from the time I took sick, until I commenced taking Ozone, and they each and all pronounced that I had consumption, and could not recover.

I finally rallied, and was able to get up and go round the house with assistance, but I was gradually sinking, and my vitality was very low.

My husband had been advised to try Ozone, and one Sunday at the beginning of 1901, he purchased a 50-cent bottle at Mount Albert, and I commenced taking it at once, and after taking the second bottle, I began to improve, and have now taken 18 bottles, and I have gained in flesh at least 25 lbs., and my health is almost completely restored, and I feel as well and look as well as I ever did, and I fully believe that I am completely cured.

I am now back to my husband's home, and doing my work as usual. My friends and neighbours are simply astounded to see me out and well again, and I am glad to be able to recommend to suffering humanity the great Ozone that has cured me.

I have also recommended Ozone to several of my friends, and I know of another young lady at Mount Albert who is taking it for consumption, and she is getting better.

I fully believe that had it not been for Ozone I would have been in my grave to-day, and to Ozone and Ozone alone I attribute my cure and the enjoyment of health and comfort to-day, and I consider it a "God send" to suffering humanity.

AND I MAKE this solemn declaration, conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

DECLARED before me at the Township of Scott, in the County of Ontario, this Sixth Day of May, A.D. 1901. J. McCULLOUGH, Notary Public for Ontario. } MRS. JULIA SHEFFIELD.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the Cattle Market to-day were light—37 loads all told, composed of 626 cattle, 250 hogs, 558 sheep and lambs, with about 40 calves.

Trade was generally draggy for fat cattle, with a very slow market. Shippers are not selling so well, and prices are off fully 25c per cwt.

Prices for butcher cattle were easier, with trading only in the best qualities. Grasers and grass cows, of which there were a large number offered, are not wanted, and several lots were left unsold.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 2.—Cattle—All the cattle receipts were consigned thru. There was no change in the feeling of the market. Strictly choice fat cattle were steady and the green half-fat kind are not wanted.

Sheep and Lambs—Offerings, eight loads of sheep and lambs left over from yesterday. There was no demand, and the market was at a standstill; nominally spring lambs were quotable at $6.50 to $6.75; mixed sheep, $3.90 to $4.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 2.—Beeves—Receipts, none, and nothing doing. Exports—Cattle, 700; 1611 sheep and 4500 quarters of beef; to-morrow, 1800 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 165; 740 on sale; few good veals sold at $5.50; buttermilks nominal; nearly 700 calves unsold.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5006 head; 35 cars on sale. Sheep dull and barely steady; medium to good sheep, $3 to $3.50; medium to choice lambs, $5.37½ to $6.25; one care extra, $6.50.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 2.—Cattle—Steady; good to prime steers, $5.20 to $6.25; poor to medium, $4.10 to $5.10; stockers and feeders weak, $2.50 to $4.40; cows, $2.60 to $4.85; heifers, $2.05 to $5; calves steady, $4 to $6.40; Texas-fed steers, $4.25 to $5.25; hogs, quiet; mixed and butchers', $5.80 to $6.15; good to choice, heavy, $5.95 to $6.30; rough, heavy, $5.80 to $5.90; light, $5.60 to $6.10; bulk of sales, $5.95 to $6.07½.

Sheep—Good to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.10; fair to choice, mixed, $3 to $3.75; Western sheep, $3.25 to $4; yearlings, $3.75 to $4.15; native lambs, $3.25 to $6.10.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Ingersoll, Ont., July 2.—At the Cheese Board, held here to-day, 550 boxes colored were boarded; 8½c bid, but no sales.

Campbellford, Ont., July 2.—Cheese Board met to-day; 2250 offered. Watkin, 112 at 8⅝c; Cook, 700 at 8⅝c; Magrath, 410 at 8⅝c; Magrath, 305 at 8⅝c. Balance refused.

Heat Destroys Russian Crops.

Irkutsk, July 3.—With its crops withering under the present wave of equatorial heat, the great Valley of the Volga is threatened with widespread famine. The river has fallen so low that steamers and barges conveying 1,000,000 poods (15,873 tons) of freight have grounded and cannot get to their destination until rains swell the stream to its normal level. The rural peasantry is destitute in many districts. Farmers, landlords and traders are apprehensive of serious times. The distress is so great that the people are emigrating.

Succeeds Bedford-Jones.

Kingston, July 3. — Rev. Prof. Worrell of St. Mark's Church and professor of English in the Royal Military College, has been appointed Archdeacon of Kingston, in succession to the late Rev. Bedford-Jones, Brockville. The new Archdeacon is a son of Rev. Canon Worrell, Oakville. Archdeacon Clancy becomes Archdeacon of Ontario, dropping the title of Archdeacon of Quinte.

Sunday Cars in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, July 3. — It was learned yesterday morning that a petition to the City Council, praying that the question of running street cars on Sunday be submitted to the citizens to vote on, is being drafted, and will shortly be circulated for signature.

LEADER MAY RETIRE.

Crisis in Ranks of British Liberals is Now Acute.

A LIBERAL PARTY MEETING.

Call Issued for Tuesday Next—Lord Rosebery Wanted—He Is Returning to England—Mr. Asquith's One Defect as Leader of the Party—How It May Be Surmounted.

London, July 3.—The crisis in the ranks of the Liberal party has reached an acute stage. This fact was publicly admitted and deplored by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the leader of the party, in a speech at Southampton last night. Although the rumors that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has already resigned the leadership of the party are premature, a meeting of the party has been suddenly convened for next Tuesday, when it is expected he will virtually offer his resignation.

The Imperialist section of the Liberal party, headed by Herbert H. Asquith, former Liberal Home Secretary, has been doing its utmost to enlist Lord Rosebery on its side, but up to the present time the latter has made no sign of meeting its desires. Lord Rosebery arrived at Vienna from Castein, on Monday, on his way to England. He will arrive in London next Friday. Should he be willing to resume the leadership and support Mr. Asquith, it is probable the latter would become the party leader in the House of Commons.

It was understood that Mr. Asquith would have long ago been elected as leader of the Imperial party had he been possessed of ample means. This financial difficulty would be surmounted by the resumption of the leadership by Lord Rosebery.

WILL SUE CITY OF ANTWERP.

Losers by Recent Warehouse Fires Believe They Can Recover.

Antwerp, July 3.—Proceedings, said to be without parallel in the history of insurance in this country, have been taken against the City of Antwerp in connection with the recent disastrous fire in the Municipal Bonded Warehouse.

The uninsured consignees of merchandise stored in the Municipal Warehouse have pooled their interests with the intention of recovering their losses from the municipality. They assert that the building was not provided with adequate protection against the risk of fire, and that the City Fire Department is criminally inefficient.

Among the stocks destroyed in the fire were large quantities of tobacco, agricultural implements, machinery, hardware and preserved meats from the United States. The syndicate of uninsured consignees has engaged the services of Mr. Beernaert, Minister of State, one of the most brilliant lawyers in Belgium.

Sore Throat and Hoarseness.

with their attendant dangers may be speedily averted and remedied by the use of Polson's Nerviline. Excellent to gargle with—ten times better than a mustard plaster and more convenient for the outside. Nerviline penetrates the tissues instantly, soothes the pain, allays inflammation, and cures sore throat and hoarseness simply because that's what it is made for. The large 25 cent bottle of Nerviline is unexcelled as a household liniment. It cures everything.

95° IN THE SHADE!

You've felt it. Most of us have. Few escape. Garments are a burden, and heavy shoes a thorn in the flesh. Shed your heavy clothes and don light shoes. Not Necessarily leather shoes, though for that matter there is nothing like leather. Good sense, enterprise, and a grip of the fitness of things has placed before us a variety of cosy fitting, light and comfortable shoes, for hot weather wear. Here are a few:

Men's Tan Canvas Bals., easy, comfortable, the right shade, a very seemly shoe, and the money only..... $1.75

Men's White Canvas Bals., with the famous Goodyear Welt, an extra fine shoe, sewed sole, elastic and springy to the step. Here, per pair, only..... $2.25

Here's a capital line in Men's White Canvas Oxford Shoes, the kind that are low, airy and comfortable, and low enough in price, too,—only.. $1.65

Men's Coloured Canvas Oxford Shoes, with leather strap across the foot, a very durable shoe..... 90c

Men's Dongola Oxford Shoes, light, cool and graceful..... $1.50

Tennis and Bowling Shoes, the exact thing needed, at 85c per pair, mind, only..... 85c

A Capital Shoe for camping and on the lakes, will do a lot of service,.. 55c

LADIES' SHOES.

Vici Kid, in Oxford style. This is one of the "Neill Shoes," and the best shoe of its pattern made.... $2.50

Vici Kid, same style as above, with turned sole..... $2.00

Four Button Dongola, a low shoe with arched instep, stylish and neat $1.65

Married in Toronto.

The marriage took place on Wednesday, June 26th, at Toronto, of Miss Elizabeth McKenzie, eldest daughter of Mr. James McKenzie, No. 23 Oak street, Toronto, to Mr. R. J. Bullen, formerly of town. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. F. C. Heathcote. Mr. Bullen was formerly in the employ of the Canadian General Electric Co.

Down the River.

The Epworth League of George Street Methodist Church held a most delightful moonlight excursion down the Otonabee river last night per steamer Water Lily. The boat left the Wolfe street warf at eight o'clock having on board a fair sized crowd of excursionists. The eight or nine mile trip down the river was very much enjoyed and the party arrived home at about midnight.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late George Houston, who met his death by drowning in the Otombee River over a week ago and whose body was recovered at Campbelltown on Monday, took place at one o'clock this morning from his late residence, corner of Reid and Smith streets. The funeral was very largely attended, the services being conducted by the Orange Order, of which deceased was a member, being connected with L.O.L. No. 41, Emily. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. J. G. Potter and at the grave by Messrs. Walter McGee and McCuaig, on behalf of the Orange Order. The pall bearers were Messrs. Wm. Head, H. Finley, J. Mahood, A. McCall, J. Fowler and W. J. Finley.

When he did, however, he made a spring on the cowcatcher of the iron monster and after the bridge was past the train was brought to a stop and the dog let off.

Popular Organizer.

Mr. Harry Brown, organizer for the Royal Arcanum, has been in town for the past few days in the interests of his order. He has met with great success in enrolling new members and about thirty initiations are to be made on Thursday night. At the close of the general meeting a banquat will be held in the Oriental Hotel.

At Jackson Park.

The George Street Methodist Sunday School picnic will be held tomorrow, July 4th at Jackson Park. Busses will leave the church every half hour from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Fare 5 cents single trip. There will be no general table but tea and hot water will be supplied free of charge. Baskets left at the church will be taken to the grounds.

Woodmen of the World Blooming.

There was another rousing meeting at Sherwood Forest Camp. No. 50, Canadian Order of Woodmen of the World, on Tuesday evening, in the Simcoe street hall. The work of the energetic organizer, Mr. Jas. A. Ramplin, D.C.C., who has been doing yeoman service on behalf of the order in Peterborough during the past few weeks, was again very much in evidence. He presented the Camp with another interesting bouquet of twenty-two fresh applicants, and fifteen sturdy new Woodmen in full bloom received their initiatory obligation. These additions will bring Sherwood Forest Camp's membership up to 135, a phenomenal growth within the past month. Bro. Ramplin took official charge of the degree work and put on the beautiful initiation ceremony in an effective and impressive manner. After routine business of the evening was disposed of the brethren partook of lunch in their refreshment room, and indulged in enthusiastic fraternal greetings.

NOTED TORONTO COUNSEL

Were Here on a Case Last Night.

John Hayes of Frontenac County is the Accused in a Railway Case—Out on Bail for one Week.

A rather extraordinary case came up before County Magistrate Edmison last night at which several prominent Toronto lawyers were in attendance.

John Hayes, of Arden, in the County of Frontenac, was charged with committing four rather serious offences, the complainants being the Canadian Pacific Railway Company of Canada.

The charges were in effect that the accused unlawfully and without any authority, interfered with the free use of the railway, and endeavoured to prevent the men of the road from doing their work.

Hayes is a rather prominent man in his own neighbourhood. He is a county constable, sheriff's officer, and a mail carrier between the station and the village of Arden. He was arrested and brought to town on Sunday last by a constable of the C.P.R., and was lodged for safe keeping in the town cells. According to the Railway Law it is possible to bring an accused party before a magistrate of any municipality along the line, provided only that the said accused party has been arrested by a constable of the railway company. This, then, accounts for the apparently extraordinary procedure of Hayes being arrested in Frontenac, and being brought before the local County Magistrate.

Police Magistrate Dumble allowed the prisoner to go on Monday on his own undertaking to appear at five o'clock on Tuesday, but the railway constable, who appears to have considerable authority vested in him, inasmuch as he has the privilege of saying by whom his prisoner shall be tried, had the case come on before County Magistrate Edmison, as previously stated, last night.

The court room was crowded with interested spectators. Mr. McMurrich, of Toronto, appeared on behalf of the railway company, and Mr. E. F. B. Johnston was present on behalf of the Crown. Mr. W. A. Stratton represented prisoner, who did not plead. The time of the court was taken up until after eleven o'clock, the greater portion of which was spent in discussing points of law. The evidence on the first charge was gone into, and the case was adjourned for one week. Hayes was released from custody on $2,000 bail, of two sureties. Should he appear at the specified time before the Kingston police magistrate, it will be equivalent to his appearing before County Magistrate Edmison, who will forward the despositions already taken, to the Kingston officials.

A VALUABLE MAN.

Leaves Peterborough for Montreal—Mr. T. H. Martin's Departure.

The following resolution referring to the removal of Mr. T. H. Martin from town was passed unanimously at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A.:

Resolved that we, the members of the Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors extend our hearty congratulations to Mr. T. H. Martin, the recording secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of Peterborough, on his advancement to a position of responsibility and trust in being appointed manager of the bindery department of the Montreal Herald, and at the same time we express our sincere regret that this involves the departure of himself and wife from Peterborough. That the members of this board feel that in Mr. Martin's departure they are losing the assistance of one whose enthusiasm, good judgment, and Christian worth will cause him to be long remembered.

Hammocks & Sporting Goods.

An attractive lot of hammocks at various prices—some special makes, quite new, at the Peterborough Bookstore. We are agents for Spaulding's New York sporting goods. A. H. Stratton & Co.

Obituary.

After an illness extending over a year, during which time the patient endured much suffering, John Windover died at the Nicholls Hospital at 5 o'clock yesterday evening. The deceased was 48 years of age, and his home was in Bobcaygeon. Over twelve months ago he fell from a scaffold, receiving the injuries which have since proved fatal. He had been twice married, his last wife predeceasing him just a few days previous to the accident with which he met. He leaves a family of ten children. The funeral will take place to Lakefield to-morrow morning.

Back From Port Hope.

The 57th Regimental Band returned last night from Port Hope, where they had been taking part in the Port Hope Old Boys' re-union. The band, needless to say, created a very favourable impression, although there were several splendid musical organizations to go up against, including a Rochester band. Amongst the Peterborough citizens who were present yesterday were Mayor Denne, and Messrs. J. J. Turner, sr., J. J. Turner, jr., Reg. Turner, George Lynch, Bob Brown, Ed. Brown, Alex. Elliott, Bruce Rickey, Bruce Hutchinson, Wm. Mitchell and Caleb Brown. The 20th Century Club put on Uncle Tom's Cabin.

It's the Baby.

If you lose a pound in flesh it doesn't matter much. But if it's the baby it may mean everything. There is no food in the world equal to Scott's Emulsion for making thin babies plump. If you have a thin baby in the house you'll be surprised to see how it will thrive on this nourishing and fat-forming food.

NEW PHYSICAL DIRECTOR.

Of the Local Y. M. C. A.—Mr. Horace Ayers Receives the Appointment.

Mr. Horace Ayers, who for the past six months has acted as assistant and boys' department secretary at the Y.M.C.A., left to-day for Toronto, where he will spend a few weeks with Mr. Howard Crocker, Physical Director of the Central Y.M.C.A., studying physical work. He will then take the course for physical directors at the summer school at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin. This school is one of the best on the continent. Mr. Ayers is taking a course to qualify himself for the position of Physical Director of the Peterborough Association, to which he has been unanimously elected by the Board of Directors, at their last regular meeting. Although his name was considered with a number of outside men, and some of them of older years and experience, yet the board felt that Mr. Ayers had shown such marked ability and energy in connection with his work as assistant, as well as having charge of the physical department during the illness of the retiring physical director, during which time he showed many qualities needed for one in such work, the board without hesitation decided that with his training at the summer school he would be well fitted to serve them and the membership of the association. Mr. Ayers has after some consideration accepted and will return on the first of September to take charge of the work. Mr. Ayers is deservedly popular with all classes of the membership and these with a strong physical committee, will give him all the co-operation he desires during the coming season. His many friends will join in the wish that his stay at Lake Geneva besides being an educational help, will also afford him much physical stimulus and enjoyment. Mr. Ayers was formerly on the Examiner staff.

SPILSBURY SENTENCED.

His Honour Judge Weller this morning delivered judgment in the Spilsbury case. Accused was allowed to go on suspended sentence, provided his friends have him removed to Dakota, where he has a sister residing, otherwise he will be re-arrested and given another sentence.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

GREAT SALE OF WASH DRESS GOODS.

We announce for this week a tremendous sale of Wash Dress Goods, comprising over 2500 yards of the latest American production of high-class summer goods. It's Peterborough's share of a gigantic syndicate purchase secured by our buyer in Boston while en route for Europe. They go on sale this week, just in the niche of time, when everybody is looking for summer goods.

Pick out the one you want from this immense assortment. Cool, delicate and gauzy things for the hot days and a wonderful lot of fashion about them, too. If you want the popular things that will be worn at the big summer resorts, priced so low they are within reach of all, come early.

500 Yards Fine Quality Batiste Muslins, in light coloured, newest designs. The regular price is 20c per yard, our wash goods sale price, 12 1-2c per yard.

750 Yards Fine Quality Batiste Muslins, in navy blue grounds, royal blue grounds, black grounds and cardinal grounds, mostly in small patterns, including the new dots, regular price 25c per yard, our wash goods sale price, 15c per yard.

A SUMMER WAIST.

You'll have to get another Shirt Waist when you see this lot. You can get both fashion and comfort if you select from the material we are showing. There are many beautiful patterns in the lot, and women of taste speak enthusiastically about them. Prices are quite small—for instance, Beautiful High-class Dimities, in lovely effects, the real swagger stuff, nothing like it has been seen before and the price is only 30c per yard.

500 Yards Fine Quality India Muslin White, for fine white waists, our wash goods sale price, 25c per yard.

THE RIGHT LENGTH.

It requires great care in fitting you with a skirt that is all-ready-to-wear. We are particular about this matter because we are anxious that the fit should be perfect. We have a more than ordinary complete stock of ready-made Skirts, both in linen, crash and piques, and you'll find them quite different to the ordinary run of ready-made skirts. It is very probable that you can be suited here better than elsewhere at a price that will suit you, too. Prices like these:

A Good Quality well-made Linen Skirt at 75c, with the better and more tastely made ones at $1.00, $1.75, $2.25 and $2.50.

In White Pique we show an immense range with a particularly nice one at $1.50, and beautifully trimmed ones at $2.00, $3.00, $3.25, $4.00 and $4.50. You must see them.

A FASHIONABLE ARRAY.

It scarcely pays to worry over a new collar for each occasion when you can get such a variety of attractive ones here for these little prices. All that is new and smart in shapes and ornamentation. Cut to be comfortable, to look stylish, and priced to make short and easy work of the selling.

WAS NO QUORUM.

At the Board of Education Last Night—Those Present.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Board of Education was to have been held last night but there was no quorum. When the clock struck eight there were the following members congregated around the steps leading to the Board Room,—Messrs. W. H. Hill, Chairman, Jas. Stevenson, V. Eastwood, Wm. Langford, J. J. Hartley and W. G. Ferguson. It required two more members to make a quorum. As there is important business to be disposed of a special meeting will likely be called at an early date.

WEDDING BELLS.

Mr. R. Bryne of British Columbia Weds Miss Allen of Galway.

The Church of St. Mary, the Immaculate, Galway, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on the morning of June 25th, when Rev. Father O'Leary, Parish Priest, united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Miss M. A. Allen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen, of Mount Irwin, and Mr. R. Bryne of British Columbia. The bridal party entered the sacred edifice as the beautiful strains of the wedding march pealed forth, and took their respective places.

The bride was handsomely costumed in a gown of steel gray, beautifully trimmed with cream satin, and hat to match. She carried a white satin covered Prayer Book, and a bouquet of white flowers.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Miss Maggie, attired in blue and white delaine, and carrying a bouquet of blue and white flowers; and Miss Gertrude, who acted as maid of honour, and who looked charming in white Swiss muslin and pink satin sash.

The groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. T. Byrne.

The solemn and interesting ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of the contracting parties. After the usual congratulations and amidst showers of rice and good wishes, the happy couple, accompanied by their friends, drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous repast awaited them. The afternoon was spent in a happy, social manner, in music and song. The joyful occasion called forth reminiscenses of former weddings in the early days, when the only team and wagon that the township could boast of, was put into use, for in those primitive days buggies were not heard of.

Among the numerous guests were Dr. and Mrs. White, of Kinmount; Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. M. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. M. Byrne, of Sommerville, parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. T. Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Byrne, Miss B. Clarke, of Fenelon Falls, Miss L. Allen, of Douro, Miss Nathan, Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Chevers, Mr. and Mrs. Flaherty, Mr. and Mrs. Cain, Mr. and Mrs. Collins.

The evening was spent in dancing and social intercourse. The bride and groom are exceedingly popular amongst a wide circle of friends, as was evident from the great number of presents of a handsome and costly variety. The newly married couple left for their future home in the Western States.

CANADIAN PHILATELISTS.

Officers Elected at the Annual Convention in Montreal.

Montreal, July 1.—The annual convention of the League of Canadian Philatelists was held here to-day. In the absence of the president, Mr. W. Kelsey Hall, of Peterborough, Ont., Capt. F. Wurtelle, of Montreal, occupied the chair, and there was a fair attendance of the delegates. The president's report, which was read, stated that 150 new members had ben enrolled during the year. It was decided to change the name of the organization to the Canadian Philatetic Society. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, W. Kelsey Hall, Peterborough, Ont.; Vice-President, Capt. F. Wurtelle, Quebec; Vice-President, United States, H. A. Chapman, Rocky Hill, Conn.; Sec.-Treas., C. H. Fowler, Boston, Mass.; Sales Superintendent, H. Smith, Medford, Mass.

CELEBRATION CRITICIZED.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir, — Now that the great and only procrastinated phantasmagoria has come and gone, let us take a retrospect. Was not the cloudy weather and normal temperature of the 24th of May more favourable for pleasure than the torrid sun of Monday, with its clouds of dust; and as for the fireworks, such as they were, would they not have made a better display on the cloudy night of the 24th of May than they did on Monday night, with a full moon? The result has justified the complaints that were made for the adjournment, apart from the disappointment created to the thousands at the time. It was conceded on all sides that the whole show was a failure. It is true that it was a little more elaborate than the impromptu one of the 24th of May, but not less silly, to say nothing of spending the people's money in such a way. Indeed, we might well ask, if such exhibitions are desirable, even if they cost nothing, for what is there in them inspiring or ennobling? It is true that a few ice cream parlours, lager beer saloons and hotels profit by them, but what about the community at large?

Yours, etc.,
TAXPAYER.

MILITARY NEWS.

The Kingston News contained the following items of interest last week, concerning the Barriefield camp:

Sgt.-Trumpeter Goldie, of the 3rd Dragoons, was thrown from a fractious horse which he had borrowed yesterday and received a severe cut on one of his legs.

Lt. W. Hall, "B" Squadron, of the 3rd Dragoons, is a most popular officer. He is a son of Mr. Adam Hall, Peterborough. The Lieutenant rides one of the best mounts in the camp.

This fall the 3rd Dragoons and 4th Hussars will be raised from 223 to 364 men in strength and each squadron leader will rank as a major.

Captain Garvin, Quartermaster of the 3rd Dragoons, is an author, poet, politician, soldier and sport. He is one of the best wrestlers in camp. Being a good soldier he is a ladies' man. During the past couple of nights the captain has taken in several social events and has been captivated by the charms of the fair ladies. No doubt the captain's next poetical effusion will be full of expression, describing the charms of the Kingston maids. The captain expresses regret that he could not find dances for all the ladies he met.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

CANOEING.

A meeting will be held in the Oriental Hotel at seven o'clock tomorrow night for the purpose of discussing the advisability of putting on a regatta on Little Lake some night next week. All canoeists and others interested in the matter are invited to attend. It is proposed to make the regatta a large one and the programme of sport for the evening will include several racing events. Let canoeists be on hand tomorrow night.

LACROSSE.

At Port Hope yesterday the Vatican Lacrosse Club was defeated by 7 goals to 0.

BOWLING.

Members in the final draw of the skip competition are reminded that these matches should be played off this week in order that the selection of rinks may take place at once.

An interesting scratch match at the green last evening resulted as follows:

J M McIntyre	Ed. Cox
R Kerr	H Armstrong
M Green, sk...17.	W J English, sk...17.

QUOITING.

In the quoit match which took place on Dominion Day at St. Joseph's picnic, the first prize was won by Mr. Edw. O'Brien, and the second by Mr. James O'Brien. The other competitors who were drawn to play later, defaulted by non-appearance. This was the decision given by the referee, Mr. W. J. Devlin.

BOWLING ON THE GREEN.

An old English Game Getting Popular in the U. S.

Fascination of Bowling for Admiral Drake and Charles I—National Variations in the Game.

The New Jersey Bowling Green Club will open its season at the club grounds at Communipaw on Thursday, and members of the club and people who are interested in the game are looking forward to the event with much pleasure. The game is popular in England, but although it is looked upon as one of the most enjoyable of outdoor sports, having many qualities to recommend it, there is only one club in the metropolitan district; in fact there are so few in the country that the United States will not be represented at the international games which will take place in London in June. But the interest in bowls is increasing in the United States and there are enthusiasts who believe that it will soon be as popular here as it is in England. A movement is now on foot to induce the authorities to set aside a place in Central Park which may be laid out in rinks.

In the early days of New York there were bowling greens on Manhattan Island, and one historian tells of Washington's friends indulging in the sport beside a tavern which was situated near the southern end of the island. Whether this game was the old game of bowls or lawn skittles is not known, but as bowls was a popular game in England at that time, it was probably the game with which the officers killed time on the New Amsterdam bowling green.

The game was played in England as far back as the twelfth century, but under less favourable conditions than now obtain in its modern development. During the first few centuries of the game's existence, stones were used instead of "woods," and while bowls may have been played in alleys to some extent, it is known that Southampton had a bowling green as early as 1299. The site of this green was outside of the old city walls, which fact is looked upon as confirming the belief that bowls was a prohibited pastime for many years. The game continued to hold its own in England despite the edicts against it, of which the most notable was the one issued by Henry VIII. In the seventeenth century it was introduced into Scotland, and the town council of Glasgow set aside a piece of land for a bowling green. It was transplanted across the Atlantic in 1734, when a small tract of goverrment property was officially granted to the officers of the garrison of Port Royal, Nova Scotia, for a bowling green.

James I. licensed thirty-one bowling alleys in 1617, and among the sports he advised his son Prince Henry to indulge in moderately was bowls, while he condemned football. Charles I. was a keen bowler, and it is related that when he was a captive at Caversham, near Henly, he rode to a nearby inn under escort, where there was a bowling green, and there indulged in his favourite game. A sign over the inn door bore this inscription:—

"Stop, traveller, stop! in yonder peaceful glade,
His favourite game the Royal martyr played;
Here stripped of honours, children, freedom, rank,
Drank from the bowl, and bowled for what he drank;
Sought in the bowls in vain, his cares to drown,
And changed a sovereign ere he lost his crown."

One of the stories in connection with the game which is told to illustrate its fascination is to the effect that Admiral Drake, when he was warned of the approach of the Spanish Armada, would not take command of his fleet until the game of bowls in which he was taking part was finished. The bowls which the commander of Elizabeth's fleet rolled on that occasion are still preserved and are in the custody of the Town Council of Torquay. More than a hundred years after its introduction into Scotland, the first club was formed in Glasgow, and this club still flourishes. Wherever Englishmen went they took the game of bowls with them, and in the tournaments which will take place in London next month there will be representatives from clubs in New Zealand, Australia, Canada and all the British colonies.

A writer on the subject says:

Bowls is certainly a most inexpensive hobby, for a set of good woods will last a lifetime while club membership is reasonable. It is a recreation which embraces with it all the qualities of good fellowship. It is free from every association of gambling, and it affords the highest encouragement for being efficient in every form of competition, from single-handed championships to international contests.

The object of the game is to touch the "jack," a china ball, about two and a half inches in diameter, the placing of which and playing first is decided by lot. Each player delivers his bowl from a mat at one end of the rink. The rink is about 20 feet wide and 120 feet long. In England the green is slightly crowned, but the Scotch rink is perfectly flat. The one at Communipaw is as flat as a billiard table and the grass is so thick and well kept that the comparison, "like a velvet carpet," is not an exaggerated one. In England the player keeps at least one foot on the mat while making the delivery, and in Australia the rules require that both feet shall be on the mat. In this respect the American players agree with the English.

The laws governing the game in Scotland have been adopted by the American club. They provide that no bowl shall exceed 16 1-2 inches in circumference or 3 1-2 pounds in weight. The bowl is not round, but flat at the poles. One side is a trifle more convex than the other which causes it to run on the bias when its momentum is exhausted. The rules of the game provide that this bias shall not be more than three feet; that is, that the bowl shall be so turned that it will not run on the bias more than three feet in one hundred feet. A rink or team consists of four players, each playing two bowls, the captain being called "skip." When two teams are contesting the leader of one side plays and is followed by the leader of the other side; then the second men of both sides alternate in the same way, the "skips" playing last. While the playing is going on, the "skip" stands near the "jack," and directs the delivery, indicating what bias to give, how to block the way, and how to displace the bowls of the other side. The "skips" have sole charge of their rinks, and their instructions must be obeyed by the other players. Match games are usually for 21 points. A point is taken for every bowl inside of the contesting rink's nearest bowl to the "jack." Thus eight points may be made in one set.

The bowls are made of lignum vitae. One flat side is usually decorated with a nameplate and the other has a number and by the position of these decorations the player knows the bias side.

Aaron Watson, in a book on bowls, casts doubt upon the antiquity of the game, and suggests that "stone-throwing" may have been called bowling. He suggests that "two kinds of Dutch cheese — Edam and Gouda — both serviceable as play-things, and comestibles, were the real, living, genuine bowls of our forefathers. Thus did the Dutchmen begin bowling, possibly using their bowls for lunch if by any chance or collision they fell to pieces. Ultimately they took to bowls of wood, but they adhere to the shape of the national cheese to this day.

A full sized green is forty yards square but bowls can be played upon a much smaller area, and a century ago nearly every large country house in England had its own green. On the raised or crowned greens, which may be seen in Cheshire and Lancashire, the rink method is not observed, play being over any part of the green.—New York Tribune.

Crushed Between Buffer and Post.

Montreal, July 3. — William Turnbull, the engineer of one of the Grand Trunk suburban trains, which runs between Bonaventure station and Lachine, was killed yesterday at the Grand Trunk Mountain street crossing under very distressing circumstances. Before his train left for Lachine, and while the engine was standing on the line, Turnbull went to drink out of a small water fountain reserved for the use of the gatekeeper at the crossing. While standing by the side of the fountain and leaning against the bumping post, a shunting car moved up on the siding and crushed him between the buffer and the post. Death was almost instantaneous.

ARMENIA ASHORE IN A FOG.

Anchor Line Vessel Runs on Rocks Off St. John.

St. John, N.B., July 2.—In the midst of a dense fog and without any pilot the Anchor Line steamer Armenia, Captain Shanklin, New York to St. John, went ashore on nigger Head, in the Bay of Fundy, eight miles below this port, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and will probably be a total loss. The crew were all saved, tugs going to there rescue.

CRASHED INTO A TROLLEY.

One Boy Killed and 18 Older Persons Seriously Injured.

Chicago, July 1.—One child, a boy baby 2 years old, was killed and 18 older persons injured more or less seriously yesterday morning in a collision of an electric car in Irving Park boulevard with two wagons loaded with picnickers.

The wagons were filled to their capacity and were being drawn in the middle of the street within the car rails. As the car approached the vehicles the motorman and the conductor assert that the bell was clanged loudly, but the occupants of the wagons say they heard no such warning signal.

The teams not being turned out of the tracks, the motorman declares he applied the brakes. But the car sped along with speed unchecked, and at that moment—just after 50th-avenue crossing was passed—the occupants became alarmed. The motorman was too busy with the brakes to cry out, and within the instant the crash came. The car went full tilt and with much momentum into the first of the wagons.

Annual Mobilization.

Halifax, July 1.—Halifax was under a state of siege to-day, from sunrise until midnight, the occasion being the annual mobilization of the forces. The forts were manned by over 1500 artillerists, assisted by one battalion of infantry as the defence.

The attacking force consisted of two militia battalions on land and two torpedo boats at sea. When the boats tried to effect an entrance, the forts opened fire on them and drove them to sea again. The attacking land forces were successful in outflanking the defence, as they captured a large number of prisoners and several field pieces.

The operations were carried on under the direction of Col. Simcoe, commander of the forces.

Mother Killed Her Babe.

Elkhorn, Man., July 2.—Saturday evening, when Adam Campbell went home from town, he was unable to find his wife. A search was organized and early Sunday morning she and her five-year-old child were found near a slough. The child was dead, its throat being cut, and the mother in a dying condition, having evidently cut her own throat after killing her child. She was insane.

Stabbing at Guelph.

Guelph, July 1.—A stabbing affray took place on Essex-street to-night. Some negroes, who had been imbibing a little too freely during th day up town, were raising a row, when a Mr. Hogg interfered with them. One of them, named Woods, stabbed Hogg on the left shoulder, narrowly missing an artery. Woods left the city, but was afterwards arrested by Constable Greenway and brought back to the lockup.

Killed by an Express Train.

Sydney, C.B., July 1.—John Burns, a miner in the employ of the Dominion Coal Company, met a horrible death on Saturday night, at Dominion No. 1. He was walking along the Sydney and Louisburg track, on his way home, when he was struck by the night express from Sydney and killed. His body was frightfully cut up.

The Deaf Made to Hear.

St. Thomas—A modern miracle was made known to-day when Mr. Riddle, of this city, announced that he had recovered his hearing. He has been almost entirely deaf, and it borders on the marvellous to find him able to hear everything with great distinctness. As his case is proving of such universal interest, we give Mr. Riddle's own statement. "My hearing was always poor, and not long ago I became almost deaf. It was the result of catarrhal inflammation, but nothing did me good until I used Catarrhozone. It cured my trouble and I strongly recommend it to the deaf." Fully nine-tenths of the deafness is the result of Catarrh and can be cured by catarrhozone. The cures of deafness wrought by this remedy in cases of even twenty years standing are really astounding. Among many others, ministers of the gospel testify to the wonderful powers of Catarrhozone, and your druggist can tell of some astonishing cases in his own experience. Better give it a trial, if your hearing is impared. Price $1; small size 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.

Two British Victories.

Pretoria, June 29. — Lord Kitchener in a despatch to the War Office, says: "The Boers attacked two blockhouses on the Delagoa line, near Brugspruit Right, June 26. An armored train arrived and scattered the Boers, killing four. It is reported that twenty casualities were carried off. Field Cornet De Priez has surrendered at Pietersburg with 44 men."

The Hague Court Useless.

The Hague, July 2. — The formal institution of the Dutch branch of the International Arbitration Union took place on Sunday. Messrs. Kruger, Wessels, Fisher and Wolmar were appointed honorary members. The meeting decided it would be of no use to seek the mediation of The Hague Court for the settlement of the South African troubles.

The Bishop Knew Him.

A story current about the Bishop of London just now represents him as a bored listener to a windy speech. Turning to a fellow sufferer, he said: "Do you know that speaker?" "No," was the answer. "I do," said the bishop; "he speaks under many aliases, but his name is Thomas Rot."—London Daily News.

Killed by Lightning.

Winnipeg, July 1.—At Edgely, near Qu'Appelle, Assa., Alf. Hargest, a young man 23 years of age, was killed by lightning while plowing. Three horses also were killed.

John Bailey, an employe in the railway camp southeast of this city, dropped dead in the City Hotel.

70 Die From Heat.

New York, July 1.—Up to 10 o'clock to-night there were reported 70 deaths and 141 prostrations from the heat and the number was hourly being swelled. This covers a period from 2 a.m., and only for the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx.

Maine Ordered to Navy.

London, July 1.—The Earl of Selborne, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced in the House of Lords to-day that he had great gratification in informing the House that the hospital ship Maine had been presented as a free gift to the British navy.

Given a Reception.

Halifax, July 1.—R. L. Borden was tendered a reception at Princess Lodge, a suburban resort, to-day. Six hundred people attended. F. D. Monk, M.P., and Mr. Borden were the speakers.

John W Bell, M. P., Is Dying.

Napanee, July 1.—J. W. Bell, M.P., for Addington, had a stroke this morning and is not expected to live. He is at his home at Desmond.

Big Fire at Elora.

Elora, July 1.—A disastrous fire occurred here Sunday morning, which destroyed Messrs. Bain & Co.'s woolen mill. As the church bells were ringing at 10 o'clock, the citizens were startled by an alarm of fire, and, tho the fire engine was on the scene and had steam up in a few minutes, even then the fire had made great headway. Owing to the dry, hot weather here of late, and that a very strong westerly wind was blowing at the time, several houses in the vicinity were in danger from flying embers, but by great exertion the fire was confined to the mill. A portion of the cloth and wool was gotten out, but the mill burned so rapidly that it soon became unsafe to attempt any further rescue. Much sympathy is felt for Messrs. Bain & Co., as their mill and machinery are a total loss, their insurance on everything being only $200.

The Accession Oath.

London, July 2. — The modifications suggested by the Parliamentary Committee in the accession oath are generally approved by moderate men in the Commons, but the Irish Nationalists are not likely to accept them as satisfactory, and there will be objections from ultra-Protestants to this reasonable method of avoiding affronts to the sovereign's Catholic subjects.

Killed Eleven at a Blow.

Chicago, July 2. — Eleven boys were killed and another probably fatally injured yesterday afternoon by a single bolt of lightning. The victims were fishing in Lake Michigan at the foot of the Montrose boulevard on the north side. The fatal bolt struck the pier where they were seated, and all were thrown into the lake. Only one boy has been so far recovered.

Increased British Revenue.

London, July 2. — The revenue returns for the United Kingdom for the quarter ended June 30, show an increase from all sources of £5,481,-105 and a net increase of £3,086,-105 over the returns of the corresponding quarter of 1900. Of the increase £2,440,000 is derived from the income tax and £727,000 from the customs.

Life Claimed by Trolley.

Toronto, July 2. — Dominion Day in Toronto was marred by one trolley fatality, in which William John Lee, an old British army pensioner, was instantly killed. The fatality occurred at 11.15 yesterday morning, opposite the Queen's Hotel. He walked right in front of Avenue road car No. 768, with the fatal result stated.

Empress Dowager Is Coy.

Shanghai, June 30. — Marquis Tseng has received a despatch from Sian Fu to the effect that the Empress Dowager, fearing a trap to capture her, declines to return to Pekin, and has notified the Grand Council that the future capital will be Kai Feng Fu, in the Province of Ho Nan.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

"Has it come to this," said the princess, a superb scorn in her eyes, "that my honor must needs be defended by strangers and aliens?" For the briefest space her glance plunged into my eyes. She moved toward the prince. "And you, sir, are to be my husband?"

"It is the will of the king," said the prince, a mocking smile on his lips.

How I lusted for his blood!

"And, though my honor is doubtful," went on the woman I loved, "you still would marry me?"

"Your highness," said the prince, with a bow which entailed the sweeping of his hands, "I would marry you were your honor as"—

"What!" roared Hillars in English.

But he was a moment too late. My hands were around the throat of Prince Ernst of Wortumborg, and I was shaking him till his teeth chattered on each other like castanets. Surely I would have throttled him but for the intervention of the count and the cavalrymen. The count swung his arm around my neck, while the cavalrymen, their saber points at Hillars' breast, wrenched loose my hands. I stood glaring at him, panting and furious. He leaned against the table, gasping and coughing. Finally he recovered his composure.

"Count, I was wrong; you were right. These fellows are dangerous."

"I will fight you on any terms!" I fired back at him.

"I shall send you one of my lackeys," he replied. "Take them away, and shoot them if they resist!"

"Liberate the gentlemen," said Gretchen.

The count gazed at her in amazement.

"Liberate them?" he cried.

"I command it!"

"You?" said the prince.

"Yes. This is my principality; these are my soldiers. I command here." This was a coup indeed.

"But we represent his majesty!" cried the count, still holding me by the throat. I was all but strangled myself.

"I care not whom you represent," said Gretchen. "I am obedient only to the king, not his minions. Release the gentlemen!"

The count's arm slowly unwound. Hillars pressed down the saber points with his hands and shook off the hand of one of the cavalrymen.

"If it be your highness' will," he said, "we will throw these intruders into the road. Might is right," waving his hand to the door which led to the barroom. The innkeeper and three others filed into the room grimly and silently. They were armed. For the first time the prince lost patience.

"This is all very well, your highness," he sneered. "You misunderstand the limits of your power to command."

"Not in any part," said Gretchen. "I am sovereign here notwithstanding the king's will is paramount to my own. These people are my people; these soldiers are fed of my bounty; this is my country till the king takes it back. You will act further at your peril."

CHAPTER XIV.

A bar of sunlight suddenly pervaded the room—red sunlight—lighting in its passing a tableau I shall never forget. Gretchen stood at her full height, her arms held closely to her sides and her hands clinched. On her face there was that half smile called consciousness of triumph. Hillars was gazing at her with his soul swimming in his eyes. And I—I had a wild desire to throw myself at her feet then and there. Over the hard set visage of the innkeeper the bar of sunlight traveled, over the scowling countenance of the prince, over the puzzled brow of the count, and, going, left a golden purple in its wake, which imperceptibly deepened. The prince was first to speak. "I protest," said he.

"Against what?" asked Gretchen.

"It is the king's will that you become my wife. He will not tolerate this attitude of yours. Your principality is in jeopardy, let me tell you."

"Does the fact that I have promised the king to become your wife detract from my power? Not a jot. Till you are my husband I am mistress here and after."

"As to that we shall see," said the prince. "Then you intend to keep your promise?"

"Is there man or woman who can say that I ever broke one?"

"Your highness, what are your commands?" It was the innkeeper who spoke. His fingers were twitching about the hammer of his carbine. He nodded approvingly toward me. My assault upon the prince had brought me again into his good graces.

Gretchen did not answer him, but she smiled kindly.

"Ah, yes," said the prince. "This is that Breunner fellow."

The innkeeper made a movement. The prince saw it, and so did I. Prince Ernst of Wortumborg was never so near death in all his life as at that moment. He knew it too.

"Your highness has a very good memory," said the innkeeper dryly.

"There are some things it were best to forget," replied the prince.

"I am pleased that your highness shares my opinion," returned the old fellow. The muzzle of the carbine was once more pointed at the ceiling.

The rest of us looked on, but we understood nothing of these passes. Ever Gretchen was in the dark.

"We met long ago," said the innkeeper.

"Yes, but I have really forgotten what the subject of our discussion was," said the prince, regarding the innkeeper through half closed lids. "Perhaps he can explain."

"It is very kind of your highness," said the innkeeper, laughing maliciously. "But I am old, and my memory serves me ill."

The prince shrugged. "But we have drifted away from the present matter. Your highness, then, promises to bend to the will of the king?"

"Yes," said Gretchen. "I gave the king my promise because I had wearied of resistance, having no one to turn to—then. I shall marry you, though I detest you. But I shall be your wife only in name and not in the eyes of God."

"The latter sacrifice was not asked of you," smiled the prince.

"I shall depart this day for the capital," continued Gretchen. "I warn you not to inflict your presence upon me during the journey. Now go. The air while you remain is somewhat difficult to breathe."

The prince surveyed the menacing faces which surrounded him, then gathered up his hat and gloves.

"I see that your highness will be a dutiful wife," he said, smoothing the silk of his hat with his elbow. He blew into his gloves and carefully drew them over his hands. "A pleasant journey to your highness," he added. "Come, count. And these?" waving his hand toward Hillars and me.

"They have my fullest protection."

He smiled villainously, then walked to the door with a measured tread. At the door he turned. There was a flash of rage in his eyes, but he quickly subdued it.

"Auf wiedersehen!" with a sweeping glance which took in all of us and particularly me.

He passed out, the count following him soberly. The two cavalrymen thrust their sabers into the scabbards with a clank and made as though to follow.

"Wait," said Gretchen. "I shall have need of you. You will escort me to the station. Now you may go."

They saluted gravely. They appreciated the situation. The princess was their bread and butter.

"Your highness," said Hillars, "there has been a mistake."

"A mistake!" repeated Gretchen wonderingly.

"Yes; they have made you a princess, whereas they should have made you a queen. Will you forgive me the trouble I have caused?"

"It is I who must ask forgiveness of you," she said, with a sad smile. "You may kiss my hand, sir."

Hillars remained somewhat long over it.

"And how comes it that you gentlemen know each other?" she asked.

"Damon and Pythias, your highness," answered Hillars. "We were brought up together, and we have shared our tents and kettles. I recommend Pythias to you as a brave gentleman." Then he came to me. "You are a brave fellow, Jack," grasping my hand. "Good luck to you. I had an idea. It has returned. Now, then, innkeeper, come with me."

"With you, and where?" asked the innkeeper. If there was one thing for which he could not account, it was the presence of Hillars at the inn.

"Never mind where, but come," answered Hillars gayly. He bent and whispered something into the old fellow's ear. It was something which pleased him, for he screwed his lips into a smile and took the white hand of the whisperer in his brawny fist and nigh crushed it.

"Well, well! It doesn't matter where you came from. Here, you," to the trio behind him, "go back to the stables." They filed out. Then the innkeeper took Hillars by the arm. "Come along; time passes."

"And where are you going?" I asked anxiously. Hillars should not have passed from my sight but for Gretchen.

"We'll be back shortly," he answered. "You will know all about it then, my son."

He stood on the sill of the door, a handsome picture. His gray eyes sparkled, his face was full of excitement and there was a color in his cheeks. There was no sign here of the dissipated man of the night before. It was Hillars as I had seen him in the old days. But for his nineteenth century garb he might have just stepped down from a frame—a gallant by Fortuny, who loved the awakened animal in man. The poise was careless, but graceful, and the smile was debonair. His eyes were holding Gretchen's. A moment passed, another and another; then, "Long live and God bless her serene highness the Princess Hildegarde!" And he was gone.

And as he disappeared a shadow of some sort passed before my eyes, and a something dull and heavy pressed upon my heart. Presently came the sound of beating hoofs, and then all became still.

Gretchen and I were alone. Gretchen appeared to be studying the blue veins in her hands which she listlessly held before her. An interval of three or four minutes passed; still she remained in that pathetic attitude, silent and motionless.

"Gretchen," said I, "have you nothing to say?"

"Yes." Her eyes raised to the level of mine, and I saw that they were deep in tears. "Herr, I shall say to you that which I have never said to any man and that which I shall never say to any man again. I may say it now because it is sinless. I love you! I love you, and, loving you, God knows what the future without you shall be. Yes, I love you. Take me once in your arms and kiss me and let me go—forever."

Then, with a smile which partly shielded a sob, her arms went around my neck and her face lay close to mine. Heaven knows which was the greater, the joy or the pain.

"Gretchen, think!" I cried distractedly. "What is a prince or a king to you and me, who love?"

"There is honor," gently. She caressed my cheek with her fingers.

"Honor!" I cried vehemently. "Is it honorable to marry the man you do not love and break the heart of the one you do?"

She did not answer, but her arms fell from my neck, and she approached the window. The passing river was reflected in her eyes. Her reverie was a short one.

"Listen, herr. I will tell you why it is honorable. The prince and the king? I fear the one as little as I do the other. It is not the prince, it is not the king, it is not the principality. Herr, I have come near to being a very wicked woman, who was about to break the most sacred promise a sovereign can make. Before I came here a delegation of my people approached me. On bended knees they asked me not to voluntarily return the principality to the king, who was likely to give them a ruler rapacious or cruel or indifferent. And, while they understood what a sacrifice it meant to me, they asked me to bend my will to the king's and wed the prince, vowing that I alone should be recognized as their sovereign ruler. Since my coronation they said that they had known the first happiness in years. Herr, it was so pathetic! I love my people, who, after all, are not adopted, since I was born here. So I gave my promise, and, heaven forgive me, I was about to break it!

The old proverb; "To be at peace prepare for war," is the secret of the larger part of life's successes, whether of nations or individuals.

The difference between the healthy, happy mother who has healthy children to nurse and nourish, and the weak, nervous mother, with a weakling child, is mostly a difference of preparation.

The great preparative for motherhood is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength to give her child. It imparts elasticity and strength to the organs of maternity so that the baby's advent is practically painless.

"I take pleasure in writing you to let you know about your 'Favorite Prescription,'" says Mr. E. E. Fricke, of Petersburg, Menard Co. Ill., Box 367. "My wife had been sick nearly all her life and after trying everything I could think of I made up my mind to try 'Favorite Prescription.' I sent to Chicago and got six bottles, which my wife took, a tablespoonful three times a day, until the baby came. She felt better after taking the first bottle, and when baby was born he weighed nine and a half pounds. To-day he is six months old and weighs twenty-two pounds. He is as good a child as any one could wish. The doctor says he is as healthy as any baby could be, and also the doctor says your 'Favorite Prescription' was the cause of such a healthy baby. I felt I owed you this much for the good you did my wife and myself. I hope you will mention this to others who may be in need of such help, and you may refer them to me, as I would be glad to tell of the good of such a valuable medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

RHEUMATISM

KINDS, CAUSE AND CURE.

Rheumatism of any kind is always attended with pain. There are in reality but two causes, although they manifest themselves in five or six different forms of rheumatism. Muscular rheumatism, in which the muscles in different parts of the body are inflamed, swollen and painful; joint rheumatism, heart rheumatism and lumbago all have their origin in the blood. This indicates a kidney weakness, and demands a kidney treatment. Then sciatica, neuralgia and shooting pain rheumatism has its origin in a vitiated condition of the nerves, from a general run-down condition of the blood. In each of the above forms and for all manifested symptoms of rheumatism there is no medicine which offers such a chance for cure as Merrill's System Tonic. It is not only a kidney medicine, but its blood purifying properties rid the system of all accumulated uric acid. Then, too, System Tonic is the greatest tonic, blood, bone and tissue maker known, and will enrich the blood, feed and revive the starved nerves, thus making a cure for your rheumatism from whatever cause. Several hundred hopeless cases have already been cured, and more are being cured every day. Will you try it?

NINETY NINTH ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Peterborough Asso. of Baptist Churches.

WAS HELD IN LAKEFIELD.

Rev. O. C. Elliott of Belleville Elected Moderator for the Ensuing Year.

The 99th annual assembly of the Peterborough Association of Baptist churches, was held in the church at Lakefield, on June 18, 19, and 20, 1901.

The first meeting took place on Tuesday evening, June 18th, when a song service was held, led by pastor Elliott. The Moderator, Rev. J. Bastow, then took the chair.

Various vacancies on the committees were filled. Several new pastors were introduced to the Association, and spoke feelingly of their experience in the ministry and of their gratification at the welcome they had received. The service closed with the hymn, "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 19TH.

Morning Session.

After devotional exercises the Moderator delivered the annual address, his subject being "Evangelization," basing his remarks on II Tim., 4, 5. He spoke on (1) Who should evangelize, (a) the pastor; (b) the professional evangelist; (c) the whole membership of the church. (2) How shall we evangelise? This must be done by (a) being in earnest; (b) seeking members; (c) working and planning for conversion. (3) The result of evangelizing, (a) rich success will be given in soul winning, (b)the whole church will be lifted up into a richer and fuller life, spiritual fruits will flourish, liberality abound and peace prevail, (c) the Lord will richly reward special effort.

Rev. Mr. Scrimshaw, a pastor from Buffalo, was introduced and spoke briefly in acknowledgment of the reception accorded him. In his remarks he emphasized the need of preaching the entire Gospel and the difficulties peculiar to the work in the city from which he came, especially in connection with the Pan-American Exposition.

The afternoon session was fully occupied by the ladies.

Evening Session.

The first address of the evening was on "Education," by Prof. Campbell of McMaster University. He showed, by examples, that the ruling influences of the nation come from the colleges, as did also the leaders of the Reformation, viz., the Pietist movement in Europe. He then proceeded to show that McMaster University stands positively for Christian influence and power. This college is the best friend of home and foreign missions, and the source from which must come our missionaries and pastors, as well as Christian physicians, merchants and teachers. The professor closed an earnest and impressive address by giving an extended series of facts showing the widespread influence of McMaster, Moulton and Woodstock Colleges.

Professor Russell, of Woodstock College, followed with a fervent address, and told of the influence exerted by this school. He also described the broadening influence of the manual training department.

At 9.30 Rev. W. E. Orton, the new Home Missions Superintendent, presented an address on Home Mission work, as regulated by the following principles:

(1) Evil conditions of the race must be realized. (2) The reasonableness of the race must be believed. (3) The Gospel of Christ must be recognised as the only power for regeneration.

THURSDAY, JUNE 20TH.

Morning Session.

attended to and the committees appointed for the ensuing year.
pointe dfor the ensuing year.

The report of the Nominating Committee was presented, which was as follows:

Moderator—Rev. O. C. Elliott.
Clerk—Rev. W. A. Gunton.
Annual sermon—Rev. J. T. Marshall.
Alternate sermon—Rev. W. E. Orton.

The following secretaries were appointed:

Home Missions—Rev. P. K. Dayfoot.
Foreign Missions — Rev. J. Bastow.
Grande Ligne — Rev. E. J. Bridgeman.
Manitoba—Rev. T. Watson.
Education——Rev. J. H. Hanna.
B.Y.P.U.—Mr. A. J. Raddon.

The place of meeting for next year was left undecided.

The rest of the session was devoted to a discussion concerning the spiritual life of the church.

Afternoon Session.

The first address was delivered by Rev. O. C. Elliott entitled "Helps and Hindrances in young people's work." (1) Hindrances, (a) lack of Bible knowledge, (b) lack of desire to carry on steady courses (c) lack of leaders,(d) indifference to the joy of Christian service; (2) helps, (a) Utilising Society for developing the talents of young people, (b) emphasizing the devotional element in a meeting. This was followed by a discussion.

Prof. Roy then gave an interesting address, describing the social, intellectual and spiritual development of the 1,464,000 French inhabitants of Canada and emphasizing the need of the work done by the school and mission of Grande Ligne.

Evening Session.

The Moderator for the coming year took the chair and was supported on the platform by Rev. J. Hanna of Peterborough and Rev. J. E. Brown of Toronto.

Rev. T. Wilson, of Colborne, gave an excellent and inspiring address on joyous service.

Rev. J. Hanna gave a review of the mission work in Manitoba. The points of his eloquent address were (1) Need of work, (2) Baptists of Manitoba are noted for hearty and loyal devotion, (3) Cosmopolitan character of nationalities, (4) A review of what God has done through our mission in the Northwest, (5) The beginnings of Educational Work in the Northwest.

The Moderator then called on Rev. J. E. Brown, returned missionary from India to speak on foreign mission work. He based his remarks on Isaiah 21, 11-12. After giving the interpretation of the text showing that the prophet was the watchman he then expatiated on the terible ignorance, degradation and immorality of the people. The great achievements of the Gospel were then related which gave reasons for us to believe that the morning cometh and soon the light of God will dispel all the darkness of that dark land.

The meeting was then closed by singing "Blest be the tie that binds."

This closed one of the most successful meetings in the history of the Peterborough Baptist Association.

A Red Hot Season.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

THE BUSY BUSTLING "SOO."

Disparaging Reports Contradicted by Industrial and Civic Building Operations.

Under the heading "A False Statement," the Sault Ste. Marie Express of June 21st, says:

The Star—Transcript of Paris says: "Word from Sault Ste. Marie says that the strets are full of idle men; the labour supply is largely in excess of the demand and board is exceedingly high.

This statement is not only misleading but it is altogether untrue. The fact of the matter is that never before in the history of the town of Sault Ste. Marie was there so much work being done nor so many men actively employed. The pulp mills are running; contractor Hill is building two big blast furnaces for the Power Company, H. E. Talbot has a fair army of men at work on the Company's gigantic steel plant and all the other important works at the rapids are either being operated or under construction. Outside of the employ of the companies there is a vast amount of building going on throughout the town and there are no idle men about the streets. Within the next fornight another big gang of men will be put to work upon the construction of the town's sewerage system and no man who comes here looking for work need go away disappointed.

The merchants of the town are doing a flourishing business and the condition of Sault Ste. Marie commercially is more healthy than at any previous time. The incipient boom is over, everything is on a solid foundation and while the place is going ahead very rapidly the growth is substantial and lasting.

HALL'S GLEN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. J. Crowe of Peterborough, is spending a few days here with his mother.

A number of the young people of this neighbourhood spent a very pleasant and enjoyable time Saturday afternoon last on Stony Lake. All united in making this, their annual picnic, better than any previous one.

Mr. C. E. Sisson of town, spent Sunday with friends here. He is now spending his holidays in Warsaw.

The young men who left this place two weeks ago for the volunteers' camp at Kingston, have returned safely, along with their horses.

Mrs. M. E. Crow and Mrs. W. Carveth had the satisfaction of enjoying a very pleasant sail on the lake on Monday.

The North Dummer Football Club expect to play a match game with the Ninth Line Team very soon, and engaged practising on their regular nights—Wednesday and Saturday.

WESTWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The house belonging to Mr. Thomas Davidson was killed by lightning on Saturday night last, June 22nd. The animal was scorched on top of its head and had by the appearance, never struggled after it had fallen.

The house belinging to Mr. Thomas Cardwell was destroyed by fire between five and six o'clock on Monday morning. They had got up and put the fire on and had gone to the barn to milk, when the alarm was given. Part of the contents downstairs was saved. The cause of the fire is unknown but it is supposed it started from the stovepipe. There was $200 insurance.

Mr. P. Leitch had a steer killed at Blezard's crossing on Sunday night last. It was worth about $20.

Messrs. Graham, Hugh and Fred Carter, sons of Mr. W. Carter, of Montreal, are spending a few days with friends in this vicinity.

A Young Girl's Danger.

How She Overcame It and Baffled Her Tormentor.

Miss Ida Hopkirk, of 184 Harboard street, this city, is a young lady who is exceedingly popular with a very extensive circle of friends, all of whom are rejoicing over her recent escape from a terrible danger. The story of her experience is deeply interesting, told in her own straightforward way.

Here is her narrative: "In 1896 I took a position in a down town store. My work was not unusually hard, but I soon found I could not stand it, and my health failed. I grew very thin, had splitting headaches continually, dizzy spells, and extreme weakness. My tongue was thickly furred, harsh and dry, every morning, and I arose tired and aching. I was dull and low spirited all the time.

My sister had used Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills with remarkable benefit and I also began to take them. I candidly state that improvement began almost immediately. Daily I mended until to-day I am in better health and much stronger than I have been for years. To Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills, and to them alone, is the credit due."

Every girl and woman who suffers as Miss Hopkirk did, should use Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills. They will give new life and health.

Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills, the only medicine made that cures diseases by killing the germs that cause it, are sold by all Druggists at 75c a box, sample box 25c, or sent post paid on receipt of price by The Arnold Chemical Co, Limited, Canada Life Building, 42 King St. West Toronto. THE ALIEN LABOR LAW

Invoked by the C. P. R. Strikers in Their Fight.

COMPANY SAYS STRIKE IS OVER.

The Toronto Men Say the Track Is Not Being Looked After by Trackmen—C. P. R. Superintendent of Western Division Says Men Are Going Back to Work.

Ottawa, July 4.—President John T. Wilson of the Brotherhood of Railway Trackmen, accompanied by Mr. A. E. Baker of Merrickville, is in the city to interview the Deputy Minister of Labor and ask him to take steps to prevent aliens from being brought into the country to take the place of the striking workmen on the C. P. R. He says aliens are being brought into the country to take the places of the strikers. Ninety-five per cent. of the trackmen all over the C. P. R. system are out on strike, and although 5,000 people are affected, Mr. Wilson says there have not been 50 deserters in the lot. Mr. Wilson says he has reports of several accidents on the western division of the C. P. R., and that a train went over an embankment at Castle Mountain, N. W. T.

Officials Say They Win.

Montreal, July 4. — Mr. McNicoll, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was in particularly good spirits yesterday morning when seen by a Witness reporter. News had come from all over the C. P. R. lines that many of the striking trackmen were returning to work, and he had information from authentic sources that others were anxious to resume their old jobs. On inquiry at the Grand Union Hotel yesterday morning, it was learned that Mr. Wilson, who is superintending the strike, has left the city. His destination and mission, however, could not be learned.

The Strike at Toronto.

Toronto, July 4.—The strike of the Canadian Pacific Railway trackmen was unchanged yesterday. None of the Toronto strikers have returned to work as yet. They say that they can hold out for any length of time, and are still confident of winning. They report that the various divisions are not being looked after by trackmen.

General Superintendent Williams of the western division of the C. P. R. was in the city yesterday. He stated that on his division the men were going back. A number of men were engaged in Toronto yesterday and sent out to do trackmen's duties.

Trackmen Arrested.

Sudbury, Ont., July 4.—Eight striking C. P. R. trackmen were arrested here for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Two paid the fine imposed, and the others went to jail for 15 days.

Dissatisfied With Committee.

Winnipeg, July 4.—Several gangs of C. P. R. strikers went back to work yesterday, and it is stated that a number of others are anxious to secure their old positions on the road. There is much dissatisfaction at the lack of response by the Montreal committee to their appeals for funds.

Suspicious of Wilson.

St. John, N. B., July 4.—Striking trackmen are returning to work here, being utterly disgusted by the inaction of the Montreal committee and apprehensive that Wilson is only holding it together for his own glorification.

Position at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., July 4. — General Superintendent Leonard of the Western Division, received orders from the east yesterday morning that 95 per cent. of the men had returned to work. Mr. Leonard stated that he had no trouble to obtain men all over his division, but that the situation was unchanged.

The men here claim that what the company say about having all the men they want on the Winnipeg section is not true. They claim that with the exception of a gang at work in the yards here there is not a man back between Winnipeg and Brandon, and that on the southwestern branch the same state of affairs exists.

Forty More Men on Strike.

Toronto, July 4.—Forty sheet-metal workers went out on strike yesterday at noon hour because their demands for higher wages and a shorter working day were not granted.

Ottawa Street Railway Men.

Ottawa, July 4.— The Electric Street Railway Company answered the demands of their men yesterday, for 15 cents minimum. They also pay half the cost of uniforms. The company offer to give 14 cents the first year and 15 cents each succeeding year, with two suits of clothes per annum, after five years' service.

Nine-Hour Day Now.

Washington, July 4. — President O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists said yesterday that he regarded the machinists' strike as practically won. "Even if an order should be issued at this time directing all men out to return to work on the old basis," he said, "the nine-hour day would be won."

Cigar Makers' Strike.

Montreal, July 4. — The meeting of the Cigar Manufacturers' Association was held yesterday. A number of the prominent manufacturers were present. It was stated that the factories are now in a position to handle their trade fairly well, and are not worrying as to when the strike will end. In so far as they are concerned, it is now at an end.

Will Arbitrate.

Ottawa, July 4.—A public meeting of striking woodworkers and carpenters last night referred their troubles to W. L. King and two others for arbitration.

HEAT'S DEATH RECORD

Up to Twelve o'Clock 603 Had Died in New York City.

OTHER U. S. CITIES SUFFER.

Philadelphia Stands Next to New York in the Terrible Showing—91 Deaths in the Quaker City Since the Hot Spell Began—Great Suffering in Kansas City.

Washington, July 4. — Louisville and Baltimore were the two hottest cities in the United States yesterday morning. The thermometer stood at 84 degrees. At Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Scranton, Charleston, Savannah, Cincinnati and Kansas City all had 82 recorded at 8 a. m. No permanent break in the hot spell can yet be predicted. Several thunderstorms have cooled things a bit, but the percentage of humidity has greatly increased. Sixteen deaths here have been attributable to the heat here.

In Philadelphia up to 9 o'clock 11 deaths had occurred and 35 prostrations. The number of deaths since the hot spell commenced has been 91. In New York from 2 to 9 a.m. 11 deaths were reported, and during the last six days a careful estimate places the number at 517. Yesterday in Hoboken there were 5 deaths, in Newark 8, in Paterson 6 and in Jersey City 4. There is great suffering in Kansas City. Four prostrations, one fatal, were reported. During the six days of the excessive heat there have been hundreds of prostrations in New England, 100 of them proving fatal. Of this number 22 died in Boston.

Two deaths and five prostrations were reported in Rochester. One of the dead, a woman, had died last Friday and was not discovered until yesterday morning, when her rooms were broken into.

A later despatch from New York says that there were so many dead bodies in the Morgue yesterday that the compartments could not hold them all. Two dead wagons and police patrol wagons were bringing in others constantly, and it was necessary to send the remains of 60 persons to Potter's Field before the expiration of the five days usually allowed for identification or reclamation.

Up to 12 o'clock last night 86 persons had died of heat in New York.

Foreign Ministers Meet.

Pekin, July 3. — The meeting of the Foreign Ministers to-day was barren of result, only matters of minor importance being discussed, despite the efforts of two of the Ministers to force consideration of the indemnity question, so that a satisfactory reply might be given to China, accepting the offer of 450,000,000 taels, at 4 per cent. interest.

Buried in a Well.

London, July 4.—Robert Howard was buried yesterday morning for an hour and a half by the caving in of a well. He was at the bottom when the cave-in took place at 11.30. He was got out at 1 p. m. Howard was badly injured. He will recover.

Will Wear Khaki.

Guelph, July 4. — The 30th regiment will be outfitted complete with new khaki uniforms for their visit to Toronto in the fall, when they will be reviewed by H. R. H. the Duke of Cornwall and York.

Americans Still Fighting.

Manila, July 4. — Gen. Chaffee takes command of the forces in the Philippines to-day.

An engagement lasting two days has taken place 80 miles from here.

G. T. R. Earnings.

Montreal, July 4. — Grand Trunk Railway system earnings June 22 to 30, 1901, $731,208; June 22 to 30, 1900, $717,335; increase, $13,873.

John W. Bell, M. P., Better.

Napanee, Ont., July 4. — The condition of J. W. Bell, M. P., for Addington, who received a stroke some days ago, was somewhat improved yesterday morning. He is still speechless, but can move a little, and it is now thought that he will recover.

Rev. Dr. McLeod Again.

Fredericton, July 4.—At the Conservative Convention yesterday, Rev. Dr. McLeod was again nominated for the vacancy in the House of Commons by the unseating of Mr. Gibson, the Liberal, in York County.

A Government Appointment.

Kingston, Ont., July 4.—Reginald Daly, M. A., Napanee, has been appointed to a position in the Dominion Geological Survey, at a salary of $3,200.

Gen. O'Grady-Haly Will Stay.

Ottawa, July 4.—The Government is confident that Gen. O'Grady-Haly will be retained as S. O. C. of Canadian forces for another year.

Wiped Off the Map.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 4.—A special to The Times from Phoenix, Arizona, says: The town of Williams, Arizona, was practically destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is estimated at $500,000. Williams is a railway and lumbering town on the Santa Fe Pacific Railway, and has a population of about 2,000.

THE PAPER COMBINE.

Mr. Justice Taschereau Resumes the Inquiry at Montreal.

ASSOCIATION HAS AN INNING.

The Paper Makers Testify—Mr. John R. Barber of Georgetown, and Mr. Macfarlane Give Their Evidence—How the Use of Pulp Has Affected the Price of Paper—The Tariff's Influence.

Montreal, July 4.—The Royal Commissioner to inquire into the paper trade, Judge Taschereau, resumed his investigation here yesterday.

Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, counsel for the Canadian Press Association, intimated that his clients had closed their case, reserving the right, of course, to call witnesses in rebuttal.

Mr. W. J. White, counsel for the paper manufacturers, moved that His Lordship declare that no case had been made out. It became necessary not only for the Canadian Press Association to show that an association existed among papermakers, but that it had been formed for the purpose of unduly enhancing the price of paper, and had done so. The evidence, if it proved anything in regard to the price of paper, proved that for a number of years the price had declined in Canada, until it reached somewhere about two cents, and that after the agreement was made last year the minimum was 2½ cents. This was not denied, nor was the existence of the Manufacturers' Association. Not one word of evidence had been adduced to show the cost of production, what paper should be sold for or the profit of the manufacturer to prove that the price was an undue one.

Mr. Aylesworth replied that the Press Association had presented evidence which seemed pertinent to the inquiry, and he forebode from commenting on it, but if the Commissioner held that the motion was a timely one he would have to discuss that evidence.

Mr. Justice Taschereau ruled that he was not sitting as a judge, but for the purpose of making a report to the Government, the members of which could have their own views as to what action should be taken upon the facts he reported. He could not form an opinion now without having heard all the evidence, and he would reserve the motion until the argument on the final merits.

Mr. John R. Barber.

Mr. John R. Barber, paper manufacturer, Georgetown, Ont., was a member of the Papermakers' Association. One year ago the price of roll news was $2.50, with 3 per cent. discount, and the time was shortened from four months to three months. In December, 1898, before the new agreement was signed, $2.40 was the lowest he sold at, carload lots 3 per cent. discount. In 1899 the price went down to $2.10, at which Mr. Elliott sold, but he could not go down so low and make a profit. He had a contract with The Globe for any paper he could spare. There was a difference in the cost of raw material between 1899 and 1900, which would make up more than the difference between $2.10 and $2.50. The price of ground wood and sulphide pulp had both advanced, the former from $18 to $23.50 and the latter from $34 to $42. The price of roll news in the United States had advanced from $1.80 to $2.75, nearly one cent a pound, while the advances in Canada was less than half a cent. If there had not been a tariff on paper in the United States, Canadian makers could have sold all their paper at much more than the association price. He was himself getting more than the association price for nearly all his orders.

Then Mr. Aylesworth took the witness in hand, and elicited from him that the making of cheap book paper is more profitable than news print, but there is not enough business to keep a mill going alone. However, Mr. Barber is changing his machinery to book paper machinery as fast as the demand warrants. Since his mills were started, over forty years ago, there had been a protective tariff ranging from 15 to 25 per cent. Mr. Barber admitted that the use of pulp, the discovery of the sulphide process for the manufacture of pulp and the improvement in machinery had all tended to lessen the cost of manufacture. Up to twenty years ago there had been no association, because the supply was always short of the demand, and when an association was first formed it was for the purpose of fixing the price of news print.

Mr. Aylesworth—What is the lowest price at which, under the most favorable circumstances, prior to the agreement of 1900, news print could have been sold to realize a profit? Mr. Barber—I do not think I should answer that, because I am not in the secrets of the two large firms.

Q.—But from your knowledge of the business, what is the lowest at which news print could be sold, considering the capital or the gross profit. A.—Consider the capital first. I cannot give you anything I could give facts for.

Q.—Nothing you would like to live up to, eh? A.—I do not think any mill could make paper for less than $1.85 or $1.90 and pay 2 per cent. on the capital, making its own pulp and buying its own wood.

From further examination it appeared that only the Eddy, Riordan and Laurentide Companies make their own pulp, Mr. Barber himself buying it from Mr. Riordan at $35 a ton at present, though it was $42 not many weeks ago. It also came out that the manufacture of pulp is a very profitable one, and that large quantities have been sold in the United States at high prices.

Mr. John Macfarlane.

Mr. John Macfarlane, President of the Canadian Paper Company, said that the object of the association was chiefly to promote the interests of the paper trade generally in Canada, more particularly as it was thought there was a question of free trade and protection, and if we had free trade it would be disastrous. After the question of making paper from wood came to the fore we believed that as Canada was the country best fitted of any in the world for that industry we could bring a large trade here. It was not so much a question of price, as no price fixed can obtain for any length of time unless we can get control of the whole output or the entire manufacture.

Mr. White—What would be the effect upon that capital of a reduction in the duty on United States paper?

Mr. Aylesworth objected to the question, on the ground that every man has his own views as to this.

Mr. White insisted that the question was relevant, as the only action to relieve the newspapers which the Government could take would be to remove or reduce the duty. The question was allowed.

Mr. Macfarlane—It would be very injurious to the trade.

Mr. White—And if paper was placed on the free list? A.—Wiped out; disastrous.

Mr. Macfarlane gave the number of employes in paper and pulp mills as between 5,000 and 6,000, besides others engaged in getting out the logs, the object being to show what the effect of adverse legislation would be on the paper trade.

Tanners Are Losing Money.

Toronto, July 4.—W. J. Bickell, President of the Tanners' Section of the Board of Trade, called a meeting of tanners for the purpose of considering present hide and leather prices and other matters of interest to the trade. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"1. Resolved, that this meeting, after due consideration, is unanimously agreed that leather has been selling at unremunerative prices, and that, owing to the general advance in hides, tanning materials and wages, it is imperative on the trade to materially advance prices in all lines of leather."

"2. Resolved, that a committee consisting of George C. H. Lang, W. D. Beardmore, George Beal, Robert Beal, C. J. Miller, J. J. Lamb, T. Robson and George McQuay, be appointed for the purpose of revising prices and taking such steps as may be deemed necessary to stop the present unprofitable state of trade, and that such committee meet in Toronto on Friday evening, July 19, 1901."

Queen's Speech to Nurses.

London, July 4. — Queen Alexandra, in company with the King and Princesses Louise and Beatrice, yesterday afternoon received 770 Victoria Jubilee nurses on the lawn of Marlborough House and distributed decorations to them. Many of the nurses have just returned from South Africa, and others have been engaged in the city out-door relief work.

Her Majesty said: "It is a pleasure to receive you and help you to carry on the noble work begun by our deeply beloved Queen Victoria. It is a satisfaction to be associated with you in your labor of love. I cannot imagine a more holy calling than yours. I pray that God's blessing may be bestowed on your noble work, and that He will have you in His keeping."

200 Homeless.

Ottawa, July 2.—A. J. Young, reeve of Cache Bay, on the C. P. R., has wired to Mayor Morris saying that thirty houses have been burned there and that 200 people are homeless. The telegram was sent on June 30, but it only reached the Mayor before council last night.

Toronto, July 3.—The City Council last night voted $200 to the Cache Bay fire sufferers.

Killed by a Kick.

Brougham, July 4.—A sad Dominion Day visited the home of Mr. D. Bilkey, just north of here. Mr. Bilkey, together with his family, were attending a Sunday School picnic at Claremont. In the procession to the woods, his horse took fright, and, in the endeavor to get away, kicked Mr. Bilkey's son, aged 9 years, across the forehead. The little fellow lingered until yesterday, when he died from the effects of the kick.

Drowned at Uxbridge.

Uxbridge, July 4.—A young man named John Moore, aged about 21 years, met his death here last night while bathing in what is known as the electric light mill pond. The young man was unable to swim, and got beyond his depth. A companion, named Bruce Annas, went to his assistance, and narrowly escaped a similar fate, being drawn down twice. Deceased was a baker by trade.

Bitten by Rats.

Chatham, July 4.—The infant daughter of David Lee was severely bitten by rats while asleep Sunday night, and it required the presence of a doctor to save her life. The baby was bitten twice on the face and forehead, and also on the arms. She bled freely.

BECAME DESPONDENT.

Hamilton Lady Persecuted for Six Years by Dyspepsia—Gave Up Hope of Ever Being Well—Free at Last by the Aid of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

How many a poor Dyspeptic loses hope of being well again? How many a poor suicide was brought to his end by Dyspepsia, that horrible malady that makes men and women despondent and tired of life?

To such people Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are priceless beyond the telling, for they mean health, good spirits, and sound digestion. There is no need to lose hope, when Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure if but given a chance.

In nature there are certain acids that will digest food just the same as the stomach does. Meat, bread, vegetables and any other food may be placed in a jar covered with water, and actually digested by these acids in a few hours.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are composed of the best digestants known. They are absolutely harmless and do the work of the stomach while that organ takes a well-earned rest.

This is the only successful way to treat Dyspepsia. The same principle is used by Sanitariums and other institutions where the patient is fed on milk to rest his stomach. With Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets you may eat whatever you like, knowing that the stomach will not have to do the work of digestion, and no evil or suffering will follow.

Miss Maggie Brown, of Hamilton, says: "Dyspepsia and Headache afflicted me for six years. My case was one of the worst kind. Doctors did their best in vain, and gave up all hope. A friend of mine finally advised me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and to my surprise, on doing so, my headaches left me and I am now completely and, so far, permanently cured."

Canadians at Buffalo.

Buffalo, July 3.—Buffalo yesterday through Mayor Diehl, paid respect to the distinguished Canadians who came to Buffalo and participated in the Canadian day exercises at the Pan-American Exposition. Henry H. Seymour and J. N. Adam of the Exposition Committee on Entertainment, to whom was delegated the honor of attending to the official guests, escorted the distinguished men to the City Hall and called upon Mayor Diehl. Those accompanying Mr. Seymour and Mr. Adam were: Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia and Defence; Col. Pinault, Deputy Minister of Militia and Defence; Hon. Mr. Aylmer, Adjutant-General; Col. McDonald, Director of Military Stores, and others. These distinguished guests from across the border were escorted into Mayor Diehl's private office, where the Mayor addressed them.

HEADS FOR FIGURES.

FEATS OF MENTAL ARITHMETIC THAT PUZZLED THE SCIENTISTS.

Two Untaught Phenomenons, Ignorant on All Other Subjects, Who Could Solve Offhand Difficult Problems in Mathematics.

Jedediah Buxton, an English farm laborer, was an untaught mathematical genius. Although his grandfather was vicar and his father schoolmaster of the parish in which he was born, yet Jedediah, either from natural incapacity or from preoccupation with his arithmetical pursuits, never even acquired the rudiments of learnin, either could not or would not so much as learn to write and was content to work as a farm laborer to the end of his days. But at a very early age he appears to have had an intuitive perception of the relative proportions of numbers, and to this subject he devoted the whole of his attention. His method was so much his own that he seems to have been quite unacquainted with the common rules. On one occasion, having been required to multiply 456 by 378 and having done it as quickly as one of his examiners could do it in the ordinary way, he was asked to work the sum audibly, in order that his method might be discovered. It then appeared, curiously enough, that he went to work in a very roundabout way.

First he multiplied the 456 by 5, which produced 2,280; this he again multiplied by 20 and found the product to be 45,600. Of course, he might much more readily have achieved this result by simply adding two naughts to the multiplicand. This he evidently did not know. However, he next went on to multiply the number he had now arrived at by 3, which gave him the sum of the multiplicand multiplied by 300, and it then remained for him to multiply it by the remaining 78. This he effected by the awkward process of multiplying by 15 the 2,280, which was the product obtained by his first multiplication of 456 by 5. The product thus obtained he then added to the 136,800, which was the sum of 456 multiplied by 300. This produced 171,000 as the sum of 456 multiplied by 375. It remained for him, therefore, to multiply the original number again by 3 and add the sum of it to 171,000. And by this certainly rather cumbrous process he found the product of 456 multiplied by 378 to be 172,368.

Jedediah had no more general knowledge than any average peasant boy of 10 years of age and showed no memory for anything but figures. He was sometimes asked when he returned from church if he could repeat the text or any part of the sermon, but he could never remember a single sentence. In 1754, when he was 47 years of age, Jedediah walked to London to see the king. He was entertained and exhibited to the Royal society, but he left London without a regret and returned cheerfully to his farm work.

Another untaught arithmetical genius, Zerah Colburn, whose abnormal development raises an interesting problem, was the son of an American peasant. He was brought to London by his father in 1812, when 8 years old, when he was examined and his peculiar powers were tested by Francis Baily and other skillful mathematicians. It was found that, although he was so ignorant of the ordinary rules of arithmetic that he could not perform on paper a simple sum in multiplication or division, yet he could mentally multiply any number less than 10 into itself successively nine times and give the results faster than the person appointed to record them could take them down. He multiplied 8 into itself 15 times, or, to use technical terms, raised it to the sixteenth power, and the result, consisting of 15 digits, was found to be right in every figure. This was astonishing enough, but he was able to do things even more wonderful. When asked what number multiplied by itself gave 106,929, he answered, before the original number could be written down, that it was 327. And, again, when asked what number multiplied twice into itself gave 68,330,125, or, to put it technically, what was the cube root of that array of figures, he replied with equal facility and promptness that it was 645. The mathematical experts who were examining the boy found that it was impossible to find the cube root of these nine figures, in the shortest and most convenient way, in less than three or four minutes.

But what most surprised the mathematicians was that he could almost as readily answer questions for which they had not been able to provide any systematic procedure themselves. For instance, he was asked to name two numbers which, multiplied together, would give the number 247,483, and he immediately named 941 and 263, which are said to be the only two numbers which will do so. And when asked to name a number which would divide 36,083 exactly he unhesitatingly replied that no number would do so. If any of our mathematically minded readers will address themselves to this problem, they will find that it will give them at least a quarter of an hour's stiff calculation before they can assure themselves that 36,083 is what is called a prime number, or a number only divisible by itself and unity, a solution which this child was in some mysterious way able to see immediately the question was proposed to him.

Colburn, like Buxton, seems to have had a method of his own, but he constantly declared that he did not know how the answers came into his mind. "God put these things into my head," he said on being pressed for an explanation, "and I cannot put them into yours." Jedediah lived to the age of 65 with no more general knowledge or stock of ideas than a child of 10, and he kept his extraordinary calculating faculty to the end. But Zerah, the general culture of his mind improved, found his special power to fade away. Francis Baily was of opinion that Zerah Colburn's feats indicated the existence of certain properties of numbers which mathematicians had not yet discovered. But it is perhaps equally possible that they indicated capacities of the human mind which had hitherto been undreamed of.—London Globe.

Hard Test.

Mrs. Meddergrass—The paper says that most of the Rooshians is ignorant people.

Mr. Meddergrass—Well, now, I sh'd think they'd have to be purty smart to understand their own language.

Corrected Spencer.

Herbert Spencer on one occasion had a little argument in which he got decidedly worsted. One day a small boy happened to be in the company of the philosopher when a number of crows flew by.

"What an awful lot of crows!" exclaimed the juvenile.

The expression did not please the great writer.

"I have yet to learn, little master," said he severely, "that there is anything to inspire awe in a few crows."

"All right, old man," was the pert reply. "I did not say a lot of awful crows—I said an awful lot of crows."

Thieves Capture Rich Furs.

English thieves made a valuable haul in the Whitechapel district the other day. Furs valued at $5,000 were stolen, among them being the raw and dressed skins of bears, wolves, foxes, jackals, tigers

HOME LIFE.

The happiness of home life depends largely on the health of the wife and mother. When her strength is unequal to the daily cares and duties of home, the evening hour finds her utterly worn out, too tired to talk, too weary to read. At first even she is glad to have her husband go out for the evening. She wants rest and quiet at any price. And so the foundation for marital misery is often laid in ill-health.

But when the housewife is healthy and strong she finds in her day's duties only a sufficient outlet for her energy. She looks forward all day to the evening hour spent with her husband over a book, or passed in quiet conversation. And every evening so spent draws the wife nearer to the husband and knits together the twain who are "one flesh" in the higher unity of one mind.

Every woman should know that the general health depends on the local womanly health. Irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness are disorders which sap the woman's strength and destroy her happiness with her health.

In ninety-eight cases in every hundred the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will effect a complete cure of womanly diseases. It is a reliable regulator. It dries the drains which enfeeble women. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential and womanly confidences are guarded by strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

In a little over thirty years, assisted by his medical staff of nearly a score of physicians, Dr. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., has treated and cured more than half a million women.

There is no similar offer of free consultation by letter which has behind it a physician of Dr. Pierce's eminence and success, or an institution of world-wide fame such as the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y.

Write to Dr. Pierce and obtain a specialist's opinion absolutely without charge or fee.

WAS NEARLY CRAZY.

"I was pleased that Dr. Pierce answered my letter," writes Mrs. C. W. Young, of South Regent Street (Lee Park), Wilkesbarre, Penna. "I am perfectly willing for you to use my name and address, as I think it my duty to let the people know what a wonderful medicine you have. When I had those mishaps I began to think I would never have children, and my husband always said that if I would take your medicine I would soon be all right. My back used to almost break and I would get sick at my stomach and have such headaches I did not know what to do; they used to set me nearly crazy, and I used to dread to get up, I felt so bad; then I began taking your medicine. When baby was expected I took it all the time I was that way. I felt fine all the time and I never get those dizzy spells now. I hardly ever have a nervous headache any more. I have a perfect romp of a boy; he is the light of our home. I am now twenty years old and my baby is almost eight months old. I now feel well, and weigh 180 pounds, and the baby 23¾ pounds. We feel very grateful for the good your medicine did for us. We are both healthy, thanks to Dr. Pierce's medicine."

ALMOST A SKELETON.

"Your 'Favorite Prescription' has done so much for me," says Mrs. Susan Weast, of Lawndale, Cleveland Co., N. C., "that I feel it my duty to write to you and tell you I think it saved my life. I had been under the treatment of two doctors—had two mishaps. I was almost a skeleton, weighed only seventy pounds. A friend of mine recommended Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and when I commenced to take it my health began to improve greatly. In ten months I was a happy mother. I had only taken six bottles and have never taken any medicine since, of any kind, and now weigh 130 pounds. I am now awaiting the coming of another child in the best of health. I cannot say too much in praise of your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are at once the most agreeable and most effective laxative for women's use.

MARKET REPORTS.

Grain Cables Are Higher—Fractional Advances in Liverpool Wheat Options—Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, July 3.

In Liverpool to-day wheat futures rose ⅝d to ¾d per cental, and maize options advanced ½d to ¼d.

News of rain and expected rain in various portions of the corn belt and profit-taking caused a little decline in the price of corn in Chicago to-day. Wheat was stronger in sympathy with Liverpool. Provisions were hammered mercilessly.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 3.—Cattle—There was no trade in cattle, the receipts being all consigned thru. The feeling on Chicago dry-fed handy cattle, fat cows and heifers was full steady to firm. There was no improvement in the fat roughs or green slippery stock. The offerings of calves were about 200 head, and the demand slow on a lower basis. Choice to extra veal calves, $5.50 to $5.70, a few selling at $5.75; heavy fed, $4 to $4.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Offerings about nine loads. There is little or no demand for sheep. Spring lambs, choice to extra, $5.50 to $5.75; good to choice, $5.25 to $5.50; yearlings, choice to extra, $4.60 to $4.75; export lambs, $4.75 to $4.80; handy wethers, $3.90 to $4; mixed sheep, $3.60 to $3.80; heavy export sheep, $4.15 to $4.25.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 3.—Beeves—Receipts, 2717; 35 cars on sale; market slow; steers generally 10c to 15c lower; choice scarce; bulls and cows, 10c to 15c lower; all sold; steers, $4.85 to $5.85; stockers, $4.20; bulls, $2.75 to $4.10; cows, $2 to $4.25. Cables steady. Exports, 1800 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 4976; market very badly demoralized; prices 50c to 70c off; more than 1000 calves unsold. Veals, $5.50 to $5.50; tops, $5.62½; culls, $3 to $3.25; buttermilks, $2.50 to $3.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 3598; sheep slow and easier; lambs depressed and 25c to 35c off; some sales 50c lower; 20 cars unsold. Sheep, $2.50 to $3.50; lambs, $5 to $6; one car extra, $6.25; culls, $3.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 362; one and a half cars on sale; easier quotations, $6.20 to $6.40.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 3.—Cattle—Receipts, 14,000; good to prime steers, $5.25 to $6.40; poor to medium, $4.10 to $5.15; stockers and feeders weak, $2.80 to $4.05; cows, $2.60 to $4.00; heifers, $2.60 to $5; canners, $2 to $2.50; bulls slow, $2.50 to $4.50; calves slow, $4 to $6.25; Texas-fed steers, $4.25 to $5.25; do., grass steers, $3.40 to $4.15; do., bulls, $2.50 to $3.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 30,000; mixed and butchers', $5.75 to $6.25; good to choice, $6.12½; rough, heavy, $5.75 to $5.95; light, $5.70 to $6.02½; bulk of sales, $5.90 to $6.02½.

Sheep—Receipts, 12,000; good to choice, $3.40 to $4.15; fair to choice, mixed, $3 to $3.75; Western sheep, $3.45 to $4.15; yearlings, $3.75 to $4.25; native lambs, $3 to $5; Western lambs, $3.50 to $5.

Russell, July 3.—Cheese Board held here to-night; 340 white and 60 colored offered; 8⅝c bid; none sold.

Sore Throat and Hoarseness.

with their attendant dangers may be speedily averted and remedied by the use of Polson's Nerviline. Excellent to gargle with—ten times better than a mustard plaster and more convenient for the outside. Nerviline penetrates the tissues instantly, soothes the pain, allays inflammation, and cures sore throat and hoarseness simply because that's what it is made for. The large 25 cent bottle of Nerviline is unexcelled as a household liniment. It cures everything.

ROBT. NEILL

To Marry Lord Revelstoke.

London, July 4.—It is reported that Princess Victoria Alexandra, who was born on July 6, 1868, will shortly marry Lord Revelstoke. His Lordship was a child friend of the princess at Marlborough House. He was then John Baring. It is understood that he told her then of his love, but was at that time firmly repulsed. He spent some time in America, and was supposed to have subdued his passion for the princess. He succeeded his father as Lord Revelstoke in 1897.

Soldiers Sunstruck.

London, July 4.—While the weather in England is temperate, continued telegrams continue to report the ravages of heat and storm. Deaths from sunstroke are numerous. In an Italian regiment which was marching from Pisa to Leghorn yesterday, there were 30 cases of sunstroke, while many of the soldiers dropped from exhaustion. Storms have occurred in Northern France, while lightning has wrecked churches and houses. Several fatalities occurred.

A Berlin Baggageman Recommend Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Hauling heavy trucks and lifting heavy trunks strains the back and injures the delicate fibres of the kidneys.

No wonder so many baggagemen complain of backache and kidney troubles.

For baggagemen's backache, as well as for all kinds of backache, kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, there is no remedy equal to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Read what Mr. Geo. Bremner, baggageman, G.T.R. station, Berlin, Ont., has to say about them:—"For three or four years I have suffered from a severe backache due to Kidney trouble. I have tried all kinds of kidney remedies, but am forced to say until I procured a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets off A. J. Ross, druggist, I never had much relief. The Tablets, however, soon took hold and the result is comfort again. I am only too pleased to recommend them as easy, safe and sure."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

A Big Drive.

The alligator, McClinton, owned by the Rathbun Co., Deseronto, went through here from that place, on Wednesday, and will be launched in the river at Lindsay. The McClinton will be despatched to Coboconk, from which point she will tow the company's drive, which is now in Big Mud Turtle Lake, to Trenton. The drive comprises about 50,000 logs, with about 40 men in charge, and is one of the largest that has gone through these waters for a couple of years.

Says He Wasn't Fined.

In a recent issue of the Lindsay Post it was stated that Mr. Jack Haggart, of Peterborough, had been assessed $25 by the Chief of Police for auctioneering without a license in Victoria County in connection with a sale of western horses. Mr. Haggart contradicts the statement, and says that the Chief of Police did not say aye, yes or no, to him, nor said whether he did wrong or ill. The fact of the case was that Mr. Haggart bought a license before he ever attempted to do business.

The Gift for the Bride.

INQUEST AGAIN ADJOURNED

Circumstances re George Houston's Drowning.

Mr. Hatton who Appeared on behalf of Mr. H. Calcutt Asked for an Enlargement.

The inquest to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of George Houston, who was drowned in the Otonabee River while on a moonlight excursion on Monday night of last week, resumed before Coroner Gray at the Court House last night. The jury was empanelled on Tuesday of this week and the jurors after viewing the remains decided that a post mortem examination should be held. This was done on Tuesday night by Dr. McClelland and Dr. McCallough.

County Crown Attorney Wood was present and Mr. A. E. Dixon appeared on behalf of deceased's family.

The following jurors answered to their names,—R. H. Kells, foreman, Thomas Ellis, A. E. Micks, T. C. Elliott, J. W. Butcher, John Lockhart, Wm. Fair, Wm. Yelland, J. H. Ames, J. S. Boswell, John Irwin, John Armour, J. C. Smith, John Fowler.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan was the first witness called. He was on the excursion down the Otonabee River on the evening of Monday, June 24th. He was on the scow and the first he heard of the accident was when he heard the engineer's bell. After some commotion he saw the form of a man struggling in the water. He was told since that the boat was at that time about five miles down the river. They appeared to be about mid-stream. The man was apparently swimming towards the boat and witness heard him call for help. He was at that time about twenty-five feet from the end of the scow. Houston yelled "help" and tried to shout something else, but witness judged from the sound of his voice that he was taking water and what he was trying to say could not be made out. Some one threw out a bench which lighted about ten feet from the drowning man and there appeared to be no difficulty to prevent him from reaching the same. A canoe in which there was a man, then appeared from the other side of the steamer. The man in the water could still be seen but the distance between him and the steamer was getting greater. As far as witness knew there was nothing else thrown to Houston. The time of the accident was about twenty minutes after ten o'clock.

Foreman Kells asked if there was any possibility of the bench having struck Houston when in the water, and in reply Mr. Mulligan said that there was not.

To Mr. A. E. Dixon witness said that he noticed no life preservers on the scow. Part of the time the scow was along-side the steamer and part of the time it was not.

At this juncture Mr. G. W. Hatton, who entered the chamber, announced that he had been asked to appear on behalf of Mr. Calcutt, and not having time to consult with witnesses he would like an adjournment.

Coroner Gray consented and the inquest was accordingly adjourned until Monday evening next at the same place.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD.

The Kindergarten has Been Placed on the Official List.

The Separate School Board met last evening, there being present Messrs. Murty, Chairman, McGrath, Henry, Kylie, Clancy, Goselin, and Hickey. The Ven Archdeacon Casey, Superintendent of Schools, was also present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Reports of attendance of schools for June were received as follows:—The Convent, (St. Joseph's), number on roll 244, average attendance 224. Lake Street School, (St. Mary's), number on roll 224, average attendance 194. Murray Street School, (St. Peter's), no report received.

Communications were received:

From the Deputy Minister of Education stating that the Separte School Kindergarten had been placed upon the official list.—Received.

From the Education Departments enclosing Inspector White's report of his visit to the schools during May.—Received.

Accounts were received from R. Hicks & Co. for $6.25, and F. F. Garden for $10.

The accounts were ordered to be paid when certified.

A special committee to consider the report of Inspector White was appointed, consisting of the Ven. Archdeacon Casey, the chairman of the Board, with the School Management Committee, to report at a special meeting to be called by the chairman.

The Property Committee reported repairs requiring the attention of the Board, which should be done during the present vacation. The matter was referred back to the Committee to get an idea of the probable cost of work needed to be done, to report at the special meeting.

The Board then adjourned.

BINDER TWINE SEIZED.

How the Government Protects the Interests of the Farmers—A Law That Must be Enforced.

(Belleville Ontario.)

That the interests of the farmers are being looked after by the Parliament of Canada, is illustrated by the legislation of the session before last, which came into operation in October, 1900. By these amendments to the Weights and Measures Act it is illegal to sell binder twine unless each ball has a tag attached to it which bears the maker's or importer's name and also "stating the number of feet of twine per pound in such ball."

That such legislation was much needed was made plain in the discussion in Parliament, and now that the Act is in force dealers and farmers should be on the lookout for any violations of the Act.

That some are trying to evade the law or set it at naught, is proved by the fact that yesterday Mr. Wm. Johnson, of this city, the district inspector of weights and measures, seized five tons of illegal twine from two dealers in a part of this district.

BOYS OF THE 14TH.

They Will Have new Guns Before They Camp Again.

The Toronto Globe says: The 14th Field Battery, the Durhams, have still the old fashioned muzzle loading 9 pounder guns. This battery is out for the first time under Major Neil E. Macnachatan, of Cobourg, who was for many years identified with the Cobourg Garrison Artillery. They were camped on the open ground between the camp of A Brigade and the Bay of Quinte, on good dry ground, a trifle stony. The brigade mess tent has a fine outlook over the bay to the beautiful wooded shores of Prince Edward County. Major Macnachtan has as his assistants, Capt. Richard Cairnes, Lieuts. E. O. Bradburn, W. C. Ackerman and W. A. Hall. The battery did excellent work, and its improvement after coming into camp was rapid. Officers and men vied with each other in working together for the good of the battery. They hope before another camp to be armed with the modern breech-loading 12-pounder gun. So far they are the only battery to fire with the obsolete 9-pounder. Their score even then was 52, which is two points above that made by the Toronto Battery.

A PRETTY JUNE WEDDING.

A Hastings Bride Comes to Peterborough.

A very pretty June wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arch. Fraser, Hastings, on Wednesday, the contracting parties being their eldest daughter, Miss Agnes A., and Mr. John H. Belleghem, of Peterborough. The officiating clergyman was Rev. D. A. Thompson.

The bridesmaid, Miss A. Lillian Fraser, sister of the bride, looked sweet in a white muslin dress trimmed with lace and insertion, and she carried a bouquet of roses.

Mr. Jas. Belleghem of Peterborough, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of white dimity, trimmed with valenciennes and insertion, and wore bridal roses and carried a bouquet of the same.

The room was prettily arranged with flowers and ferns.

Only a few of the most intimate friends of the contracting parties were present.

After the ceremony all sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper.

ATHLETIC BICYCLISTS and others should always keep HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL on hand. Nothing like it for stiffness and soreness of the muscles, sprains, bruises, cuts, etc. th

SPORTING PASTIMES.

BASEBALL.

Mr. Jack Mulhall, who played second bag for the locals last season, is in town on a visit.

What about arranging a series of home and home games between Peterborough, Port Hope and Lindsay, for the championship of the Midland District?

Now that the hot season has arrived, and business is quieter, the baseball matches should be patronized to a greater extent than earlier in the summer. The Kingston team should draw a big crowd here and the expense would be light if the Ponies would play in Port Hope, Peterborough and Lindsay.

The West Ends and Elms of Ashburnham, will play for the silver cup donated by the Calcutt Brewing and Malting Co., on the Nicholls oval next Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock.

It is likely that Lindsay and the local nine will play a game in town at an early date. The game would certainly draw a big crowd.

LACROSSE.

Port Hope will likely play the return game with the Vaticans on July 17th.

Visitors from town who witnessed the game in Port Hope on Tuesday, are loud in their praise of the good work done by the Vaticans. The Ontarios had six of their old veterans on the team, and the game is described as a scientific one in every particular.

The Port Hope Guide refers to the Vatican-Port Hope game as follows:

By a score of 8 to 0, Peterborough was defeated by the Ontarios in an interesting lacrosse match at the park yesterday afternoon. One's mind unconsciously reverted to the olden days, when the rivalry between the two teams was so intense that for days in advance of the matches nothing else was talked of but the prospective chances of the respective teams. The match was the main feature of the day to the three thousand people who were present, and they enjoyed the sport thoroughly, although, naturally, they would have preferred to have seen the score a little closer. The spectators were impartial, and applauded the pretty but ineffective combination of the Peterborough 12 quite as liberally as they did the playing of the Ontarios. The Peterborough home did not seem to be able to make a concentrated attack on the goal. At times they would pass the ball from one to the other cleverly enough but they seemed to forget that they should have bored in on the net instead of merely keeping the ball away from the opposing defence. The Ontarios' home players, on the contrary, made use of every opening that was afforded them, and as a result they kept the Peterborough goal keeper busier than he liked. Peterborough's defence was unable to cope with the speedy home of the local team, and the defence of the Ontarios was appreciably superior to the players pitted against them. The best of good feeling prevailed throughout between the players, not a man was ruled off. O. Dusty learned his lacrosse in Cannington. His wasp like jersey was in the thick of every scrimmage. J. Lynch, one of Peterborough's best men, was prevented from playing by a sprained hand.

Toronto News: P. Kelly of Peterborough, according to "Mick" Sparrow, is one of the coming home fielders of this country. He is a student at Ottawa College, and not until this spring was very much thought of the youngster. He will likely turn out with the Vaticans at Peterborough during vacation."

Mr. "Bob" Gilman, formerly of town, figured on the Rochester Rangers' team in their game with the Crescents of New York, at the Pan-American, on Tuesday.

THE WHEEL.

Messrs. Dunsford, Maybee, and O'Hara of town, figured in the bicycle races at Port Hope on Tuesday. The track is described as being one of the worst in Canada.

CANOEING.

Canoeists are reminded of the meeting in the Oriental this evening to arrange for a regatta on Little Lake.

T. A. S. ATHLETICS.

A largely attended meeting of St. Peter's T.A.S. Athletic Association, was held last evening in their rooms, with the president, Mr. John O'Brien, in the chair. The contract for removing the trees from the Separate school grounds, was awarded to Mr. Daniel Mahoney. Some sixteen or eighteen trees will be cut down, and the ground will be levelled and put in first class condition for the different athletic sports.

SPRINTING.

B. Cameron of town, succeeded in winning the half mile foot race in Port Hope on Tuesday, and landed a valuable prize.

Peterborough is said to possess a bunch of speedy sprinters in one hundred yards, half mile and mile dashes. Considerable interest would be aroused if matched races could be arranged in order to ascertain who can really lay claim to the honour of being the speediest runner in town.

Mr. Whitton opened with an offer of 8 1-4c., Mr. Flavelle called 8 1-2c., Mr. Bailey raised to 8 9-16c. Mr. Flavelle was after cheese, however, and made his bid 8 3-4c., Mr. Bailey led back with 8 13-16c., and was met with an offer of 8 7-8c., which Mr. Bailey bettered by making his bid 8 15-16c. Mr. Flavelle then raised to 9c., and his opponent having reached his limit Mr. Flavelle said he would clear the board at the figure named, which announcement called forth vigorous applause.

It was the largest purchase by one buyer in the history of the Board. The quantity was over 165,000 pounds, and the amount paid out in the neighbourhood of $9,400.

TOWN COUNCIL'S MONTHLY MEETING

Civic Holiday Fixed for August Fifteenth.

THIRD THURSDAY IS THE DAY

Debentures Sold at par and Another Lot to be Placed on the Market.

The monthly meeting of the council was held last evening, the members present being Mayor Denne and Aldermen Best, Shortly, Batten, Rush, Clinkscale, Roger and Edgcumbe.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received and dealt with as follows:

From James Murty and a number of others, asking for the construction of a granolithic pavement 5 feet wide, outside the trees, on the west side of Walton street, from Weller street to Homewood avenue. —Referred to the Board of Works.

From the Police Constables, asking for their usual holidays. — Granted, and referred to Chief Roszel, to make suitable arrangements.

From W. Menzies, Secretary of the Excursion Committee of the Canadian Order of Foresters, asking that the Civic Holiday be set for the third Thursday in August. — On motion the Town Solicitor was instructed to prepare a bylaw fixing the third Thursday in August permanently as the Civic Holiday.

From the Reeve of Cache Bay, Ont., stating that the destruction of 30 houses by fire in that village had left 200 people homeless and asking assistance.—Received.

From J. M. Gibson, Attorney General, enclosing copy of bill to amend the Assessment Act as prepared by the Assessment Commission. — Referred to the Town Solicitor.

From W. H. Moore enclosing copy of statement of the various Acts passed relating to the Town of Peterborough, and offering to make a brief digest of the same, if it was desired, for publication. — Referred to the Finance Committee, with power to act.

From R. H. Nesbitt, asking to be made an allowance for being debarred from the use of his land by the fact that the Smith street bridge over the creek has not yet been rebuilt. — Referred to the Board of Works.

From J. C. Turnbull and a number of others, asking for the construction of a pipe sewer on Rubidge street from the centre of the intersection of Dublin street north, a distance of 168 feet. —Referred to the Board of Works.

From E. E. Lord and Mrs. Crosby, Dalhousie street, re connection with a drain at present in use. — Referred to the Board of Works.

THE BOARD OF WORKS,

through its chairman, Ald. Best, reported as follows:

1. Your Board gave the Town Solicitor authority to extend the time for making the award in the arbitration Morrow vs. Peterborough, if he approved of that course, and recommend that this action be approved.

2. We recommend that the chairman of this Board be authorized to grade the part of the south half of the boundary between the town and Douro that needs grading, and to spend $25 in conjunction with Douro to gravel it.

3. We authorized the Town Engineer to purchase 2,000 to 3,000 feet of 2-inch plank, and left the matter of the purchase of a belt for the crusher with the chairman to deal with.

4. We recommend that Charlotte street be graded and stoned from Park street east to George street.

5. We authorized the Engineer to ask for tenders for the construction of a bridge over the creek on Smith street, and also for the construction of sewers on the following streets: London street, from George to Rubidge streets. Rubidge street, from London to Dublin streets; George street, from Dublin to Argyle; and on Argyle street to the Nicholls Hospital; and also, if the petitions therefore were sufficiently signed, on Charlotte street from Park street to the west limit of lot 36, plan 78, and on Rubidge street from Dublin to a point 135 feet west of Dublin street.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. BEST, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

THE COURT OF REVISION

through its chairman, Ald. Shortly, reported as appended:

Your Court of Revision beg leave to report and recommend that the Council request owners of property who rent rooms over stores, etc., to have such rooms numbered, as the numbers would be a great convenience in describing them for assessment purposes, and that the clerk forward this request to such owners.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. SHORTLY, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

through its chairman, Ald. Roger, reported as subjoined:

1. Your committee approved of the sale of sewer debentures to run for 30 years, and bearing 3 1-2 per cent. interest, $5,000 to a private individual, and $8,000 to the Commissioners of the Peterborough Town Trust at par.

2. We recommend that the expenses of the Mayor and Clerk to Toronto regarding debentures, be paid, on the certificate of the Mayor.

3. We recommend that the following accounts be paid:

4. Your committee recommend that the Mayor and chairman of the Finance Committee be given authority to sell the balance of the debenture issues at the best offer received.

5. We also recommend that the Town Solicitor be authorized to prepare such a bylaw as is necessary to protect the public parks.

6. We further recommend that the Treasurer be authorized to pay to the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society the balance of the grant made the society.

7. We recommend that the balance of salary due H. Denne, former tax-collector, $150, be paid to him.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. M. ROGER, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

The bylaw extending aid to the Peterborough Shovel Company, which was recently voted on by the property owners, received its third reading and was passed.

On motion of Ald. Roger and Clinkscale, the matter of dealing with the shortage, if any, in reference to the sale of debentures was referred to a committee of the whole council.

The council then adjourned.

CANADIAN SCHOLARS.

A Tribute to the Success of Our Educational System.

The Buffalo Express has the following, which is a strong tribute to the thoroughness and advanced character for successful teaching of the Educational Institutions of Canada. This tribute is all the more impartial, coming from a source which is fond of claiming superiority in all things for United States institutions of all kinds. It shows that though Canadians may be slow, they are sure—they "arrive" as the French would say:—

"The announcement of the transfer of the Rev. Dr. Fallon of Ottawa, Ont., University to be Superior of the College of the Holy Angels in this city directs attention once more to the frequency with which men of Canada college training are appointed to important educational positions in this country.

Dr. Fallon is not a Canadian himself, but, coming from a successful career in the Dominion, he serves to illustrate the point that the United States is the natural field for the ambitious Canadian scholar who is desirous of achieving a distinction denied to him in a country of much more limited opportunities. Schurman of Cornell and Osler of Johns Hopkins have done this, and it is reported from Montreal that Prof. George of the Congregational College an eminent educator, has accepted a college appointment in Chicago. These names occur at the moment, but there are very many more Canadian scholars holding with credit dignified and responsible positions in the educational institutions of this country.

It is apparent that the grade of Canadian scholarship is very high or these things would not be possible. It is not so long ago that Canada brought the great majority of its teachers from the British universities. Indeed there are institutions in the Dominion to-day which imagine they could not get along at all without a British principal and three or four British professors on the staff. The natural result is just beginning to manifest itself. During the week the announcement was made that Prof. J. G. McGregor of Dalhousie University, Halifax, Canadian born and educated, has been appointed to the chair of natural philosophy in Edinburgh University. Such appointments speak well for the Canadian scholarship of the present time. Much more attention is being paid to education than to agriculture, especially in the adjoining Province of Ontario, where nearly every other farmer's son's preference is for a career apart from that of a tiller of the soil. There are not enough boys left on Ontario farms to gather the crops. They are in Ontario colleges preparing themselves to be Oslers and Schurmans and McGregors.—Buffalo Express.

PERILS OF FIREMEN.

IN THE GREAT CITIES THEIR LIVES ARE ALWAYS IN DANGER.

A New York Conflagration That Illustrates the Kind of Daring That These Heroes Are Frequently Called Upon to Display.

Writing on the daring and the danger of firemen in The Century, Cleveland Moffett says: "In all its history I suppose the world has seen no heroes like these, who join the skill of gladiators with the valor of crusaders. Does that sound like exaggeration? I should call it rather understatement."

As illustrating the things firemen do every day and do gladly, he gives some incidents of one particular fire that happened in New York on St. Patrick's day, 1899. It was a pleasant afternoon, and Fifth avenue was crowded with people to watch the parade. A gayer, pleasanter scene it would have been hard to find at 3 o'clock or a sadder one at 4.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians, coming along with bands and banners, were nearing Forty-sixth street when suddenly there sounded hoarse shouts and the angry clang of fire gongs, and down Forty-second street came Hook and Ladder 4 on a dead run and swung into Fifth avenue straight at the pompous paraders, who immediately became badly scared Irishmen and took to their heels. But the big ladders went no farther. Here they were needed—oh, so badly needed—for the Windsor hotel was on fire—the famous Windsor hotel, at Fifth avenue and Forty-seventh street. It was on fire and far gone with fire (the thing seems incredible) before ever the engines were called, and the reason was that everybody supposed that of course somebody had sent the alarm.

And so they all watched the fire and waited for the engines. 10 minutes, 15 minutes, and by that time a great column of flame was roaring up the elevator shaft, and people on the roof in their madness were jumping down to the street. Then some sane citizen went to a fire box and rang the call, and within 90 seconds Engine 65 was on the ground. And after it came Engines 54 and 21, and then hook and ladder companies. But there was no making up that lost 15 minutes. The fire had things in its teeth now, and three, four, five alarms went out in quick succession. Twenty-three engines had their streams on that fire in almost as many minutes. And the big fire tower came from Thirty-sixth street and Ninth avenue and six hook and ladder companies arrived.

Let us see how Hook and Ladder 21 came. She was the mate of the fire tower, and the rush of her galloping horses was echoing up the avenue just as Battalion Chief John Binns made out a woman in a seventh story window on the Forty-sixth street side, where the fire was raging fiercely. The woman was holding a little dog in her arms, and it looked as if she was going to jump. The chief waved to her to stay where she was and, running toward the truck, motioned it into Forty-sixth street, whereupon the tillerman at his back wheel did a pretty piece of steering, and even as they plunged along the crew began hoisting the big ladder. Such a thing is never done, for the truck might upset with the swaying. But every second counted here, and they took the chance.

As they drew along the curb Fireman McDermott sprang up the slowly rising ladder, and two men came behind with scaling ladders, for they saw that the main ladder would never reach the woman. Five stories is what it did reach, and then McDermott, standing on the top round, smashed one of the scaling ladders through a sixth story window and climbed on, smashed the second scaling ladder through a seventh story window, and five seconds later had the woman in his arms.

To carry a woman down the front of a burning building on scaling ladders is a matter of regular routine for a fireman, like jumping from a fourth story down to a net or making a bridge of his body. It is part of the business. But to have one foot in the air reaching for a lower step on a swaying, flimsy thing and to feel the other step break under you and to fall two feet and catch safely—that is a thing not every fireman could do. But McDermott did it, and he brought the woman safely to the ground—and the dog too.

Almost at the same moment the crowd on Forty-seventh street was gasping in admiration of a rescue feat even more thrilling. On the roof, screaming in terror, was Kate Flannigan, a servant, swaying over the cornice, on the point of throwing herself down. Then out of a top floor window crept a little fireman and stood on the fire escape gasping for air. Then he reached in and dragged out an unconscious woman and lowered her to others and was just starting down himself when yells from the street made him look up, and he saw Kate Flannigan. She was ten feet above him, and he had no means of reaching her.

The crowd watched anxiously and saw the little fireman lean back over the fire escape and motion and shout something to the woman. And then she crept over the cornice edge, hung by her hands for a second and dropped into the fireman's arms. It isn't every big, strong man who could catch a sizable woman in a fall like that and hold her, but this stripling did it because he had the nerve and knew how. And that made another life saved.

By this time flames were breaking out of every story from street to roof. It seemed impossible to go on with the rescue work, yet the men persisted even on the Fifth avenue front, bare of fire escapes. They used the long extension ladders as far as they could and then "scaled it" from window to window. Here it was that William Clark of Hook and Ladder 7 made the rescues that gave him the Bennett medal—took three women out of seventh story windows when it was like climbing over furnace mouths to get there.

And one of these women he reached only by working his way along narrow stone ledges for three windows and back the same way to his ladder, with the woman on his shoulder. Even so it is likely he would have failed in this last effort had not Edward Ford come part way along the ledges to meet and help him.

The Deaf Made to Hear.

St. Thomas—A modern miracle was made known to-day when Mr. Riddle, of this city, announced that he had recovered his hearing. He has been almost entirely deaf, and it borders on the marvellous to find him able to hear everything with great distinctness. As his case is proving of such universal interest, we give Mr. Riddle's own statement. "My hearing was always poor, and not long ago I became almost deaf. It was the result of catarrhal inflammation, but nothing did me good until I used Catarrhozone. It cured my trouble and I strongly recommend it to the deaf." Fully nine-tenths of the deafness is the result of Catarrh and can be cured by catarrhozone. The cures of deafness wrought by this remedy in cases of even twenty years standing are really astounding. Among many others, ministers of the gospel testify to the wonderful powers of Catarrhozone, and your druggist can tell of some astonishing cases in his own experience. Better give it a trial, if your hearing is impaired. Price $1; small size 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.

BOOKKEEPERS' TROUBLES.

The Strain Which They Are Always Under to Guard Against Error.

"The fellow who has to handle a considerable amount of money that belongs to other people is constantly in dread," said an old accountant recently while discussing recent defalcations, "and my own experience in such matters has caused me to have a world of sympathy for the man who gets into trouble. The man who has to keep track of the cash of a large institution wears a heavy responsibility, and the responsibility generally wears its way into his character in one way or another. The impress will sometimes be found in highly tensioned nerves and will manifest itself in a certain irascibility of temperament, a crabbedness, an overweening excitability, a quickness to resent and things of that sort. Again, I have known accountants to become morose, and I have seen some cases of thoroughly developed melancholy. The wonder is to me that so few instances of complete nervous and mental collapse are to be found among the men who spend their lives in handling large sums of money that belong to other people.

"The dread which constantly haunts a bookkeeper is something terrific. The very slightest mistake will throw him clear out of balance, and in many cases the accountant does not enjoy that system of checks which enables him to balance his books as he goes along. Banking institutions close their accounts as they go along, and the men who work in these institutions know the charges, the credits and the balances generally at the end of each day's work, thanks to the system of daily clearances. This makes the work of the honest man in the bank easier.

"But the harder lot falls to another class of accountants who are forced to handle large sums of money daily, men who receive money in various amounts of various denominations and for various purposes and who have to pay it out in the same way; men who in the regular course of things have to take due bills from stockholders and employees and who have many other such practices to deal with. These things go to the very vitals of his professional efficiency and his personal integrity, and hence he is constantly haunted by the dread that some small error through no fault of his will creep into his record to reproach him in one way or another.

"The point is that the bookkeeper is not sufficiently protected, for errors may slip in from side lines, by overlooking a misplaced due bill or something of that sort. On the other hand, so much has been received and so much has been paid out in the regular course of business, and the employer will take the balance sheet for a correct story of the company's business. The incomes and the outputs must balance, but the poor accountant frequently finds himself toiling far into the night in an effort to bring about this happy result. He knows that there must not be the difference of a hair's breadth, figuratively speaking, when his employer scans the balance sheet, for in this age of easily aroused suspicion he feels that his personal integrity is involved in the matter. Correct balances do not only measure the professional efficiency of the accountant, but they also form a yardstick by which the employer measures the moral worth of the man.

"These reflections and my own experience strengthen the sympathy I have for that vast horde of fellows who are keeping daily tab on the world's business, footing up the profits and losses and figuring the balances first one way and then the other at the setting of each day's sun."

HARD ON THE YOUNGSTE...S.

Some of the Words They Must Master Only to Forget.

"What's a dune?" asked the practical man.

"A dune," answered the practical man's wife, "a dune is—er—er, why, a dune—I believe I've forgotten just what a dune is. What do you want to know for, anyway?"

"What's a dure?"

"A dure! I don't think I ever heard of a dure."

"What's a pirn?" continued the practical man.

"Now, see here," said the wife firmly, "I'm not a dictionary, and I don't pretend to be one. But I'd like to ask you one question in return. What's that book you have in your hand and have been getting all those obsolete or impossible words from? Must be a copy of the ancients."

"Well, it isn't," answered the man doggedly enough. "It's a copy of the spelling book that your young hopeful, aged 9, struggles with every day in his school life. Now, what do you think of that?"

"You are always talking about the beauties of the present day system of instructing children. How do you like this system? Well, I'll bet there isn't one man in twenty, outside of the fellows who are themselves engaged in educational forms, who could tell offhand the meaning of a lot of these words that occur in this very primitive book. It's a good thing for the parents to look into these matters once in awhile."

"I'm sure I didn't know those words were in the book," said the woman meekly. "Are you sure you haven't picked up a high school book?"

"High school nothing," retorted the man. "See for yourself. This is Tommy's spelling book. Let's go a little further into this thing. Look at this." The man turned the page and read, "Clives, torque, fyke, tete, sice, tige, feoff, gyre, oppugn, rasure and obligor." "I'll tell you what I'll do, Maria. If you'll take a pencil and a piece of paper and write opposite each of these words its correct meaning, without consulting the dictionary, I'll write you a check for a new tailor made gown at Mme. Swellun's. Now, here's a chance for you to score one for the merits of the present educational system and at the same time get a new gown."

"Why, really," said the wife of the practical man, "why, you know"—

"Yes," said the practical man, "I certainly do know. I know you wouldn't miss an opportunity to get a new dress. Here's another thing. If there is anything I do hate, it is affectation, and this spelling book puts a direct premium on affectation. Every well regulated child calls its parents 'mamma and papa,' respectively, accenting the first syllables. Here is this book insisting that the words shall be, as the English have them, 'mamma and papa,' with the last syllables accented.

"A little common sense is a wholesome thing. But it seems to have escaped the framers of the spelling books for our children."

BLOOD POISON

If you ever contracted any blood disease you are never safe unless the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. At times you see alarming symptoms, but live in hopes no serious results will follow. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore Throat, Ulcers on the Tongue, in the Mouth, Hair Falling Out, Aching Pains, Itchiness of the Skin, Spots or Blotches on the Body, Eyes Red and Smart, Dyspeptic Stomach, Sexual Weakness—indications of the second stage. Don't trust to luck. Don't ruin your system with the old fogy treatment—mercury and potash—which only suppresses the symptoms for a time, only to break out again, when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our New Method Treatment is guaranteed to cure you. Our guarantees are backed by bank bonds, that the disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our New Method Treatment for over twenty years. No experiment, so risk—not a "patch-up," but a positive cure. The worst cases solicited. We treat and cure Nervous Debility, Sexual Weakness, Heart, Blood Poison, Stricture, Varicocele, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, and all diseases peculiar to men and women.

CURES GUARANTEED.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

"There are some things, herr, which the publican does not understand. One of these is the duty a sovereign owes to the people. The woman in me wishes to follow your fortunes, though they carry her to the ends of the world, but the sovereign sees but one path—honor and duty. What is one human heart to a hundred thousand? A grain of sand. Herr, let mine be broken. I shall not murmur. Alas, to be a princess, a puppet in this tinsel show of kings and queens! It is my word and the king's will which have made my happiness an impossibility. Though I love you, I wish never to see you again. I shall be wife but in name, yet I may not have a lover. I am not a woman of the court. I am proud of my honor, though the man who is to be my husband doubts that."

"No, Gretchen," said I, "he does not doubt it, but he wishes me to do so. I believe in your innocence as I believe in your love."

"It is sad, is it not," said she, "that we must go through our days loving each other and all the world standing between? I have never loved a man before. I did not want to love you. I did not know that I loved you till I saw that your life was in danger. Yet I am glad that I have lived for a brief second, for till a woman loves she does not live. I am brave; do you be likewise. I shall go back to the world, and who shall know of the heart of fire beneath the ice? Not even the man I love. Kiss me. It is the last kiss I shall take from the lips of any man."

And it seemed to me that our souls met in that last kiss, melted and became one. Her hands dropped to her side, and swiftly she sped from the room.

She had entered the coach. The cavalrymen were perched upon the box. There was a crack of the lash, and the coach rolled away. I watched it, standing in the road. A cloud of yellow dust partially obscured it from view. Half a mile beyond rose a small hill. This the coach mounted, and the red gold of the smoldering sun engulfed it. Was it a face I saw at the window? Perhaps. Then over the hill all disappeared and with it the whole world, and I stood in emptiness, alone.

Gretchen had gone.

CHAPTER XV.

I was wandering aimlessly through the rose gardens when the faroff sound of galloping hoofs came on the breeze. Nearer and nearer it drew. I ran out into the highway. I saw a horse come wildly dashing along. It was riderless, and as it came closer I saw the foam of sweat dripping from its flanks and shoulders. As the animal plunged toward me I made a spring and caught the bridle, hanging on till the brute came to a standstill. It was quivering from fright. There was a gash on its neck, and it was bleeding and turning the white flakes of sweat into a murky crimson.

"Good Lord!" I ejaculated. "It's one of the cavalry horses. Hillars or the innkeeper has been hurt."

I was of the mind to mount the animal and go in search of them when Stahlberg, who had come to my assistance, said that I had best wait. A quarter of an hour passed. Then we could see another horse, perhaps half a mile away, coming toward the inn at a canter. From what I could see in the pale light, the horse carried a double burden. A sheet of ice seemed to fall on my heart. What had happened? Had Dan and the prince come to blows? Alas, I could have cried out in anguish at the sight which finally met my gaze. The innkeeper held the reins, and propped up in front of him was Hillars, to all appearances dead.

"Gott," cried the innkeeper, discovering me, "but I am glad to see you, herr! Your friend has been hurt, badly, badly."

"Heavens!" I cried. The hand and wrist of the innkeeper which encircled Hillars were drenched in blood.

"Yes; a bullet somewhere in his chest. Help me down with him. He is not dead yet. I'll tell you the story when we have made it comfortable for him."

Tenderly we carried the inanimate form of poor Hillars into the inn and laid it on the sofa. I tore back his blood wet shirt. The wound was slightly below the right lung. The bullet had severed an artery, for I could see that the blood gushed. We worked over him for a few moments, and then he opened his eyes. He saw me and smiled.

Tenderly we carried the inanimate form of poor Hillars into the inn.

"There wasn't any regiment, old man, but this will suffice. My hand trembled. But he'll never use his right arm again, curse him!"

"Dan, Dan," I cried, "what made you do it?"

"When I am a man's friend, it is in life and death. He was in the way. He may thank liquor that he lives." The lids of his eyes contracted. "Hurts a little, but it will not be for long, my son. I am bleeding to death inside. Jack, the woman loves you, and in God's eyes, princess or not, she belongs to you. You and I cannot understand these things which make it impossible for a man and a woman who love each other to wed. Let me hold your hand. I feel like an old woman. Give me a mouthful of brandy. Ah, that's better! Innkeeper, your courage is not to be doubted, but your judgment of liquor is. Anyway, Jack, I suppose you will not forget me in a week or so, eh?"

"Dan!" was all I could say, bending over his hand to hide my tears.

"Jack, you are not sorry?"

"Dan, you are more to me than any woman in the world."

"Oh, say! You wouldn't—hold me up a bit higher; that's it—you wouldn't have me hang on now, would you? I haven't anything to live for, no matter how you put it. Home? I never had one. The only regret I have in leaving is that the prince will not keep me company. Put an obol in my hand, and Charon will see me over the Styx.

"And when, like her, O Saki, you shall pass
Among the guests star scattered on the grass,
And in your joyous errand reach the spot
Where I made one, turn down an empty glass!

"Well, hang me, Jack, if you aren't crying! Then you thought more of me than I believed; a man's tears mean more than a woman's. A man must die, and what is a year or two? How much better to fold the tent when living becomes tasteless and the cup is full of lees! The prince was a trifle cruel, but perhaps his hand trembled too. Innkeeper, you're a good fellow."

"Herr is a man of heart," said the grizzled veteran sadly.

"Tell Jack how it happened," said Dan. "It hurts me."

On leaving me, Hillars and the innkeeper, after having taken a pair of pistols, had mounted the cavalry horses despite the protests of the owners, and had galloped away in pursuit of the prince and Count von Walden. They caught sight of them a mile or so ahead. They were loping along at a fair speed. It took half an hour to bring the two parties within speaking distance. Although the prince and Von Walden heard them, they never turned around, but kept on straight ahead. This made Hillars' choler rise, and he spurred forward.

"One moment, gentlemen," he cried. "I have a word with you!"

They galloped on unheeding. When Hillars got in front of them, they merely veered to either side.

"Ah!" said Hillars, choking with rage. With a quick movement he bent and caught the bridle of the prince's horse. The count, seeing that the prince was compelled to rein in, did likewise. The prince looked disdainful.

"Well, what is it?" asked Von Walden. "Speak quickly. Has your scribbling friend run away with her highness?"

"My remarks, most noble and puissant count," said Hillars, bowing satirically to the neck of his horse, "I shall confine to the still more noble and puissant Prince of Wortumborg."

"This is an unappreciated honor," sneered the prince.

"So it is," replied Hillars lightly. "When an honest man speaks to you, he is conferring an honor upon you which you, as you say, cannot appreciate. It appears to me that your highness has what we in America call malaria. I propose to put a hole through you and let out this bad substance. Lead, properly used, is a great curative. Sir, your presence on this beautiful world is an eyesore to me."

"One excuse is as good as another," said the prince. "Did her highness delegate you to put me out of the way?"

"Oh, no. But since you have brought her name into it, I confess that it is on her account. Well, sir, no man has ever insulted a woman in my presence and gone unscathed. In English speaking lands we knock him down. This being Rome, I shall do as the Romans do. I believe I called you a liar. I will do so again. Is the object of my errand plain?"

"As I said to your friend," smiled the prince, "I will send a lackey down here to take care of you. Count, we shall hardly get to the station in time to catch the train. Young man, stand aside. You annoy me. I have no time to discuss the princess or her lovers. Release my horse!"

"What a cur you are!" cried Hillars, losing his airy tone. "By heaven, you will fight me if I have to knock you down and spit upon you!" Then with full force he flung his hat into the face of the prince.

"You have written finis to your tale," said the prince, dismounting.

"Your highness," exclaimed the count, springing to the ground, "this must not be! You shall not risk your life at the hands of this cursed adventurer."

"Patience, count," said the prince, shaking off the hand which the count had placed upon his shoulder. "Decidedly this fellow is worth consideration. Since we have no swords, sir, and they seem to be woman's weapons these days, we will use pistols. Of course, you have come prepared. It is a fine time for shooting. This first light of twilight gives us equal advantage. Will it be at 10 or 20 paces? I dare say, if we stand at 20 in the center of the road, we shall have a good look at each other before we separate indefinitely."

"Your highness insists?" murmured the count.

"I not only insist; I command." The prince took off his coat and waistcoat and deposited them on the grass at the side of the road. Hillars did likewise. There was a pleased expression on his face. "I do believe, count," laughed the prince, "this fellow expects to kill me. Now the pistols."

"If you will permit me," said the innkeeper, taking an oblong box from under his coat. "These are excellent weapons."

The prince laughed. "I suppose, innkeeper, if the result is disastrous to me it will please you?"

The innkeeper was not lacking in courtesy. "It would be a pleasure, I assure you. There are certain reasons why I cannot fight you myself."

"To be sure."

"It would be too much like murder," continued the innkeeper. "Your hand would tremble so that you would miss me at point blank. There goes the last of the sun. We must hurry."

With a grimace the count accepted the box and took out the pistols.

"They are old fashioned," he said.

"A deal like the innkeeper's morals," supplemented the prince.

"But effective," said the innkeeper.

The count scowled at the old fellow, who met the look with phlegm. As an innkeeper he might be an inferior, but as a second at a duel he was an equal. It was altogether a different matter.

The count carefully loaded the weapons, the innkeeper watching him attentively. In his turn he examined them.

"Very good," he said.

The paces were then measured out. During this labor the prince gazed indifferently toward the west. The aftermath of the sun glowed on the horizon. The prince shaded his eyes for a spell.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I believe the princess is approaching. At any rate, here comes the coach. Let us suspend hostilities till she has passed."

A few minutes later the coach came rumbling along in a whirlwind of dust. The stoical cavalrymen kept on without so much as a glance at the quartet standing at the side of the road. Hillars looked after the vehicle till it was obscured from view. Then he shook himself out of the dream into which he had fallen. He was pale now, and his eyebrows were drawn together as the count held out the pistol.

"Ah, yes!" he said as though he had forgotten. "There goes the woman who will never become your wife."

"That shall be decided at once," was the retort of the prince.

"She will marry the gentleman back at the inn."

"A fine husband he will make, truly!" replied the prince. "He not only deserts her, but forsakes her champion. But that is neither here nor there. We shall not go through any polite formalities," his eyes snapping viciously.

The two combatants took their places in the center of the road. The pistol arm of each hung at the side of the body.

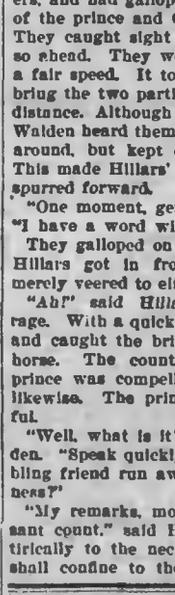
"Badly Crippled."

Rheumatism at its worst is a sort of living death. It chains a man to a chair or binds him to a bed, and metes out to him a daily martyrdom. At the best rheumatism is a painful malady, interfering alike with pleasure and business.



To cure rheumatism it is necessary to eliminate from the blood the acid poisons which are the cause of the disease. This is effectually done by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It carries out of the blood the corrupt and poisonous accumulations which breed and feed disease. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands and sends an increased supply of rich, pure blood through vein and artery to strengthen every organ of the body.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed," writes Mr. A. J. McKnight, of Caden, Williamsburg Co., S. C. "I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

FOR LIBRARY EXTENSION.

Rev. A. Fitzpatrick's Commendable Scheme.

A Slight Idea of the Work he is now Pushing Forward—Bishop O'Connors Offer.

Rev. A. Fitzpatrick, of Narin Centre, Ont., was in town on Dominion Day calling on friends. Rev. Mr. Fitzpatrick is head of the movement for Library Extension in Ontario and Travelling Libraries and Reading Camps. It will be pleasing to know that His Lordship Bishop O'Connor has offered to place a library in one of the camps. An idea of the work may be gathered from the following extracts from Rev. Mr. Fitzpatrick's booklet:

An effort is being made to advance the educational and other interests of the more isolated classes of labourers. It is believed that systematic home study ought to be made possible for all workmen, even those whose conditions are the most adverse. It is also believed that the Education Department for the Province, assisted by Colleges, Churches, Y.M.C.A., W.C.T.U., and other religious organizations are the best agencies to accomplish this work.

This pamphlet contains a statement of work of this kind begun amongst woodsmen, undertaken by way of experiment. It is hoped that in this way camp life can be made more homelike, that the men will improve their spare moments, that they will quit the demoralizing tramp habit of "jumping," and that they will be less likely to frequent the saloons.

The Ontario Public Libraries' Act does not, according to the letter at least, embrace the needs of lumber and mining camps. It was felt however that all that was necessary to make it apply to these classes was to ask for the privilege.

The Little Current Library Board, being within reach of large numbers of woodsmen, on Sept. 4th, was asked to request the Minister of Education to allow it to send small branch libraries into the camps in that vicinity. To this the Board heartily and unanimously agreed.

In support of this request a circular was then forwarded to a number of the leading lumber firms at present operating in the province with the following recommendations: That a travelling library commission be appointed, and a sum of money be appropriated by the Ontario Government with which to purchase books of the most approved literature; and that in the mean time, to assist in meeting the present needs, all public library boards be allowed the privilege of sending small collections of books into the camps.

This circular was cordially endorsed by dozens of influential lumbermen, and others. Among these were: Messrs. J. R. Booth, John Charlton, M.P.; A. E. Dyment, M.P.; C. Beck, F. H. Clergue, The Hull Lumber Co., The Saginaw Salt & Lumber Co., W. Charlton, M.P.P.; John Bertram, W. E. Bigwood, Keeling & Bower, Angus McLeod, and many others. The Church of England and Roman Catholic Bishops of Algoma, and the Rev. Dr. Finlay, Superintendent of Presbyterian missions for Algoma and Nippissing, and many other clergymen endorse the movement.

The Presbytery of North Bay on Sept. 27th passed the following resolution:

That this Presbytery is in hearty sympathy with the request of the Little Current Library Board, and heartily voices itself unanimously in favour of the proposed extension of the Public Libraries Act.

The Department of Education immediately acted upon the suggestion, and has given every encouragement to the scheme.

The only objection raised by the very few who seemed indifferent to the project were (1) That many of the men engaged in these industries could not read, and (2) That the hours of labour were necessarily too long to admit of reading or study.

To ascertain whether any means can be found of overcoming these difficulties, and to give the experiment of good literature in the camps a fair trial, an extra building has been put up at two camps, five and twelve miles respectively from Nairn Centre. A third has been built twenty-one miles south of Whitefish Station. The first mentioned at a camp operated by the Victoria Harbour Lumber Co., the second at one of Mr. Edmund Hall's camps, and the last at Mr. J. J. McFadden's.

Branch libraries in French and English from the Nairn Centre Public Library have been placed in these camps. One of the McGill University travelling libraries will be circulated in the Victoria Harbour Co.'s Camp No. 2. Several weekly and daily papers, have been subscribed for the exclusive use of the reading shanties. Many illustrated magazines have been received from friends. One-syllable editions of Robinson Crusoe, Swiss Family Robinson, and Pilgrim's Progress are being given those who cannot read, and they are being urged to improve their spare moments, and ask help from the nearest neighbour. The principal of mutual help is being encouraged. If the funds will warrant it prizes will be offered for the men who, being unable to read or write the English language, will in the course of the winter acquire either art. Branch libraries are also being circulated in a few camps where there are no reading rooms.

In this way nearly six hundred men in this vicinity will have the advantage of a good public library, and those of them in three of the camps whose elementary education was neglected will have an opportunity of improving it.

Even assuming that all public library boards asked would be willing to share their advantage with these isolated toilers, which is unlikely, the plan is quite inadequate and impracticable for any length of time. It is merely intended to bring the matter definitely before the public in general, and the Ontario Government in particular, permit of an experiment, and supplement the work of the churches and other religious organizations, until the Department of Education will have completed a system of travelling libraries.

The camp building of to-day is different from what it was twenty years ago when the whole outfit was made of logs, and no stoves or windows were used. Now the floor and roof are made of boards, and there are many other items of expense as tar-paper, seats, tables, etc.

Great improvement in the quality and variety of food supplied to the camp of to-day is also noticeable, in comparison to what it was when salt pork and beans and hard tack were the only articles of diet, when sugar was not thought of, when tea was a luxury and those who used it had to pay extra for it. At the present there is just as much variety and the food is just as wholesome, and just as well prepared as it is in the average hotel. All credit is due to lumbermen, who seem to vie with one another in supplying the best food on the market.

There is, however, room for development along the line of accommodation, and it is most encouraging to find a hearty response on the part of lumbermen as to this suggestion. Man has a mental and moral nature as well as a physical. By a perfect system of railroad and toting transportation, food is provided for the woodsman's bodily want, and there is no reason why suitable means may not be found to regularly and systematically supply his other needs.

In order to ascertain the most suitable building for this purpose, the shanties in question are built of different sizes. One is divided by a partition, thus separating it into two rooms, one to serve the purpose of a smoking room with games, the other that of a reading and study room. The partition is put in sections easily removable, so that the whole can be thrown into one large room, in the event of its being required for a religious service, social, concert or lecture.

According to the Crown Timber Agent's report for 1899 there were 422 camps in the month of October, in the Province of Ontario, under Government supervision. This would mean possibly double that number in January. But as some of these are small we may suppose that there are at least five hundred large camps, with an average of seventy men at work in mid-winter. The average cost of building, equipping and running a room without literature would be at least $150. Were the philanthropically inclined who are interested in their fellow-men and in their country's good to offer the lumber men of Ontario $150 for all camps of not less than seventy men, to enable them to build reading shanties, they would require to advance $75,000. With the co-operation of the lumbermen it is probable that half this sum would be suffice. But even $37,500 is a formidable-looking amount. It is not any larger however than scores of congregations invest in their church buildings. Besides, it would reach 35,000 men, whereas the average thirty-five thousand dollar church does not reach one thousand men.

This expenditure would not be for one year only. The average life of a camp is nearly two years. When the camp breaks up the roofing, flooring, stoves, etc., in most cases could easily be used in a new shanty. We may therefore say that with the co-operation of the lumbermen $37,500 would provide accommodation of this sort for the first year, and $25,000 or less each succedding year; and judging from the kindly reception already given the movement by lumbermen this would also cover the salary of a capable, enthusiastic man to supervise the work.

And even if lumbermen were wholly indifferent to this move why should the whole amount not be given? The country spends more than $75,000 on a few hardened criminals. Why neglect the young and innocent who are ostracized and isolated by the nature of their work? Do they not deserve their country's gifts and blessing for filling the advance posts of civilization? That they do this work gives others an opportunity to remain at home. Woodsmen are surely most deserving at the hands of their fellow-countrymen. Their hardships are as great and their dangers as many as those engaged in military service. Despite this they lack the inspiration of their country's honour and applause. They never know the stimulus incident to the exploitation of an enemy's country, the stirring of martial music, and the trappings of war. Their isolation is more complete. Their life is solitary and humdrum, without change of scene or the incentive of good society. Soldiers are better dressed, more in the best society and generally in larger bodies. Shantymen seldom see any one outside of their own camp of from sixty to one hundred men. They receive little attention from the Church, less from the public generally, and until recently none from the government. Every army has its surgeons and hospital staff and a larger percentage of sick and wounded soldiers recover. It is true that woodsmen may avail themselves of able physicians and surgeons and good hospitals, but often not until it is too late. They are subject, too, to all the diseases peculiar to unsanitary conditions in the undeveloped districts, there being few sanitary regulations and less government inspection of these, which neglect in the light of modern scientific discovery is criminal. That persistent rheumatism, those prematurely grey hairs, that old expression on many young and kindly faces, the cripples that hover about the camps compelled to live upon the charity of their noble-hearted comrades, because deserted by their country, tell plainly that life in the forest is a warefare from whose battles few return uninjured. They are consequently so weakened morally by this isolation and neglect that they yield more easily to temptation.

Regarding the second objection that the hours of labour are too long to admit of reading or study, no doubt we should look forward to the gradual shortening of the hours of labour of all workingmen. What, however, is of more immediate importance is to enlarge the range of interest in life for the labourer that he may employ in a wholesome and profitable manner such hours of leisure as he has, that when the opportunity comes he may know how to use more free time. As a matter of fact employers often fear to give their men too much spare time not from mercenary motives, but lest the time should be abused and employed in gambling, drinking and worse evils. In the existing condition of society there is usually more harm done on Sundays and other days on which men are off work than on any other day. Especially is this true of camp life. During spare hours shantymen suffer more from ennui, from their negative intellectual and moral life than from over work on other days. Experience proves that to increase the hours of freedom without insuring that these hours are to be well employed is to drag man downward, and that this is true of the rich as well as the poor.

This experiment is an attempt to demonstrate that reading-camps are feasible, practicable and meet a most urgent need. Should it prove successful it is hoped that the Ontario Government, receiving as it does a large revenue from the timber and mining lands of the Province, will set apart a small portion of it to benefit the woodsmen and miners. Judging from the very cordial manner in which the Department of Education has taken up the work the test was not required or at least a very short one will be necessary.

The Minister of Education is consulting public educators and eminent clergymen as to the best books for this purpose, and special care will be taken to eliminate books calculated to give offence to the religious convictions of any denomination.

Simultaneously with the announcement that the Department of Education has taken this matter under its favourable consideration comes the equally good news that the gift of one of Montreal's worthy sons has made possible a travelling library system in connection with McGill University, that its limits are not to be confined to the province of Quebec, that it will assist in meeting the needs of the woodsmen, and that one library is being sent as an experiment.

Only a few of the letters received endorsing the proposed extension of the public library system, and the building of reading camps, are here given. As these are representative, we may reasonably infer that the concensus of opinion is in favour of (1) A system of travelling libraries on a thoroughly business basis; and (2) The provision of reading camps for woodsmen and miners, the nature of whose work isolates them from all other social, literary and religious privileges. (3) The appointment of persons specially qualified to supervise the work, and adapt it to the peculiar conditions and temperaments of the people sought to be benefitted.

With the kind co-operation of not a few lumbermen, the cost of the reading shanties will be materially reduced, several freely offering to bear the whole expense of building these at their new camps next summer.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Nairn Centre, a little band of workers already burdened with pioneer work in this new country, have gallantly volunteered to assist. Substantial aid has also been received in the way of comfort bags, tracts, books, etc., from Miss Sproule, travelling representative of the W.C.T.U., and from the Unions of Barrie and Sudbury. In fact this institution as a whole and the Lady Aberdeen Association, have perhaps done most in this direction. The former invented the "comfort bag," which has been a boon to thousands of woodsmen. Books and papers have been received from the Presbyterian church, Barrie, Miss Malcolm, Norwich, and from Mrs. J. B. Hammond, of Nairn Centre, Mr. T. H. Litster, Toronto, who visited one of the reading camps when hunting in November, has presented the boys with a box of books, and two sets of checkers and dominoes. Mr. A. P. Willis, of Montreal, kindly offered the use of three organs for the winter, on condition that the C.P.R. would ship them free of charge to and from the camps. This the railway is very generously doing.

It has been thought well to give the public generally an opportunity of co-operating in this experiment, and assisting in making it a success. Mr. W. J. Bell, lumberman, Nairn Centre, is acting as treasurer pro tem., and all contributions ought to be addressed to him. Should more money than is necessary for the undertaking be received it will be used for a similar purpose elsewhere.

DOMINION DAY BANQUET.

Mr. Chamberlain's Words—Sir Louis Davies Defends Canada's Course—The Mediterranean Fleet Criticised.

Montreal, July 4.—A Star special from London says: Everyone is asking to-day what Hon. Joseph Chamberlain exactly meant by what Lord Derby called his prophetic words at the Dominion Day banquet. It was clearly a bid for colonial suggestions for closer Imperial unity. Having quoted Laurier's demand: "Call us to your councils," Mr. Chamberlain used these words:

"In this movement, which I think is progressing, nothing can be more fatal than to be premature. The movement is one that must come from the colonies. It must not be unduly pressed upon them by us; but, if they desire closer connection, if they are willing to assist us not merely with their arms but with their counsel and advice, I believe there is nothing that the people of this country will more readily welcome."

This is interpreted as meaning that the Imperial Government will cordially welcome any definite colonial proposals for colonial representation in the Imperial administration. It is noteworthy that Mr. Chamberlain let slip no hints on the fiscal side of the problem.

Sir Louis Davies, in a vigorous speech, declared that Canada had enough problems on hand to engross all her energies at London for many years. He repudiated the notion that Canada had been dragged into the South African war. "We fought for a righteous cause," he said, "with our whole heart."

Mr. Bourassa was not present at the banquet, but he fills a column in the pro-Boer Daily News with forebodings of an anti-Imperial reaction in Canada.

The Mediterranean Fleet.

London, July 4. — During the debate yesterday in the House of Commons yesterday, on the naval estimates, the Cabinet Ministers were heckled on all sides regarding the condition of the navy.

Members asserted that the British Mediterranean fleet was specially inadequate to meet the French and Russian squadrons, saying that it was undermanned and unequipped, especially with modern guns; that it lacked colliers, and the coal depots were all exposed to an enemy's fire.

The members generally predicted that, in case of war, the Admiralty would break down as completely as the War Office did.

H. O. Arnold-Foster, Secretary to the Admiralty, in replying, referred to the great demand on the Admiralty for services in South Africa and China, and promised to strengthen the Mediterranean fleet when new battleships were available, and to add to the fleet cruisers and torpedo boat destroyers.

Claims of Foreigners.

London, July 4.—Lord Roberts testified yesterday before the Royal Commission, which is considering the claims of foreigners deported from South Africa. The commander-in-chief dealt with the plots against his life, and the deportation of the ringleaders. He said the officers and employes of the Netherlands Railroad were so hostile to the British that many of them had to be deported. Every consideration was shown them. He personally investigated the great majority of cases, and sanctioned none unless on adequate grounds. No difference was made on account of nationality.

European Lies Nailed.

London, July 4.—The report of the Governor of the Island of St. Helena, dealing with the year ending March 31, says:

"The lies in the European papers about the treatment of the Boer prisoners even exasperated the prisoners. The latter enjoy large liberties and are well behaved, contented and anxious to work. Many of them are employed by the farmers and others are employed on the roads and wharves."

St. Helena Boer Paper.

London, July 4.—The Boer prisoners at St. Helena have started printing a weekly paper. The first issue, dated June 7, has just been received here.

The paper bears the title of "Dekrajsgefaugene" meaning "The Prisoner of War." It is in striking contrast to the Ladysmith Lyre. A sixth of the space of each issue of the St. Helena paper is devoted to religious news.

Sporting events are not neglected, however, and a vivid description, in English, of a prize fight, appears in an adjacent column to a history, in Dutch, of the St. Helena War Prisoners' Christian Endeavor Society.

Cornering the Boers.

Cape Town, July 3.—Major Galgetty, commanding the Cape Rifles, has entered MacLear in pursuit of an invading Boer force under Commandant Fouche, who will now be obliged to take one of three roads held by the British. Commandant Fouche was last reported north of Jamestown.

—Mr. George English, of Asphodel, met with a very unfortunate accident on Saturday, which will lay him up for some time to come. While operating a grain crusher, in some way the fingers of his right hand caught in the machine, which drew it in, crushing it above the fingers.

Scotch Grit.

A drunken Irishman was once lodged in the cell of a Scotch country police station, when he made a tremendous noise by kicking the cell door with his heavy hobnailed boots.

The constable who had charge of the police station, going to the cell door, opened it a little and said:

"Man, ye micht pit off yer buits, and I'll gie them a bit rub, so that ye'll be respectable like when ye come up afore the bailie the morn."

The prisoner, flattered at the request, at once complied and saw his mistake only when the constable shut the door upon him, saying coolly:

"Ye can kick awa' noo, my man, as lang as ye like."

Offers No Serious Engineering Difficulties Says Mr. Tarte.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC MINISTER.

With Our Present Facilities We Will Not Carry More Than 10,000,000 Bushels of the 50,000,000 There Is to Transport—We Should Wake Up and Take Our Share Now.

Toronto, July 5. — Hon. J. I. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, was in town yesterday and left for the east last night. He has been up to French River. "The people of Canada must awake on the transportation question: that is my gospel, that is my mission," said Hon. J. Israel Tarte, in an interview here yesterday afternoon.

"I am only one member of the Government," he proceeded, "and cannot say what the policy of the Government will be, but you know how difficult it is to divert the channels of trade when they become settled. And look what the American railways are doing to secure the Northwest trade. Look what Buffalo has, 12 railways and 50 elevators. Compared with that we have nothing. We are beginning to wake up. Our canal system is great, but what is the Welland canal for the 40,000,000 tonnage on the lakes.

"We have the best and shortest route. It is only 320 miles by North Bay and Montreal compared with 445 from Buffalo to New York.

"There is many times over business for all the routes. If the air line were completed between Toronto and Collingwood, it would make Toronto a great seaport. I consider that whatever is done here should be with that view. There will be fifty million bushels of wheat to transport this season, and we will not carry more than 10,000,000 of it. This great question should not be treated as a party one. Besides, the grain is not the only thing. There is a vast package freight.

"Now is the time that we should do what we can do to secure this vast trade. It is for the Canadian people to decide what they will do. Am I not right?"

This plea was the conclusion of a brief statement of confidence that the French River route offered no serious engineering difficulties. He went to the French River, according to press announcements, on Saturday, and made his way partly on Mr. Booth's yacht, and partly by canoe, to the head of the river. The heat there, he said, was intense, and he felt somewhat prostrated from it. The yacht encountered a storm on Lake Nipissing, and the trip, though through picturesque country, between high mountains, had been rather arduous. He had seen enough to convince him that the engineers had not minimized the difficulties, and that their statements as to its practicability were well founded.

MISSIONARY SAYS "MORE WAR."

Following Directions of Dowager Empress Preparations Are Being Made.

Berlin, July 5. — A special despatch to the Volks-Zeitung from China says that according to advices received at mission headquarters many missionaries have returned to the interior of Shang Tung Province, where they were well received by the Chinese. The indemnities for missions destroyed and Chinese Christians killed have been nearly all regulated and paid, but the missionaries from nearly every locality report their belief that the present calm will not last.

A missionary from Chen Si Province reports that following the directions of the Dowager Empress in Sian Fu great preparations for war are being made.

The German Foreign Office says that all official reports received here from China seem to show that no new preparations are being made for further uprisings in that country, and that, upon investigations, the various alarming reports of approaching troubles in China were found to be unwarranted.

Canadians Coming Home.

Montreal, July 5. — A Star special cable from London says: London, July 4. — The transport Roslyn Castle, due at Southampton at 4 a. m., on July 8, has on board a party of Canadian scouts, 5 officers and 76 men. No. 379, Sergt. Ellis, died on the voyage of malarial fever, on June 29. F. W. Ellis enlisted as a trooper in C squadron, Strathcona Horse. He was an Englishman.

Manitoba Crop Is All Right.

Winnipeg, July 5.—Alarming reports from Toronto regarding the Manitoba crop being in danger owing to wet weather, are said to be unfounded. Grain men say crop prospects are first class.

Early Manitoba Election.

Winnipeg, Man., July 5. — Mr. W. Richardson, barrister, an old association football player, formerly of Brockville, will succeed Mr. Hastings as organizer in Manitoba. His appointment is taken as another sign of early party election.

A Reunion Deficit.

Woodstock, July 5.—The chairman of the re-union announced yesterday that the city would have to make up $500 in order to meet all expenses. Twelve hundred visitors have registered. Several hundred neglected to do so.

Signed by Sir Wilfrid.

Quebec, July 5. — The deed of sale of the historical Plains of Abraham, by the nuns of the Ursuline Monastery, to the Dominion Government, was signed Thursday morning by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

TRACKMEN'S STRIKE.

Although Reports Conflict Consensus is With Company.

FUNDS TO ASSIST THE STRIKERS

According to the Reports and Returns of the C. P. R. the Places of the Strikers Are Being Gradually Filled Up — Alleged Interfering Trackmen Arrested at Sudbury.

Toronto, July 5.—Regarding the strike of the Canadian Pacific trackmen the reports handed out are still conflicting. The men report that they are all holding out firm, although several have returned at Streetsville. Chairman Wilkinson of the Strike Committee has received financial assistance from several outside places, including [illegible] from Myrtle and Claremont. The Toronto Builders' International Union have voted the strikers $50.

The officials claim that many more of the men have returned to work. The places of the strikers are being gradually filled.

Through C. P. R. sources it is said that four additional men were arrested at Sudbury for interfering with workmen on the tracks. Three have been sentenced to 15 days in jail, and one to six months.

J. Powell and F. Beresford of Fort William, two striking sectionmen, have been arrested for interference.

From Maine comes the report that the Maine Central Railway strikers have gone back.

Strikers' Demands Granted.

Toronto, July 5.—Out of the 28 employers of sheet metal workers, 23 have signed the agreement submitted by the employes, demanding more wages, and a 9-hour working day. Only 23 men are now on strike. J. O. Thorn, manager of the Metallic Roofing Co., stated yesterday that his firm were paying the wages demanded by the men, and in some cases higher wages were being paid than asked. Mr. Thorn declared that the sheet metal workers in his employ demanded that he sign an agreement. This he refused to do, and the men went out.

Drowned at Bracondale.

Toronto, July 5. — The body of George Frederick Goodman, the 16-year-old son of Edward Goodman, baker, of Bracondale, was found yesterday morning about 8 o'clock floating on the surface of a small but deep body of water known as Matthew's Pond, on the estate of Marmaduke Matthews, just north of the city limits. The body was clad only in an undershirt, and the face was smeared with blood.

The lad was employed by John Dempster, baker, at Argyle street and Dovercourt road. He worked on Tuesday night and left his place of employment at 6 o'clock on Wednesday morning to go to his home. As he did not come home that day, his father became alarmed, and a search was instituted. Yesterday morning the search was resumed, and resulted in the finding of the body. The supposition is that the boy went in for a swim on his way home from work on Wednesday morning and struck his head on the bottom while diving, causing a hemorrhage.

Another Boer Appeal.

New Orleans, July 5.—General Pearsons, special agent of the Boer Government, has issued an appeal, in the course of which he says:

"To-day the army supplies that you permit to leave your ports are used chiefly to continue torturing and slaying women and children.

"The English Government is at the end of its resources. The Boers have won as against them. If the American people will stop the shipment of supplies from American ports to British armies the war will end, and the Weylerlike atrocities at Bloemfontein and Pretoria—the murder of women and children—will end."

Boy Falls 35 Feet.

Hamilton, July 5. — About 7 o'clock last evening Wesley Farrell, 307 Mary street, was fatally injured by falling off the MacNab street bridge of the G. T. R. The bridge is being repaired and there were a number of loose planks on it. Farrell climbed over the guard and stepped on a plank. The plank toppled over and Farrell fell about 35 feet. The plank struck him on the head, fracturing his skull. The lad is ten years old.

Sergt. Harrison Dead.

Halifax, July 5. — Sergeant-Major Harrison of the Royal Artillery, dropped dead last evening as he was walking from his quarters for the mess in the Citadel. Heart trouble was the cause of his death. He was 45 years of age, and a widow and four children survive.

To Change King's Title.

London, July 5.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, announced that a bill will be shortly be introduced, changing the title of the King, so as to more clearly recognize his sovereignty over the entire British Empire.

Died From Spider Bite.

Baltimore, Md., July 5. — Henry W. Rausch, a laborer, 61 years old, died yesterday from the bite of a spider. His face and neck were swollen beyond recognition. He died in great agony.

THE LOW PRICE OF WOOL.

An effort has been made by certain newspapers to persuade the farmers that the low price of Canadian wool is due to the preferential tariff on British fabrics; the argument being that if the British goods were kept out of Canada by a higher tariff the Canadian woollen mills would be more fully employed, with the result of a brisker demand and a higher price for Canadian wool. The weak end of that argument resides in the fact that comparatively little Canadian wool is used in the manufacture of Canadian fabrics. For the real cause of the cheapness of Canadian wool we must look farther afield. Yesterday Messrs. Long & Bisby, the well known wool merchants of this city, who handle the greater part of the Canadian wool clip, received the Colonial Wool Report of Buxton, Ronald & Co., wool brokers, London, dated June 18th. It mentions that "the severe depression developed for coarse qualities of Colonial wools during the past six months, each successive series having witnessed a further fall, until prices have now receded to a point never previously imagined, has naturally occasioned a great deal of misgiving, both as to the immediate cause of such a collapse, and the exact relative status of Colonial and other kindred coarse grades." A tabulated statement of the prices of Victorian, New Zealand, and domestic wools is given, covering the period from 1895 to the present year, which shows that coarse wool such as Canada produces has fallen in price nearly, and in some cases fully, 50 per cent. Thus New Zealand 40s. have dropped from 9 1-2d in 1895 to 5 1-2d in 1901; New Zealand 36s. from 9 1-2d to 5d; fair to medium Southdowns (British) from 10d to 7 1-2d; fair to medium half-bred hoggetts from 10 1-2 to 6 3-4d; coarse Leicester hoggetts and wethers from 10 1-4d to 6 1-4d; and Lincoln wethers from 12 3-4d to 5 1-2d; and Irish wethers from 12 1-2d to 6 1-4d. "From this," the circular says, 'it is at once apparent that not only all coarse, but all medium wools have immensely fallen in value during the past seven years. The New Zealand figures show that in 1895-96 there was about a common level of values for fine, fair, medium and coarse qualities. In 1897 the fair and medium wools actually stood higher than fine quality. In 1898 the medium and coarse grades ran neck and neck. In 1899 came the first severe breaking down of coarse wools, and in 1901 there is a complete collapse, even for fair qualities, from recent standards of values." "All these various developments had of course at the time their reasonable and direct causes, and a warning voice was uttered to growers that an immense increase in coarse crossbreeds could eventually have but one issue. The unprecedently low basis now reached is that issue. In the above table, fine Victorian wool alone maintains the position it held seven years ago. What has happened this year as a new and disturbing feature in coarse qualities has been a severe crisis in South American markets, where continental houses have been unable to handle the huge supplies of River Plate crossbreds on their accustomed scale. This in itself has accentuated the depression everywhere else. The general feeling has of late improved in wool markets in the United States, but as reported two months ago, there will probably be little demand thence on this market, unless for some special descriptions."

The general deduction is that other countries have been producing such an over-supply of the same kind of wool which Canada produces that the world's markets are glutted, and a rise in the price here cannot be expected while these conditions are maintained elsewhere. The wise farmer will turn his sheep into mutton, and go to raising hogs for bacon.—Toronto Globe.

THE PRICE OF PAPER.

Witnesses Say the Combination Did Not Raise It.

A POOR-PAYING BUSINESS.

Mr. W. D. Gillean Says the Association Could Not Have Lowered the Price of News Print Without Loss—Mr. L. J. Tarte Gives Some More Evidence —Commission Adjourns to July 16.

Montreal, July 5.—The investigation into the paper trade was continued yesterday morning before the Royal Commissioner, Judge Taschereau. Mr. W. D. Gillean, Assistant Managing Director of the Canada Paper Company, described the market for paper prior to 1900 as one of low prices. The rise last year he attributed not to the association, but to the demand caused by the war and the fact that the drouth forced many mills to close down, so reducing the output. Then there had also been an advance in the cost of raw materials.

Mr. Aylesworth—Was there any fixing of prices under penalty by your association? A.—I cannot remember; not as far as Canada was concerned.

Q.—What was the idea of introducing that feature here? A.—I suppose to keep faith with one another as to credits, etc.

The counsel pressed this point, as the witnesses yesterday stated that the term of 3 per cent. discount had been reduced from four months to three months after the association raised the price, but Mr. Gillean did not think the association had been making the terms of credit more favorable to the seller than the buyer.

Mr. Aylesworth—Did I understand that but for the association prices would have been higher? A.—I think in some cases they would have been.

Q.—Do I understand you to say that the association could have lowered the prices? A.—It could not have lowered the prices.

Mr. Gillean denied that the association had been acting in harmony with the International Paper Company of the United States.

Mr. L. J. Tarte.

Mr. L. J. Tarte of La Patrie, recalled, produced the card and terms of the agent of the Manufacturers' Paper Company, New York, who offered him paper at $1.85 in New York, and $2.45, duty and freight paid, in Montreal, with a discount of five per cent. The same offer had been made to Desbarats' agency by the same firm. The company did not belong to the International Company. The International Company had promised to send him quotations, but instead wrote saying that they had heard he had a contract with the Laurentide Pulp Company. Mr. Hermann Reiter of the Staats Zeitung, New York, and several others, had stated to him that they were convinced that there existed an understanding between the Canadian association and the International. The communication of his business to the International had given him that impression, but it had been strengthened by the statement of a representative of a firm in the States, that the Otis Mills and others were joined with the Laurentides, and would not compete against them here. He had tried to get quotations from Parsons, but had failed there also in the same manner. He did not care at the present, as he could get paper at two cents a pound right here in Canada. But he did not wish to give the name of the party who made the offer. He stated that he had an understanding to take paper from him as soon as his contract with the Laurentides was finished. The gentleman had offered him paper at lower prices than those of the association for other work.

No Profit in News Print.

Hon. J. D. Rolland testified that his firm did not go into the manufacture of newsprint, because they did not consider it would pay at two cents and a half.

Mr. Howard Wilson of the J. C. Wilson Company said that while they had all the necessary machinery for the manufacture of news print they did not turn much out, because they sold it at three cents or more, and could not make it at a profit for 2½ cents.

Mr. W. H. Rowley of the Eddy Manufacturing Company attributed the advance to the climatic conditions in 1898, 1899 and 1900. Besides this, in 1898 sulphur was contraband of war, and it was impossible to get it.

Mr. James Hardy, Secretary of the association, was called, and promised to produce certain letters. So far as he knew the Canadian Association had never had any understanding or anything in common with the International. The Laurentides Pulp Company had never been a member in good standing of the association, because they had never paid their deposit.

Mr. John P. Woodruff, Manager of the Lincoln Paper Mills Company, St. Catharines, stated that the association adopted a minimum price of $2.50 per 100 pounds for news print, because of the advance in the cost of raw material. That price had not yielded an undue profit. If he was investing an amount of money equal to that required to erect a paper mill he should not consider the latter a profitable investment, because there was not sufficient return for the outlay: it was a poor paying business. In 1898, 1899 and 1900 the price of paper did not advance in proportion to the cost of manufacture. The association had nothing to do with the advance in the price of paper: it would have advanced independently of the association, because of the increased demand.

This concluded the depositions for the manufacturers. The commission then adjourned to July 16.

BECAME DESPONDENT.

Hamilton Lady Persecuted for Six Years by Dyspepsia—Gave Up Hope of Ever Being Well—Free at Last by the Aid of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

How many a poor Dyspeptic loses hope of being well again? How many a poor suicide was brought to his end by Dyspepsia, that horrible malady that makes men and women despondent and tired of life?

To such people Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are priceless beyond the telling, for they mean health, good spirits, and sound digestion. There is no need to lose hope, when Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure if but given a chance.

In nature there are certain acids that will digest food just the same as the stomach does. Meat, bread, vegetables and any other food may be placed in a jar covered with water, and actually digested by these acids in a few hours.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are composed of the best digestants known. They are absolutely harmless and do the work of the stomach while that organ takes a well-earned rest.

This is the only successful way to treat Dyspepsia. The same principle is used by Sanitariums and other institutions where the patient is fed on milk to rest his stomach. With Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets you may eat whatever you like, knowing that the stomach will not have to do the work of digestion, and no evil or suffering will follow.

Miss Maggie Brown, of Hamilton, says: "Dyspepsia and Headache afflicted me for six years. My case was one of the worst kind. Doctors did their best in vain, and gave up all hope. A friend of mine finally advised me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and to my surprise, on doing so, my headaches left me and I am now completely and, so far, permanently cured."

Inquiry Into the Armenia Wreck.

St. John, July 5. — Under instructions from Ottawa, F. J. Harding of the Marine Department began an inquiry into the wrecking of the Anchor Liner Armenia on Negro Head. The evidence of the officers, engineers and helmsmen was given, and details of the passage up the bay furnished. The captain ascribed the disaster to the soundings, which, he said, were misleading on the chart. The enquiry will be concluded.

Nine Months' Imprisonment.

London, July 5.—Victor Ruthven, a former monk, who, March 4, drew a revolver to protect himself against an infuriated mob that attacked him at Shanklin, Isle of Wight, while Ruthven was delivering an anti-Catholic lecture, and who was charged with shooting with intent to kill, has been sentenced to nine months' imprisonment.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

The run of live stock was light, 43 car loads, all told, composed of 800 cattle, 1200 hogs, 770 sheep and 87 calves.

The quality of fat cattle, generally speaking, was only medium outside of a few lots that had been stall-fed.

Trade was fair for choice lots of cattle, while common grassers are not wanted, and several lots of this class were unsold at the close of the market, dealers and drovers being wide apart as regards prices. The life and activity that pervaded the market a few weeks ago has entirely disappeared. Prices in all classes of fat cattle were about the same as on Tuesday.

A Farmer Suicides.

North Augusta, Ont., July 5.—Yesterday morning Robert McCoy, a farmer who lives about six miles north of here, committed suicide by hanging from the hay fork track in his barn.

A Trader Drowned.

Campbellton, July 5. — Albert LeBlanc, a well known trader, while on a business trip by water, was drowned off Miguasha Point, in a squall yesterday.

His Emancipation.

Away back in 1771 Josiah Woodbury of Beverly, Mass., thus published his happy emancipation from matrimonial woes:

BEVERLY, Sept. 16, 1771.

Ran away from Josiah Woodbury, cooper, his house plague for seven long years, Masury Old Moll, alias Trial of Vengeance. He that lost will never seek her; he that shall keep her I will give two Bushel of Beans. I forewarn all Persons in Town or County from trusting said Trial of Vengeance. I have hove all the old (shoes) I can find for joy, and all my neighbors rejoice with me. A good Riddance of bad Ware. Amen!

JOSIAH WOODBURY.

It Yielded.

First Physician—Did old Coupon's case yield to your treatment?

Second Physician—It did. I treated it for six months, and it yielded something like a hundred guineas.—London Fun.

CLASSROOM GLACIERS.

How Modern Geology Imitates Action of Prehistoric Ice Rivers.

A miniature glacier which can be set to work in a laboratory and which will in a few hours furnish an example of what a real glacier would do in as many centuries is an illustration of the novel methods of study which the new school of geology employs.

Such a model of a glacier is now used for class instruction in the geological department of Harvard university, although it was originally instructed under the direction of Dr. T. A. Jaggar as an aid to investigations undertaken for the purpose of showing the formation of sand delta plains by glacial rivers. These deltas are found over many parts of the glacial area of North America and may be seen in process of formation, for example, at the mouths of some of the glacial rivers of the Alaskan coast. An ancient plain of this sort, dating back to the glacial period, is in Newtonville, a few miles from Boston.

The glacial stream flowing from beneath the ice is supposed to have carved out and deposited successive layers of sand in the sea or lagoon that washed the ice front. The deposit is leaf shaped, and when the ice of the glacier has melted away a "stem" known as the "esker" of the delta is left, marking the sand choked channel of the original stream.

The same result is achieved by the appliance at the Harvard laboratory, which consists of a piece of lead bent into the general shape of a glacier and making an artificial cavern set in a tank of water. A hose supplies the glacial stream, which is fed through a tunnel, with alternate coal dust and marble dust for sediment, which is deposited in the miniature lagoon in layers of black and white. The apparatus has worked perfectly, the experiments giving variations in the forms of the deltas according as the water was maintained at a higher or lower level, but always showing the characteristic front and the surface deposits with clearly defined beds.

Making Invisible Pictures.

Invisible pictures of a new kind are the invention of a German scientist named Kretschmann, who utilizes for the purpose salts of cobalt, which are pale rose in color when cold, but change to deep blue on being heated. Prints of the kind look like mere blank paper of a pinkish hue until held near a fire, when they quickly undergo a transformation and reveal the hidden designs.

The secret of it is to employ a paper that is of the same rose tint as that of the cobalt salts with which the printing ink is made. Thus the print is of the same hue as the background and, offering no contrast with the latter, should not be visible. As a matter of fact, faint outlines of the design have a tendency to show, but this difficulty is overcome and the picture made absolutely viewless by printing it first with a white ink and then with a rose cobalt ink covering the white.

It is obvious that in this manner pictures may be sent secretly, to be disclosed later by holding the paper near the fire.

The Eclipse Cyclone.

The remarkable discovery that a total eclipse of the sun develops a cold air cyclone as the shadow sweeps across the earth has been made by Mr. H. C. Clayton through a study of the meteorological phenomena observed during the eclipse of May, 1900. During the eclipse the winds were practically reversed in direction as the umbra moved from one side of the continent to the other, and there was an outflow of air from the shadow to a distance of 1,500 miles. As the shadow progressed about 2,000 miles an hour "the eclipse cyclone, to keep pace with it, must have continuously formed within the shadow and must have dissipated in the rear almost instantly." Mr. Clayton believes that this discovery indicates that the fall of temperature at night must tend to produce a cold air cyclone, while the heat of day tends to the production of a warm air one, and thus the puzzling phenomenon of the double diurnal period in air pressure receives an explanation.

An Interesting Gourd Experiment.

The large gourds which our mothers used for storing salt, eggs, etc., are indigenous to Kentucky and were grown by people who lived in this country long before its discovery by the white man.

A couple of years since I secured one of these gourds from a cave in southern Kentucky. From the articles alongside of it it was apparent that it had been there more than 400 years. I have recently opened the gourd and taken out the seed, and I am planting some of them in the hope that they will germinate. I have several hundred, which I have placed with The Courier-Journal. Anybody sending a 2 cent stamp to pay the postage will have two of these gourd seeds sent to them for planting. I am in hopes that in this way we shall be able to reproduce this gourd that was grown in Kentucky before Columbus discovered the new world.—Bennett H. Young

THE SLATER
There are as many shapes of "Slater Shoes" as there are forms of feet — this means that no matter what shape, size or width your foot may be, a "Slater Shoe" can be had to fit it comfortably.
"Slater Shoes" are modelled from the living 20th century foot—with all its distortions and peculiarities.
No other shoe is made with so much regard for feet as the "Slater Shoe."
With its foot-fitting qualities you get wear, appearance and Goodyear welt comfort—that goes almost without saying when it is branded in a slate frame with name and price, $3.50 and $5.00.

How They Used Them.

The Omemee soldier boys returned on Saturday from their annual camp much benefitted from the outing and discipline. The ladies of Omemee were kind enough to prepare luncheon for the boys on their return, which was very much appreciated by them. Mr. Geo. H. Hale, of Orillia, and Mr. R. J. Mulligan gave prizes for best soldierly conduct and appearance, which were presented by Miss Davidson to Mossom, Germain and Harry Evans respectively.—Omemee Mirror.

The Port Hope Knitting Works are showing this week an excellent range of ladies' vests for the warm weather. Ask to see the 10c, 15c, 20c and 25c—they are particularly neat and pretty.

CEREAL WORKS CONTRACT.

It is Understood that the Tender of Local Contractors has Been Accepted.

For the last day or two a rumour has been current on the streets to the effect that the contract for erecting the portion of the Cereal Company's buildings to be constructed this fall, has been awarded to Messrs. Bogue and McDiarmid, of town, who also have the contract for the building of the Chemong Lake floating bridge. The figure at which the contract was secured is said to be in the neighbourhood of $100,000.

On enquiring at the local office of the Cereal Company, this morning, it was learned that the contract had not as yet been signed, but it is understood that the tender of the local contractors has been accepted for the masonry and brick work.

The brick, of which over 3,000,000 are required, is now being placed on the ground and work on the buildings will commence as soon as the papers have been signed.

LOCAL ROYAL ARCANUMS

Had a Supper at the Oriental Last Night.

Grand Regent Ray and Grand Secretary Lee Were Present and Spoke to the Members.

The Royal Arcanums of the town had a most delightful supper at the Oriental Hotel last night at which interesting after-dinner speeches were made by prominent members of the order in Ontario.

Mr. Harry Brown, organizer for the Royal Arcanums, has been in town for the past few days in the interests of Peterborough Council No. 735, and as a result of his labours here sixteen new members were last night initiated into the secrets of the society. The ceremonies of initiation were taken part in by Grand Regent Ray, and Grand Secretary Lee, of the Ontario Grand Council, who were the chief speakers on the merits of the Order at the supper which was afterwards held.

The dining room of the Oriental was prettily arranged in banquet form and a jolly company of Royal Arcanums sat down to a very inviting dinner. The chair was occupied by Mr. Charles Stanley, local Regent, and amongst others present were Messrs. R. E. Wood, D. W. Dumble, A. P. Pousette, J. H. Roper, F. J. Bell, Dr. Wightman, C. Parks, F. J. Clarke, Marvin Kennedy, K. Houston, R. A. W. Hay, Kelsey Hall, E. C. Complin, Dickson Davidson, E. O. Bradburn, Archie Morrow, James Hamilton, Sam Best, Dr. Morgan and many others.

After the toast of the King had been duly honoured, the Chairman made a few remarks regarding the Order and proposed the toast of the Grand Lodge of Ontario. He coupled with it the names of Grand Regent Ray and Grand Secretary Lee. Both gentlemen are very fluent speakers and in their addresses they went very fully into the history of the Royal Arcanums Society and the benefits to be derived from becoming a member. The Grand Secretary's address was particularly interesting, as he traced the marvellous growth of the order and told of its mighty strength in the States. Statistics to no end were quoted, all of which told of the wonderful prosperity the society was enjoying, and the system of government was explained and claimed to be the best in existence in any order or society in the world. Both speakers referred in eulogistic terms of the work which organizer Brown had performed while in town and predicted for him even greater success on his next visit. Messrs. D. W. Dumble and R. E. Wood, two old members of the society and Mr. A. P. Pousette, a new member, made brief but interesting speeches and the affair closed after midnight.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE.

Death of Mrs. T. LePlante Which Occurred Yesterday Afternoon.

By the death of Mrs. T. LePlante which took place yesterday evening at the residence of her son, Mr. N. T. LePlante, Crescent street, Peterborough loses one of its oldest residents. Deceased was 80 years of age, and death was due to old age.

The late Mrs. LePlante, whose maiden name was Olive Broult, was a member of one of the first French families to settle in Peterborough, having come here from Quebec about 52 years ago, and she has resided here ever since. She was 64 years ago married to her deceased husband, by whom they had a family of sixteen, six of whom are at present living. She was widely known and beloved by those who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was a devout member of the Roman Catholic church.

Mrs. LePlante's husband pre-deceased her eleven years. Her surviving sons are Messrs. N.T., John and Thomas, all of town. The daughters are Mrs. A. Letellier, Mrs. C. Gordon, and Mrs. D. Guerin, also of town.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her son, Mr. N. T. LePlante, Crescent street, on Saturday morning at nine o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery for interment.

ST. PAUL'S ANNUAL.

The Excursion to the Back Lakes Yesterday Quite Successful.

The annual excursion in connection with St. Paul's Presbyterian Sunday school, took place yesterday, per G. T. R. to Lakefield, and thence per Str. Sunbeam to the back lakes. Notwithstanding the threatening appearance of the weather, about 250 members of the Sunday school and their friends took in the event. When Lakefield was reached the rain was coming down quite heavily and the trip up to Young's Point was a decidedly damp one, to say the least. However, the day cleared and the afternoon was an ideal one for an excursion. Dinner was had at Juniper Island, after which the steamer conveyed the excursionists to Burleigh Falls, McCracken's Landing, and other points on the lakes.

The only disappointing feature of the day's outing was that the return trip home was too early in the evening, the excursion train reaching Peterborough at seven o'clock.

It's the Baby.

If you lose a pound in flesh it doesn't matter much. But if it's the baby it may mean everything. There is no food in the world equal to Scott's Emulsion for making thin babies plump. If you have a thin baby in the house you'll be surprised to see how it will thrive on this nourishing and fat-forming food.

WHO OWNS THE CHILD?

A Little Barefooted Girl Strays Into an Auburn Home.

Yesterday at about noon a little girl strayed into the home of Mr. John Porter, Auburn. The little one says that she is thirteen years of age, although she does not look it. She also says that her name is Dwyer, but as she has told many stories of a conflicting nature, the residents of Auburn are at a loss to know what to think of the child. She is barefooted, poorly clad and her hair is cut rather short. So far no complaints have been heard as to anyone losing a child and unless the youngster is claimed to-day the Children's Aid Society will have a little work cut out for them.

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY.

That was Passed by the Glee Club of the Canadian General Electric Company.

The Glee Club of the Canadian General Electric Company have passed the following resolution of sympathy to the relatives of the late George Houston, who lost his life by drowning in the Otonabee River on Monday night of last week:

To the relatives and friends of the late George Houston:

On behalf of the C.G.E. Glee Club we desire to extend to you our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in your hour of deep affliction and we sincrely deplore the sad occurrence which so suddenly cut off a young and useful life. With the loved ones left to mourn such a great loss, our hearts go out in deepest sympathy for a fond mother who is so suddenly bereft of her dutiful son, just at a time when his filial affection would bring comfort to her in her declining days.

We earnestly commend you to the tender mercy of a kind and beneficient hand.

Signed on behalf of the C.G.E. Glee Club, W. Stone, J. Legg, J. G. Brown.

NON-COMS. ENTERTAINED.

By Rev. J. C. Davidson Chaplain of the 57th Regt.

The non-commissioned officers of the 57th Regiment were entertained last night by Rev. J. C. Davidson, Chaplain of the 57th, at his residence. A delightful time was the result. Lt.-Colonel E. B. Edwards, Commanding Officer, and Major Miller were present and at the beginning of the evening gave short addresses on military and regimental matters, after which an opportunity was given for free discussion on military affairs, during which many interesting questions were asked and answered. Refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in an informal social manner, songs and music being freely rendered. Mr. Will Staples kindly acted as accompanist of the evening. "God Save the King" was sung at eleven o'clock and the affair, which was very successful, was brought to a close. Needless to say Rev. Mr. Davidson's kindness was highly appreciated by the non-coms. of the regiment.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

CANOEING.

The meeting which was to have been held last night in the Oriental Hotel for the purpose of discussing the advisability of holding a regatta on Little Lake was postponed.

BOWLING.

The Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's church held a special meeting last night for the purpose of organizing a bowling club in connection with the Guild.

The following officers were elected:
Pres.—Rev. J. G. Potter.
Vice-Pres.—Frank Sellitt.
Sec.-Treas.—John Laing.

The club will commence at once to fit up the grounds in the vicinity of the church, and the indications are that a flourishing club will be the result of this latest move on the part of the young men of St. Andrew's.

BASEBALL.

Here's what the Lindsay Watchman Warder says:

"If the Lindsay baseball team had nothing harder than the Peterboroughs to go up against, they would have a perpetual picnic. In last Thursday's match they made rings around the visitors, and had them guessing from the start. Circumstances were against the home team, for Bowen, who is a local railwayman, failed to show up at the last moment, having been called during the previous night for duty. Reeves was pressed into service. Big Sam handled himself well considering that he was out of practice. The Peterboroughs played O'Brien, a Toronto professional, behind the bat, but in spite of this the locals defeated the visitors with the greatest ease."

The Beavers defeated the All Saints Boys' Brigade team last evening in a five innings game, by a score of 22 to 12.

The following were the batteries:
Beavers,—Plummer, Sanderson and Dawson.
Boys' Brigade,—Bell, Gilbert and Thornton.
Umpire—N. Graham.

THE CONGREGATION SAID FAREWELL.

Reception Tendered Rev. Dr. Symonds Last Night.

MEMBERS OF ST. LUKE'S.

Presentation of a Handsome Dinner Service and Also a Black Gown.

Although always commanding attention in the world of letters, where his name is well known, yet there is a side of Rev. Dr. Symonds' nature which he keeps for his congregation, and it is the side which those who know him best, prefer to all others. As he moved amongst his flock, last evening, at the farewell reception which was tendered him at St. Luke's it could be seen that the tie about to be severed was one which had been constructed on a basis which spoke volumnes for the man who had been able to walk the path of life in such a manner as to win and retain the love and regard of the church members to a remarkable degree.

The reception was limited except in a few cases to members of the congregation and Mr. Frank Adams occupied the chair, explaining when taking it, that those present had assembled as an expression of their appreciation of Rev. Dr. Symonds many good qualities and also for the purpose of making a presentation. He then called upon Mr. E. A. Peck to read an address, in the meantime requesting Dr. Symonds' presence on the platform.

The address was read as follows:

Ashburnham, July 4, 1901.

To Rev. Herbert Symonds, M.A., D.D.

Rev. and Dear Sir, — Meeting together this evening for the last time in the position of pastor and congregation, we desire on behalf of the people of St. Luke's church to express our sincere feelings of regret that the relationship which has existed between us for the past nine years is about to close, in fact has been severed by your withdrawl from the Rectorship of St. Luke's, and your removal from Ashburnham.

You have during the past nine years performed the many and responsible duties attached to the position you have held, with earnestness, thoroughness and ability.

We desire to thank you for your devotion during the years of your ministration in the interests of the parish and the congregation, for the patience and kindness you have shown us, for the eloquent and impressive sermons with which you have influenced us, and for your faithful attention to the needs of the sick and afflicted amongst us.

Not only by your teaching, but also by the example you have set us in gentleness, in self-control, in patience and in self-denial, have we been guided, and it will be our part to show that this teaching and example have not been lost upon us, and to continue to be as united, earnest and devoted to the cause of Christ as while under your pastorate.

We congratulate you upon your appointment to a position of such importance and responsibility as that of Headmaster of Trinity College School, Port Hope, a position for which your high attainments, your ability, and your previous experience as a Professor of Trinity University, so well qualify you, and we feel sure that the training that the pupils will receive under your care will qualify them not only for the duties of this world but will tend to make them Churchmen and Christians, in the truest and broadest sense.

We also wish to congratulate you upon the unique honour lately bestowed upon you by Queen's College, in its conferring upon you the distinguished and honourable degree of Doctor of Divinity. This honour was not only a gracious compliment to your scholarly attainments and many excellencies of character, but is a strong rebuke to those who would endeavour to malign you before the public on account of your broad and liberal views expressed by your pen and voice.

We request the acceptance by Mrs. Symonds and yourself of these gifts as some token of the esteem in which you are held and we extend to Mrs. Symonds, your children and yourself, our heartiest wishes for your future health, happiness and success.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,
FRANK ADAMS,
ADAM DAWSON,
Church Wardens.

At the conclusion of the address Mrs. Harry Adams and Mrs. A. O. Sawyers removed a covering from a large table revealing a magnificent dinner set of Booth's royal semi-porcelain in royal blue traced out in gold by hand, accompanied by a set of sterling silver desert knives and forks, the former with mother of pearl handles. The very handsome gift was procured through Mr. Macfarlane Wilson.

In thanking his congregation for the present, Rev. Dr. Symonds said that though he had stood before them many, many times, he had never done so with the same feeling as he felt inspired with on the present occasion. He felt it impossible to attempt to adequately return thanks for the many kindnesses which had been extended to him during his nine years' connection with the church, which was brought to a conclusion by this beautiful gift.

The Rector then went on to speak of his first reception when he came to St. Luke's, and what had been accomplished since then through the hearty co-operation which had been accorded him by the members of the church, until, in a material sense, there was now nothing further to be desired in connection with the buildings—everything was complete. In referring to the spiritual affairs of St. Luke's, the Rector stated that he had always considered it the prime duty of a minister of the Gospel, to preach the Gospel, first and foremost, as a servant of Jesus Christ. The fundamental principles of Christianity were the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Any doctrine, Dr. Symonds claimed, which instead of binding and knitting together, tended to keep the people apart, was false and wrong. When the time came that we could not recognize good in others then we are getting away from the teachings of Jesus Christ, who was always friendly and cordial. In again thanking the congregation, Dr. Symonds also extended thanks on behalf of Mrs. Symonds.

Mrs. W. J. Scott, on behalf of the ladies, then read the following address:

Ashburnham, July 4th, 1901.

The Rev. Herbert Symonds, D.D., Rector of St. Luke's Church:

Dear Doctor Symonds,—The ladies of this congregation, prior to the announcement of your resignation as Rector, had intended to recognize your reception of the Degree of Doctor of Divinity by making you an appropriate presentation.

We now beg your acceptance of this gown and ask you, when wearing it, to think occasionally of your old parishioners.

It is not necessary for us to say how very deeply we feel the severance of your connection with the parish. We shall look for frequent visits from you, and trust your interest in this parish will long continue.

We wish you a long and successful career in the new and important position in which you have been placed, and in conclusion, we wish Mrs. Symonds, your family and yourself every possible happiness.

On behalf of the ladies of the congregation.

Mrs. Hon. Hamilton stepped forward while the address was being read and assisted Dr. Symonds to don a very handsome black silk gown.

The Doctor fittingly expressed his gratification at receiving so handsome and appropriate a gift and stated that he would wear it every day, and would never put it on without thinking of his old congregation at St. Luke's.

Another pleasing function then took place in connection with the recent departure of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Parker.

It was moved by F. J. Jamieson, seconded by J. J. Turner, jr.,:

That the members of St. Luke's Church, having heard of the departure from Peterborough of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Parker, desire to express their high appreciation of the valuable services rendered by them to this congregation, and regret that their removal necessitates severance of the ties which bind them to St. Luke's Church.

Whilst they have by no means confined their interest and activity to the choir, yet it is in their capacity as members of that important organization that they will be missed, Mrs. Parker's admirable rendering of the highest class of sacred music has been a source of greatest pleasure and we doubt not of spiritual profit also, to the congregation, while as secretary to the choir Mr. Parker's services have been highly valued.

But it is not only for good works that we desire to express our gratitude. We feel that they have always manifested a Christian demeanor amongst us, and their unfailing kindness towards all with whom they have come in contact has produced a deep impression and one which will not soon be effaced.

We herewith desire to offer our congratulations to Mr. Parker upon his promotion, and wish both him and Mrs. Parker and family, every possible happiness and success in after life.

During the evening Miss Nellie Davies and Miss Kate Calcutt contributed very pleasing instrumental selections and Miss Bertha Symonds gave a vocal number, in which was displayed a richness of voice and breadth of tone most surprising in one so young.

At the close refreshments were served.

DR. STANTON'S APPOINTMENT.

Appointed to the Position of Surgeon on the Steamship Empress.

The Millbrook Reporter has the following to say concerning Dr. Ambrose Stanton of Pontypool, who is known in Peterborough:

"Our congratulations are extended to Mr. A. T. Stanton, M.D., son of Mr. Thomas Stanton, Post Master, Pontypool, who has been appointed surgeon of the C. P. R. steamer Empress of China, of the Pacific Fleet. Mr. Stanton graduated at Toronto Medical College a year ago and spent the year since on the hospital staff and that he has received this important appointment speaks well for his abilities, for there were many influential applicants who were after the position. It is an appointment which any doctor might covet and an experience from both a professional and travelling standpoint of greatest value. Dr. Stanton left last week for Vancouver and on Saturday starts out on his first trip in the floating palace for Japan and China. May his experience and his professional duties be as pacific as the ocean over which he sails.

NEW BOOKS.

Newfoundland in 1900: A treatise of the geography, natural resources and history of the island, embracing an account of recent and present large material movements, by Rev. M. Harvey, LL.D., F.R.S.C., elegantly illustrated with maps and half-tone engravings. New York: The South Publishing Company.

Newfoundland is an island with an area of 42,000 square miles, lying off the American Continent, opposite Sidney, Cape Breton, from which it is separated by Cabot Strait, the distance across which, at this point, is but ninety-three miles.

The coast is rock-bound, at many points presenting bold cliffs hundreds of feet in height. In this respect it resembles Norway which has led to its designation of the "American Norway." The interior is diversified by hills, mountains, plains, forests, rivers and lakes. The forests consist chiefly of fir, spruce, pine and birch. There are good agricultural lands, as yet little tilled.

The population of the Colony was 210,000 at the date of the last census, ten years ago. The inhabitants are chiefly engaged in cod, lobster and seal fisheries, the annual revenue from all of which is $7,000,000. The population is almost exclusively confined to the coast owing to the inaccessibility of the interior for lack of roads. This barrier has in a large measure been over-come by the recent completion of transinsular railway extending across the island, a distance of 548 miles. As a result, diversified industries are developing. The lands are being cleared and cultivated, the forests are being invaded and the timber is undergoing manufacture into lumber and wood-pulp.

The chief city of the island is St. John's, the capital, with a population of 30,000. It is a place of large commercial importance and has one of the best harbours in the world.

THE MAN OF ABILITY.

Is He Under a Handicap in the Battle of Life?

With reference to ability, experience hourly confirms two generalisations: A man of ability will sooner or later make his way. There never was so urgent and so general a demand for every form of ability as there is now.

Unfortunately the relations of these two facts to certain other facts are little understood. It is generally assumed, for instance, that ability is a distinct advantage to a man. Is it not, instead, a handicap?

Let it be stated again, and with emphasis, that ability is very much in demand. The market groans for it. But this does not mean that ability will be recognized. Capacity to discern ability in others, as distinguished from capacity to discern ability in ourselves, is the rarest of all capacities. Unerring acumen, exquisite discrimination, can alone measure ability, sift it, choose one form and adapt another. No one would value a clodhopper's opinion of Plato, but every Tom, Dick and Harry feels qualified to sit in judgment upon ability. "If I could only get hold of a man with ability!" cries the fatuous employer, to whom it never occurs that capacity to distinguish ability from its semblance is the most exquisite of the faculties.

For over 2,300 years one man has stood pre-eminent as a judge of human ability. That man was Pericles. His gift in this direction was little less than divine. It enabled him to lift the Athenians to heights of achievement above which the intellect has never reached. That was ability's golden age, for it then had a patron who not only sought it, but discerned it.

Washington possessed this heavenly endowment. At the risk of seeming patriotically partial we may say that he equaled Pericles in his unerring perception. In those years of ordeal from 1776 to 1785, and again from 1789 to 1797, we never find Washington astray in his estimate of ability. He could choose men—a thing infinitely harder to do than to choose pictures or pianos or potatoes—and in choosing them he was in very truth a father to his country.

Ability's first handicap, therefore, is the rarity of capacity trained to discern it. The absence of this capacity in the man who chooses men ruins great enterprises every day. But the man who makes a botch of choosing men never dreams that the fault is his own. "There never was such a demand for ability as there is today." Say rather there never was such a need of men capable of estimating ability.

There is no such thing as ordinary ability. All ability is extraordinary; hence when it discloses itself mediocrity—always in the majority—combines against it. This is ability's most mortifying handicap. Mediocrity does not detest ability. It simply has no use for it. There is the same natural antipathy between mediocrity and ability that there is between truth and vested interests or between a dog and a cat.

Bourget keenly remarks that when several suitors woo a maid he who loves her most will lose her. The very excess of true love throws the unfortunate into a fever. He loses his self command in the crisis of the game. A cooler rival, without sentiment, controls his faculties and wins. The same phenomenon is witnessed when ability competes for favor with mediocrity. Ability loves to work and is excited by a prospect. Mediocrity regards all prospects coldly. Ability perfects itself in seclusion. Mediocrity pulls wires. Ability breaks its heart in the pride of conscious capacity and is not even asked to the wedding when mediocrity marries the only child of the head of the firm. Ability is compelled to create its own environment. This means a long obscurity of hunger and humiliation. Think of Columbus, obliged to pass a decade in teaching that the earth is round before he could begin his life work!

There is one sweet that mediocrity never tastes. Soon or late ability comes by its own. Columbus climbs to the deck in the gray dawn, and his heart leaps at the cry of "Land!" If mediocrity be without tragedies, it is also without ecstasies.

Certainly, ability is too often a handicap. The only consolation we can suggest is that it handicaps very, very few of us.

Bottled Tear Cure.

A physician who has recently returned from Persia says that the natives still believe that human tears are a remedy for certain chronic diseases. At every funeral the bottling of mourners' tears is one of the chief features of the ceremony. Each of the mourners is presented with a sponge with which to mop his face and eyes, and after the burial these sponges are presented to the priest, who squeezes the tears into bottles, which he keeps.—London Family Doctor.

HOW BIG SEA TURTLES FEED

Take Big Balls of Grass Out to Sea and Eat While Swimming.

With my gastronomic taste I naturally was very curious to know just what kind of terrapin are caught in these waters, for the dish is one much sought after by epicures and forms part of the menu for every first class hotel on the coast. I was told that none is caught about here, but was invited to a sea turtle hunt. Let the reader imagine a turtle weighing all the way from 1,200 to 1,500 pounds, and not long ago one was turned over on the beach near Miami that weighed more than 1,000 pounds. Of course I am giving the largest weight, for the average weight of those caught along the coast is about 500 pounds. After they are caught the turtles are kept for a long time, their captors feeding them on cabbage, lettuce, turnips, carrots and sea grasses.

The study of this monster shellfish is a most interesting one. In order to get rid of the parasites that cling to their shells they often enter fresh streams to enjoy a bath, but they are extremely timid and take fright at the least noise. The hunter knows, however, that the turtle feeds in brackish streams where the tide falls rather low and where the turtle grass grows in greatest profusion. The turtles cut great quantities of this grass and then roll it into a ball, cementing it as they roll it with the clay in which the grass grows, and in this way, when they have managed to amass a goodly supply of provisions, they wait for high tide and float away seaward, feeding as they float.

The professional hunters are quick to detect these balls, and just the moment they do so they set their seines and send their peggers, as the men are called, in search of the feeding shoals. Men are not the only enemies the turtles have, however, for bears, raccoons and other animals native to Florida destroy great numbers of them.—Jacksonville (Fla.) Cor. Baltimore American.

UNDER AN UMBRELLA.

An Expensive Adventure of a Famous Parisian Wit.

Romieu, the famous Parisian wit, was one day caught in a shower and forced to seek refuge in a doorway of the Opera House. It was 6 o'clock already, and he had an engagement in the Cafe de Paris for that very hour. The rain fell in torrents. There was no carriage to be had. He had no umbrella. What was to be done? While he was lamenting his bad luck a gentleman with a large umbrella passed by. Romieu was seized with a sudden inspiration. He rushed out and grasped the stranger by the arm and gravely installed himself under the protecting umbrella.

"I am overjoyed to see you," he immediately began. "I have been looking for you for two weeks. I wanted to tell you about Clementine."

Without giving the stranger time to express his surprise Romieu rattled away with gossip and anecdote until he had led the unknown companion to the door of the Cafe de Paris. Then he glanced at him with a face of well feigned astonishment.

"Pardon, monsieur!" he cried. "It seems I am mistaken."

"I believe so," said the stranger.

"Good gracious!" added Romieu. "Be discreet. Don't repeat what I have told you."

"I promise you."

"A thousand pardons!"

Romieu hastened within the cafe and amid great laughter told the adventure to his friends. Suddenly one of them said:

"Your cravat is rumpled."

Romieu put his hand to his neck and turned pale. His pin, a valuable sapphire, was gone. On further examination his purse and watch were found to be gone. The man with the umbrella was a pickpicket.

The Opal Superstition.

There is one superstition of wide range and influence that is directed against one of the most beautiful objects in nature, the opal. A man in my town failed in business, and what do you think he did? Took his opal ring into the yard and smashed it to pieces with a hammer! He ascribed his bankruptcy to that opal, and he intended neither to suffer such misfortune again nor to allow any other one to do so by inheriting or buying that ill starred property.

One of the most amusing instances of a trust in wrong things is reported from New York, where a man took an opal to a jeweler and asked him to sell it, as he had had nothing but bad luck since he owned it, his business ventures having failed, his children having suffered illness and the old scratch having been to pay generally. The jeweler found the gem to have been an imitation. Its falsity must have been obvious to everybody except the victim, because the opal is the stone that has never been even passably imitated.

The Deaf Made to Hear.

St. Thomas—A modern miracle was made known to-day when Mr. Riddle, of this city, announced that he had recovered his hearing. He has been almost entirely deaf, and it borders on the marvellous to find him able to hear everything with great distinctness. As his case is proving of such universal interest, we give Mr. Riddle's own statement. "My hearing was always poor, and not long ago I became almost deaf. It was the result of catarrhal inflammation, but nothing did me good until I used Catarrhozone. It cured my trouble and I strongly recommend it to the deaf." Fully nine-tenths of the deafness is the result of Catarrh and can be cured by catarrhozone. The cures of deafness wrought by this remedy in cases of even twenty years standing are really astounding. Among many others, ministers of the gospel testify to the wonderful powers of Catarrhozone, and your druggist can tell of some astonishing cases in his own experience. Better give it a trial, if your hearing is impaired. Price $1; small size 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S..

CAME IN TO BE HANGED.

A Story Told of Abel Erasmus, the Boer, and Lord Wolseley.

A good story is told of the old Boer, Abel Erasmus, and Lord Wolseley, then Sir Garnet Wolseley, in connection with the part Erasmus took in Wolseley's campaign in 1879 against Sekukuni, the chief of the Bapedis, on the borders of Swaziland. After the capture of Sekukuni he was immediately brought before Sir Garnet Wolseley, who asked him how he, a miserable Kaffir, living in a cave, dared to defy the great queen of England. The chief replied that he had been instigated to do so by Abel Erasmus.

Sir Garnet in describing the scene at a public dinner given to him at Pretoria on his return from the campaign said that he wished there and then to let Abel Erasmus know that if ever he found that Erasmus had been inciting any chief to levy war against England and he was able to lay hands on him Abel Erasmus would hang as high as Haman.

A few days after the dinner Sir Henry Brackenbury, Sir Garnet's military secretary, was sitting in his office when a tall, bearded Boer entered and asked permission to speak with him.

"I am Abel Erasmus," he said, "and I have very important business to do here."

He explained that he had come to see Sir Garnet Wolseley, for he had heard that Sir Garnet had said that if he could lay hold of him he would hang him, and so he had come to be hanged. Sir Garnet was in the next room, and Sir Henry Brackenbury thought it would be advisable to consult him on the subject. Sir Garnet, however, happened to be too busy at the moment to see anybody, and Sir Henry after reflection persuaded his angry visitor to take his leave and allow the hanging to stand over for the time.

An Abermouth Bull.

Some time ago a follower of one of the city aldermen cast covetous glances upon a desirable newsstand under the elevated railroad stairs. Straight he went to his friend, the alderman, and made known his wishes, which were that the news dealer should be evicted from the locality.

"All right, me boy; leave it to me," said the city father and began to pull wires. Finally he got an order directing the newsdealer to show cause why he should not get out, but that obstinate individual still remained. Then he drew up a formal complaint, which was duly laid before one of the judges. The complaint, after telling how the newsdealer had been ordered to leave and had not done so, concludes:

"And now we have to complain, your honor, that not only is this same stand still there, but the defendant has replaced it by a bigger one."

Found the Range.

The late Sir Frederick Gore-Ouseley, professor of music at Oxford, was once going to call on a friend in London and asked a fellow musician the number in which he lived in a certain street.

"I don't know his number," answered the other, "but the note of his door scraper is C sharp."

Sir Frederick went off, contentedly kicking the door scrapers all down the street until he came to the right one, when he rang the bell and went in.—London Standard.

Realized His Own Madness.

"Now you are tired of me and abuse me," whilst the young wife whose husband refused to hire another maid to take care of her pet dog. "Yet," she continued, "not two years ago you were crazy to marry me."

"Yes," answered the complacent man "so my friends told me so at the time, but I didn't realize it until after I married."

It is said that some early Chinese locks were made in the form of keys of ably because money unlocks the heart of the high official.—Atlanta News.

A Lost Chance.

"It was when I was new on the Stock Exchange," said an old broker, "and I was newly married, too, that I indulged in an occasional flier for pin money. One morning I saw a chance to make a good turn on Erie, and I plunged. Before the day was over I had cleaned up $15,000. It was like finding it. When I reached home, I asked my wife to come down town with me the next morning and purchase as handsome a diamond necklace as my $15,000 would buy. She said that such a purchase would be extravagant and that she really didn't care for such a necklace.

"I knew my own weakness for blowing in money that was velvet, but I could not convince her that it was wise to buy the necklace. The next morning when the exchange opened that $15,000 bothered me. I plunged again, not on my judgment, but because I happened to have that money, and this time I not only lost it all, but half as much more. I have never felt flush enough since that time to indulge in diamond necklaces. My wife has always said that it was her fault and that if I ever offer to buy jewelry for her again she will accept even if we have no bread in the house."

An Irishman's Device.

A writer in the London Times recently gave some interesting "Recollections of Last Century," the early part of it, of course. Speaking of Smithfield, he tells us of the wonderful shows of Bartlemy fair, "where for sixpence we could see in 20 minutes a tragedy with a ghost and a pantomime, or a riding circus, or Wombwell's menagerie, or the fattest woman, the tallest giant and the smallest dwarf, a shaven bear, a learned pig and I know not what wonders besides. The crowd to be passed through was enormous. Even chimney sweeps, fresh from their work, found it hard to make way through it, and only one person, as was reported, ever completely succeeded in doing so easily. This was an Irishman who knocked out the top and bottom of a cask, drove nails through it from the inside and all over and, getting into it, hung it by straps on his shoulders. So attired, he brandished his shillalagh and passed freely through the close packed multitude."

Extracted Whisky.

"There is a man up town," says a liquor dealer quoted by the Philadelphia Record, "who has a monopoly in his business, at least I know of no opposition in his line, and I think I would know of it if he had. His game is to extract whisky from empty barrels. He buys the casks, takes them to his place of business and subjects them to a secret process. I have heard it said that he gets a gallon of whisky from every barrel, but I can scarcely credit this. He told me once that the liquor he extracts from the wood possesses some peculiar property that prevents it from blending with other whiskys, so he has to dispose of it in its natural state. Even at that he had made a lot of money. Where does he sell it? To the lowest groggeries—the places where 5 cent drinks are demanded."

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" asked the count, the barest tremor in his voice.

"Yes," said the prince. Hillars simply nodded.

"When I have counted three, you will be at liberty to fire. One!"

The arms raised slowly till the pistols were on the level of the eyes.

"Two!"

The innkeeper saw Hillars move his lips. That was the only sign.

"Three!"

The pistols exploded simultaneously. The right arm of the prince swung back violently, the smoking pistol flying from his hand. Suddenly one of the horses gave a snort of pain and terror and bolted down the road. No attention was given to the horse. The others were watching Hillars. He stood perfectly motionless. All at once the pistol fell from his hand. Then both hands flew instinctively to his breast. There was an expression of surprise on his face. His eyes closed, his knees bent forward and he sank into the road a huddled heap. The prince shrugged, a sigh of relief fell from the count's half parted lips, while the innkeeper ran toward the fallen man.

"Are you hurt, prince?" asked the count.

"The cursed fool has blown off my elbow!" was the answer. "Bind it up with your handkerchief and help me on with my coat. There is nothing more to do. If he is not dead, he soon will be, so it's all the same."

When the prince's arm was sufficiently bandaged so as to stop the flow of blood, the count assisted him to mount, jumped on his own horse and the two cantered off, leaving the innkeeper, Hillars' head propped up on his knee, staring after them with a dull rage in his faded blue eyes. The remaining horse was grazing a short distance away. Now and then he lifted his head and gazed inquiringly at the two figures in the road.

"Is it bad, herr?" the innkeeper asked.

"Very. Get back to the inn. I don't want to peter out here." Then he fainted.

It required some time and all the innkeeper's strength to put Hillars on the horse. When this was accomplished, he turned the horse's head toward the inn. And that was all.

"Dan?" said I.

The lids of his eyes rolled wearily back.

"Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Bury me."

It was very sad. "Where?" I asked.

"Did you see the little cemetery on the hill, across the valley? Put me there. It is a wild, forgotten place. 'Tis only my body. Who cares what becomes of that? As for the other, the soul, who can say? I have never been a good man. Still I believe in God. I am tired—tired and cold. What fancies a man has in death! A moment back I saw my father. There was a wan, sweet faced woman standing close beside him; perhaps my mother. I never saw her before. Ah, me, these chimeras we set our hearts upon, these worldly hopes! Well, Jack, it's curtain and no encore. But I am not afraid to die. I have wronged no man or woman. I have been my own enemy. What shall I say, Jack? Ah, yes! God have mercy on my soul! And this sudden coldness, this sudden ease from pain, is death!"

There was a flutter of the eyelids, a sigh, and this poor flotsam, this driftwood which had never known a harbor in all its years, this friend of mine, this inseparable comrade, passed out.

There were hot tears in my eyes as I stood up and gazed down at this mystery called death, and while I did so a hand, horny and hard, closed over mine. The innkeeper, with blinking eyes, stood at my side.

"Ah, herr," he said, "who would not die like that?"

And we buried him on the hillside just as the sun swept aside the rosy curtain of dawn. The wind, laden with fresh morning perfumes, blew up joyously from the river. From where I stood I could see the drab walls of the barracks. The windows sparkled and flashed as the gray mists sailed heavenward and vanished. The hill with its long grasses resembled a green sea. The thick forests across the river, almost black at the water's edge, turned a fainter and more delicate hue as they receded till far away they looked like mottled glass. Only yesterday he had laughed with me, talked and smoked with me, and now he was dead. A rage pervaded me. We are puny things, we who strut the highways of the world, parading a so called wisdom. There is only one philosophy; it is to learn to die.

"Come," said I to the innkeeper, and we went down the hill.

"When does the herr leave?"

"At once. There will be no questions?" I asked, pointing to the village.

"None. Who knows?"

"Then remember that Herr Hillars was taken suddenly ill and died and that he desired to be buried here. I dare say the prince will find some excuse for his arm, knowing the king's will in regard to dueling. Do you understand me?"

"Yes."

I did not speak to him again, and he strode along at my heels with an air of preoccupation. We reached the inn in silence.

"What do you know about her serene highness the Princess Hildegarde?" I asked abruptly.

"What does herr wish to know?" shifting his eyes from my gaze.

"All you can tell me."

"I was formerly in her father's service. My wife"— He hesitated, and the expression on his face was a sour one.

"Go on."

"Ah, but it is unpleasant, herr. You see, my wife and I were not on the best of terms. She was handsome—a cousin of the late prince. She left me more than 20 years ago. I have never seen her since, and I trust that she is dead. She was her late highness' hairdresser."

"And the Princess Hildegarde?"

"She is a woman for whom I would gladly lay down my life."

"Yes, yes!" I said impatiently. "Who made her the woman she is? Who taught her to shoot and fence?"

"It was I."

"You?"

"Yes. From childhood she has been under my care. Her mother did so desire. She is all I have in the world to love. And she loves me, herr, for in all her trials I have been her only friend. But why do you ask these questions?" a sudden suspicion lighting his eyes.

"I love her."

He took me by the shoulders and squared me in front of him. "How do you love her?" a glint of anger mingling with the suspicion.

"I love her as a man who wishes to make her his wife."

His hands trailed down my sleeves till they met and joined mine.

"I will tell you all there is to be told. Herr, there was once a happy family in the palace of the Hohenphalians. The prince was rather wild, but he loved his wife. One day his cousin came to visit him. He was a fascinating man in those days, and few women were there who would not give an ear to his flatteries. He was often with the princess, but she hated him. One day an abominable thing happened. This cousin loved the princess. She scorned him. As the prince was entering the boudoir this cousin, making out that he was unconscious of the husband's approach, took the princess in his arms and kissed her. The prince was too far away to see the horror in his wife's face. He believed her to be acquiescent. That night he accused her. Her denials were in vain. He confronted her with his cousin, who swore before the immortal God himself that the princess had lain willing in his arms. From that time on the prince changed. He became reckless; he fell in with evil company; he grew to be a shameless ruffian, a man who brought his women into his wife's presence and struck her while they were there. And in his passions he called her terrible names. He made a vow that when children came he would make them things of scorn. In her great trouble the princess came to my inn, where the Princess Hildegarde was born. The prince refused to believe that the child was his. My mistress finally sickened and died broken hearted. The prince died in a gambling den. The king became the guardian of the lonely child. He knows but little or he would not ask her highness"— He stopped.

He took the princess in his arms and kissed her.

"He would not ask her what?"

"To wed the man who caused all this trouble."

"What! Prince Ernst?"

"Yes; I prayed to God, herr, that your friend's bullet would carry death, but it was not to be."

"I am going back to London," said I. "When I have settled up my affairs there, I shall return."

"And then?"

"Perhaps I shall complete what my friend began."

I climbed into the ramshackle conveyance and was driven away. Once I looked back. The innkeeper could be seen on the porch; then he became lost to view behind the trees. Far away to my left the stones in the little cemetery on the hillside shone with brilliant whiteness.

CHAPTER XVI.

There were intervals during the three months which followed when I believed that I was walking in a dream and waking would find me grubbing at my desk in New York. It was so unreal for these days—mosaic romance in the heart of prosaic fact! Was there ever the like? It was real enough, however, in the daytime, when the roar of London hammered at my tears, but when I sat alone in my room it assumed the hazy garments of a dream. Sometimes I caught myself listening for Hillars, a footstep in the corridor, and I would take my pipe from my mouth and wait expectantly. But the door never opened, and the footsteps always passed on. Often in my dreams I stood by the river again. There is solace in these deep, wide streams. We come and go—our hopes, our loves, our ambitions. Nature alone remains. Should I ever behold Gretchen again? Perhaps. Yet there was no thrill at the thought. If ever I beheld her again, it would be when she was placed beyond the glance of my eye, the touch of my hand. She was mine—aye, as a dream might be; something I possessed, but could not hold. Heigho! The faces that peer at us from the firelight shadows! They troop along in a ghostly cavalcade, and the winds that creep over the window sill and under the door—who can say that they are not the echoes of voices we once heard in the past?

I was often on the verge of sending in my resignation, but I would remember in time that work meant bread and butter—and forgetfulness. When I returned to the office, few questions were asked, though my assistant looked many of them reproachfully. I told him that Hillars had died abroad and that he had been buried on the continent at his request, all of which was true, but only half of it. I did my best to keep the duel a secret, but it finally came out. It was the topic in the clubs, for Hillars had been well known in political and literary circles. But in a month or so the affair subsided. The world never stops very long, even when it loses one of its best friends.

One late October morning I received a note which read:

John Winthrop:

Dear Sir—I am in London for a few days, homeward bound from a trip to Egypt, and as we are cousins and "orphans, too," I should like the pleasure of making your acquaintance. Trusting that I shall find you at leisure, I am, your humble servant, PHILIP PEMBROKE.

"Ah," said I, "that Louisianian cousin of mine, who may or may not live the year out," recalling the old lawyer's words. "He seems to hang on pretty well. I hope he'll be interesting. Few rich men are. He writes like a polite creditor. What did the old fellow say was the matter with him? Heart trouble or consumption? I can't remember." I threw the note aside and touched up some of my dispatches.

JUSTICE

Is portrayed as a woman, yet her sex might complain that they get scant benefit of her powers. There is little justice, it would seem, in the suffering that many women undergo month after month.

Justice acts upon the legal maxim that ignorance of the law cannot be pleaded in mitigation of punishment. It is ignorance which causes so much womanly suffering. Ignorance of the requirements of womanly health; ignorance on the part of those who attempt to cure and fail, and ignorance of the fact that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"When I first wrote to Doctor Pierce concerning my health," says Mrs. Mollie E. Carpenter, of Linaria, Cumberland Co., Tenn., "I was so weak I could only write a few words until I would have to rest; was so weak I could hardly walk. Words cannot express my sufferings; dimness of sight, palpitation, shortness of breath, black spots or specks shining lights before my eyes, terrible headache, numbness in my arms and hands and tongue, also my jaws would get numb; constipation, falling of the uterus, disagreeable drains, soreness through my bowels; in fact I was diseased from head to foot. Now I can do my own washing and cooking. I can take a ten quart pail in one hand and a six quart pail in the other (full of water), and carry both one-fourth of a mile and never stop to rest. I am as heavy as I was at 19 years (125 pounds). I used thirty bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and twenty-five vials of 'Pleasant Pellets.'"

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"System Tonic" Copyrighted

SYSTEM TONIC IS A SCIENTIFIC REMEDY AFTER THE SUGGESTIONS OF THE BEST PHYSICIANS IN AMERICA, DISPENSED BY A CHEMIST.

Fac-Simile of Genuine.

THE INTESTINES AND THEIR USE

Few people understand that it is in the intestines, which are about 25 feet long, that food is transformed into chyle, which being absorbed into the general circulation, is formed into blood. The intestines are composed of a spiral coil of muscles surrounded by a coating resembling celluloid and filled with millions of glands. The muscular walls serve to keep in motion the food which has been previously dissolved in the stomach, until the glands have absorbed all the chyle to sustain the human body, and finally force into the rectum all the waste or valueless material. The chief disease of the intestines is constipation through lack of muscular power. Then again many people are thin and emaciated, because the glands of the intestines are insufficiently active to abstract the food matter, hence much valuable nutriment goes to waste. In both these cases Merrill's System Tonic is a most valuable remedy. The alterative properties strengthen the glands and thin people find themselves taking on flesh without any apparent cause and the valuable tonics contained in System Tonic permanently cure constipation by strengthening the muscles of the intestinal walls. This is vastly a superior method to taking irritating pills or physic of which the use of one dose creates a greater necessity for another. If you are unreasonably thin or pale and troubled with irregularity of the bowels, Merrill's System Tonic is the only remedy that guarantees you a perfect cure in a reasonable time.

The Joint High Commission.

Ottawa, July 4.—Nothing is known here concerning the report that the Joint High Commission is to resume its sittings in September. It is thought very unlikely that the commission would be called at a time when the Canadian Government would be busy receiving the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, even if there was any probability of negotiations being recommended in the near future.

Fit Led to Death.

Halifax, July 4.—George Allan, a lobster fisherman, was drowned off North Port, Cumberland County, yesterday. He was subject to fits, and, while alone in his boat, he fell into the water and drowned before assistance could reach him. He was 40 years old and a widow and five children survive.

BANQUET OF AMERICAN SOCIETY

Representatives of Great Britain and Her Colonies Attend in Great Force—Some Pleasant Words.

London, July 5. — Five hundred persons sat down last night at the banquet of the American Society in London, given at the Hotel Cecil. It was a remarkable gathering. Across the upper end of the great hall and interspersed between the members of the United States Embassy and prominent Americans sat members of parliament and representatives of Great Britain's loyal colonies. Morgan Richards, flanked on the right by Mr. Choate, and on the left by Robert W. Hanbury, M. P., presided.

Representatives of India, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Cape Colony were present. General Ian Hamilton was a prominent figure. Chancellor McCracken of the University of New York attended, and scattered through the hall were representatives of all phases of material progress in the United States.

The chairman toasted King Edward, the toast meeting with a warm response from the audience, who sang the British National Anthem.

Dr. Joseph Parker, Minister of the City Temple, who proposed the toast to President McKinley, said in the course of his speech:

"Despite the traditional prejudice, which happily has been weakening during the past century, it is now well recognized that no other nation can sustain the relation to Great Britain which the United States now holds and fortunately for the world, Great Britain and the United States now hold the world's peace in the hollow of their hands."

Mr. Hanbury proposing a toast to the United States Ambassador referred gracefully to the sympathy and joy of the British people in connection with Mrs. McKinley's illness and recovery, adding that the same sympathy, tempered with the most profound sorrow, was extended upon the death of Adelbert Hay, "whose faithful and effective service to British citizens in South Africa will be remembered in Great Britain as long as the memory of the South African war endures."

Mr. Hanbury paid a warm compliment to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Choate, replying, referred to the marvelous material prosperity of the United States. He reminded hearers that at the inception of the American Republic the best parliamentary friends and defenders of the struggling colonies, Chatham, Burke and Fox, enunciated principles that had ever since guided Great Britain in dealing with her colonies.

Mr. Beck responded to the toast, "The Day We Celebrate."

HAD GOULD TWO WIVES?

What a Letter From the Philadelphia Postmaster Seems to Reveal.

St. Catharines, July 5.—A. B. Gould, the man who was killed on the N., St. C. and T. R. on April 24, evidently had two wives, and wife number two is looking for his insurance money.

The friends and those who knew Gould here had not the slightest idea of a second wife until yesterday, when Postmaster Lawrie received a communication dated Philadelphia, and signed by Mrs. A. B. Gould. The latter stated that the writer was a widow of the dead man, and that she desired information of his death, as she had an insurance policy on his life, and the insurance companies demanded details of the death and burial. No other information was in the letter, and apparently the writer knew nothing of another wife.

Gould's other wife, and the one known here lives in Midland, Mich., and has a married daughter living in Buffalo. She was in St. Catharines after the accident and had the body shipped to Michigan for burial.

Independence Day Observed.

New York, July 5.—The observance Independence Day was more than usually quiet this year and the ceremonies were attended by few people. Nearly every one who could left home on account of the heat.

In Philadelphia Minister Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese Minister, was the orator of the day at the municipal celebration.

The transfer of the military authority to Gen. Chaffee was the feature of the celebration of Independence Day in Manila.

Chinese Reformer Admitted.

Washington, July 5.—Su Shih Chin, a Chinese Reformer, for whose head $50,000 has been offered by the Chinese Government, and who has been held by the immigration officials in San Francisco for several weeks because of the representations of the Chinese Minister, will not be sent back to China.

Letter Writing.

This is the way he wrote to her: "Molly, I has not had a line from you in three weeks. Has you throwed me over?"

And this is the way she answered him: "John, hain't you hearn tell that I am on a sick bed, where I am slowly a-dyin an can't write a line to save my life, you fool, you?"

LUXURY IN DIET.

The Rich Man Not So Much Better Off Than the Poor One In Eating.

Of course the wealthy man pays a good deal more for his breakfast, luncheon and dinner than does the poor man, but is Dives, physiologically and physically speaking, any better for it? We doubt it.

Plain food is, on the whole, more acceptable to the economy than are rich morsels. It is very questionable whether from the strictly nutritive point of view champagne and oysters are, after all, in health an advance upon ginger beer and cockles, whether turtle is preferable to calf's head, or caviare to soft herring roe, or plovers' eggs superior to the ordinary eggs of the barn door bird. But there is a vast difference between the price of champagne, say, at 10 shillings a bottle and ginger beer at a penny a bottle, and between oysters at 3s. 6d. a dozen and cockles at 50 for a penny, and between turtle soup at 10s. 6d. a pint and calf's head soup at sixpence a plateful.

We shall be pretty correct in stating that the man who buys common eggs instead of plovers' eggs and calf's head instead of turtle and a pigeon instead of a partridge is the gainer, at any rate from the economically nutritive point of view. In other words, the price of an article of food by no means sets upon it its food value, and the difference represented between the price of champagne and ginger beer, between that of oysters and cockles, etc., is the price paid for pleasing the palate, which extravagance is probably the penalty of a mental rather than a bodily demand.

But physiologically it is akin to substituting diamonds for coals in the steam engine. Luxurious foods are, strictly speaking, creature comforts, while plain foods are bodily necessities. It must be admitted, however, that, as a rule, choice tasting game and meats are necessarily tender and therefore easy of assimilation. But clearly there must be a limit to the appropriation of food by the body, and this limit may be reached just as easily by means of good, plain and tender food as by food of a rarer sort.

According to this view, there must be a great physiological extravagance going on from day to day. In the matter of beverages the same sort of extravagance occurs. Enormous prices are given for a particularly choice wine, but here, again, it is practically certain that the human economy gains little or nothing by it.

Does the man who drinks a claret of choice vintage at, say, 10 shillings a bottle derive any material advantage over the man who drinks his shilling bottle of vin ordinaire? It is doubtful. In any case, the prices asked for wine at big hotels are so monstrously high and the wine offered is so often bad that this fact alone accounts for an increasing demand for whisky as a dinner beverage. There are obviously considerable physiological sin and wantonness committed in the choice of food and in the quantity consumed.

Wanted to Be Kicked.

It is related of Horace Greeley, whose handwriting was notoriously illegible, that on one occasion an editorial of his fell into the hands of a new compositor, who made a fearful bungle of it. As he set it the bit of copy made sense, but it was not the meaning Mr. Greeley intended to convey.

The following evening Mr. Greeley reached the office in no enviable mood and lost little time in tramping up to the composing room on the floor above. Here he encountered the night foreman, and the air was blue with the chief's imprecations. As soon as it became possible to make oneself heard above this verbal tempest Mr. Greeley was informed of the circumstances and that it was not really the fault of the compositor, who had done the best he could, but that the blame should rest on the assistant foreman, whose carelessness was the cause of the new man getting the "copy" from the "hook."

As the argument appealed to Mr. Greeley's intelligence and he suddenly realized that in giving way to his passion he was making a spectacle of himself he called out in his squeaky treble, "Won't somebody please kick me down stairs?" and shuffled out of the room.

The Toothpick Habit.

"I'd like to know what my customers do with all the toothpicks they carry away," remarked a restaurant proprietor the other day. "Few men take a single toothpick. Most of them take half a dozen and many a whole handful, and when they come in here again for the next meal they take as many over again. They don't need them. It's all due to the toothpick chewing habit, which seems to be growing. There isn't anything particularly pleasant about chewing a wooden toothpick, and it may be injurious if a piece of the wood lodges in the throat or gets down into the stomach, as it is very apt to. But the toothpick chewing habit is becoming a rival to the gum and tobacco habits. The only reason I can give for it is that the toothpicks are free and gum and tobacco are not."

Snuffed Out.

AN ARTISTIC HOUSE.

Fine San Francisco Home of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson.

Looking out toward the beautiful bay of San Francisco, the city that he loved next to the ancient town that gave him birth, stands the new home of the widow of that gentlest of romancers, Robert Louis Stevenson. Stevenson loved San Francisco, although his sojourn there was filled with sickness and suffering, and, looking out toward the same ocean that is overlooked by his last resting place in Samoa, his widow has built a house that will be both a home for herself in her declining days and a shrine to the loved memory of the dead author.

In the Stevenson house that has just been completed are the books of the dead man which he loved so well and other relics. The house is a low, curious looking structure, built on a slope of what is known locally as Russian hill. It is one of the most artistic residences in San Francisco, although only two stories in height. It is a double house, made in a mixed style in which French renaissance predominates. One section is given up to Mrs. Stevenson, and it is the most interesting portion. Another is occupied by her son, Stevenson's collaborator, Lloyd Osborne, and his family.

FIREPLACE IN MRS. STEVENSON'S NEW HOME

The two most interesting rooms in the Stevenson house are the living room and the library, although the entire house is filled with reminiscences of the dead master. In the living room the object that the eye instinctively rests upon is the fireplace, for over it is placed a medallion of Stevenson, executed by the famous sculptor, St. Gaudens. It is set into the bricks of the fireplace and is so situated as to be the most prominent object in the room, although it fits in with the general scheme of the decorations.

In the library are Stevenson's book treasures from the old Latin books conned in his university days to his volumes of later years, all annotated by his own hand. Throughout the house are scattered pictures, statues and rare old furniture.

In keeping with the Stevenson spirit of romance the new house is filled with secret passages and romantic nooks. Surely if the master's spirit were to return to earth this house, filled with his loved ones and with his dearly cherished books and mementos, would be the place it would choose for another earthly sojourn.

The Prince and the Bell.

When Edward VII of England was Prince of Wales, he was in Philadelphia in 1860, and he took great interest in the relics of the Revolutionary period, although his visit to Independence hall was projected purely in a spirit of mischief by his entertainers.

In rummaging in the garret the party discovered the old cracked bell which had been somewhat contemptuously hidden away, and this more than any other relic seemed to fascinate the prince, whose words have been thus reported:

"This old bell is the greatest relic this republic has today. Instead of being here, covered with this accumulated dirt, it should occupy the chief place in this hall of independence. It is to you what the Magna Charta is to England. It is cracked, but it is an inspiration. Believe me, my friends, it affects me more than anything I have been shown."

The good sense of this suggestion appealed immediately to the pride and sensibility of the custodians of the relics, and from that moment the Liberty bell took its "chief place in the hall of independence."

Paddy, the Yankee and the Turtle.

In New York a man was carrying a live turtle along the street when by came an Irishman, followed my a large dog. The countryman tried by gentle words to get the son of the Emerald Isle to put his finger into the turtle's mouth, but he was too smart for that.

"But," says Pat, "I'll put my dog's tail in and see what the baste will do."

He immediately called up his dog, took its tail in his hand and stuck it in the turtle's mouth. He had scarcely got it in when Mr. Turtle shut down on the poor dog's tail, and off the latter started at railroad speed, pulling the turtle after him at a more rapid rate than ever it had traveled before. The countryman, thinking that his day's work would be thrown away if the animal should run at that rate, turned with a savage look upon the Irishman and exclaimed:

"Call back your dog!"

Paddy put his hands into his pockets, threw his head to one side, winked and then answered, with a provoking sang froid, "Call back your fish!"

Bricks From Coke Ashes.

A European scientific journal reports that the coke ashes of gas works are now manufactured into bricks resembling pressed brick, but considerably harder than the latter. Heretofore these ashes were looked upon as absolute waste and were often piled up on land which might have been profitably cultivated, so that the innovation is doubly profitable.

The manufacture of coke ash brick is a very simple one. The ashes are carefully reduced to a fine powder, mixed with one-tenth part of slaked lime and, after the addition of water, kneaded until the mass forms a stiff paste. Then it is treated like ordinary clay and formed into bricks by the use of suitable presses. The bricks are then stacked, protected from rain and dried in the air. No artificial heat is required. The air dried bricks are very hard and make excellent building material.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

The One Thought.

We have most of us heard of that sweet wedded bliss,
Of two hearts that are beating as one,
And two souls with a single thought sealed with a kiss,
And have wondered, perhaps, how 'twas done.

But to those who have been by experience taught
This effect is not hard to explain,
For in most of the cases that one "single" thought
Is—"I wish I was single again."

The Fee Was Tempting.

A very young couple in southwest Georgia called on a colored minister and offered him a string of fish to marry them. Said the minister:

"I mighty positive dat both er you is too young ter marry, but den—you looks a heap older dan what you is, en, furdermo', ef dey is one t'ing I wants partickler fer dinner dis day it is fish. So jine han's!"

But Yet a Woman.

When Muriel plays her violin,
With grace adjusted 'neath her chin,
Such saintly mood dwells in her eyes
I fear her fashioned for the skies.

But, ah, while music's magic speaks,
A string snaps; color mounts her cheeks;
Her eyes snap, too; then flees my doubt;
I know she's human—in and out.

Her First Concert.

A country servant was given a ticket by her mistress for a local concert. She arrived home rather late and was questioned by her mistress on the matter.

"I came away before 'twas over," she replied, "and they were hurrying it on, 'cause they were singing two at a time when I left."—Tit-Bits.

Repartee.

He turned and gazed at her, and she
Resented it right scornfully.
In hopes to make amends, said he
(With weak attempt at gallantry),
"I'd like to add to my family tree
A branch so fresh and fair to see."
She answered, "I don't care to be Ingrafted on a rubber tree!"

Revenge.

Mr. Fijjit—I thought you said our new neighbors would not let their children play with our Tommie. I see him with them now.

Mrs. Fijjit—Yes, but their parents don't know it. Tommie is just getting over the measles, and I want their children to catch 'em, the stuck up things!

His Bright Prospects.

Dey talks erbout de money,
But I doesn't want it, honey,
For soon I will be comin ter de scratch;
Fer de moonlight will be shinin
Whar I'm pinin, des a-pinin
Fer de melon in de middle on de patch.

They'll Fix It.

Mrs. de Style—Of course this new furniture you've bought is quite pretty, but it's so distressingly new. It lacks the fashionable marks of age and antiquity.

Mr. de Style—Never mind. It'll be all right after the children have operated on it for a couple of weeks.

The Bad Habit of Hoarding Trash.

In cleaning house from year to year
A woman's ways are wondrous queer.
She wails o'er rubbish; then, alack,
'Tis dusted and put safely back.

Not Needed.

He was obviously anxious, and she seemed almost willing.

"I shall refer you to papa," said she, with a becoming blush, "before giving you a final answer."

"But I am perfectly willing to take you without any reference," said he magnanimously.

Out.

I blow a V for rose
For her and call and sigh—
When the maid informs me she is out—
In sadness, "So am I!"

The Golden Side.

"Have you noticed that there are days when we seem more in accord with the world—more in unison with nature?"

"Yes; it is always that way with me on payday."—Tit-Bits.

Get Ready.

A lot in some nice cemetery
It is time for pa to get;
Tommy's started in a-smoking
Of the baleful cigarette.

Of Adulterated Food.

"Tell me what a man eats, and I'll tell you what he is."

"Oh, no; tell us what a man thinks he is eating, and we can guess what he is."

Effie Flo's Idea.

"Ma says Mrs. Smith's a grass widow," said Flo,
"But I do not believe her,
For to be a grass widow one's husband, you know
Has to die of hay fever."

The Reason.

Hobbs—Nothing very genial about Mercer.

Gobson—No; Mercer is one of those fellows who make it a point never to owe anybody anything.

A Penalty.

The man who tells the simple truth
Perhaps is doing right,
But all the world will censure him
For being impolite.

Unhappy Simile.

Doctor—After this you ought to sleep like a baby.

Patient (anxiously)—I hope you don't mean like my baby, doctor.

ELOPEMENT AT BELWOOD.

Thomas Richardson Deserted His Wife and Three Children.

Guelph, July 6.—The village of Belwood is greatly excited over the elopement of a well-known married man and a young Fergus girl. Three weeks ago Thomas Richardson, a man about 35 years of age, hired a livery rig in Belwood and drove to Fergus, where he met the lady, a girl of 19, and took her to Midland. The runaway pair took rooms in a boarding-house, and Richardson obtained employment as a caretaker. All went well until a week elapsed, when they quarrelled and the girl ran away to her uncle in Fergus. She told her story and Richardson was arrested for horse stealing. Constable Rae of Guelph went up for the man, but he had evaporated. Richardson deserted a wife and three children, leaving them almost destitute. No trace of him has been found.

Sailor's Horrible Fate.

Sault Ste. Marie, July 6. — John A. Gates, of Westbrook, Ont., who was sailing from Buffalo as second mate of the steamer Mariska, was the victim of a horrible fate. The steamer was towing the schooner John Smeaton, when passing the Sault Ste. Marie Government pier, Gates, in throwing off the cable, stepped in the coil of messenger rope. As it payed out with lightning rapidity it pulled his body through the tow chock, whence it fell 30 feet into the water. The body was dragged under water, and when the cable and body was drawn on the schooner life was extinct. Gates served as a sailor in the Spanish-American war. The body was sent to Kingston, Ont., for burial.

C.P.R. Trackmen's Strike Abandoned at Several Points.

MEN'S SIDE CLEARLY STATED.

They Claim to Be Holding Out and That the Company's Statement as to the Number of Men Returning is Not in Accordance With the Facts —The Men's Side.

Montreal, July 6.—Reports received at the local C. P. R. offices yesterday morning would indicate that the trackmen's strike is gradually drawing to a close. General Manager McNicoll stated that he had received word from General Superintendent Timmerman at Toronto to the effect that only seven gangs were still out in Ontario, west and north of Toronto, and of these three had promised to return to work this morning. On the Atlantic division Mr. McNicoll said that all the men had returned to work and that the strike on the Maine Central was off. President Wilson of the Brotherhood of Trackmen when seen read a number of despatches from the representatives of the association, both on the Atlantic division and in the Northwest, in which it was stated that the union men were holding out and that the company was employing alien labor.

THE MEN'S SIDE.

A Clean-Cut Statement of the Trackmen's Situation and Desires by the Lawyer of the Association.

Toronto, July 6. — More special constables were sent out yesterday mornibg by the C. P. R. to the western division of the road. The company is strengthening its police force all along the line. The officials in Toronto declare all the men north and west of Toronto have gone back to work.

The strikers are not downcast by these reports, for they declare that the men are standing firm, and even intimate that other brotherhoods of the railway are with them, at present passively, but possibly will become active supporters.

A telegram was received in the city yesterday stating that the Maine Central strike was declared off, and that the Strike Committee expressed satisfaction with the result. The men will receive $1.85 a day as minimum wage.

The following statement of the trackmen's position is given out by Mr. A. E. Baker, solicitor for the union, under the authority of the Grand President:

1. That every effort was made by the representatives of the trackmen to procure an adjustment of the trouble, and it was only because of the officials of the C. P. R. refusing to recognize the union or its officials that negotiations were broken off as being useless.

2. No trackmen in Canada, except those employed by the C. P. R. are members of this union.

3. The cost of living has increased one-fifth during the past three years and the workmen should not be asked or required, to accept what is really a poor chance of living. Their wages should naturally advance in proportion to the standard of prices for necessaries of life.

4. Attempts to injure the cause of the trackmen have been made by untrue statements, issued and published in some of the leading newspapers in Canada. Untrue reports were often made in one section of the country regarding the state of the strike in other sections. Reports received officially from local districts by the President and Executive of the union are entirely different from many published in the press. The proportion of men returning to work is estimated by the Executive not to exceed one in one hundred, and this is verified by reports from local districts sent by members throughout the Dominion.

5. The average day laborer commands from $1.25 to $1.50 per day, and the trackmen cannot but feel that their labor (which is in its way a matter of skill), entitles them to as much or more than the day laborer.

6. On the question of arbitration, considerable stress has been laid. No labor union is inclined to refuse an impartial arbitration between parties. Had the company recognized the union in a proper manner, and consented to arbitration on the question of wages, and on a fixed scale of wages, as is the case with other railway brotherhoods, the difficulty would have been avoided. The trackmen feel that they have as much right to be recognized as a body as have the other railway brotherhoods now employed by the C. P. R. They merely ask for similar treatment, and when they get it they will be satisfied. It, therefore, is easily seen that if the company desires to treat the trackmen in as fair a manner as they are doing the other brotherhoods, the existing trouble would be speedily settled.

"We are out to win," said the local Canadian Pacific striking trackmen yesterday. According to this statement the men have not thought of giving up the struggle, but are as much in the fight as ever. So far as Toronto is concerned, it is reported that there are still 40 men on strike, all of whom, with but two or three exceptions, are working at other employment and earning fair wages.

In C. P. R. despatches last night, it was stated that over half the old gangs of trackmen are at work between St. Johns, Que., and Megantic. Organizer Hooper of the Montreal Committee has gone home.

Coal Heavers on Strike.

St. Thomas, July 6. — Yesterday noon the coal dock men on the Michigan Central Railway at this point went on strike for more pay. Supt. Morford said the company had no difficulty in finding men to fill the strikers' places. The new men will be paid $1.25 per day of ten hours or 12½ cents per hour, the day and night men to be paid at the same rate.

Strike Over at Ottawa.

Ottawa, July 6.—The machine wood workers' strike in this city has collapsed, and most of the men have returned to work.

Steel Strike Situation.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 6. — There seems to be little or no change in the steel strike situation to-day. The signature to the amalgmated scale was received yesterday morning from the Cleveland Hardware Company, of Cleveland, O.

NORTH BRUCE.

Liberals Nominate Mr. C. M. Bowman and Listen to Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Tara, July 6.—North Bruce Liberals assembled in large numbers at Tara yesterday for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the next Provincial election and to hear an address by Hon. J. R. Stratton. Mr. C. M. Bowman, the present representative of the riding, on motion of Mr. A. D. McCannell of Arran, seconded by Mr. William Brown, Reeve of Underwood, was by a unanimous standing vote amidst loud cheers made the nominee of the convention. Mr. Bowman enjoys the confidence of all classes in the electoral district to a very high degree, and, as remarked by one of the speakers, Mr. A. G. McKay of Owen Sound, his ability is recognized and appreciated not only in Bruce but in the neighboring ridings and by the party generally. Mr. John H. Smith, Tara, the retiring president, presided over the convention. Mr. R. McFayden, Glammis, was elected president, and Mr. Walter Taylor, Tara, secretary-treasurer.

After the public meeting had been organized, and after resolutions endorsing the Dominion and Ontario Governments were passed unanimously, Hon. J. R. Stratton was introduced. He was received with loud cheers by the entire gathering. Mr. Stratton, after some local references to the county and to Mr. Bowman, dealt exhaustively with the financial condition of Ontario, showing the sources of our revenue and the manner in which it had been expended in the interests of the people during the past thirty odd years.

Half Mourning After July 22.

Ottawa, July 6.—It is learned that the entertainment of the Duke and Duchess will include no function at which there will be presentations, as the full period of court mourning will not have terminated. After the 22rd of this month half mourning will be in order, and, as H. R. H. the Duchess will be in half mourning when in Canada, ladies participating in the royal entertainments will, of course, be attired in half mourning also. It is understood that the State functions at the Capital will include an evening reception.

Slight Abatement of Heat.

Washington, July 5.—There has been a slight abatement of the heat throughout the United States, but the weather forecaster predicts a speedy return to the hot condition of the past few days.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Ottawa Public School Board has decided to introduce the savings banks idea into the schools of that city. The probability is that it will not be many years before the savings banks become a recognized feature of the public school system of this province. Peterborough, however, would have none of it.

Dixon Park does not seem to be getting a fair deal this season. The grass is now so long that it can be classed as hay, which makes the park untenable in the evenings when the dew is heavy. It is understood that an order was given some time ago for the cutting of the grass, but the matter has been neglected.

Peterborough should have an "Old Boys'" reunion next summer. These gatherings have proved most successful in other towns and cities. Wouldn't the "Old Boys" be astounded when they were shown through the Cereal Company Works, the Canadian General Electric Works, the Canadian Cordage Company's factory, the Ackerman Harness Works, the Stanley Piano Works, and the Examiner's up-to-date premises?

The Stratford Beacon says: "The refusal of Mr. Miscampbell, of East Simcoe, to accept re-nomination, shows how utterly hopeless the Ontario Opposition is of obtaining power. Mr. Miscampbell is one of Mr. Whitney's cleverest followers, and was slated for a portfolio 'if the Government was defeated.' Mr. Miscampbell believes, apparently, that the Ross Government, progressive, enterprising and honest as it is, will again be returned to power."

The Mail seems to be hard up for some objection to Mr. Campbell's candidature in West York, and falls back on the charge that he kept his hat on while the National Anthem was sung in the House. But that might easily be explained away, were it true, or were explanation necessary. The singing was a rude interruption of regular debate, and as Doc. Montague led it members were in doubt as to whether it was "God Save the Queen" or "We Won't Go Home Till Morning."

The fact that many hundred people turned out last evening to hear the band play, in the face of the threatening sky, goes to show how popular that organization has become in the town, and the Council will be wise in its generation if it falls into line with the popular voice and puts the Victoria Park stand into proper shape. The statement made Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Finance Committee, that the bandsmen wanted to play in Central Park, is correct. The band was never consulted in the matter, although the bandmaster received the promise that his advice would be sought before a stand was erected in order that it would suit the purpose for which it was intended. Mr. Gliddon has always been in favour of taking the band to Victoria Park, knowing from the first that Central Park would be unsuitable.

A Young Girl's Danger.

How She Overcame It and Baffled Her Tormentor.

Miss Ida Hopkirk, of 184 Harboard street, this city, is a young lady who is exceedingly popular with a very extensive circle of friends, all of whom are rejoicing over her recent escape from a terrible danger. The story of her experience is deeply interesting, told in her own straightforward way.

Here is her narrative: "In 1896 I took a position in a down town store. My work was not unusually hard, but I soon found I could not stand it, and my health failed. I grew very thin, had splitting headaches continually, dizzy spells, and extreme weakness. My tongue was thickly furred, harsh and dry, every morning, and I arose tired and aching. I was dull and low spirited all the time.

My sister had used Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills with remarkable benefit and I also began to take them. I candidly state that improvement began almost immediately. Daily I mended until to-day I am in better health and much stronger than I have been for years. To Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills, and to them alone, is the credit due."

Every girl and woman who suffers as Miss Hopkirk did, should use Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills. They will give new life and health.

Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills, the only medicine made that cures diseases by killing the germs that cause it, are sold by all Druggists at 75c a box, sample box 25c, or sent post paid on receipt of price by The Arnold Chemical Co. Limited, Canada Life Building, 42 King St. West Toronto. Booklet sent free.

THE INSTITUTION FOR DEAF AND DUMB.

An Interesting Sketch of the Institution—Its Staff, Equipment and Work—By Rev. C. W. Watch.

(From the Onward, Toronto.)

If the institutions and schools of a country reveal its character then Canada need not be ashamed of her exhibit at the beginning of the century. Yet how few Canadian readily take in all that their educational systems mean. At some points, perhaps, we are open to criticism, yet at many others we are certainly deserving of praise, and where praise is merited we should neither be afraid to give nor receive.

It is of one school in Ontario alone I wish to pen an appreciation. There are similar schools in all the provinces.

Favoured in its location on the banks of the Bay of Quinte, a mile west of the City of Belleville, in a very garden of loveliness, with an outlook on the bay, and taking in a landscape of Prince Edward county, is placed the institution for the education of the Deaf and Dumb for Ontario. Founded over thirty years ago, when Rev. Dr. Ryerson was Superintendent of Education, it has had no less than 1,187 pupils pass through its classes, with a resident attendance this year of 282. The school term is for nine months, open to all deaf mutes in the province, rich and poor alike, from seven years old and upwards, the students representing no less than forty-seven counties and districts.

To understand how difficult a field it is in which a teacher has to work, we must remember the blank, impenetrable ignorance and awful isolation of the deaf child in any community. Language, he has none, the names of the commonest things are unknown, life dawns upon him as an unsolvable enigma, a hundred things that give joy to his hearing brother have no pleasure for him. Then place this deaf child in the school provided, and at his graduation, in a few years, he returns to the same community with a good practical education, he has learned a language, can read and write, has mastered his geography, has studied natural history, has a knowledge of current events, knows his Bible, his inclination in trade or business has been discovered, and a future of usefulness opened to him. He has found that even his limitations have some compensations, and he goes out to take his place as a citizen, and will prove that he can make a fair record for usefulness among his hearing fellow-citizens.

Some readers may suggest that in speaking of results, we must have in mind an exceptional student, or are indulging in an extravagant optimism, but after a careful study of the work done we are satisfied with what we assert. We occasionally hear of a mute getting into trouble, and of some coming even before the courts—just like some other people—but during three years of careful scrutiny I have failed to trace one such case back to the old pupils of the Belleville Institute.

Recently there was held at the Institute, the annual convention of the old graduates—the Government having generously offered the hospitality of the school to its old students. The delegation was not a selected one—it was open to all. I never saw a body of men and women gathered together that bore the marks of good citizenship and moral integrity better than did our mute friends in their visit to our city. Their discussions were a revelation, they were not children in understanding, they were men and women of intelligence, giving in many cases evidence of culture, and in every case having the stamp of respectability.

For a stranger to visit the classes and workshops is a little education in itself. The superintendent, R. Mathison, Esq., who for many years has been its principal, and has had so much to do with the development and success of the school, has associated with him a staff of officers, teachers, and heads of departments of about thirty. If an outsider might be permitted a kindly criticism just here, the staff of teachers should, we believe, be increased one-third at least, and an advanced class be added. The grading is much similar to the public schools, and the teaching is done with a faithfulness only capable where the teacher is enthused with his work. The articulation class is as much a miracle-working room as any spot today on the earth, for here the dumb, if there is an aptitude, are actually taught to speak. In the workshops, printing, shoemaking, carpentering, and baking are taught the boys, and sewing and fancy-work the girls. The Sloyd shop recently introduced in resulting in many more of the boys not only being able to work with tools, but the foundation is laid for more practical work. Sloyd, while not a trade, does as the Swedish word means, teach the boys to be handy and dexterous with tools. The progress made in this department suggests that the pupils here have one advantage over their hearing brothers in the public schools.

Innocent sport and pleasure is encouraged, skating in winter, football, and baseball in summer.

During the past year the work among the Methodist pupils has been graciously blessed of God. The services have been held weekly of late, and as a result twenty-six of the older students have professed conversion. These are all over fifteen years of age, while many of the younger children have a clear conception of Christ as their Saviour, and are living happy and bright Christian lives. In this work among the mute boys and girls we have been greatly helped by Mr. G. F. Stewart, one of the teaching staff, who has not only been our faithful interpreter, but who being in fellowship with the church and in loving sympathy with our effort, has made the teaching more helpful and inspiring.

The service on May 5th, the sacramental occasion in West Belleville Church, can scarcely be forgotten. About ninety of the pupils were in attendance, the twenty-six converts were received into church fellowship, eleven of whom were baptized. The writer was assisted in the service by Revs. Dr. Lambly and A. Martin, Mr. Stewart interpreting the entire sermon and ritual. Two of the younger children rendered, in sign language, "All hail the power of Jesus name," and Mr. Balis, a teacher, also in mute eloquence, rendered "Abide with me."

It is sad to think that any parent, out of any misconception of love, or for any selfish end, could keep a mute child from the teaching and influence of such a school. We occasionally hear of such. It seems almost criminal, for such an institution is surely ordained of God.

BECAME DESPONDENT.

Hamilton Lady Persecuted for Six Years by Dyspepsia—Gave Up Hope of Ever Being Well—Free at Last by the Aid of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

How many a poor Dyspeptic loses hope of being well again? How many a poor suicide was brought to his end by Dyspepsia, that horrible malady that makes men and women despondent and tired of life?

To such people Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are priceless beyond the telling, for they mean health, good spirits, and sound digestion. There is no need to lose hope, when Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure if but given a chance.

In nature there are certain acids that will digest food just the same as the stomach does. Meat, bread, vegetables and any other food may be placed in a jar covered with water, and actually digested by these acids in a few hours.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are composed of the best digestants known. They are absolutely harmless and do the work of the stomach while that organ takes a well-earned rest.

This is the only successful way to treat Dyspepsia. The same principle is used by Sanitariums and other institutions where the patient is fed on milk to rest his stomach. With Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets you may eat whatever you like, knowing that the stomach will not have to do the work of digestion, and no evil or suffering will follow.

Miss Maggie Brown, of Hamilton, says: "Dyspepsia and Headache afflicted me for six years. My case was one of the worst kind. Doctors did their best in vain, and gave up all hope. A friend of mine finally advised me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and to my surprise, on doing so, my headaches left me and I am now completely and, so far, permanently cured."

Catholics Must Obey Law.

Rome, July 5. — Pope Leo, acting on the advice of Cardinal Rompolla, who is favorable to the French Government, has decided to order the French religious congregations to accept the operation of the new association law, because it is the duty of Catholics to obey the legitimate constituted authorities, even when the results are deplorable.

Trade With Canada.

Ottawa, July 5. — Mr. R. Bryson, Canadian commercial agent in Antigua, has sent in his report, dated June 21, to the Department of Trade and Commerce. He reports business with the Dominion as being very satisfactory. Shipments of sugar to Canada are larger than last year, but quantities of molasses have gone to the United States.

Praises Pyramid Pile Cure.

Mrs. Aaron Medron, of Savannah, Ga., writes, "I had piles and rectal trouble for years, until it was was unbearable any longer. As I had often seen Pyramid Pile Cure advertised, I determined to try it, and for two years have never ceased to congratulate myself that I did so, for I have been entirely cured of rectal troubles and two packages of the Pyramid did it."

The Pyramid Pile Cure contains no cocaine, opium, nor any injurious drug whatever, and is absolutely safe, painless, and never fails to cure piles in any form.

Government's This Year's Shipbuilding Program.

THREE NEW BATTLESHIPS.

They Will Be Named King Edward, Dominion and Commonwealth—Mr. Arnold Forster's Announcement in the Commons—Six Cruisers—Ten Torpedo Boat Destroyers.

London, July 6.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Arnold Foster, the Secretary of the Admiralty, announced that the year's shipbuilding program includes three battleships of a new improved class, six cruisers of the Monmouth class, and ten improved torpedo boat destroyers.

The battleships will be of 16,500 tons and 20 feet longer than those of the formidable class. Their indicated horse-power will be 18,000, and their speed 18½ knots. The armor of the new battleships will be a belt eight to nine inches thick.

A peculiar feature of the new ships will be six-inch guns, not mounted, in separate casements, but enclosed in a battery of seven-inch armor. The ships' armament will consist of four forward fire, two 12-inch guns; two 2-inch guns and two six-inch guns. The aft fire will be of the same formidable character. It is thought these ships will compare favorably with anything building by an European power.

The new ships will be named King Edward, Dominion and Commonwealth, to commemorate the great support rendered to King and country by the two great branches of the kindred race.

The cruisers will be of 9,800 tons, and will have a speed of 23 knots. Their armament will be heavier than the Monmouth's. It is believed that the cruisers which are about to be laid down will be equal to anything likely to be brought against them.

The new torpedo-boat destroyers will be of stronger construction.

In regard to hospital ships, the Secretary of the Admiralty said Great Britain now had in the Mediterranean, through the generosity of an American citizen (Bernard Baker, President of the Atlantic Transport Line), the well-equipped Maine.

All the new ships will be fitted with wireless telegraphy, as will also all the other British war ships as they come in for repairs.

Efforts are being made to overcome the arrears in shipbuilding, and the Secretary added, the Government is now able to supply guns as they are needed.

The Secretary of the Admiralty also said there was an absolute determination upon the part of the admiralty to find the best type of boiler, and the Government was watching with interest a German experiment of combining cylindrical and water tube boilers in the same ship.

Submarine Ships Also

London, July 6. — In the House of Lords yesterday, the Earl of Selborne, First Lord of the Admiralty, in a statement on the present naval position of Great Britain, said that the remainder of the year 1901 would witness the completion of three armored cruisers of the Cressy class, four first-class barbette ships of the class of the Formidable, and two first-class barbette ships of the class of the Canopus. Lord Selborne said the first half of 1902 would see the completion of two more vessels of the Cressy class, two others of the Formidable class, one armored cruiser of the Monmouth class, and three armored cruisers of the Drake class. The First Lord of the Admiralty added that the total numbers of destroyers built or building was 113, and of the five submarine vessels already ordered, the first would be ready for trial next September.

Crops to Be Big.

Winnipeg, July 6.—General Superintendent Hanna of the C. P. R. and G. H. Shaw, traffic manager, returned from a trip of inspection as far as Hartney. Mr. Hanna, speaking of the crop prospects, said that they never were better in the opinion of the farmers along the line. If the crop materializes in its present heavy yield, there will be a large number of men required to take out the crop.

A Miraculous Escape.

St. Thomas, July 6.—A Wabash train yesterday in New Sarum struck a hayrack squarely in the middle, knocking the rack into kindling wood. Messrs. Stokes and Hardy were driving, and didn't know what happened till they struck the ground. Hardy has his collarbone broken. It is a miracle the men were not killed.

Fatal Mine Explosion.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 6.—Four men were fatally hurt and three others seriously injured by a gas explosion in pit No. 1 of the series of shafts of the new waterworks at Torrence Road late yesterday afternoon. The explosion is supposed to have been due to a small vein of gas which was struck in the excavation. All of the injured are badly burned and several were frightfully crushed.

Russian Scheme May Succeed.

Teheran, July 2.—Mirza Riza Khan, Persian Minister at St. Petersburg, has begun negotiations with the Russian Government for the purpose of obtaining a loan of 20,000,000 rubles ($10,300,000. It is stated that, should Russia comply with the request, security will be offered in the shape of the customs revenues of the Port of Bunder-Abbas in the Persian Gulf.

Helpless Armenians.

Constantinople, July 3.—Reports from Mush, in Kurdistan, say that the Kurds are plundering villages and have killed fourteen Armenians, in consequence of the belief that the latter murdered a Kurdish notable who was sheriff of Aghan.

Ridgeway Man Drowned.

Buffalo, July 6. — About 11.55 o'clock last night a young man whose name was said to be Howard, and his residence Ridgeway, Ont., was drowned at Crystal Beach. Howard had carried a drunken man on to the Crystal Beach boat, and as the boat started away from the dock he jumped for the dock and fell into the water.

ADDING EVIDENCE.

We don't know what you think about a case of disease given up by the best doctors completely cured by the use of Powley's Liquified Ozone.

We know what you ought to think, the facts being made known to you.

They are made known to you here, in this statement; it is added evidence to that already given in this case; we have many other equally remarkable cases.

Do you take Ozone?

DOMINION OF CANADA, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, COUNTY OF YORK, To Wit:— } IN THE MATTER OF JULIA SHEFFIELD, wife of Joseph Sheffield, of the Township of Scott, in County of Ontario, Farmer.

I, MARY ELIZABETH WOODRUFF, of the township of East Gwillimbury, in the County of York, married woman, DO SOLEMNLY DECLARE that Julia Sheffield, above named, is my daughter. In the beginning of the year 1900 my said daughter was taken sick, and had a dreadful cough. In June of the same year she came to my home, so that I and my other daughter could take care of her. She was confined to her bed most of the time from June to December, 1900, and the doctors who attended her, four in number, said she had consumption, and could not get better. They pronounced her case incurable, and said no one could do her any good, and that she would live but a short time. She gradually grew worse, and she herself had all the funeral arrangements made, and the pall-bearers selected. About the beginning of the year 1901, we heard of Ozone, and after she had taken a few bottles she felt better, and as she continued to use it she improved, until she is well, and I believe, completely recovered. She has returned to her own home, and is taking care of her house and family. The cough has completely left her, and she has increased in weight, and is quite fleshy. Before she began taking Ozone she was reduced to a skeleton, and could not lift her hand to her mouth, but was perfectly helpless. I consider Ozone the greatest remedy of the age for consumption and other like diseases, and to those suffering from these diseases it is the remedy long looked for, but only recently discovered. I know of other people in this community who have taken it for asthma, croup, and lung trouble, and in every instance the effect has been the cure of the complaint.

AND I MAKE this solemn declaration, conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

DECLARED before me at the Township of East Gwillimbury, in the County of York, this Sixth Day of May, A.D, 1901. J. McCULLOUGH, Notary Public for Ontario. } M. E. WOODRUFF.

DOMINION OF CANADA, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, COUNTY OF ONTARIO, To wit:— } IN THE MATTER OF JULIA SHEFFIELD, of the Township of Scott, in the County of Ontario, and of her Restoration to Health.

I, JOSEPH SHEFFIELD, of the township of Scott, in the County of Ontario, DO SOLEMNLY DECLARE that I am now in the employment of John R. Dunn, of the township of Scott, in the County of Ontario, yeoman, and have been for the past two years, and Julia Sheffield, above-named, is my wife. My said wife was taken sick in 1900, and in June of that year she was so bad that she had to go to her father's home at Mount Albert, in the County of York. She was not able to do any work, and when she went to her father's home she had to go to bed, and remained there most of the time until the end of the year. The attending physician told her she had consumption, and could not recover. She had frequent bleeding of lungs, and was growing gradually worse, and was reduced to a mere skeleton. Had lost all flesh until the doctor himself said she had not a half-pound of flesh on her bones. I had given up all hopes of her recovery. Had had four different doctors attending her, and they each and all pronounced her case incurable. I had saved up a little money, and had some cattle. I expended all my money and sold my cattle, and expended about $250 in doctors' bills, and but all to no purpose. I heard of Ozone, and bought a 50c. bottle for her to try. When she had taken the second bottle she began to get better, and she has now taken eighteen bottles, and is back to her home and attending to her work, and has gained at least 25 pounds in weight, and is completely restored to health, and is now as well as ever she was, and looks well and young again. I have also used Ozone for croup on my little boy, and it has cured him. I consider it a most wonderful household remedy, and cheerfully recommend it to suffering humanity as a medicine that will be long remembered by me for restoring my wife to health and to me and to her little family.

AND I MAKE this solemn declaration conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

DECLARED before me at the Township of Scott in the County of Ontario, this Sixth Day of May, 1901. His JOSEPH X SHEFFIELD, mark.

Having been first read over and explained and the said Joseph Sheffield made his mark in my presence.

Puny and Delicate Infants Made Strong and Hearty When Fed on LACTATED FOOD.

The loving mothers of our country consider it a duty to say something in favour of the food that has proved a source of life to their little ones. A lady in New Brunswick writes as follows: "When my baby was born last year it weighed only four and a half pounds, and did not increase much in weight up to its second month. I was advised to use Lactated Food by a friend, and I am happy to say it worked wonders. My girl baby began to grow and increase in weight, and now she is almost sixteen months old, and weighs twenty-five pounds. She was not sick an hour after commencing with Lactated Food. I am sure Lactated Food was her great preserver. I wish every mother knew of the good qualities of this infant's food." Your druggist sells it.

Gored by a Bull.

Woodstock, July 6. — Mrs. Fred Webb, who lives south of Burgessville, was the victim of a very painful accident the other day, which at first was feared might terminate fatally. Seeing her husband engaging in trying to drive a bull in the stable, she ran to his assistance, when the brute turned on her giving her some terrible gashes with its horns.

Death But Not Blindness.

Niagara Falls, July 6.—Mrs. Margaret Simpson, formerly Mrs. Banford, aged 41, formerly of Hamilton, Ont., attempted suicide at 1 o'clock yesterday morning by drinking an ounce of carbolic acid. She is now at the hospital and the physicians have no hope of her recovery. She feared she was going blind and she said she preferred death to blindness.

Four Negroes Hanged.

Chipley, Fla., July 6. — At Vernon, 16 miles from here, this morning four negroes, Belton Hamilton, John Simmons, Jim Harrison and Will Williams were hanged for murder.

The Deaf Made to Hear.

St. Thomas—A modern miracle was made known to-day when Mr. Riddle, of this city, announced that he had recovered his hearing. He has been almost entirely deaf, and it borders on the marvellous to find him able to hear everything with great distinctness. As his case is proving of such universal interest, we give Mr. Riddle's own statement. "My hearing was always poor, and not long ago I became almost deaf. It was the result of catarrhal inflammation, but nothing did me good until I used Catarrhozone. It cured my trouble and I strongly recommend it to the deaf." Fully nine-tenths of the deafness is the result of Catarrh and can be cured by catarrhozone. The cures of deafness wrought by this remedy in cases of even twenty years standing are really astounding. Among many others, ministers of the gospel testify to the wonderful powers of Catarrhozone, and your druggist can tell of some astonishing cases in his own experience. Better give it a trial, if your hearing is impared. Price $1; small size 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S..

A Wonderful Sun Finder.

August Siebner of Waukesha, Wis., believes that he has solved the secret of the solar system. He has invented an instrument which, he believes, will some day make him fabulously wealthy. He has had for some time the idea that there is more than one sun, and by means of his instrument he shows all the way from 2 to 36 suns. The numerous suns appear in a group, one directly above the other. The instrument when placed in another position reveals two suns some distance apart. He says that he can, by means of his apparatus, bring the moon so close to the earth that every line on it is discernible, and he says that it is full of holes. He also tells wonderful tales of the inhabitants of the planets. He intends to take his instrument to the State observatory at Madison.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS cure backache, sideache, scanty, cloudy, thick and highly coloured urine, diabetes, dropsy, and all troubles arising from a weak condition of the kidneys.

The Bacillus Inquisition Goes On.

Dr. Ceresole bought specimens of lettuce, endive, radish and celery in the market at Padua, such as would be used for eating after a rough washing. He then washed them in sterilized water and examined the sediment. A simple microscopic survey revealed a fauna of 52 species, comprising amœbæ, anguillulæ and the eggs of tænia, oxyuris, axarides and ankylostoma. Bacteriologic investigation added a rich flora of varied microbes, including micrococci, staphylococci, streptococci, sarcinæ and a wealth of bacilli.—Medical Magazine.

Sore Throat and Hoarseness.

with their attendant dangers may be speedily averted and remedied by the use of Polson's Nerviline. Excellent to gargle with—ten times better than a mustard plaster and more convenient for the outside. Nerviline penetrates the tissues instantly, soothes the pain, allays inflammation, and cures sore throat and hoarseness simply because that's what it is made for. The large 25 cent bottle of Nerviline is unexcelled as a household liniment. It cures everything.

GRAND MASTER COMING.

To Visit the Members of Peterborough and Otonabee Lodges, I. O. O. F.

Bro. O. L. Lewis, of Chatham, Grand Master for Ontario of the I.O.O.F., will pay an official visit to Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges, next Thursday evening, July 11, and would like, at the same time, to meet as many of the brothers as possible from the entire district.

A joint meeting will therefore be held on Monday evening, July 8, of Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges, to arrange for the visit of Grand Master Lewis on Thursday next. It is hoped there will be a large turnout to meet the Grand Master.

MILLION DOLLARS IS TO BE SPENT

Before the Cereal Company's Works are in Full Swing.

THE WORK FOR $140,000

Is now Practically Under Contract—A Description of the Buildings to be Erected.

The fact of the contracts for the erection of the Cereal Co. buildings being practically awarded to local men, viz., Messrs. Bogue and McDiarmid, and Mr. William Langford, (the former to do the brickwork and masonry, and the latter the carpentering, glazing and painting), lends an additional interest to the work, and a brief outline of the proposed structures may not be out of place at the present time.

The buildings, which will be seven stories in height, or about twice as high as any building now in Peterborough, will run in two parallel lines, thirty-eight feet apart, from Hunter street north along the river side. Tenders have been asked for the construction of only a portion of the buildings which will be required—in fact, just a little over half—and the cost is estimated at about $140,000. In the neighbourhood of $110,000 more will be spent later, bringing the total cost up to $250,000. The machinery will cause an expenditure of as much more, and when the big elevator with the dam and railway bridge crossing the river has been built, the outlay will, it is estimated, reach the million dollar mark.

As stated, the buildings are to be erected in two long rows. The one on the east side, next to the river, will run back a distance of nearly 450 feet, occupying the space between Hunter street and the old Woollen Mill at the foot of Murray street. It will be 92 feet wide and, as said before, will be seven stories high. The first 200 feet will be used as a warehouse, the next 132 feet for a mill for oats, peas, barley and corn. Then there is a 54-foot dry-house, and a 50-foot boiler-house. The basement will be 13 feet high, and the entire flat above it, which will be used for storage purposes, is to be 20 feet in height. The other floors will be used to accommodate machinery.

The other row of buildings to the west will be over 600 feet in length, and 60 feet wide. It will comprise a warehouse 210 feet long, a flour mill, 150 feet; a feed mill, 50 feet; a cleaning mill, 50 feet; and an elevator, 150 feet long. Later on, as necessity demands, six huge storage tanks, 50 feet in diameter, capable of holding 600,000 bushels of grain, will be erected behind the elevator.

While the first row of buildings mentioned is to be built immediately the present contract only calls for the erection of the cleaning mill in the second row. It will be 50x60 feet and seven stories high.

A line of railway runs between the eastern building and the river, and two lines are to be laid in the 38 foot space between the eastern and western sections. These sections will be connected by bridges built across between the different flats where needed.

The offices will be erected facing on Hunter street, just west of the second building.

No decision has been reached as yet concerning the elevator, pending further information. The merits of (1) wood, (2) wood covered with iron and (3) steel throughout, as building material, is being discussed in connection with this structure and Mr. Stewart is expected to settle the matter by the end of July. The elevator will be 65x150 feet and the same height as the other buildings.

The dam will probably be of concrete with a steel superstructure and, as previously intimated, will be thrown across the river just above the Dixon Company dam, at the foot of London street.

The expenditure of a million of dollars on the erection of works means the employment of a vast army of men on the construction and, what is more to Peterborough, it necessarily entails the presence of a permanent staff of mill hands of huge proportions to operate the machinery. These mill hands will, as a matter of course, look for homes on both sides of the river in the immediate vicinity of their work, which again brings to the front the need of a public bridge spanning the river midway between Hunter street and Smith street. It is only a matter of a few short years before such a medium of communication will be an urgent necessity and as the Cereal Company, in response to a suggestion in the press, has cheerfully offered to meet the Town Council and discuss the matter of building a public highway across the Otonabee over their new dam, the City Fathers will doubtless meet them half way and talk the question over informally.

In doing this the members of the Council will have to take into consideration the remark of Hon. Senator Cox to the effect that "this is but the beginning."

If the expenditure of a million dollars is "but the beginning," the new colony which will spring up along the river side will have to be accommodated with the means to cross and recross the river as the calls of their work demand.

LAST NIGHT'S STORM.

It Flooded May Cellars—"Mack" McClellan's Experience.

The heavy rain last night came as a surprise to many, and as a result a number of cellars along George street this morning contained considerable water. Opposite Ed. Brown & Co's grocery store the water was blocked by the earth from a telephone post hole which was in course of excavation during the day. The earth being piled close to the pavement, where the water on such occasions as last night runs, caused no end of trouble. The water ran over the pavement and flooded the cellars of the stores close by.

Mr. A. J. McClellan reports that he had an experience the like of which he does not want again in a while. With a view of warding off the heat, "Mack's" office is considerably below the level of the street, and a result a foot or more of water accumulated therein. As the flood gradually sank, the youthful manager used a broom freely and accomplished that which was no doubt needed. His office floor is beautifully cleaned, the result of "Mack's" own scrubbing. Mr. McClellan says he intends to put in a bill to the corporation for work he did at the various sewer openings around his section of the town.

MR. McLEOD REMEMBERED.

He was Presented With a Beautiful Gold Watch, Last Night.

Mr. J. M. McLeod, late Physical Director of the Y.M.C.A., left this afternoon for the States. Mr. McLeod has spent three years in Peterborough in connection with the local association, during which time he has became exceedingly popular amongst a large circle of friends, all of whom will regret to learn of his departure from town. Last night about twenty-five of "Mac's" friends assembled in the "Y" parlours to bid him an informal farewell. Mr. R. F. McWilliams spoke in eulogistic terms of Mr. McLeod and assured him of the high esteem in which he is held by the young men of the town.

Mr. Ernie Payne presented the guest of the evening with a beautiful gold watch on behalf of the boys, with the words "Peterborough, 1898-1901," engraved thereon.

Messrs. Hal Burnham, F. D. Kerr and Walter Robinson also spoke in high terms of Mr. McLeod and the latter replied in feeling terms, thanking the boys for their kindness and assuring them that he would long remember his stay in Peterborough.

Three Quarters of an Hour.

This is the length of the men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A., on Sunday at 4.15 o'clock. The hall is cool, and ice water is supplied. The music is hearty, and the address practical, brief and pointed. It is a meeting enjoyed by the men who usually attend. Rev. J. G. Potter will be the speaker to-morrow. All men are invited.

NOTICE.

Parties having Wigs and Beards rented for May 24th and July 1st, please return them at once before you forget them.

DOWN IN PORT HOPE.

The Impression Made by the Contingent From Peterborough on July 2nd.

The Port Hope Times says,—"The second day's fun was carried out under another day of extreme heat. The morning was taken up with a kalithumpian procession which contained some amusing make ups and afforded a good deal of fun. A large contingent came into town by the Lindsay and Peterborough special train, bring the 57th Battalion Band of Peterborough, under Bandmaster Prof. Gliddon, which formed one of the great attractions of the day. For the pleasure they afforded, thanks are due to our old townsman, Mr. Reg Turner, who exerted himself to a late hour the night previous, making arrangements for the expenses incurred in bringing them here. They added greatly to the entertainment of the day and we cannot omit expressing our thanks to our Peterborough friends for the part they took. Among the most prominent we may mention Messrs. T. H. G. Denne, Mayor of Peterborough, Ed. Brown, formerly of Port Hope, A. H. Stratton, and Alex. Elliott, who drove over in a carriage and took part in the procession. Mr. Reg. Turner also brought over the 20th Century Burlesque Entertainers that afforded a good deal of amusement throughout the day, the two darkie dam-sells and their swell young men, with the cake walk dancing and other antics continually drawing a crowd around them.

The swell club from Peterborough, an aggregation with plug hats, was in great evidence in the parade, and formed quite an escort for the four Peterborough boys out for a holiday riding in a rubber tired carriage driven by a coachman in green livery.

SLANDEROUS REPORTS CONTRADICTED.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir, — Kindly allow me space to inform the evil-minded person who circulated the report that my son on finding the body of the late G. Houston, robbed the same of a watch and $12, that on enquiry of the deceased's sister she informed me that the report was false, as the deceased did not take his watch with him on the night of the accident, and all the money was safely restored by the undertaker.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
I remain, yours truly,

LOCAL MILITARY PROMOTIONS.

Lieut.-Col. Sutton now in Command

OF THE THIRD DRAGOONS.

Capt. W. H. Bradburn in Command of "C" Squadron—Adjutant W. D. Johnston—Other Changes.

A militia general order about to be published announces the retirement from the command of the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, of Lieut.-Colonel H. S. Greenwood and the promotion of Major David Sutton to the Colonelcy of the Regiment..

This is an order that has been expected in local military circles for some months past, as it was known that Lieut.-Colonel Greenwood, having decided to remain in South Africa, had sent in his resignation to the Canadian Militia Department. Lt.-Colonel Greenwood's connection with the 3rd Dragoons was brief in a sense, and at the same time unique. Whilst he has for upwards of two years been Colonel of the corps, succeeding Lieut.-Colonel H. C. Rogers, he never really acted in that capacity, as shortly after he obtained command of the regiment he accepted a commission in the Canadian Mounted Rifles, and started for South Africa. And previous to this his connection with the regiment was of a limited nature. His first service with the Dragoons dates back only four or five years when he was gazetted Major, the other officers having signed away their rank of seniority for the occasion. Previous to coming to Peterborough Lieut.-Colonel Greenwood had been Adjutant of the 4th Hussars. He is also a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston. Whilst Lieut.-Colonel Greenwood had not a very lengthy connection with his fellow officers and his men in camp, still he was very popular and had he remained in Canada and been privileged to retain command of the 3rd Dragoons, there is no doubt that he would have kept the corps up to that high state of efficiency it attained under the command of his predecessor, Lieut.-Colonel H. C. Rogers.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL SUTTON.

Lieut.-Colonel David Sutton, who succeeds Lieut.-Colonel Greenwood as commanding officer of the 3rd Dragoons, has a connection with the corps dating back to 1881, just 20 years ago. When the late Captain H. B. Weller, son of His Honour Judge Weller, who was practicing law in Millbrook, succeeded in having the headquarters of "B" Squadron, 3rd Dragoons, brought to that village, Lieut.-Colonel Sutton went into the ranks a full fledged private, so that he, like many another commanding officer delights in doing, can pride himself on the fact that he has come up from the ranks. He quickly rose to be Corporal, Sergeant, Sergeant-Major and took his first commission as 2nd Lieutenant. Then he was gazetted 1st Lieutenant. Upon the death of Captain Weller in 1887, Lt. Sutton was given command of the Squadron, with the rank of Captain. This he continued to hold until three years ago when he was given the Brevet rank of Major and the full rank of Major a little over a year ago. He was succeeded in the command of his squadron by Lieut. Geo. Syer. During the time that Lieut.-Colonel Sutton had command of a spadron, he had always one of the best lot of men in camp and his fair treatment of them won for himself the respect and goodwill of all. A peculiarity of this term of captaincy is that during his thirteen years as Squadron Commander he had no fewer than twelve different lieutenants, some of whom were removed by death, others left the limits, whilst others failed to qualify.

Lieutenant-Colonel Sutton is one of Cavan's most progressive farmers and his twenty year's service in the volunteer force of Canada has at all times found him ready when the annual camp was on with a squadron up to full strength.

ADJUTANT JOHNSTON.

According to the same military order Captain Johnston receives the appointment of Adjutant of the 3rd Dragoons. Captain Johnston has been in command of "C" Squadron, 3rd Dragoons, since the promotion of Lieut.-Colonel H. C. Rogers to the Colonelcy of the regiment, seven years ago. Since Lieutenant R. A. Cockburn, who had been Adjutant for four or five years, left the limits Captain Johnston has been Acting Adjutant. He has excellent qualifications for the position and his recent connection with the R. C. D. at Toronto, has shown him to be in the front rank of officers.

CAPTAIN BRADBURN.

After being in the service for a great many years and holding the position of Lieutenant in "C" Squadron for a greater portion of the time, Lieutenant W. H. Bradburn is given the command of "C" Squadron to succeed Captain Johnston. Captain Bradburn's friends will be pleased to hear of his promotion.

MAJOR BROWN.

Captain and Brevet-Major Brown, of "A" Squadron, Colborne, has been given the full rank of Major, to succeed Lieut.-Colonel Sutton. Major Brown is one of the most popular officers in the regiment and has faithfully captained "A" Squadron for many years.

Lieut. C. H. Rogers is given command of "A" Squadron. Captain Rogers is a son of Lieutenant-Colonel Rogers, of Grafton, formerly commanding officer of the 40th Regiment, and a nephew of Lieut.-Colonel H. C. Rogers, of Peterborough, ex-commanding officer of the 3rd Dragoons. Captain Rogers is the youngest squadron commander in the regiment, being only 24 years of age. He is well and popularly known in Peterborough.

BOWLING.

Only five draws remain to be played off in the skip competition and these will have to be completed by this evening.

On Wednesday evening a general meeting of the Club will take place in the Canada Life Board Room, when the rinks for the season will be selected. All skips who have qualified for that position by winning the last draw are requested to pick their vice-skips before coming to the meeting. The second and first players on each rink will be picked by the skips, who will draw lots for first choice. The skip who secures the privilege of first choice of a second player will have last choice for his first player and so on, in order that the strength of the different rinks may be as evenly balanced as possible. The skips are especially requested to attend this meeting.

Mr. A. H. Stratton has kindly offered to supply the bowlers with score cards.

As soon as the rinks are selected a schedule of matches will be drawn up at once.

All fees are payable before Wednesday evening.

LAWN TENNIS.

A lawn tennis tournament between representatives of the Peterborough Lawn Tennis Club and the Lakefield Lawn Tennis Club, was played on the grounds at Harborne, and the Lakefield Grove on Thursday, resulting in a victory for Peterborough by 5 events to 3. Following are the results of the various ties:

Men's Singles.

Mr. Kerr beat Mr. Kilbourn, 6-3, 2-6, and 6-3.

Mr. Langley beat Mr. Burnham, 2-6, 6-1 and 6-3.

Mr. Walker beat Mr. Cluxton, 6-3, 6-3.

Mr. Hall beat Mr. J. Strickland, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

The gentlemen's doubles were left unplayed owing to darkness.

Ladies' Singles.

Miss A. Dennistoun beat Miss M. Strickland, 6-3, 6-0.

Miss Hall beat Miss E. Strickland, 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Dennistoun beat Miss LeFevre, 0-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Ladies' Doubles.

The Misses Strickland beat Miss A. Dennistoun and Miss Hall, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5.

CRICKET.

The Lindsay junior cricket club will play the return game with the Peterborough Colts on the Nicholls oval one week from to-day.

LACROSSE.

"Ernie" Burns is playing a defence position for the Vancouver, B.C., Y. M.C.A. twelve. He will likely be at first defence in future matches.

It is rumoured that a large number of the old Peterborough Seniors will turn out with the Vaticans and get into shape to do the Port Hopes battle later on in the season. If the Vaticans could persuade the two McCabes, Glover, Lipsett, Mein and Kelly to get into shape, they could put a rattling good team on the field and draw large gates, as the Peterborough public are getting hungry for a good game of lacrosse.

BASEBALL.

Secretary R. A. W. Hay of the Peterborough Baseball Club, has received word from the Cobourg team that they will play in Peterborough on Saturday afternoon next.

The locals are in correspondence with the Port Hope team for a game here on Wednesday, July 17th, the date of the Port Hope Methodist excursion.

It should not be a very difficult task for Peterborough, Port Hope and Lindsay to lay their heads together and arrange for such teams as Galt, Waterloo, Berlin and Kingston to visit the three towns. Expenses would then come a great deal lighter on the teams, and the public would get a chance to see some first-class baseball.

CANOEING.

The canoeists of the town are asked to bear in mind the meeting that will be held in the Oriental Hotel at 7.30 o'clock Monday for the purpose of discussing the advisability of holding a regatta on the Little Lake on Thursday or Friday evening of next week. Should the canoeists decide to run a regatta it will be put on on a very large scale, and many interesting and new features will be added to the programme. There is no doubt that canoeing has revived as the popular summer sport in Peterborough as every night the lake and river are alive with canoes, as many as forty being counted one night recently. The meeting on Monday is called for 7.30 o'clock.

ABOUT "SCUDDY."

A gentleman lately returned from Pittsburg, says that Walter Phelan is the lion of the hour in the Smoky City, and is second only to the Governor of the State in the hearts of the multitude. And it all came to pass through his agility with the hockey stick, for it was always he who led the team to victory with his famous slogan, "Folly up." But with all Walter Phelan's greatness on the ice and on the lacrosse field, the contest in which he outshines the noonday sun is the fat man's race. — Toronto Telegram.

BINDERTWINE SEIZURES.

The Official Concerned Said to Have Exceeded His Duty.

A citizen who is interested in binder twine, took the trouble yesterday to make inquiries concerning the seizure of binder twine at Belleville, on account of its not being labelled by the name of the owner. He states the seizure was an unwarranted act, as the twine in question was imported before the statute went into effect concerning the tagging of the twine. The official who made the seizure has, it is understood, been reported at Ottawa.

Russell Appears July 18,

London, July 6. — The Lord Chancellor, Lord Halsbury, yesterday informed Earl Russell that he will be tried July 18 before the House of Lords on the charge of bigamy. The defendant considered that the postponement of the trial granted on Thursday at a special session of the House of Lords to Aug. 6, was insufficient to enable his lawyers to prepare his defence, and he therefore elected to be tried on the original date, July 18.

That fullness after meals promptly relieved by taking one of Miller's Compound Iron Pills after each meal. Sold by Wm. Madill, druggist.

The Doctor's Indiscretion.

"There is no profession which calls for the use of more discretion than the profession of medicine," remarked a well known physician of this city. "Just to give you an instance:

"I came home late one evening after a very busy day and was told by the office boy that a certain Mrs. S. had called me up three times on the telephone. As her young hopeful had scarlet fever and I was afraid he had taken a sudden turn for the worse, I got 'central' to connect me with her house without delay.

"'The missus has gone to bed, sir,' said the voice of a maid in reply, 'but she was so anxious to know if she could wash Tommy's face.'

"I called back that she had better ask the nurse if it was dirty. Now they have another doctor."

CHEESE MARKETS.

Ottawa, July 5.—Nine cents a pound was not a very attractive price for cheese at the Ottawa Board to-day, and out of 1838 cheeses boarded only 900 were sold. The boardings were 411 colored and 1447 white. The price paid was the same as that at Brockville on Thursday.

Brighton, July 5.—At the Brighton Cheese Board to-day, 13 factories boarded 950 cheese, all white; 9⅛c offered; no sales. Buyers present: Magrath, Whitton, Brower, Cook and Bird. Board adjourned to meet on Friday, July 12, at 2 p.m. sharp.

Winchester, Ont., July 5.—At the meeting of the Cheese Board to-day, 750 boxes were registered—537 white and 213 colored. The highest offer was 9c for both. At this figure Ault received 302 boxes, Logan 208, and Weir 60. Wood was the other buyer present.

Iroquois, Ont., July 5.—At the Cheese Board to-day, 794 colored and 107 white cheese were offered. The bidding, started by Mr. Weir at 9c, was brisk until 9¼c was reached, at which price Mr. Weir bought 250, and Mr. Ault 410 boxes, the balance being unsold at the close, but will probably be sold on the street at the same price.

The Rising Generation.

A youngster of 7, describing to his father how a lady caller (childless herself) had jocularly proposed to purchase the little fellow, the father replied:

"But I'm afraid they couldn't afford it, sonny. They couldn't possibly raise sufficient money to buy you."

To his astonishment the 7-year-old promptly responded:

"They might get up a company."—London Fun.

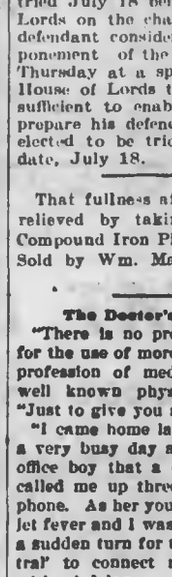
THE NEW REMEDY

For Backache, Kidney and Bladder Troubles.



There never has been a remedy introduced to the people of this country which has given such uniform satisfaction as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

The reason is plain. These Tablets are the result of Dr. Pitcher's long experience in the treatment of Kidney, Bladder and Urinary diseases in the hospitals of Detroit and his devotion to the study of Kidney diseases as his life's work.

There is no other remedy gives such positive assurance of a cure of backache, lame or weak back, swelling of the feet and legs, puffiness under the eyes, puffy and pasty appearance of the face, gravel, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding, irritation, frequent rising at night, high colour of the urine, pains in the joints and hips, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, specks before the eyes, dragging pain in the loins, Kidney weakness of children and old people, and all symptomatic indications of Kidney trouble.

If you have Kidney complaint in any form and are anxiously desirous of being cured, insist on having Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Price 50 cents a box, at all druggists, or sent by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

VARICOCELE

No matter how serious your case may be or how long you may have had it, our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure it. The "wormy veins" return to their normal condition and hence the sexual organs receive proper nourishment. The organs become vitalized and manly powers return. No temporary benefit, but a permanent cure assured. NO CURE, NO PAY. NO OPERATION NECESSARY. NO DETENTION FROM BUSINESS.

STRICTURE

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with this disease—many unconsciously. They may have a smarting sensation, sharp, cutting pains at times, weak organs, and all the symptoms of nervous debility—they have STRICTURE. Don't let doctors experiment on you by cutting, stretching or tearing you. This will not cure you, as it will return. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT absorbs the stricture tissue, hence removes the stricture permanently. It can never return. No pain, no suffering, no detention from business by our method. The sexual organs are strengthened, the nerves are invigorated, and the bliss of manhood returns.

Cures Guaranteed

We treat and cure BLOOD POISON, NERVOUS DEBILITY, IMPOTENCY, STRICTURE, VARICOCELE, SEMINAL LOSSES, BLADDER and KIDNEY DISEASES. CONSULTATION FREE. BOOKS FREE. CHARGES MODERATE. If unable to call, write for a QUESTION BLANK for HOME Treatment.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

Precisely at 10 o'clock the door opened, and a man came in. He was fashionably dressed, a mixture of Piccadilly and Broadway in taste. He was tall, slender, but well formed, and his blond mustache shone out distinctly against a background of tanned skin. He had fine blue eyes.

"Have I the pleasure of speaking to John Winthrop of New York?" he began, taking off his hat.

I rose. "I am the man." He presented his card, and on it I read, "Philip Pembroke."

"Philip Pembroke!" I exclaimed.

"Evidently you are surprised?" showing a set of strong white teeth.

"Truthfully I am," I said, taking his hand. "You see," I added apologetically, "your family lawyer—that is—he gave me the—er—impression that you were a sickly fellow—one foot in the grave or something like. I was not expecting a man of your build."

The smile broadened into a deep laugh, and a merry one, I thought enviously. It was so long since I had laughed.

"That was a bobby of the old fellow," he replied. "When I was a boy, I had palpitation of the heart. He never got rid of the idea that I might die at any moment. He was always warning me about violent exercises, the good old soul. Peace to his ashes!"

"He is dead?"

"Yes. When I took to traveling, he all but had nervous prostration. I suppose he told you about that will I made in your favor. It was done to please him. Still," he added soberly, "it stands. I travel a deal, and no one knows what may happen. And so you are the John Winthrop my dad treated so shabbily? Oh, don't protest; he did. I should have hunted you up long ago and given you a solid bank account, only I knew that the son of my aunt must necessarily be a gentleman and therefore would not look favorably upon such a proceeding."

"Thank you," said I. The fellow pleased me.

"And then I did not know but what you cared nothing for money."

"True. A journalist doesn't care anything about money. The life is too easy and pleasant, and most of the things he needs are thrown in, as they say."

This bit of sarcasm did not pass. My cousin laughed again that merry laugh of his.

"I think we shall become great friends," he said. "I like frankness."

"My remark in its literal sense was the antithesis of frankness."

"Ah, you said too much not to be frank. Frankness is one of the reasons why I do not get on well with the women. I can't lie in the right place, and when I do it is generally ten times worse than the plain truth."

"You're a man of the world, I see."

"No; merely a spectator."

"Well, you have the price of admission. With me it's a free pass. Some day we will compare notes."

"Who is your banker?"

"Banker? I have none. I distrust banks. They take your mite and invest it in what nots, and sometimes when you go for it it is not there."

"And then again it multiplies so quickly that you have more than you know what to do with, eh?"

"As to that I cannot say. It is hearsay, rumor. So far as I know it may be so. Experience has any number of teachers. The trouble is we cannot study under them all. Necessity has been my principal instructor. Sometimes she has larruped me soundly, though I was a model scholar. You will go to luncheon with me?"

"If you will promise to dine with me this evening." And I promised.

For an hour or more we chatted upon congenial topics. He was surprisingly well informed. He had seen more of the world than I, though he had not observed it so closely. As we were about to leave the door opened, and Phyllis, Ethel and her husband, Mr. Holland, entered. For a moment the room was filled with the fragrance of October air and the essence of violets. They had been in town a week. They had been "doing" the Strand, so Ethel said, and thought they would make me a brief visit to see how "it was done," the foreign corresponding. Mr. Wentworth and his wife were already domiciled at B——, and the young people were going over to enjoy the winter festivities. Phyllis was unchanged. How like Gretchen, I thought.

While Ethel was engaging my cousin's attention I conducted Phyllis through the office.

"What a place to work in!" said Phyllis, laughing. The laugh awakened a vague thrill. "Dust, dust—everywhere dust. You need a woman to look after you, Jack."

As I did not reply, she looked quickly at me, and, seeing that my face was grave, she flushed.

"Forgive me, Jack," impulsively. "I did not think."

I answered her with a reassuring smile.

"How long are you to remain in town?" I asked to disembarrass her.

"We leave day after tomorrow, Saturday—a day or two in Paris, and then we go on. Every one in New York is talking about your book. I knew that you were capable."

"I hope every one is buying it," said I, passing over her last observation.

"Was it here that you wrote it?"

"Oh, no. It was written in my rooms under the most favorable circumstances."

"I thought so. This is a very dreary place."

"Perhaps I like it for that reason."

Her eyes were two interrogation points, but I pretended not to see.

"What nice eyes your cousin has," she said, side glancing. With a woman it is always a man's eyes.

"And his father was the man who left you the fortune?"

"Yes," I answered, with a short laugh. Of course I had never told Phyllis of that thousand dollar check.

"You must run over this winter and see us," she said. "I anticipate nothing but dinners, balls and diplomatic receptions. I have never been there. It will all be new to me. Think of seeing Egypt, the holy lands, Russia, France and Spain and yet not seeing the very heart of the continent! Thank goodness, I know the language."

"And will she not be a sensation?" joined in Ethel.

"A decided sensation," said I, scrutinizing the beautiful face so near me. What if they met, as probably they would—Phyllis and Gretchen? "Phyllis," said I suddenly, "where were you born?"

"Where was I born?" with a wondering little laugh. "In America. Where did you suppose?"

"Eden," said I. "I wasn't sure, so I asked."

"I do not know how to take that," she said, with mock severity.

"Oh, I meant Eden when it was paradise!" I hastened to say.

"Yes," put in Pembroke. "Please go back, Miss Landors, and begin the world all over again."

"Phyllis," said I in a whisper, "have you ever met that remarkable affinity of yours?" I regretted the words the moment they had crossed my lips.

"Yes, you are changed, as I said the other night," distrustfully. "There is something in your voice that is changed. You have grown cynical. But your question was impertinent. Have you found yours?"

I was expecting this. "Yes," I said. "Once I thought I had; now I am sure of it. Some day I shall tell you an interesting story."

"We came up to ask you to dine with us this evening," she said, trailing her brown gloved finger over the dusty desk. "Are you at liberty?"

"No; I have only just met my cousin and have promised to dine with him."

"If that is all, bring him along. I like his face."

We passed out of the fileroom.

"Phyllis, we must be going, dear," said Ethel.

I led Phyllis down the narrow stairs. A handsome victoria stood at the curb.

"I shall be pleased to hear your story," said she.

It occurred to me that the tale might not be to her liking, so I said, "But it is one of those disagreeable stories—one where all should end nicely, but doesn't; one which ends leaving the hero, the heroine and the reader dissatisfied with the world in general and the author, who is fate, in particular."

I knew that she was puzzled. She wasn't quite sure that I was not referring to the old affair.

"If the story is one I never heard before," suspiciously, "I should like to hear it."

"And does it not occur to you," throwing back the robes so that she might step into the victoria, "that fate has a special grudge against me? Once was not enough, but it must be twice."

"And she does not love you? Are you quite sure? You poor fellow!" She squeezed my hand kindly. "Shall I be candid with you?" with the faintest flicker of coquetry in her smile.

"As in the old days," said I, glancing over my shoulder to see how near the others were. A groom is never to be considered. "Yes, as in the old days."

"Well, I have often regretted that I did not accept you as an experiment."

Then I knew that she did not understand.

"You must not think I am jesting," said I seriously. "The story is of the bittersweet kind. The heroine loves me, cannot be mine."

"Loves you?" with a slight start. "How do you know?"

"She has told me so," lowering my voice.

Frankness of this sort to a woman who has rejected you has a peculiar effect. The coquetry faded from her smile, and there was a perceptible contraction of the brows. Her eyes, which were looking into mine, shifted to the back of the groom. No, I shall never understand a woman. She should have been the most sympathetic woman in the world, yet she appeared to be annoyed.

"What's all this between you and Phyllis?" asked Ethel, coming up.

"There is nothing between her and me," said I.

"Well, there should be," she retorted. "That is the trouble."

My observation was: "I have always held that immediately a woman gets married she makes it her business to see that all old bachelors are lugged out and disposed of to old maids."

"I shall never forgive that," Phyllis declared; "never."

"Then I shall always have the exquisite pleasure of being a supplicant for your pardon. It is delightful to sue pardon of a beautiful w man."

Phyllis sniffed.

"Forgive him at once," said Ethel, "if only for that pretty speech."

Mr. Holland pulled out his watch suggestively.

"Well," I said, "I see that I am keeping you from your lunch. Goodby, then, till dinner, when I shall continue at length on the evils"—

"William," interrupted Ethel, addressing the groom, "drive on."

And so they left us.

"Shall we go to lunch now?" I asked of Pembroke.

"Yes," rather dreamily, I thought. "Do you know," with sudden animation, "she is a remarkably beautiful woman?"

"Yes, she is." After all, the sight of Phyllis had rather upset me.

"I had a glimpse of her in Vienna last winter," went on Pembroke. "I never knew who she was."

"Vienna!" I exclaimed.

"Yes. It was at a concert. Her face was indelibly graven on my memory. I asked a neighbor who she was, but when I went to point her out she was gone. I should like to see more of her."

So Gretchen had been in Vienna, and poor Hillars had never known.

I took Pembroke to the club that afternoon, and we dallied in the billiard room till time to dress for dinner. Dinner came. But Phyllis forgot to ask me about the story, at which I grew puzzled, considering what I know of woman's curiosity. And she devoted most of her time to Pembroke, who did not mind. Later we went to the theater—some production of Gilbert and Sullivan. Whenever I glanced at Phyllis I fell to wondering how Gretchen would have looked in evening dress. Yes, Phyllis was certainly beautiful, uncommonly. For years I had worshiped at her shrine, and then—how little we know of the heart! I was rather abstracted during the performance, and many of my replies went wide the mark.

As we were leaving the foyer Phyllis said, "Jack, a man has been staring me out of countenance."

"Pembroke?" I laughed.

"No. And, moreover, the stare was accompanied by the most irritating sneer."

"Point him out to me when we reach the street," I said, humoring what I thought to be a fancy, "and I'll put a head on him."

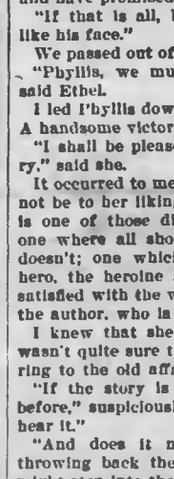
The sneer was probably meant for an ogle. Beauty has its annoyances as well as its compensations. As we came under the glare of the outside lights Phyllis' hand tightened on my arm.

"Look! There he is, and he is making for us."

(To be continued.)

ECZEMA.

That torturing and disfiguring disease has its cause in an impure condition of the blood. The impure condition of the blood often arises from a diseased condition of the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. When digestion is imperfect, the nutrition of the body is inadequate to its needs. The blood becomes thin, poisons accumulate in it, and these poisons often manifest themselves in some eruptive disease.



Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It eliminates poisonous substances from the blood, purifying it and increasing its quantity and richness. The "Discovery" cures perfectly diseases of the blood and other diseases which originate in a diseased condition of the stomach.

The "Discovery" is absolutely a non-alcoholic and non-narcotic medicine. There is nothing "just as good."

"For three years I have suffered with that dreaded disease, eczema," writes Mrs. J. Koepp, of Herman, Oregon. "I was told to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and after I had taken fourteen bottles I was permanently cured. It has been a year since I stopped taking your medicine and it has never appeared since. I think your medicine a wonderful cure and hope others suffering as I did will take it and be relieved of their suffering."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are powerful aids to the cleansing of the clogged system. By all dealers in medicine.

Scarcely a Profitable Article.

"I see," said the head of the firm, "that you have an article in one of the magazines this month."

"Yes," the young man proudly replied, "I think I have demonstrated in a thoroughly reasonable way the practicability of living on $4 a week."

"I congratulate you," his employer answered. "It's a good article. I read it with great interest. And, by the way, I've been troubled a good deal lately. I've felt that it must be mighty hard for you to get along on what I was paying you, and I've been wondering how I could work things around so as to give you more without increasing the running expenses of the concern."

"Yes," the young expert returned, with a hopeful inflection.

"But it's all right, I see," the old man answered. "You can live on $4 a week, and that leaves you $6 to have fun with or save, as you please. So there's a load off my mind. Say, if you write any more articles along this line tell me about them, will you? I'd like to read them. It's great stuff!"

NEAVE'S FOOD

The most delicate stomach can take it, and in a very short time a thoroughly healthy condition of body is established, the tissues easily absorb its life-giving particles, and where weakness and discomfort previously existed there is strength and vigour.

Mrs. BLACKMORE, of 1 Marine Parade, Clevedon, writes :—"I have forwarded by this post a photo of our little girl, age eight months, who has been brought up entirely on Neave's Food, which we found suited her in every respect. . . . We have tried other foods, which ends in restless nights for her and us. We do with pleasure recommend your Food to all our friends."

TOO MUCH ART.

Bobcaygeon Independent. — Mr. Adolphus Smiff, the gentleman who writes our leading articles, it is unnecessary to say is passionately devoted to art and the beautiful. At the same time, he is of opinion now, that this colouring business can be overdone, and very much out of place. It happened in this way; his estimable landlady became afflicted with a serious attack of spring cleaning, and has been painting and varnishing everything from a tin pail to the piano. A hard oil finish was no particular improvement to the piano, but the tin pails in mauve, light carnation, or heliotrope, was not half bad. The other evening, with the mercury doing trapeze work at the top of the circus tent, Smiff donned his boiled suit. It was not his old time duster, but a new fangled Tuxedo sort of jacket, more tux than do, that gave him a sprightly and juvenile appearance, so he thought. Retiring to his room in the dusk, he sat down. The chair had received a fresh coat of saffron yellow paint, and Smiff received the same. When he struck the chair he slid forward, and that saffron yellow rubbed itself into his back, clung around his neck, and moped itself into his hair. He came to the office for an advance of $1.75 to pay his bill for turps, and benzine, and when he departed, the editorial department of this great journal smelt like an Italian warehouse.

BAD MEN AND THEIR GUNS.

The Short Bulldog Revolver Was Their Favorite Weapon.

"I notice in pictures of frontier desperadoes," said a citizen who lived in the west at the time it was wild and woolly, "that they are always represented as carrying enormous revolvers in holsters slung to the left hip. That is a mistake. The cowboys down in the grazing country affected that kind of a weapon and would catch cold if they didn't have one on, but in the mining regions, where life was considerably more strenuous and the typical frontier desperado was to be found in full bloom, 'big guns' were not fashionable. The professional bad man preferred something small and compact that he could stow away in odd places and produce unexpectedly in an argument.

"The arm that was most generally carried by that class was a squat, ugly 45 caliber 'bulldog' revolver made somewhere in England and imported expressly for the western trade. I don't remember ever seeing one anywhere else. It had five chambers and an inch and a half barrel, and, while it was indescribably clumsy and uncouth in appearance, it was really a very handy and formidable machine. The barrel was so short it could be carried almost anywhere without attracting attention, and a favorite trick was to slip it into the coat sleeve, something that enabled a noted gambler named Bill Westfall to kill a rival ruffian at Gunnison in 1884. The men met in a bar, and Westfall, apparently unarmed, was carelessly holding the lapels of his coat. A few words passed when suddenly his right hand dropped, a 'bulldog' fell into his palm, and he shot the other man dead.

"Another pet scheme was to stuff the pistol into the fob pocket of the trousers. When the bad man wanted to bring it into action, he would fumble carelessly with his waistband, and his vis-a-vis generally woke up to the situation with a chunk of hot lead in his vitals.

"The plan of cutting a hole in the pocket of an alpaca coat was the invention of an Arizona 'killer' named Norton. The loose, light garment would show plainly that there was no weapon concealed about it, and when Norton had his hands in the pockets he was supposed to be harmless, but the hole enabled him at any time to reach down into his trousers and quietly 'dig up' a 'bulldog' which he carried with his loose change. This maneuver enabled him to send several of his enemies to the happy hunting grounds, but the secret finally leaked out, and after that the alpaca coat was regarded as a sign of war.

"Of course, the 'bulldog' was of no value whatever at long range, for the thing shot seven ways for Sunday, but nine-tenths of the fights in that country were hand to hand affairs, and then the quickness with which it could be drawn was a great point in its favor. It was next to impossible, also, to wrench it out of a strong man's grasp, for there was nothing to take hold of. I remember witnessing an affray between a couple of desperadoes at the once well known camp of Carbonville. One of them—a fellow named Jack Hill—drew a 'bulldog,' and the other seized it by its stumpy barrel and tried to twist it out of his hand. Hill merely pulled the trigger, and his antagonist was minus three fingers. That ended the fight."

A Good Dog Lawyer.

When Benjamin Harrison was in the senate, he often went hunting with Howard Case, who was for many years associated with him in the northern part of Indiana and stopped with an old farmer who for some time had been engaged in a controversy with a neighbor in regard to a dog whose sheep killing propensities had often caused the old man considerable worry. The animal's depredations at last brought his owner into a lawsuit, and the trial was set down for hearing while General Harrison was in the neighborhood, and the farmer, understanding that his visitor was one of the best lawyers in the country, begged him to take up the case. General Harrison consented and drove over to the nearest town the next day with the farmer. His eloquence caught the jury, which returned a verdict for the farmer without leaving the courtroom.

The farmer was greatly pleased at the result of the suit. "I thought you was a pretty good dog lawyer," he kept repeating to General Harrison all the way back to the farm, "and if ever that dog gets me into trouble again I'm going to send for you, 'cause I don't believe you can be beat on dog cases."

General Harrison enjoyed the incident immensely and never tired of telling the story.

Kept His Money Dark.

Little Ben (to gentleman caller)—You ain't black, are you?

Mr. Moony—Black, child? Why, no: I should hope not. What made you think I was?

Little Ben—Oh, nothin. Pa said you were awfully niggardly.—London Fun.

Death of Mr. J. W. Bell.

Napanee, Ont., July 6. — J. W. Bell, M. P. for Addington, who had a stroke of paralysis a few days ago, died at his home in Desmond at 10.30 yesterday morning. Mr. Bell was 63 years of age. The funeral will take place Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

The deceased was struck with paralysis last Monday, and lingered unconscious till yesterday, when the end came. He was the son of the late Daniel Fraser Bell, J.P., of Scotland, and was born in Camden, Lennox County, 63 years ago. In early manhood he was a school teacher; afterwards he became a farmer. He won distinction among his fellows in municipal politics, and entered the Dominion house in 1882, and, with the exception of the parliament of 1891, had sat continuously for Lennox. He was a prominent Orangeman.

Canadians in Winning Form.

Philadelphia, July 6.—The Canadian cricketers started the final game of their tour in Philadelphia with the Philadelphia Cricket Club yesterday, and at the drawing of stumps had a lead of 38 runs over the Quakers. Although they lost their first five wickets for 39 runs, they totalled 124 before the 12 men were dismissed.

The Quakers failed to count upon the deadliness of Rooke, who gave a most wonderful display. He captured ten of the eleven wickets for a total of 20 runs, or an average of two runs for each wicket. The Quakers closed their venture for 86.

Electrical Storm at Buffalo.

Buffalo, July 6. — A severe electrical storm passed over this city last night. The lightning struck in a dozen places. It hit the supply wires that bring electrical power from Niagara Falls to Buffalo, burning out transformers and other electrical machinery in the Buffalo receiving house. For over an hour the streets were without electric light, and the street cars were at a standstill.

At Crystal Beach the lightning struck two houses and three barns, setting them on fire. Mrs. Benjamin Zavitz was severely burned.

A Convict Escapes.

Kingston, Ont., July 6. —A convict named Henderson, en route to Kingston Penitentiary from Sault Ste. Marie, in charge of Deputy Sheriff Stevenson and a constable, escaped from a G. T. R. train at Ernestown station, twelve miles west of Kingston yesterday. He was under a ten-year sentence for incest.

Montrealer Drowned.

Montreal, Que., July 6. — Mr. E. A. Small, senior member of the wholesale clothing firm of E. A. Small & Co., Beaver Hall Hill, this city, was drowned at an early hour yesterday morning, while bathing in the Ponte Rouge River, 25 miles on this side of the City of Quebec.

Boy Murders Play Mate.

Albany, N. Y., July 6.—Raymond Albers, a 13-year-old lad, last evening, shot and killed Emanuel Koehler, a boy of 12 years, and then hanged himself. The boys were playmates and, according to statements of neighbors, they had quarrelled some days ago.

33,000 For the West.

Winnipeg, July 6. — Mr. Ems, a prominent resident of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, has received word from Russia that the Molokamcs, or Mulk people, are coming to Canada. They number 32,000, and will settle along North Branch, between Rosthern and Battleford.

DIAMOND DYES
Conduce to Home Economy.

Were it not for the Diamond Dyes many garments and many valuable materials would be thrown away as useless. It is easy to change the colour of any garment you wear; your dresses, husband's and boys' suits, blouses, capes, ribbons and feathers can be dyed any fashionable colour, saving the cost of new goods. No other dyes are so fast and beautiful. Send your address to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, and you will receive a copy of the popular Diamond Dye Cook Book.

MAUD MULLER.

(Revised version.)

Maud Muller on a summer's day,
Set a hen in a brand new way;

(Maud, you see, was a city girl,
Trying a rural life a whirl.)

She covered a box with tissel gay,
Lined it snugly with new mown hay,

Filled it nicely with eggs, and then
Started to look for a likely hen—

Out of the flock selected one;
And then she thought that her work was done;

It would have been, but this stubborn hen
Stood up and cackled "Ka-doot!" and then

Maud Muller came, and in hurt surprise
Looked coldly into the creature's eyes.

Then tied its legs to the box. "You bet,"
Said she, "I know how to make you set."

But still it stood, and worse and worse
Shrieked forth its wrongs to the universe,

Kicked over the box with its tinsel gay,
And ignominiously flapped away!

Then a bad boy, over the barn yard fence,
Tee-heed, "Say, Maud, there's a difference

'Tween hens, you know, an' it is that
One says "Ka-doot!" and one "Ka-dat!"

Then Maud recalled that the ugly brute
She tried to set had said "Ka-doot."

And ever since that historic day,
She blushes in an embarrassed way,

To think of the hobble she made once when
She tried to set a gentleman hen!

C.P.R. SAYS MEN LOSE

Reports That Striking Trackmen Are Returning to Work.

MONSTER COMBINE OF WORKERS

Great Mass Meeting to Be Held in Chicago to Endeavor to Unite in One Organization All Who Work for the United States Steel Corporation —Other Strike News.

Toronto, July 8.—Highly encouraging reports were received on Saturday by Chairman D. Wilkinson of the local committee of the Canadian Pacific striking trackmen on the situation of the struggle. That the men are undaunted by the reports sent out by the railway officials that "the strike has fizzled out," is shown by letters sent in from the various divisions. The latest report received states that, from Totonto to Montreal, not one man has returned to work and that the strikers are standing together.

From Toronto to the West, the men admit that a number have gone back, but their action in returning has not injured the cause.

C. P. R. despatches received Sunday night state that special constables are being sworn in to protect the C. P. R. lines north of Lake Superior. It is alleged the company's property is being destroyed at the hands of the striking trackmen.

Several trackmen at Farnham, Que., have notified the superintendent that they will return to work this morning.

At Chapleau, Ont., a number of strikers boarded a C. P. R train and endeavored to interfere with the workmen. They were arrested and fined by the magistrate.

Strikers of St. Henri and Point Du Lac, Que., have requested to be reinstated.

The third week of the strike, it is claimed, has ended in favor of the company. The Ontario, Eastern and Atlantic divisions have practically a full force at work. On the other divisions the company made considerable gains during the week.

Several applications for strike pay were made on Saturday afternoon by striking foremen, but without results. It was given out before the strike that the Trackmen's Association of the U. S. had a reserve fund of $350,000, which would be available for the strikers on the C. P. R. and Maine Central, but, although applications have been made to Mr. Wilson and the Montreal committee, no satisfactory answers have been given.

LABOR TO MEET CAPITAL.

A Gigantic Organization of Employes Talked Of—Combination Against United States Steel Corporation.

Chicago, Ill., July 8. — The Chicago Record-Herald correspondent in Pittsburg, Pa., sends his papor a despatch in which he says:

"I predict a settlement in less than two weeks," said President Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, Saturday.

The announcement was scarcely out of his lips when word came to his headquarters that a great meeting of labor leaders will be held in Chicago during the coming week.

Then it was learned, although President Shaffer would not discuss the subject, that the real purpose of the meeting is to combine into one organization or combination all the employes of the United States Steel Corporation, whether they work at the ore mines, on the docks, in the iron and steel mills, at the blast furnaces or in the coal mines.

This move, in the face of the strike now on in the Pittsburg district, and which may involve all the steel, iron and tin workers of the United States Corporation, is taken to be highly significant. It is labor forming, marshalling itself, to meet a billion dollars of capital.

Nearly a score of powerful labor organizations have been invited to send representatives to Chicago, and to aid in the work of organizing the Steel Corporations labor.

An agreement is expected to be reached between the organizations whereby in the event of trouble one trade or craft can go to the assistance of the other. This is said to be impossible at the present time.

It is further proposed, if any alliance is formed, as those who are behind the movement hope will be the case, that all agreements regarding wages, hours of labor, etc., shall come into existence at the same time and expire on the same date, so that no one trade shall be handicapped from rendering assistance while the others are not.

As if to offset this forming merger of labor the absorption of the National and American Steel Hoop Companies into the Carnegie Company took place on Saturday. They say this absorption strengthens the opposition in corporation circles here to union labor.

Union Men Win.

Denver, Col., July 8. — A special to The Post from Telluride, Col., says the strike in the Smuggler Union mine is over. After a conference lasting three hours Saturday afternoon, an agreement was reached between Manager Collins and the union. It provides that the management will not discriminate against union men.

ANTI-STRIKERS SUCCEED.

Catholic Workers of Italy Defeat Strikers Organized by Socialists.

London, July 8. — Attention was called by The Sun some time ago to an interesting movement initiated by the Vatican for the formation of leagues of Catholic workmen, deliberately designed to fight Socialist workmen and to fill the places of strikers when strikes were unjustly provoked.

It is now announced by the Vatican that the scheme has met with phenomenal success. In Rome there is a branch with 2,000 members. The local branch has 1,800 members, Florence branch, 1,400; the Milan branch, 1,000, while there are strong branches in other places. Strikes organized in Genoa and other towns have been completely defeated by the action of Catholic workmen, and the extremists have become greatly alarmed.

The Good Roads Train.

Ottawa, July 8.—The good roads' train will probably start work by to-day or to-morrow. J. G. Devitt of Greenwood, the expert, who is in charge of the construction of the concrete culverts, has been at work for over a week. He has already completed all the pipes that are required for the Gananoque section. The train will visit the following places, where specimen good roads will be built: Gananoque, Lansdowne, Iroquois, Alexandria, Plantagonet, Newington, Bell's Corners, Carp, Eganville, Pembroke, Almonte, Kemptville, and the train will then return to Hamilton.

SHOT IN COLD BLOOD

Brutal Treatment of Wounded British by Boers.

SUPPRESSED BY THE CENSOR.

The London Daily Mail's Correspondent Describes Some Boer Atrocities at Vlakfontein—How One Youngster Pleaded Unsuccessfully for His Life—British Lose 18 Men—Belgium Britain's Friend.

London, July 8. — The Daily Mail gives sensational prominence this morning to the mail advices from Vlakfontein, which attribute to the Boers' inhuman atrocities that the censor would not allow to be described by cable.

"A couple of Boers," says The Daily Mail's correspondent, "were armed with Martinis, walking around among the dead and dying. Some they turned over to see if they were dead. If it were otherwise, then one or the other of the Boers shot them as you would shoot an ox. I saw four killed in this way. One youngster pleaded for his life.

"I heard him say: 'Oh, Christ, don't!' and then bang went the rifle. That is what happened."

The Daily Mail protests vigorously against the suppression by the censor of such details.

British Lose 18 Men.

London, July 8. — Lord Kitchener telegraphs the War Office under yesterday's date, from Pretoria, that a train from Pietersburg was wrecked by the Boers yesterday, north of Naboonspruit. A lieutenant and nine men of the Gordon Highlanders were killed, besides one artilleryman, one engineer, one fireman, a guard and four natives.

Belgium Britain's Friend.

Brussels, July 8. — In replying to an interpellation in the Chamber of Deputies the other day a representative of the Government expressed Belgium's absolute friendship for Great Britain. It is understood that the Government is determined to suppress all demonstrations hostile to Great Britain.

Engineer Held to His Engine.

Norton, N. B., July 8.—Saturday morning the people of this small village were startled to hear of another terrible accident on the Central Railway. This time the accident occurred at Wassobrook, about 16 miles from Chipman. The train was in charge of Conductor Skillen, with Will Nodwell as driver. They were running at the rate of about 10 miles an hour, when rounding a curve about three miles this side of Cumberland Bay, when the engine plunged through the bridge over Wassobrook. The bridge had taken fire, and had been burned in the night. Nodwell remained at his post, and went down with the engine. He was buried in the coal, but was got out in about 10 minutes. He was terribly scalded and burned and had received severe bodily injuries. He lived about five hours in great agony, remaining conscious till the last. The rest of the train men and passengers escaped with little shaking up.

Sunday Their Busy Day.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 8. — The Christian Endeavorers made Sunday a busy day. From morning until evening and during almost every hour of the day there were services in some part of the city. The day opened with three meetings of one hour each, held in three of the largest of the city churches. The afternoon was devoted to three simultaneous evangelists meetings in the music hall auditorium. It is estimated by the local committee that there were at least ten thousand visiting Endeavorers in the city and many more are expected to arrive to-day.

Secret Lost and Regained.

Des Moines, July 8. — S. R. Dawson in 1895 murdered Walter Scott, a young man who had eloped with his daughter, and into the prison cell he took with him the secret of the art of making Damascus steel and hardening copper. A company had been formed to manufacture the steel, and the formula was locked in a safety vault. Dawson was the only man able to decipher the formula, and at once the company began to seek for his release. Rather than take the chance of having the valuable secret lost to the world, Governor Shaw has ordered Dawson's release from prison.

Old Dominion Ashore.

Rye, N. Y., July 8.—The steamship Old Dominion of the Joy Line ran ashore off here in a dense fog Saturday. At 8 o'clock the passengers were landed in small boats and taken by train to New York.

THE HIGHER CIVILIZATION.

Civilization is making great head in the United States. The refined and gentle amusement of roasting negroes, boring them full of bullets, and hanging them, seems to be be too mild a form of entertainment to meet the craving for novelty in atrocity. So the gentle bull fight, as they have it in Spain, has been introduced. Uncle Sam has gobbled a pretty generous slice of Spanish territory, and to be consistent, he has adopted one of the most elevating and humanizing of Spanish customs. They are having a grand festival in Omaha, U. S., and the committee has arranged for two dozen bull fights, a l'Espagnole, the first of which took place on Thursday last, and was witnessed by ten thousand persons. No toreadors were killed, no horses disembowelled, but one of the former had a very tight squeak. But we cannot expect a new amusement to be perfect all at once, and there is every ground for hope that when the splendid sport of bull fighting becomes acclimatized and the great American people get their shudders under better control, the high water mark of barbarous atrocity will be worked off according to orthodox Spanish methods. When American ladies can enjoy and applaud the broiling of a black, it will not take long for them to enjoy the spectacle of a horse impaled on the horns of a banderello-maddened Texas steer, or the same horns toss a gayly harnessed toreador into kingdom come. Persimists may growl at the slow march of civilization but they should be generous enough to hail with delight the evidence of advance, represented by the implanting of another "institootion" on United States soil, which brings civilization quite up-to-date.

The Deaf Made to Hear.

St. Thomas—A modern miracle was made known to-day when Mr. Riddle, of this city, announced that he had recovered his hearing. He has been almost entirely deaf, and it borders on the marvellous to find him able to hear everything with great distinctness. As his case is proving of such universal interest, we give Mr. Riddle's own statement. "My hearing was always poor, and not long ago I became almost deaf. It was the result of catarrhal inflammation, but nothing did me good until I used Catarrhozone. It cured my trouble and I strongly recommend it to the deaf." Fully nine-tenths of the deafness is the result of Catarrh and can be cured by catarrhozone. The cures of deafness wrought by this remedy in cases of even twenty years standing are really astounding. Among many others, ministers of the gospel testify to the wonderful powers of Catarrhozone, and your druggist can tell of some astonishing cases in his own experience. Better give it a trial, if your hearing is impaired. Price $1; small size 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.

CANADA AND EMPIRE.

Mr. Chamberlain Wishes Us to Lead in Imperialism.

THE CANADIAN MINISTERS.

Colonial Secretary Is Having Some Cautious Conferences with Those Who Are in London These Days—View of a Canadian Minister Concerning the Problem of Imperial Federation.

New York, July 8.—I. N. Ford, cabling to The Tribune from London, says: The old whist player's rule—when in doubt play trumps—applies to the great game of politics; but few English statesmen know instinctively what is the trump card. Mr. Chamberlain does, for he is constantly bringing in the supreme issue of heartier co-operation and closer alliance between the Mother Country and the groups of self-governing colonies throughout the Empire. He is responsible for the proposed change of title for the Sovereign, so as to include every section of the world-wide Empire, and he is conferring cautiously with the Canadian Ministers now in London, and seeking to induce them to take the initiative in suggesting a plan by which the colonies can have representation in an Imperial council of some kind.

Possibly he holds himself too persistently in the background, and says too much about the risks of premature action. The colonies cannot be dragged into an Imperial council, and the initiative must come from them, and inevitably from Canada; but constructive statesmanship is needed at the centre, and Mr. Chamberlain, while a great debater and administrator, has not yet made it clear that he has genius of the creative order. The Canadian Ministers are not yet convinced that the time has come for making arrangements for a closer union with the Mother State. They have taken the cue from Mr. Chamberlain, and repeat the warning that nothing must be done prematurely and that Canada is satisfied with her present relations to the Imperial Government.

"Is Imperial Federation an impossible problem, like squaring the circle?" was the question which I put yesterday to one of the Canadian Ministers who had been contending that well enough should be let alone.

"No," he answered promptly. "It is not an impossible problem; it is one that can be worked out deliberately in the course of time, but not prematurely."

The Canadian Ministers are impressed with the fact the Sir Wilfrid Laurier on two occasions had taken the initiative in proposing practical measures in the direction of Imperial Federation on both the legislative and the business side, and that his suggestion has been met in a half-hearted way.

OVERLOADED WITH AUTHORITY.

Curious Reason for the Present Deadlock in Chinese Affairs.

Pekin, July 8. — The minister of one of the great powers told the representative of the Associated Press to-day that a leading cause for the present deadlock was the fact that the various committees had taken to themselves too much authority in dealing with the Chinese, and had made certain promises dependent upon the Chinese agreeing to certain conditions, which other ministers afterward found it impossible to accept. Apother factor of considerable importance, he said, was the commercial factor involving the right of each government to make its own treaties with China, and the application of the most-favored-nation clause. In his opinion, the first difficulty can be overcome shortly, but the commercial issue must be eliminated or it is likely to prove a definite stumbling block.

Aguinaldo Bribed to Quit.

London, July 8.—The Daily Express to-day will print an interview with Edward Macevoy, a merchant of Manila, who has just arrived here, and is staying at the Hotel Carlton.

Mr. Macevoy declares that Aguinaldo sold out to Gen. MacArthur, and says it is understood in Manila that the deal was made with the consent of President McKinley.

He says that Aguinaldo received a million dollars for his participation in the farce, and that he intends to later invest this in United States property.

"Funston's capture of Aguinaldo," Mr. Macevoy will say in the interview, "is the veriest rot. The Americans could never defeat the Filipinos, and they had begun to realize it. They therefore adopted the old expedient of bribery, well knowing they would find Aguinaldo receptive. He has been a bribe-taker and country-seller more than once in his life."

A Menace to the British.

Paris, July 8.—The projected canal between the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, which has been under consideration by a parliamentary commission for some years, has made a step forward. A sub-committee appointed to examine the Manchester canal and then proceed to Kiel to examine the Baltic canal, reports that the realization of the scheme would be of immense value strategically to France, as it would allow the Northern squadron to join the Mediterranean one at any time without passing the Straits of Gibraltar. The British fleet, both in the Channel and the Mediterranean, would thus be constantly menaced by a powerful combination of French naval forces.

Three Struck, One Killed.

Ridgeway, Ont., July 8.—The heavy electric storm which passed over this section Friday evening did a vast amount of damage to property and caused the death of one person. The unfortunate man was William Benner. He was struck by lightning and instantly killed. His son was knocked down by the same flash and injured. He will, however, recover. Mrs. Weaver, who lives about a mile north of this village, was struck and has been paralyzed since.

Stunned by Lightning.

Chatham, July 8. — Saturday evening Ernest Bailey of Kingsville was standing at the hall entrance to the Merrill House while the electrical storm was in full swing, when suddenly he was struck on the left cheek by a bolt of lightning. Mr. Bailey was so stunned he fell prostrate, but soon recovered himself and regained his feet. Mr. Bailey put in a bad night and felt very much shaken up.

An Armor Plate Trust.

New York, July 8. — The plan to combine the Cramp Shipbuilding Works and the Bethlehem Steel Company of this country, the latter a manufacturer of armor plate and guns, with the Vickers, Sons & Maxim shipbuilding and gunmaking establishment of England, it was reported on Saturday, has been practically accomplished at last. Only the final steps remain to be taken.

British Imports Increase.

London, July 8. — The Board of Trade returns for the month of June, which were issued Saturday, show that there was a decrease in imports of £305,269 and a decrease in exports of £245,091. For the six months ending June 30, the returns showed an increase in imports of $6,349,791 and a decrease in exports of £5,580,366. The coal exports decreased a million tons.

Suit For Bigamy.

Winnipeg, July 8. — Suit for bigamy has been entered by Miss Annie Pearce of Wiarton, Ont., at Rat Portage, Ont. She charges that her former husband, Alexander Henry Davidson, was married to Elizabeth McGregor, formerly wife of Sproule, hotelkeeper at a small village near Wiarton. At Port Arthur Davidson and his first wife had a mutual separation two years ago.

THE REAL ELIZABETH.

She Is the One, You Know, Who Wrote About Her Visits.

One of the most popular books of the present season is "The Visits of Elizabeth," by Elinor Glyn, more than 50,000 copies of which have already been sold in the United States. The book is a fresh and breezy record of life among "society" folk of England and has proved very popular in that country. It supposedly consists of letters written by Elizabeth, a young girl of good family, describing her visits to various country houses and recounting her adventures and impressions.

The author of "The Visits of Elizabeth" is a young English woman, a daughter of a prominent family of the county of Essex. The name Elinor Glyn is a real one and not a nom de plume, as generally imagined. She married in 1892 Clayton Louis G.yn, the eldest son of an Essex county gentleman.

Haste the Crime of the Age.

"Blessed is the man who will not delay" is the doctrine of the age, whereas "Blessed is the man who knows how to wait" is the attitude of God. Haste is responsible for our agonies and our troubles. Hasty execution makes failure. It took 1,900 years to develop the germ theory. Yet young men rush into business before waiting for maturity, students strive to gain the pulpit while yet children. Haste is the crime of the age.—Rev. J. B. Clark.

Killed His Little Brother.

Berlin, Ont., July 8. — A fatal shooting accident occurred near here Saturday morning. A farmer by name of Henry Jonas and his wife came into town to attend Saturday market, leaving among others, their young sons, 5 and 11 years, at home. The elder of the two found a loaded shot gun, kept for shooting ground hogs, and, while playing with it, shot the child dead.

AN OPERATOR'S KICK.

Caused a Mine Fire That Has Burned For Forty Years.

Tamaqua's mine fire, which for the amount of valuable coal consumed rivals the celebrated "burning mine" of Summit hill, unless all signs fail, will soon be a thing of the past. Hemmed in on the one side by a wall of clay and burning down on the other to water level, it is thought the fuel is about exhausted and that the next year will see its extinguishment.

According to the information of a reliable authority the fire owes its start to a unique cause. Forty years ago the late John Richard Carter operated a colliery at the northern boundary of the town. He was bothered considerably by coal thieves, and in making an investigation one cold winter's day he came upon a party of men taking coal from a mine opening. The culprits decamped, but left behind them a fire which they had built to keep themselves warm while at work.

Carter was much incensed, and, with a kick, it is alleged, he sent the burning embers of the fire flying down the airway. This burning wood ignited the vein. The first intimation of the disastrous effect of the kick was evidenced several months later, when a score of miners narrowly escaped death from the effects of the sulphurous flames.

Efforts were at once put forth to subdue the fire, but much headway had already been gained by the flames, and nothing was accomplished. In endeavoring to locate the fire a number of men lost their lives, among them being Superintendent Barnes and General Inside Foreman Weir of the Little Schuylkill company, who were overcome by the poisonous fumes.

Several years later the fire began coming closer to the Greenwood workings, and it was decided that heroic methods must be adopted to save this valuable operation from damage. It was decided to cut across the vein down to the bottom slate, remove the coal and fill up the breach with clay. This was done, and the coal was taken out for a distance of 30 feet, thus effectually blocking the progress of the fire.

It was the Mammoth vein which was attacked, and it has been consumed from the Schuylkill river eastward about a mile and from water level upward about 150 yards. Everywhere on the mountains are evidences of the awful combustion. Crevices, seams and rented rocks, stones painted by the brush of intense heat, water, barrenness and desolation give a faint idea of the incomprehensible result of that alleged rash "kick."

THE COMMONEST OF ALL TROUBLES.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are Used More for Backache Than for any Other Kidney Affection.

Bright's Disease not so Frequent of Late Years—Dodd's Kidney Pills Undoubtedly the Cause—Diabetes Also far Less Prevalent.

Matane, Que., July 7. — (Special.)— Not only in this neighbourhood but throughout the Province of Quebec, there is a marked decrease noticeable in the number of cases of Bright's Disease reported. This fact is undoubtedly due to the wide use of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the earlier stages of Kidney Disease.

Bright's Disease at one time was the cause of a large proportion of the deaths in this province. It was considered incurable and until Dodd's Kidney Pills were introduced, it was incurable. Not so, however, now. Dodd's Kidney Pills have almost wiped the disease out. Nor is Diabetes heard of now to any great extent.

The most common form by which Kidney Disease manifests itself is Backache, and here Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing their most active work. They are recognized as the surest and quickest cure for Backache ever invented. They work on the sound principle of going to the root of the trouble — the Kidneys—wherein they differ from all other backache medicines except imitations of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They do more than merely relieve. They positively and permanently cure, as thousands of people are ready to testify.

O. Dionne, a well-known resident of Matane, says, "Dodd's Kidney Pills have made a grand success in curing me of Backache, and I recommend everybody to keep them in the house. They are a wonder as a remedy for Backache and Disease of the Kidneys."

Benefit of Clergy.

The "benefit of clergy" was a legal custom which allowed priests to withdraw their cases from a secular to an ecclesiastical court. The evidence of being a clergyman was an ability to read. If a man could read only a single verse, he was entitled to the benefit of clergy.

Pyramid of Cheops.

The greatest structure ever raised by the hand of man is the great pyramid of Cheops, Egypt, founded 4,000 years ago and measuring 746 feet square on the base and 440 feet high. It took 20 years in construction; 100,000 men worked for three months, and then, being relieved, were succeeded by an equally large corps. The massive stones were brought from Arabia, 700 miles away. The cost of the work is estimated at $145,000,000.

He intends having a steam yacht and making his trip here a yearly one.

A LETTER FROM CHINA.

The Difficulties of Missionary Work in the far East.

A letter received by Rev. Dr. Mackay, General Secretary of the Presbyterian Foreign Mission Board, from Chefoo, China, gives some idea of the hardships of missionary work in the east. Word had been received from the district of Tungming, of the persecution of a Christian convert named Wang by men of the Big Sword Society. The affair had caused a good deal of rioting throughout the district. The wheat crop had been ruined from lack of rain, and there was a prospect of famine. A number of windstorms had prevailed, destroying houses and animals, as well as the crops. At Chuwang the roof had been blown off Dr. Menzie's house, and the chapel had been damaged. Famine had already broken out in the Huilung district, and about 50 per cent. of the people were ill. Girls of fifteen were being sold for $3.50 each, and the proceeds used in purchasing food.

The letter was not altogether about hardships. A proclamation had been sent throughout Changte giving protection to the Christians, and forbidding destruction of property, or the use of the terms, "foreign devil," and secondary devil." A line of telegraph was in course of construction from Kaifeng to connect with Paotingfu. Mr. Griffith had been married in Shanghai on May 7 to Miss A. Rogers of Toronto. Three anti-foreign intendents of the three prefectories north of the Yellow River had been dismissed, and cashiered for all time to come. The disturbances had settled down considerably, and the native Christians were anxious for the missionaries to return.

MR. W. J. GREEN WAS RE-APPOINTED

As Town Tax-Collector for the Ensuing Year.

THE SEWERS AND POLES.

The Town Sewage System not Intended to Carry off Surface Water — Electric Wires Strung to Low.

A special meeting of the town council was held on Saturday afternoon, being called for the purpose of passing the bylaw appointing a tax-collector. Mr. W. J. Green was re-appointed to the position. The members present were Mayor Denne, and Ald. Corkery, Rush, Roger, Batten, Clinkscale and Edgcumbe.

A letter was read from Messrs. Hall & Hayes, solicitors for T. Barrie, claiming damages for the flooding of their client's cellar by water during Friday night's storm.

Mayor Denne stated that he was at the corner of George and Simcoe streets just previous to the time the storm broke over the town, and had seen the gratings removed from the two sewer traps. There was, therefore, no possibility of the traps being clogged, and if the cellar was flooded it could only be accounted for by the fact that the sewer was not large enough to carry off the surface water when the rain was heavy.

Ald. Batten thought the sewer should have been a great deal larger, but the Mayor pointed out that it was intended for sewage, and had not been constructed for the purpose of receiving the surface water from the street. A relief sewer, he thought, might be constructed to tap the main sewer at King street and empty into the river at that point.

Ald. Batten expressed the belief that the large telephone poles poles near Ormond & Walsh's corner caused the water to dam up at that point and collect a sufficient amount of mud and sediment to cause trouble.

The Mayor stated that Mr. Barrie in speaking to him suggested that more traps be constructed farther up the street in order that the water could run off before accumulating to such an extent.

On motion of Ald. Roger and Rush, the Town Engineer will be instructed to investigate and report to the Board of Works on some means to carry off the surface water from the centre of the town.

Ald. Roger stated that he noticed the Peterborough Light and Power Company were stringing low wires on the west side of George street, which he thought would make trouble in case the firemen wanted to put up ladders in the event of a fire taking place.

Ald. Batten, too, stated that he had noticed some wires being strung on the old street railway poles, which were very low.

Ald. Edgcumbe ventured the opinion that these poles had possibly been sold by the Street Railway Co. to the Light and Power Co.

Town Solicitor Edwards was sent for, and stated that the wires were being strung along the west side of George street by the Light and Power Co. in order to do away with the wires which crossed the street to stores from the main line on the east side. He understood that they were being strung lower than twenty-two feet, contrary to the conditions of the town bylaw in this behalf. The property owners and the firemen would have cause to complain as the wires would probably interfere with the erection of ladders.

A general discussion followed, the Aldermen expressing the opinion that whilst permission had been given the Light and Power Co. to rearrange their system, it had not been understood that the wires were to be strung so low.

Ald. Roger and Clinkscale moved that the Town Engineer be instructed to report immediately to the Board of Works in regard to the changes recently made in regard to their wires by the Light and Power Co.—Carried.

On motion of Ald. Clinkscale and Corkery, the Town Treasurer was authorized to pay the half yearly salaries of the members of the Fire Department on the certificate of the Chief and Secretary of the Department.

A letter was received from Mr. W. W. Porte of Toronto, asking for a price on the old horse roller.

The Mayor stated that Reeve Bradburn of North Monaghan, had also offered to purchase the roller for the township.

Ald. Best, Batten and Roger were appointed a committee with power to act in the sale of the roller.

The Mayor stated that a large number of the citizens had spoken to him in favour of having the band concerts take place in Victoria Park as formerly. He asked Ald. Clink-Clinkscale to explain how it was that the new stand had been erected in Central Park, instead of in the Court House Park.

Ald. Batten said that he could explain the matter. Last spring the Orangemen had heard that there was to be a new band stand built in Central Park, and a deputation had interviewed Mayor Kendry with the object of having it completed before the 12th of July, in order that the speakers could use it on that day. Mayor Kendry had promised to have it erected at once to accommodate them.

Ald. Clinkscale contradicted this statement, stating that he had heard nothing at all about the Orangemen. The location of the stand had been left in his hands and he had decided that it should be put in Central Park. That was all there was about it.

The Mayor urged that a proper stand be put up in Victoria Park, in accordance with the wish of the citizens, saying that not a day passed without the matter being brought to his attention.

The council adjourned, however, without any action being taken in regard to the matter.

UNDER ARREST.

Two Local Men Who are Charged With Theft.

A couple of arrests were made today in connection with the disappearance of a number of scale weights from the George Matthews Co., Limited. For some time the Matthews Company have been missing weights, and a search among the junk shops of the town revealed the fact that they had found their way to such places. The weights were of brass and, consequently, worth carrying away. The above named parties were placed under arrest as a result. It is alleged that one sold four weights to T. G. Holmes, junk dealer, on Saturday last, and another on June 28th. The other is alleged to have sold six weights to Stevens on June 22nd, but claims that he bought them from a friend.

It is quite easy at times to gain access to where the weights were in the packing house.

FRIGHTENED BY A CAT.

A Horse Startled but no Damage Done of any Account.

Mayor Denne's fine driver nearly got away from him yesterday through being frightened by a cat jumping off the convent fence on Scott street. The horse, which was travelling at a good clip, suddenly wheeled around, when it became frightened, and tipped the buggy. The Mayor had his eye on his number, however, and quietly stepped out and had his animal by the head before it had an opportunity to bolt. No damage was done beyond a trifling break in the harness.

MID-SUMMER HEAT.

It's a little earlier than usual this intense heat, sent perhaps as a reminder that we're going to have a summer just the same as usual and giving you notice that you had better prepare for it.

KEEP COOL.

You'll find the heat will not effect you much if you have cool things to wear. We have some of the best values you can find in lightweight, breezy stuffs for cool costumes. Ladies are comfortable in them and are satisfied over their purchase. The assortment is still very complete.

15 PIECES beautiful Light Coloured Muslins in entirely new patterns. They are decidedly cheap at 20 cents a yard, but we're selling them at 12½ cents a yard. You had better see them.

25 PIECES Dark Coloured Muslins, navy blues and royal blue grounds, with polka dots, in three or four different sizes of dots; elegant, fine quality, light weight stuffs. Just the thing for cool Wrappers, Dresses, Waists, etc. The regular price of them is 25 cents per yard, and they are on sale now at 15 cents per yard. That is a genuine bargain, so you had better see them.

HOW MUCH OF IT.

We are displaying some particularly beautiful Neck Ribbons, extra widths and extra weights, in Satin, Duchesse and Taffeta makes in fast colours and delicate shades, and better still we can recommend them to you for their washing qualities. They have all been tried and tested and our guarantee goes with them. You could not find better ribbon value if you looked the country over, and you should not neglect this chance to get them at these prices:—

SATIN DUCHESSE RIBBONS in the correct widths for neck ribbons, all shades, 30 and 35 cents per yard.

TAFFETA RIBBONS in the correct widths for neck ribbons, all shades, 25 and 30 cents per yard.

A POINT TO REMEMBER.

Our ready-to-wear White Underskirts are made of the best bleached cottons. They are well made and trimmed with embroidery that is meant to stand the wear. They are worth all they cost and more—and will give comfort and pleasure to the wearer.

WHITE UNDERSKIRTS, well trimmed with embroidery at $1.25.

WHEN GOING FOR A TRIP

Don't forget to take along either a Steamer Rug or one of our Kelvin Capes. You'll find them useful as a wrap, although the weather is intensely warm, the evenings are cool, so be careful.

We show a wonderful bargain in a Cape in regulation Tartans at $5.00 each. See it.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

BOWLING.

Wednesday night's meeting for the purpose of selecting rinks for the season, will be held at 8 o'clock sharp at the green, weather permitting, instead of in the Canada Life offices. The skips are particularly requested to be present at this meeting, and if this is impossible, to be represented by their vice-skips.

BASEBALL.

The Cobourg nine will play in Peterborough on Saturday afternoon next.

Mr. George Giroux has decided that the baseball match for the possession of the Calcutt Cup between the West Ends and the Elms of Ashburnham, will take place at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon on the Nicholls park oval.

CANOEING.

Canoeists are asked to meet at the Oriental at 7.30 o'clock this evening to make arrangements for a regatta on the Little Lake.

GOLF.

The Cobourg Post says: "The Cobourg Golf Club is open for the fourth season on its splendid grounds, and already there is promise of the most successful season in the history of the club. During last autumn and this spring the grounds have been further improved by a large amount of tile-draining, new bunkers have been built, the greens have been enlarged, the links lengthened and improvements have been made in various ways. The club now claims to have the best kept nine hole course in Canada. Mr. T. Lawlor has been re-engaged as professional and proves to be a very capable teacher. The directors of the club are: President, Mr. W. J. Crossen; vice-president, Colonel Irwin; secretary, Mr. L. E. Horning; treasurer, Mr. E. H. Osler; assistant, Mr. S. Duncan. Dr. Fairbanks is captain. The club was not beaten on its own grounds in the numerous matches played last season and a very auspicious beginning was made on Dominion Day when a friendly game was played with some members of the Toronto club who were spending the holiday in Cobourg. The Cobourg team won by 23 holes up."

NEWS NUGGETS.

—Quite a number went down the river over Sunday.

—Mr. C. B. McAllister has completed his Stony Lake cottage.

—Several dances at Chemong are on the tapis for this week.

—Local painters are finding plenty to do amongst the Stony Lake Cottages.

—An Orange celebration will be held at Buckhorn on Friday next, July 12.

—The George Street Sunday School picnic takes place tomorrow at Jackson Park.

—The Houston inquest will be resumed this evening in the County Council Chamber.

—St. Andrew's Sunday School will picnic at Dinsdale's Grove, Keene, on Thursday of this week.

—The improvements to Murray Street Baptist Church are fast nearing completion.

—St. Paul's Sunday School picnic for the primary scholars, will take place on Thursday at Inverlea Park.

—The merry-go-round has gone out of business at the corner of George and McDonnel streets, much to the satisfaction of the residents of that neighbourhood.

—The Orangemen of this district will visit Port Hope on July 12th. Two special trains will go down from here, one at nine o'clock and the second at 9.40.

—Messrs. Wes. Edwards and Jack Paterson, returned on Saturday night from Stony Lake, where they have been decorating several cottages. They will return again this evening.

—The steamer Sunbeam, owned by Mr. Burnett, Burnett's Landing, Rice Lake, is doing a great trade this season. She was engaged every day and evening last week with excursion parties.

—A resident of Albert street complained to the police this morning that his door had been kicked in, but he could give not the slightest information as to whom he considered the guilty parties were.

—Mr. Charlie Armstrong, the genial proprietor of the Mount Julian Hotel, has completely renovated his house, and is doing a neat little summer trade. He intends building two new cottages close by his hotel.

—At Kingston on Wednesday morning George Scheffer, proprietor of the Brunswick Hotel, Colborne, and caterer at the late military camp for the officers of the 40th Battalion, was called at the police court and charged with selling liquor at his canteen. The case was proven and he was fined $50 and costs. The penalty imposed will evidently reduce the profits of the officers' mess considerably.—Cobourg Post.

What do we Eat?

First we must build up the tissues in the growing body and reconstruct those worn out by use; second we must supply nervous, muscular and digestive force to the different parts of the body. Scott's Emulsion plays a very important part as regards both objects. All delicate and rapidly growing children need it.

ORANGEMEN GO TO CHURCH

They Attended Service at Murray Street Last Night.

Rev. Jonathan Bastow Preached a Very Interesting Sermon to Them—Orange Order's Record.

The annual church parade of the Orangemen of this vicinity, took place last night to the Murray street Baptist church, where the members listened to a very interesting discourse by Rev. J. Bastow. There were present large delegations from L.O.L. No. 80, 178, 321, and 457. The procession from the Orange Hall to the church was headed by the 57th Regimental Band. On arriving at the church the visiting brethren occupied the centre pews. The service throughout was appropriate to the occasion.

Rev. Mr. Bastow took his text from the XII Chapter of the Epistle to the Romans—"Be not overcome of evil but overcome evil with good."

Before proceeding to deal with the words of his text he spoke of the pleasure it gave him to welcome the Orangemen to Murray Street Baptist Church and he prayed that the Lord would bless the service. He apologized to them for the imperfect condition of the sanctuary, which was at present undergoing improvements and when the same were completed he hoped that they would come again.

With regard to Orangeism, Rev. Mr. Bastow spoke of the Orange Society, touching on its origin and subsequent growth. He had been reading considerable of late concerning the society and had learned a good deal of its long and vital history covering a period of 212 years. It had its origin at the time of the revolution in 1688, but came into existence, properly speaking, the following year. James II., who preceded William, Prince of Orange, was unfit to sit on the throne of any country, but especially that of England, and during his reign England came very nearly throwing away all the great principles that it had secured by Oliver Cromwell. Thirty years before Cromwell had died and there was a reaction of sentiment and the people bore with James to a certain extent, but he soon became such that his nearest friends could not trust him and he at last had to flee for the protection of his own life. William of Orange, a nephew and son-in-law of the King, was in France and the Protestants of England turned to him with enthusiasm and unity of spirit, with the hope that he would return to them the principles that were so jeopardized. He came to England, planted his standard, "I am your defender," and saved the country. In many respects he was like Cromwell and he took up the grand work of Cromwell, where the latter had left off. Should they not be proud of such a man and should they not perpetrate his work in having liberty of worship according to the doctrines of one's conscience and giving everyone a say in the ruling of the country. Rev. Mr. Bastow next referred to the provident feature in their order, in their benevolence to orphans and in preserving their little ones.

As they had derived their origin from a fighting prince he had thought it best to speak to them on how they could fight their present life's battles. It is not possible for them to live to-day without fighting, but he did not believe that the brightest crowns in heaven would be worn by so called soldiers, such as Alexander or Caesar, but perhaps by some men that in obscure circumstances have fought just as great battles. The speaker continuing told of how to fight these battles, viz., by following the words of the text—"Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." This is one of the great central principles of the bible. Conquer by love. Jesus Christ came as a great conqueror, conquering by love, universal love. To attempt to overcome evil with evil one will fail as evil will conquer us. Life produces that which we give out and if we plant hatred we will reap hatred. We must plant within our enemies a new disposition by our own methods of treating them; therefore we must overcome evil with good. We should, in fact, be victors instead of conquerors. To drive out evil one must have goodness and this is just how God is going to conquer the world. Men hate him but he loves them. Did not Jesus say on the cross, of them that crucified him,—"Father forgive them."

The reverend gentleman pointed out that there was no one but who had an enemy and it should be our ambition to win them as friends by a spirit of love. In this we should have wisdom, which we could get from God alone. It is not the natural thing to overcome evil with good and we have to become Christians in order to do it. In conclusion the speaker thought that the time is coming when this law will be universal.

Upon returning to the Orange Hall the usual vote of thanks was voted to the church officials for their kindness, the choir for their music, and to Rev. J. Bastow for his able address.

THE FROGS LEGS MARKET

Requires Two Millions to Satisfy Public Demand.

Has Become an Industry—Fish Commission Long Been Studying Means of Increasing the Supply—Frog Cultivation.

(New York Times.)

Taking frogs for market as a business has so steadily increased during recent years that, according to the estimate of the United States fish commission, the annual catch in this country is but little less than 2,000,000 frogs, with a total value to the hunters of about $100,000 and a corresponding cost to the consumers of not less than $150,000. In all sections of the United States frog hunting has been carried on, in fifteen of the states to such an extent that it may be said to be of economic importance. So important has the industry become—the United States consuming five times the amount of frogs' legs used in France—that the fish commission has for years busied itself trying to devise means for the artificial breeding of frogs to be used for market, the natural sources of the batrachia threatening to become exhausted.

In taking frogs for market, lines baited with red cloth, worms, or insects are extensively used; guns small-bore rifles, and crossbows are used for this purpose in Canada. The animals are often hunted at night, a lantern furnishing light at the same time for the hunters' aim and for the purpose of dazzling the frogs.

In the early part of the season when the animals retire to the mud during the cool nights and appear only on bright warm days, they are captured with hooks and lines, the bait being a small bit of flannel cloth. Later, when the frogs turn out in large numbers, it is the custom of the frog hunters—in such rich territory as the St. Francis river basin, in Missouri and Arkansas for example—to use spears with from one to three barbed prongs. Two men usually hunt together for this purpose. One rows a boat and the other stands in the bow with the spear and a huge reflector made for the purpose. The frog is attracted to and dazzled by the light and becomes an easy victim. Hereabout the frog season extends from early spring to late in the autumn, and in northern New York, Pennsylvania, and in parts of New Jersey, there are men who make a business of catching frogs, though nothing like the number that do so on the Canadian border.

The market price for frogs varies greatly with the condition of the market and its location. The lowest price is probably in the Kankakee Valley, in Indiana, where hunters receive prices running downward from seventy-five cents a dozen for the large frogs, whose hind legs reach a half pound in weight, to five cents a dozen for the small ones, while in San Francisco the market price often runs up to $3 or $4 per dozen, that being the best market in the country. About here the price paid hunters is about midway between the two. The Canadian, who harvests about the best legs that are marketed, gets the Kankakee price, or even less.

Naturally, the unrestricted hunting of frogs has resulted in a diminuation of the available batrachia. Already the decrease is manifested in the lessening of the supply in Lake Erie and northern New York, and hundred of persons are experimenting to solve the problem how frogs may be raised artificially.

The process of oviposition, or the laying of eggs by the animals, extends over several days, during which period several hundred eggs are deposited. The egg measures about .07 of an inch. As the egg passes into the water it is covered with a thin coating of albuminous material. This steadily swells, forming the gelatinous mass with which frogs' eggs are usually found to be covered. The eggs of the toad are readily distinguishable, for they are laid in long strings.

Temperature has much to do with time required for the hatching of the eggs, incubation being retarded by cold water. Late frosts often work havoc among the eggs. When first deposited the upper part of the frog's egg is dark and the lower end white, but the growth of the embryo soon darkens the entire egg, which is ovoid in shape. In from four to thirty days the young tadpole is able to wriggle out of his gelatinous covering. By means of a sort of adhesive organ at the mouth he promptly attaches himself to some plant or other support. His mouth at this early stage is not yet opened, and he feeds entirely by absorption, the first food consisting solely of the gelatinous egg envelope. In a short time the mouth becomes functional, and macerated animal and vegetable matter then becomes the little fellow's food. The idea until a short time ago that the tadpole was exclusily vegetarian has been proved incorrect, experiments showing that the animal prefers animal matter, providing it is in a state of maceration.

Respiration is carried on by means of gills while in the tadpole stage, but as the animal develops the gills close up and lungs take their place.

Depending upon the temperature of the water and the supply of food, the animal grows with rapidity. The most favourable conditions are shallow pools readily warmed by the sun and well stocked with organic matter. In a period varying from two months to a year the first indication of the adult form appears in the protrusion of the two hind legs, the latter retardation of development occurring only when the tadpole is kept in aquaria or in wholly unsuitable natural surroundings. The forelegs or arms appear later, being concealed by the gill membranes.

Little food is needed by the animal at this stage, for, as the legs become functional, the tail disappears, it furnishing material for growth, so that little food need be taken. When the tail is almost fully absorbed the purely aquatic life of the animal ceases and the food is changed from dead to living matter, which must demonstrate its life by motion. The food of the frog consist largely of insects, which he catches by means of his tongue. The tongue is hung very loosely at the roots, so that it can be extended quickly to a distance, and, being covered with a viscid secretion, any insect that approaches too closely is handily captured.

Despite the success of the fish commission in breeding all sorts of fish artificially the problem of frog culture is about as far away as the discovery of how to preserve the frogs from their natural enemies. This is by segregation. It is during the tadpole stage that the frog is most easily exterminated. At this period the young furnish tempting morsels for fish, reptiles, adult frogs, several kinds of mammals and wading birds.

Frog cultivation is a matter requiring some time, unlimited patience and thorough appreciation of the animals' needs. The difficulty so far in raising frogs has been in getting the animal over the critical period when the larvae assume the adult form. From this time on the food must be living, and it is the difficulty of providing insects in sufficient numbers that has always invariably led to failure. The placing of tainted meat about the pond has been tried in order to attract flies, but the water becomes contaminated and the animals have suffered from the poisonous matter to an extent which entirely counterbalances all the advantages gained.

To rear the tadpoles is easy enough. To get them is even easier, for one visiting the stagnant pools in early spring may dip thousands of young ones from the water. For propagation purposes this method is, however, inferior to the stocking of a pond with mature frogs. To protect the young from their natural enemies ponds have been inclosed in screens, making it impossible for birds or animals to prey on the tadpoles. In this early stage food may be readily provided. A shallow pond well stocked with organic matter will supply unaided a large number of frogs.

Despite these obstacles there are a number of frog farms in existence. One of the most successful of these is in Ontario, in the Trent River basin. It has been operated for about twenty-two years, the ponds having been stocked with mature frogs. No attempt is made to confine the frogs until the time for marketing approaches. This year the frogs are caught at night by lamp-light, and are stored in pens until ready for shipment. For several years this farm has yielded from 5,000 to 7,500 pounds of dressed frogs' legs, and something over 10,000 frogs have been taken from the farm for scientific purposes and for stocking other ponds.

Extensive frog farms have been operated for some time in Indiana and Illinois, and there are small ones in this state and Missouri. Last year a company was organized in Massachusetts for the purpose of raising frogs for market. It bought a large tract of land in the marshes of a small town near Boston. So far the owners have only attempted to make it a success by protecting the frogs secured and corralled from their natural enemies, and supplying a proper amount of food and the most favourable conditions for the natural development.

Past mountain and foothill, plain and lake,
Where it links the east and west,
The tense wire tingles from sea to sea,
A river that runs unrest.

As a two stringed harp of beats it throbs
With the rise and fall of states
And sings through a land of sun and peace
Of faroff wars and hates.

Through a glimmering sea of waving grass,
Of silence and golden suns,
As a thread of pain in the woof of peace
From world to world it runs.

But the tales it tells are idle tales,
And the songs it sings are strange
To us who follow the glad, gold trail
Of the sun on the open range.

DOCTORS AND EDITORS.

The Mighty Difference In Their Professions and Profits.

The doctors are all friends of ours, says the Iowa Medical Journal. We expect them to stay with us until death. Yet at the risk of incurring their displeasure we reproduce the following. We don't know where it came from any more than we know whose rain spout the doctor's medicine comes from. We find it in a paper credited to "Ex." If we knew the author, we would gladly give his name because the article is really good. Here it is:

"The doctor from Algona said that newspapers are run for revenue only. What in thunder do doctors run for, anyway? Do they run for glory? One good, healthy doctor's bill would run this office for six months.

"An editor works a half day for $3, with an investment of $3,000; a doctor looks wise and works ten minutes for $200, with an investment of 3 cents for catnip and a pill box that cost $1.37.

"A doctor goes to college for two or three years and gets a diploma and a string of words satan himself cannot pronounce, cultivates a look of gravity that he palms off for wisdom, gets a box of pills, a cayuse and a meat saw and sticks his shingle out, a full fledged doctor. He will then doctor you until you die at a stipulated price per visit and puts them in as thick as your pocketbook will permit.

"An editor never gets his education finished. He learns as long as he lives and studies all his life. He eats bran mash and liver; he takes his pay in turnips and hay and keeps the doctor in town by refraining from printing the truth about him.

"We would like to live in Algona and run a newspaper six months and see if the doctor would change his mind about running a newspaper for revenue only.

"If we didn't get some glory out of it, we would agree to take one of his pills—after first saying our prayers. If the editor makes a mistake, he has to apologize for it, but if the doctor makes a mistake he buries it.

"If we make one, there is a lawsuit, tall swearing and a smell of sulphur, but if the doctor makes one there is a funeral, cut flowers and a smell of varnish. The doctor can use a word a foot long, but if the editor uses it he has to spell it. Any medical college can make a doctor. You can't make an editor. He has to be born one.

"The editor works to keep from starving, while the doctor works to ward off the gout. The editor helps men to live better, and the doctor assists them to die easy.

"The doctor pulls a sick man's leg. The editor is glad if he can collect his bills at all. Revenue only? We are living for fun and to spite the doctors."

Labeled Trunks in Demand.

There are many queer pursuits in the world, but of them all, remarks the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia, it is doubtful if any rank higher in the "land of the odd" than the traffic carried on by an enterprising New Yorker. He has his place in the basement of one of the office buildings on lower Broadway and deals in labeled trunks and traveling bags—that is, trunks and traveling bags that have seen service abroad and that bear the labels of foreign hotels. A man going to Europe, if he works judiciously, can on his return get twice what he paid for his bag or trunk at starting.

The enterprising Yankee who conducts this queer traffic meets the passengers of incoming steamers. He sizes up his people with an accuracy born of long experience, knowing instinctively who it is that has probably exhausted his funds on his trip on the other side and who will be very willing to accept a good price for his belabeled traveling appurtenances. The more labeled, of course, the higher is the price. There is almost no risk in this business because the man has a greater demand than he can supply for the decorated merchandise in which he deals.

A Curiosity of Disease.

Perhaps the most surprising assertion by medical men is that disease in parents often confers long life on children. The contrary is believed, popularly, and no doubt there is some ground for the belief. Some time ago the British Medical association investigated the subject of old age. Taking 340 people aged from 80 to 90 years, they inquired into their family history. Here is the result:

There was cancer in 44 families; consumption in 65 families; gout in 30 families; rheumatism in 59 families; insanity in 13 families; apoplexy and paralysis in 42 families.

Thus there was a history of deadly diseases in the families of 253 of the old people. In 47 more families there was likewise some grave disease. And only 40 families were free, or said to be free, from those maladies which usually are supposed to be hereditary.

A Frugal Judge and a Joke.

The unpardonable sin which blighted the character of any Scottish judge was saving on the circuit allowance. The circuit dinners were a sort of saturnalia, where dignity doffed its pride as the bottle circulated swiftly. Lord Kames had a high reputation for culture, and his countrymen were proud of his proficiency in the belles lettres. But he looked too closely to the liquor bills, and it was darkly whispered that he counted the "marines" after each of his circuit dinners. He gave port, which was the cheaper liquor, in place of claret. Henry Erskine, who, like Knox, feared not the face of man, wittily expressed the feelings of his brethren when his lordship asked if there were news of D'Estaing and his fleet. "Confined to port, my lord, as we are," was the ready answer, and his lordship laughed. A pawky Scot, he liked the humor of the retort and was not to be joked out of economy.

HEART DISEASE

TIMING YOUR TRAIN.

Ways In Which to Learn How Fast You Are Traveling.

"There has been some picturesque fiction written about the ease with which railroad men and drummers are supposed to tick off the miles as the train speeds along from things they can see from the car windows," said a railroad conductor to a reporter.

"There is only one strictly accurate way, and that is to seat yourself on the side of the train from which may be observed the white mile posts that line the road and hold your watch on them. If you have a split second watch, it will prove interesting to note that while you made one mile in 00 seconds the next was covered in 53 and the third in 70 seconds, and so on, as the speed of the train increases or slackens. You may also follow around the little second hand on an ordinary watch. It kills time.

"Some pretend to say that they can tell the speed of the train by counting the telegraph poles. If there were an exact number of telegraph poles to every mile, this might be done by a little figuring, but there is a difference. The number of telegraph poles to a mile vary from 33 to 40, depending upon the straight stretches and the curves in the track, the latter having more poles than the former. So, you see, it is not as easy as the drummer would have the other passengers believe.

"If the poles are planted 33 to the mile, they are 160 feet apart, and every 11 passed represents a third of a mile. If placed 40 to a mile, they are 132 feet apart, and every 20 represents half a mile.

"These are easy figures to remember, and by applying them on a journey a passenger may obtain an idea more or less accurate of the speed of the train.

"Another way is to attempt to count the clicks of the wheels of the truck of your car as they pass over the rails where joined. The rails of the roads as placed today are too evenly joined to arrive at an exact determination by this method, because if you miss two or three joints your calculations are thrown out as to accuracy.

"However, there are railroad men who cannot tell you the number of rails to the mile of their own roads, and rails vary in length, the average being 30 feet, some 33 feet and some 60 feet. At 30 feet there are 176 rails to the mile, and if you can count 176 consecutive clinks as your train flies along you may determine its speed and not otherwise."

THREE SIMPLE QUESTIONS.

And the Librarian Could Not Answer One of Them.

One day two well dressed young women approached the desk of the reading room of a big library. One of them took a memorandum from her pocketbook.

"Can you tell me how many yards—oh, that's the wrong list!" she said, hastily bringing forth another slip of paper. "Here it is. Will you please tell me who is Rudyard Kipling's favorite author?"

"I am unable to tell you, never having heard that he had one," admitted one of the librarians.

"Dear me!" said the young woman irritably. "It is one of the questions for our next club meeting. Well, which one of Thackeray's books brought him the most income?"

"That you can probably find out by consulting a book, the number of which I will give you," said the official.

"Oh, I can't stop to look it up!" she said hurriedly. "I thought you could tell me at once. Well, there's one more thing. Bessie Cummock, my cousin in Manchester, had a splendid book when I was there last year for anecdotes of famous people. I can't remember the name of it or who wrote it, but it was about so big"—illustrating with one finger on the desk—"and it has a dark green cover. Now, can you tell me what it is? Some day when I have time I would like to get it out. Of course you must have it in the library?"

For the third time the official was obliged to confess his inability to give her direct information. She looked at him with a piercing gaze and turned away, saying audibly to her companion:

"There, that just shows what all this talk about their being examined for positions in libraries amounts to! Three perfectly simple questions, all on literary subjects, and he couldn't answer one of them!"

A Feat in Shooting.

"I've seen a good deal of sharpshooting in my day," said a civil war veteran of Broome county, "but I've never seen equaled a feat performed often by a neighbor of mine. He was a man with a marvelously quick eye, and he could shoot quicker and straighter than any man in our neighborhood. His best trick was shooting two swallows with one bullet. He would make bets on this, and when feeling right would win the money nine times out of ten. It is hard enough to shoot one swallow on the wing, and to shoot two of them with one bullet increases the difficulty tenfold. He would stand by the side of the pond, and when two swallows crossed each other's aerial paths he would shoot just as they would intersect. He seldom missed killing them the first shot, and when he did miss he paid up like a major. Usually the other fellow was stuck, though."

Conveying a Mild Rebuke.

"That is ungrammatical," said Mr. Upperby, a smart young man much given to criticism. "What is?" asked his business partner, an elderly, blue eyed man of a dry humor but unfailing good nature.

"That sentence you just now uttered."

"Perhaps it was. I did not notice how I spoke it. By the way, suppose you look in Webster's Dictionary and see if you pronounced that word 'ungrammatical' correctly."

"I am quite certain I did," returned Mr. Upperby, taking the volume down from the shelf and opening it.

"Why," he exclaimed, after a moment's search, "I can't find it in Webster!"

"I thought perhaps you couldn't," rejoined his partner, with a twinkle in his eye.

Out of Harm's Way.

"What made you jump into the midst of the fight?" inquired the friend. "You had nothing to do with the feud those men were trying to settle."

"That's perfectly true," answered Colonel Stillwell. "But I had to take sides one way or the other. I couldn't take chances on being an innocent bystander."

Alcoholism Can Be Cured

REV. FATHER QUINLIVAN'S ADVICE.

To whom it may concern: The good points of Mr. Dixon's new discovery for the cure of the liquor habit in my opinion, are the following: First, if taken according to directions it completely removes all craving for liquor in the short space of three days; its use for a longer time is intended only to build up the system. Second, it leaves no bad after effects, but on the contrary aids in every way the health of the patient, whilst freeing him from the desire for drink. Third, the patient may use it without interfering with his business, or leaving his home. All other liquor cures I have yet heard of are very costly, operate slowly, are doubtful as to effects and often impair the health and constitution of the patient. I therefore look upon the remedy as a real boon, recommend it heartily to all concerned, and bespeak for it here in Montreal and elsewhere every success. J. Quinlivan, S. S., Pastor of St. Patrick's, Montreal.

Full particulars of this new medicine mailed free to all applicants. Address, Mr. Dixon, 81 Willcocks st., Toronto, Ont.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

At the sight of that face, with its hooked nose, its waxed mustache and imperial, I took a deep breath and held it. In the quick glance I saw that his right arm hung stiffly at his side. I attempted to slip into the crowd, but without success. He lifted his hat, smiling into the astonished face of Phyllis.

"The Princess Hildegarde"— But with those three words the sentence on his lips came to an end. Amazement replaced the smile. He stepped back. Phyllis' eyes expressed scornful surprise. What she understood to be rudeness I knew to be a mistake. He had mistaken her to be Gretchen, just as I had mistaken Gretchen to be Phyllis. It was a situation which I enjoyed. All this was but momentary. We passed on.

"Was the man crazy?" asked Phyllis as we moved toward the carriages, where we saw Pembroke waving his hand.

"Not exactly crazy," I answered.

"The Princess Hildegarde. Did he not call me that?"

"He did."

"He must have mistaken me for some one else, then."

"The very thing," said I. "I wonder what he is doing here in London?"

"Mercy! Do you know him?"

"Slightly." We were almost at the carriage. "I am sorry to say that he is a great personage in this very court which you are so soon to grace."

He lifted his hat, smiling into the astonished face of Phyllis.

"How strange! I'm afraid we shan't get on."

Pembroke and I dismissed our carriage. We were going back to the club. Ethel and her husband were already seated in their carriage.

Said Phyllis as I assisted her to enter. "And who is this Princess Hildegarde?"

"The most beautiful woman in all the world," I answered, with enthusiasm. "You will meet her also."

"I do not believe I shall like her either," said Phyllis. "Good night." And the door swung to.

CHAPTER XVII.

I had just left the office when I ran into Pembroke, who was in the act of mounting the stairs. It was Saturday morning. Phyllis had left town.

"Hello!" he cried. "A moment more and I should have missed you, and then you would not have learned a piece of news."

"News?"

"Yes. I have made up my mind not to go home till February."

"What changed your plans so suddenly?" I asked.

"My conscience."

"In heaven's name, what has your conscience to do with your plans?"

"Well, you see, my conscience would not permit me to meet such a remarkable woman as Miss Landors without becoming better acquainted with her." He swung his cane back and forth.

"This is very sudden," said I, lighting a cigar. "When did it happen?"

"What time did she come into your office the other day?"

"It must have been after 11."

"Then it happened about 11:15." Pembroke's eyes were dancing. "Do you—er—think there are any others?"

"Thousands," said I, "only"— I turned the end of my cigar around to see if the light had proved effective.

"Only what?"

"Only she won't have them."

"Then there is really a chance?"

"When a woman is not married, there is always a chance," said I wisely. "But let me tell you, cousin mine, she has a very high ideal. The man who wins her must be little less than a demigod and a little more than a man. Indeed her ideal is so high that I did not reach it by a good foot."

Pembroke looked surprised. "She—ah—rejected"—

"I did not say that I had proposed to her," said I.

"If you haven't, why haven't you?"

"It is strange." As his face assumed an anxious tinge, I laughed. "My dear relative, go ahead and win her, if you can. You have my best wishes. She is nothing to me. There was a time—ah, well, we all can look back and say that. If it isn't one woman it's another."

Sunshine came into Pembroke's face again. "Ideal or not ideal, I am going to make the effort."

"Success to you!" patting his shoulder. He was good to look at, and it was my opinion that Phyllis might do worse. We miss a good deal in this world by being overparticular.

We were coming into Trafalgar. Nelson stood high up in the yellow fog.

"Nature is less gracious than history sometimes," mused Pembroke, gazing up. "She is doing her best to dull the luster of the old gentleman. Ah, those were days when they had men."

"We have them still," said I. "It is not the men, but the opportunities which are lacking."

"Perhaps that is so. Yet, it is the great man who makes them."

I was thinking of Hillars. "I would give a good deal for a regiment and a bad moment for our side." There was no mighty column in his memory, scarcely a roll of earth. "What do you want to do?" I asked. "Shall we hail a cab and drive to the park?"

"Just as you say, if it is not interfering with your work."

"Not at all."

"Have a cigar," said Pembroke after we had climbed into the cab and arranged our long legs comfortably. The London cab is all very well for a short and thin person. "These came to me directly from Key West."

"That is one of the joys of being rich," said I. "Gold is Aladdin's lamp. I have to take my chances on getting good tobacco in this country."

"Talking about gold"— he began.

"Don't!" I entreated.

"I was about to say that I drew on my bankers for £20,000 this morning."

"You intend to go in for a figure abroad, then?"

"Oh, no. I deposited the money in another bank—in your name."

"Mine! Deposited £20,000 in my name!" I gasped.

"Yes."

"I understood you to say, because you thought me to be a gentleman, that you weren't going to do anything like this? Have I done something to change your opinion?"

"Of course not. And I never said that I should not do it. You may or may not use it—that is as you please. But, so far as I am concerned, it will stay there and accumulate interest till the crack of doom. It isn't mine any more. If I were not almost your brother, I dare say you might justly take offense at the action. As it is," complacently, "you will not only accept the gift, but thank me for it."

"How old are you?" I asked.

"Exactly 25."

"I thought that you could not be older than that. Aren't you afraid to be so far away from home?"

Pembroke lay back and laughed. "You haven't thanked me yet."

"I must get a new tailor," said I. "What shall I pay a tailor to make a well dressed man out of me, and then become an object of charity? Do I look, then, like a man who is desperately in need of money?"

"No, you don't look it. That's because you are clever. But what is your salary to a man of your brains?"

"It is bread and butter and lodging."

He laughed again. To laugh seemed to be a part of his business. "Jack, I haven't a soul in the world but you. I have only known you three days, but it seems that I have known you all my life. I have so much money that I cannot even fritter away the income."

"It must be a sad life," said I.

"And if you do not accept the sum in the spirit it is given I'll double it, and then you'll have trouble. You will be a rich man, then, with all a rich man's cares and worries."

"You ought to have a trustee to take care of your money."

"It would be a small matter to bribe him off. Jack, of course you do not need the money now, but that is no sign you may not in the days to come. I have known many journalists. They were ever improvident. I want to make an exception in your case. You understand; the money is for your old age."

"Let me tell you why a newspaper man is improvident. He earns money only to spend it. He has a fine scorn for money as money. He cares more for what a dollar spent has bought than what five saved might buy."

"Poor creditors!" was the melancholy interpolation. I passed over this and went on: "It is the work which absorbs his whole attention. He begins at the bottom of the ladder, which is in the garret. First, he is running about the streets at 2 and 3 in the morning in rain and snow and fog. The contact with the lower classes teaches him many things. He becomes the friend of the policeman and the vagabond. And as his mind grows broader his heart grows in proportion. It is the comparing of the great and small which makes us impartial and philosophical. Well, soon the reporter gets better assignments and shorter hours. He meets the noted men and women of the city. Suddenly from the city editor's desk his ambition turns to Washington. He succeeds there. He now comes into the presence of distinguished embassadors, ministers and diplomatists. He acquires a polish and a smattering of the languages. His work becomes a feature of his paper. The president chooses him for a friend. He comes and goes as he wills. Presently his eye furtively wanders to Europe. The highest ambition of a journalist, next to being a war correspondent, is to have a foreign post. In this capacity he meets the notable men and women of all countries. He speaks to princes and grand dukes and crowned heads. In a way he becomes a personage himself, a man whom great men seek. And he speaks of the world as the poet did of the fall of Pompeii, 'part of which I was and all of which I saw.' Ah," as my mind ran back over my own experiences, "what man with this to gain would care for money, a thing which would dull his imagination and take away the keen edge of ambition and make him play a useless part in this kingly drama of life."

"I like your frankness," said Pembroke. "I have no doubt that journalism is the most fascinating profession there is. Yet you must not accuse the rich of being ambitionless. I have known of rich men losing their all to make papers for men who are ambitious to be foreign correspondents." The young fellow was brimming with raillery. "I have never tried to run a newspaper, but I am, notwithstanding your tirade, ambitious. I am desirous to wed Miss Landors."

The cab was now rolling along the row.

"A truly great ambition," I admitted. "After all, what greater ambition is there than to marry the woman you love? Philip, I will accept your gift in the spirit it is given, and I'll make use of it in the days to come when I am old and rusted. I understand your motive. You are happy and wish every one to be."

"That's the idea," said he, leaning back and spreading an arm behind my shoulders.

"But not all the money in the world nor all the fame, for that matter, would make me happy." Gretchen was so far away! "Very well, we'll go to Paris together. That is as far as I go. To follow her you will have to go alone."

"And why can't you go the rest of the way?"

"Work. I must be back in town in three days. You must not forget that I have had my vacation. There is plenty to be done."

"Now that you are comparatively wealthy, why not give up the grind, as you call it?"

"The truth is I must work. When a man works, he forgets."

"Then you have something to forget?"

"Every man who has reached the age of 30 has something to forget," said I.

(To be continued.)

The lost child, who presently finds his way home in the policeman's protecting arms, is hugged to his mother's heart with a new joy. But the mother's heart is empty as her arms when her children are lost for life. How many a woman goes through such an experience, appealing in vain for help to local doctors, who confess that they are "puzzled" to understand the cause of the trouble.

In similar cases Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been used with such success that its record commends it to every woman whose children fail of vitality. "Favorite Prescription" gives the mother strength to give her child. It strengthens the female organism, giving great elasticity to the organs of maternity, and making the baby's advent practically painless. It is the true woman's medicine, establishing regularity, drying weakening drains, and healing inflammation.

"I can cheerfully recommend Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription as the best medicine for women," writes Mrs. Mary Murdock, of 220 Taylor St., Topeka, Kansas. "I am the mother of ten children and only one living—the tenth one. She is one year old and is as well and hearty as can be. She is a beauty. Of my other babies, some were born at right time, but dead, others were premature births; one lived to be one year old, but she was always feeble. I tried different doctors, but none of them could tell what my trouble was. They said I was well and strong. I was examined by surgeons, but they found nothing wrong, and they were puzzled to know what my trouble was. I did not know what to do, so I thought this last time I would try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I took it the entire nine months and now I have a fine baby girl, and I cannot praise your medicine enough for the good it did me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SYSTEM TONIC IS A SCIENTIFIC REMEDY AFTER THE SUGGESTIONS OF THE BEST PHYSICIANS IN AMERICA. DISPENSED BY A CHEMIST.

Fac-Simile of Genuine.

CONSTIPATION

The Greatest Factor in the Death Rate

This trouble has been well named the foe of mankind. More unpleasant symptoms, disease and deaths can be indirectly traced to constipation than to all other causes combined. But strange to say, as true and alarming as the above statement is, the majority of people afflicted give themselves but little concern. And just here is wherein the great danger lies. People do take physic, it's true, and relieve the present symptoms, but they do not press on diligently in search of a cure. By cure we mean restoring the natural healthy movement of the bowels day in and day out the year round without the aid of physic. Now this result is positively and absolutely guaranteed if you take Merrill's System Tonic. The alterative effects of Sarsaparilla, Red Clover and Burdock contained in it restore the glands, and more fluids are secreted in the stomach and bowels. Then the muscular toning effects of Hypophosphites therein restore natural muscular power to the muscles of the bowels which control evacuation. This is the scientific and correct way and differs altogether from the pill or physic idea, in which some irritating principle causes a movement in such a way as to make more necessary a repeated dose. Clear skin, buoyant health, active brain and vivacity follow the permanent cures of this trouble made by Merrill's System Tonic.

Each 50c bottle contains 50 pleasant-to-take doses, and is sold

STORIES OF LINCOLN.

THE TINY SOLDIER WHO ASSISTED AT THE PUBLIC LEVÉE.

Old Abe's Narrative About How the Flat Bottomed Boat Went Aground and How She Got Safely Back Into the Ohio River.

On one occasion a little drummer boy, securing leave of absence, accompanied a sergeant to a public levee that "Old Abe" was holding at the White House. They went early, and when President Lincoln appeared and the handshaking began they were not long in reaching him.

The tall man, almost a giant in physical proportions, looked down with an amused smile at the tiny drummer boy, who appeared hardly 10 years of age. Grasping the little fellow's right hand, the president suddenly reached out his left, swung the boy off his feet and set him gently down on a small table beside him.

"Aha, my little soldier," he said, laughing, "you shall help 'Uncle Abe' review this line today, and if your superior officer objects, why, I'll prolong your leave of absence!"

Lincoln asked the boy his age, place of residence, regiment and where he was on duty. Then, as some of the more important officers of the army or navy, members of congress or of the executive departments chanced to pass in the line, the president would gravely introduce his young assistant, with whom they were required to shake hands as well as with himself.

When the reception was over, President Lincoln took the boy into his private apartments and introduced him to Mrs. Lincoln. After entertaining him at luncheon he dismissed him with a brief note to the commanding officer of the hospital where he was then stationed telling why the boy's leave of absence had been extended.

Lincoln's geniality and willingness at all times to hear or to tell a good story were conspicuous traits, not always agreeable to some of his able but worried and irritable advisers.

On one occasion a sergeant had a squad of men at work unloading supplies from an Ohio river steamboat that in some mysterious manner had made its way from the interior to the coast waters of Virginia. It was a flat bottomed boat, drawing not more than three feet of water when loaded and hardly dampening its plank bottom when light. It was propelled by a horizontal stern wheel, driven by a small upright engine. Boats of that type were common on the Ohio, which runs almost dry at some seasons. They were known as "Pittsburgers" and were fabled to navigate freely in a heavy dew.

The sergeant's men were hard at work carrying rations ashore from this craft when suddenly they stopped and sent up a lusty cheer. A little tuglike steamer had pulled up alongside, and from it stepped a tall, awkward man dressed in rusty black and wearing a napless silk hat. The sergeant recognized the president and saluted.

"Your boat is well named, sergeant," said the latter gravely.

The soldier was puzzled. He did not know that the steamer had a name and said so.

The president took him by the arm and led him back on the tug. There the stern of the "Pittsburger" loomed above them, and on its dirty white surface in tarnished gilt letters a yard long appeared the single word, Mist.

"Yes," said Lincoln, "it's very well named indeed, sergeant. All those boats need is a mist, and they'll run anywhere.

"Years ago," he continued, "I was attending court in Cairo, Ills., when the Ohio was so low that all the water there was between its banks was what had spilled over from the Mississippi. Those 'Pittsburgers' were passing and repassing all the time. One night there came up a little shower that raised the level maybe a half inch. One of 'em got out of the channel, slid ashore and grounded in the mud right beside the courthouse.

"It was there the next morning, and I remarked to a brother attorney that that boat was aground to stay. He was from 'Egypt' and knew more about 'Pittsburgers' than I did. He merely smiled and said, 'You wait and see.'

"There came on another shower that afternoon. I heard an engine puffing and looked out of the courthouse window. Maybe you'll think I'm exaggerating, but there was that boat steaming down the road toward the river, and in two minutes she was back in the Ohio, just as the shower was over.

"I expressed my surprise to the judge, but he said that was nothing. If the shower hadn't come up in time, the captain would simply have hired a boy with a sprinkling pot to go ahead. They're great boats, sergeant. Likely as not this one got here by coming across country."

President Lincoln repeated this extravagant story without the ghost of a smile. During its recital Secretary Stanton and Generals Halleck and Sherman—the last named having run up the day before from his march through the Carolinas—who were with the party, had approached the president. General Sherman smiled broadly, but Stanton looked annoyed. The president caught his glance and, with a wink at the others, said, "But maybe you've heard this before, Stanton."

"Very likely I have," the secretary grimly responded, "but I would suggest, Mr. President, that General Grant is awaiting us."

The gleam of amusement left the kindly man's eyes. He gravely turned and shook hands with the sergeant and then strode after his companions as they made their way ashore.—Roe L. Hendrick in Youth's Companion.

Merely the President.

A characteristic anecdote of Lincoln dates back to the time when there were so many fires at the national capital that suspicion of incendiaries was entertained and various northern cities began to offer the services of special fire brigades. The authorities of Philadelphia in particular were most urgent and sent a special committee to wait upon the president and urge him to accept the services of such a brigade.

The committee was tedious and long winded, and the president was anxious to get back to the public business which demanded his attention. Finally, seeing no prospect of a termination of the interview in the usual way, he interrupted one of the orators in the midst of a grandiloquent flight by saying:

"Ah, yes, gentlemen, but it is a mistake to suppose that I am the head of the fire department in Washington. I am merely the president of the United States."—Youth's Companion.

Blessing of Cheap Paper.

Good literary work will live in successive editions in spite of bad paper. MILLIONAIRE DEAD.

Pierre Lorillard, First American to Win the English Derby, Passes Away.

New York, July 8.—Pierre Lorillard died at 2.10 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Pierre Lorillard was the eldest son of Peter Lorillard, architect of the fortune, which made the family name famous. He inherited much of the business ability of his father, and marked success attended the commercial enterprises which he planned and executed. At the death of his father he received about $1,000,000 and an interest jointly with his brothers and sisters in the great tobacco house, of which his father had been the head. He at once purchased from his brothers a control of the house and by shrewd management greatly increased his fortune. He built a handsome residence on Fifth avenue and 56th street and entertained in princely manner. In 1874 he became interested in the turf. His first great horse was Parole, and with Iroquois in 1881 he was the first American to win the classic English derby. He was also an enthusiastic yachtsman and once raced his Vesta across the Atlantic. He founded and controlled at the time of his death the fashionable resort at Tuxedo. He was nearly 68 years old. He is survived by his wife, son, Pierre Lorillard, jr., and daughters, Mrs. William Kent and Mrs. T. Suffern Taller. He leaves a large fortune.

Dominion Statue of the Queen.

Ottawa, July 8.—The statue of the late Queen, by Hobart, is being set up on Parliament Hill and is drawing considerable attention. The allegorical figure at the base and the British Lion were placed Saturday. The bronze of her late Majesty will surmount the whole to-day. The workmanship is of a kind that commands admiration. It is said to be the intention to have the unveiling take place in the fall, when the royal party visits Ottawa. The figure of the Queen rests at present on a trestle and is a magnificent conception ably carried out. In one hand rests the sceptre, whilst the other holds a book. The face is an excellent reproduction of one of the middle life photographs of her late Majesty. The tout-ensemble reminds one slightly of the statue of her younger self, which stands in the library of Parliament, though this figure is much more massive and developed.

60,000,000 of Manitoba Wheat.

Winnipeg, July 8. — In a political address Premier Roblin said, with regard to the crop, that he had been in the province since 1877, and had never seen or heard of such glowing prospects as at present. As Minister of Agriculture, he was sure that the yield would be nearer thirty bushels per acre than twenty-five, which would mean 60,000,000 bushels raised in the province. With regard to the additional labor required to handle the crop, he had formerly estimated it would require 15,000 men, but now he thought it would be quite 20,000 that would be required, and that would only mean one extra man to each two farmers.

The C. P. R. issued its weekly crop reports Saturday and these are unanimous that prospects could not be better. To give the detailed report as usual would simply be to print a repetition of superlatives.

Wheels Passed Over His Head.

Sydney, N. S., July 8.—Harry Patten of River Phillip, Cumberland County, engaged as a brakeman by the Dominion Iron & Steel Company about a week ago, was killed at the coke ovens late Saturday. Patten was clinging to the side of a moving freight car when his body came in contact with a coal conveyer lying on the side of the track. The conveyer threw him between the cars and two wheels passed over him, fracturing his skull. He died 20 minutes afterwards.

Wants a Bigger Price.

Montreal, July 8.—In connection with Sir Wilfrid Laurier's visit to Quebec it is said by a correspondent of Le Journal that he did not sign the deed of the Plains of Abraham. The promise to sell, signed by Mr. Tanquay, the proprietor of Marchmont, for $80,000, expired on June 30, and, it is said, he now wants a larger price.

Serious Runaway.

Hamilton, July 8. — While driving through Dundurn Park Saturday evening, Mrs. Nellie Lemon of the Plains road was badly injured. Her horses ran away, upsetting the rig. Mrs. Lemon's hip was dislocated and her body badly bruised. She was taken home in the ambulance.

Hundreds Poisoned.

Ardmore, I. T., July 8.—Several hundred persons were poisoned at Ada yesterday by drinking lemonade. Three children are reported dead and many seriously ill.

Mr. Gallagher Nominated.

Kingston, July 8.—At a convention on Saturday afternoon of Conservatives of the County of Frontenac, J. L. Gallagher, M. P. P., Harrowsmith, was nominated as the party's candidate in the approaching campaign. Dr. J. W. Edwards, County Clerk, was nominated, but withdrew in favor of Mr. Gallagher.

Wm. Roche, M. P., Rescues a Child.

Halifax, N. S., July 8. — William Roche, M. P., rescued a little girl from drowning last evening. She was playing with half a hundred other children around the margin of Egg Pond when she slipped and fell in. Mr. Roche promptly plunged to her assistance and swam with her to the shore. This is the second life he has saved within a few years.

Pickpockets Sentenced.

Stratford, July 8.—J. C. W. Wilson, who was arrested at the Commercial Hotel, charged with pocket-picking on the occasion of the visit of Ringling Bros.' Circus, was found guilty by Magistrate Loane on Saturday and sentenced to five years in Kingston. Verne Carlyle, a confederate, was given three years at hard labor.

Taxing Laundries.

Ottawa, July 8.—The Hull City Council, at a meeting Saturday night, passed a bylaw imposing a tax of $25 yearly on all laundries in general, but is more particularly intended to affect the Chinese.

PUT OUT OF THE FIGHT

8,000 Boers in the Past Four Months Have Gone Under.

BRITISH CONTENTION UPHELD.

American Prisoners Are Enemies and Will Have to Wait for the End of the War for Their Release—Scheeper's Commando Has Entered Murraysburg, Cape Colony.

London, July 9.—The financial secretary of the War Office, Lord Stanley, in the House of Commons yesterday, in answer to a question, gave the total number of Boers killed, wounded or made prisoners from among the active commands recently as follows:

March	1,473
April	2,434
May	2,640
June, incomplete	1,538

Married Murraysburg.

London, July 9.—A special despatch from Cape Town, dated yesterday, says Scheeper's Boer commando has entered Murraysburg, Cape Colony, and burned the public buildings and residences. The town was not garrisoned.

Murraysburg is situated in about the centre of Cape Colony, not far from the railroad leading from Cape Town to Kimberley and 245 miles from Algoa Bay.

TEST CASE SETTLED.

An American Citizen Becomes an Enemy of Britain if He Fights for the Boers.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Americans fighting in the Boer army made prisoners by the British will have to endure their captivity until the close of the South African war.

Great Britain has declined to comply with the request of this Government to release an American now confined in the Island of Ceylon, and this declination will probably prove a bar to further representation by the State Department in behalf of Americans captured as belligerents in South Africa.

The test case was that of a naturalized American named Morgan, who claims residence in Virginia. Sir Alfred Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, disapproves of the release of foreigners who fought with the Boers. He has announced that a person who serves as a belligerent with the Boer forces loses his nationality, and must be treated as an enemy. This view is concurred in by the legal officers of the State Department.

The department is satisfied, from investigations made by American consuls and the British authorities, that all reports that the British are ill-treating their prisoners are without foundation. The only hardship that Americans captured in South Africa will have to undergo will be that of confinement until hostilities cease.

Partisan Committee.

London, July 9.—The charge has been formally made against the committee which sent Miss Hobhouse to South Africa to make a report upon the refuge camps, and whose disclosures caused such a sensation, has suppressed another report received from another agent, contrary in character to that of Miss Hobhouse. This other report was drawn up by a medical man whom the committee had sent out at the same time with Miss Hobhouse, and its tenor was distinctly favorable to the authorities, praising the generals' desire to act with humanity and considerately. So far the committee has not contradicted the story.

Kruger Denies Peace Offers.

Amsterdam, July 9.—Former President Kruger officially admits that cipher messages have passed between him and Gen. Botha, commander-in-chief of the Boer forces, but denies that peace was suggested. Gen. Botha, Mr. Kruger says, asked him by what chance could the Boers obtain European intervention. Mr. Kruger replied: "By the subversion of the Chamberlain Ministry."

U. S. Consul Gets Out.

London, July 9.—A despatch received here from Cape Town announces that United States Consul General James G. Stowe has resigned, and that he will sail from Cape Town on his return to the United States on July 25.

Dr. Leyds Challenged.

Paris, July 9.—Dr. Leyds left Paris yesterday after a stay of eight days. Before leaving Dr. Leyds had a most unpleasant public encounter with Deputy Millevoy, editor of Patrie, and a prominent pro-Boer, who challenged the Transvaal representative to explain where the vast sums subscribed for the South African cause in France, Germany, and Holland had gone, intimating that only an infinitesmal part of those many millions ever left the hands of the supposed distributors.

S. A. CONSTABULARY.

The Arrival of the Canadians and Their Disposition at the Seat of War—Capt. Fell's Report.

Ottawa, July 9.—The Governor-General has received a report from Captain Perry Fall of the South African Constabulary, covering the progress of the Canadian contingent from St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, to their arrival and disposition in South Africa. Accompanying the report is a nominal roll of the contingent, with particulars as to each man's description, place of birth, etc. The report states that after leaving St. Vincent 60 or 70 cases of measels—and mumps developed among the men, but, fortunately, without any further casualties beyond these reported. On arrival at Cape Town and previous to entrainment for upcountry each man was served out with an equipment, consisting of rifle and bayonet, bandolier and cartridge belt, haversack, water bottle and canteen. In view of the fact, however, that it was understood the men would arrive in khaki clothing, no uniforms had been provided for them. Consequently they journeyed up in their sea-going kit of sweaters, overalls and toques. The one hundred rifles obtained from the Militia Department at Ottawa were handed over to the Captain of the transport Montfort for return to Canada. The following disposition has been made of the force. To Bloemfontein—509 non-commissioned officers and men, being Squadrons D, E, I and K, with Captains Critchley, Powell, Pousette and Beer, Lts. Ermatinger, O'Meara, French, McCarthy, Morgan, Foulkes, Machin, Eaton, Thompson and Burritt. To Heidelburg—400 non-commissioned officers and men, being C, H, L and M Squadrons, with Captains Moore and McGiverin, Lts. Folger, Willetts, St. George, Atwater and Lightbound. To Krugersdorp — 300 non-commissioned officers and men, being A, B and F Squadrons, with Captains Lawless, Burstall and Bennett, Lts. Oland, Irvine and Hampson. Captain Reading, Adjutant, handed over all documents, attestations, etc, to the chief staff officer at Modderfontein and then proceeded to Bloemfontein. Captain F. L. Vaux, C. A. M. S., of Ottawa, who was in medical charge of the contingent, as far as Cape Town, was on arrival at that place posted to Modderfontein. The nominal roll states that the men in H Squadron belong to Toronto, and those in I Squadron come from London, Ottawa, Kingston and Belleville.

NEW TITLE OF THE KING.

Sir David Tennant Says "Sovereign of Greater Britain."

London, July 9.—The addition to be made to the title of King Edward VII. in compliment to the colonies, will probably note the colonies by name: It is more likely to be one generic title, covering all the colonies, such as "Sovereign of Great Britain."

Sir David Tennant, the Agent General at the Cape, said yesterday: "The suggested addition to the royal titles is undoubtedly very gratifying to colonies. That which I represent, at all events, will take it as representative of a marked change in the attitude of the Imperial Government toward the British beyond the seas. I have good reasons to believe that 'Sovereign of Greater Britain' is practically decided upon as the form the new title is to assume."

THE LISGAR ELECTION.

Trial of the Protest Resumed at Manitou, Man.

Winnipeg, July 9.—The Lisgar election trial was resumed yesterday morning at Manitou before Chief Justice Killam and Judge Dubuc. The application to commit Mr. R. L. Richardson, M. P., for contempt was first taken up, but on Mr. Richardson's counsel, Mr. J. S. Ewart, agreeing that no further comment would appear in defendant's paper during the trial, the motion was allowed to lapse.

Evidence in the alleged corrupt practices was then taken up. Only two witnesses were examined, and both were promised the protection of the court. Neither witness gave his evidence with any excessive freedom, and with Clereaux considerable difficulty was experienced, owing to its being necessary to use an interpreter.

James Wesley Umphrey, a farmer resident in Miami, and a duly qualified voter at the last Dominion election, testified that he was at Brandon at the time of the last Dominion election. He said he got $25 or $3 in Winnipeg for the purpose of hiring teams on election day. He went to Winnipeg to try and raise money. A. Clereaux was also examined. He did his speaking in the campaign without any solicitation on the part of Richardson.

Mother Finds Son Dead.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 9.—Frederick D. White, son of Andrew D. White, U. S. Ambassador to Germany, committed suicide yesterday afternoon at his home. He was a physical wreck, owing to an exhausting nervous disease. The deed was done with a rifle. His mother found him in the bathroom dead, from a bullet through his brain. Ambassador White was cabled the sad intelligence at Berlin. The deceased was his only son, and was 43 years of age. He was a lawyer. He leaves a widow and one son.

Escaped Convict Caught.

Kingston, July 9. — The convict George Richardson, who escaped Friday morning from Deputy Sheriff J. Stephenson and Constable Symes while en route from Sault Ste. Marie to Kingston Penitentiary to serve a sentence of ten years, was captured Sunday night on the farm of Col. Clyde Wilton, 12 miles west of Kingston. The prisoner's face was cut and bruised, and his clothing torn as the result of his jump from the moving train. His captors received a reward of $30.

Passenger Train "Side-Wiped."

Columbus, Ohio, July 9.—The New York express due here at 1.45 p. m. was "side-wiped" by a switch engine just outside the Union Station here yesterday afternoon, and 25 people were injured, seven of whom were unable to proceed on their way west. The passenger train was approaching the station at a rapid rate of speed when the switch engine dashed out from the siding, striking the third coach. Two cars were demolished.

Funeral of John W. Bell.

Napanee, July 9.—The funeral of the late John W. Bell, M. P., took place from his home in Desmond on Sunday morning and was attended by about 3,000 people. Over 600 Orangemen followed the remains, including Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Str. Mackenzie Bowell, Past Grand Master of Ontario; R. H. Holland, Grand Master of Ontario East, and other prominent officials of the order. Before the funeral left the house Messrs. Wallace and Bowell spoke eloquently of the great loss sustained by the community by the death of Mr. Bell.

CHANGES IN TEXT BOOKS.

(From the Globe.)

The question of text book changes must be approached with the conviction that the school children of Ontario are to have the best text books and that the parents of Ontario will insist that their children have the best text books. This admits of no argument. There is a second conviction equally beyond argument: The best text books of ten years ago are not necessarily the best text books of to-day. Ten years in the history of human thought and progress in the present era is greater than fifty or a hundred years in the centuries that are past. Every decade brings new outlooks and new problems. In their own way text books should represent the new outlooks. The text books of 1890 cannot always faithfully represent the world of 1900. Of course this is not true of all text books. The character of its subject or the wisdom of its author may retain for a book its superiority far beyond a decade. The Minister of Education is singularly fortunate in that at the close of the decade and century the list of authorized text books has needed but little revision. The revision now completed has affected only ten books or series of books out of a total of fifty one books authorized in public and high schools.

The books thus revised during the last two or three years are the Public School Grammar, Public School Arithmetic, Public School Geography, the Copy Books, the Drawing Books, and the Bookkeeping in the Public School list, and the High School Grammar, the High School Latin, German and French Grammars in the High School list. The revision of the grammar needs no justification. Every teacher knows that the study of grammar has undergone great changes in method, purpose and extent, during the last ten years. The curricula and the examinations of the Education Department and of the University, give evidence of these changes. Formal analysis and parsing, technical grammar, minute classification, are gradually giving place to such a knowledge of the grammar of the language as is of value in the ordinary uses of life. What is true of grammar is also true of arithmetic. Here the modern teacher demands such a treatment of the subject as develops in the student accuracy, rapidity and neatness of execution—all virtues of vast importance in the modern industrial world. A mere reference to the great changes in execution, in map work and plate work, to political and industrial changes in China, South Africa, Australia, the Yukon District and western Canada to industrial, commercial and statistical changes during the last decade (the geography was authorized in 1877) will amply justify the issuance of a new geography.

There have been two authorized copy books sets, one the vertical and the other the ordinary Spencerian style. The vertical was a copyright reprint of an American edition with American sentiments in the headlines. The authorization of a new set more national in spirit in lieu of this latter set bears its own justification. Changes in copy books are, however, of little significance in the matter of cost, for new copy books are never bought until the old ones are filled and discarded. Drawing is a comparatively new subject in school courses in Canada and elsewhere, and unlike all new subjects its nature and extent are somewhat unsettled. Ten years have seen great changes, and these changes are represented in the new series. Drawing masters are now better able to classify and grade their exercises, to give more prominence to industrial ends than heretofore; their exercises now have life and purpose, where formerly they consisted of aimless circles, square and triangles. The changes of the decade are seen best, however, in the improved paper, plate work and binding so necessary in books of art studies. But drawing book changes have as little significance financially to the pupils as changes in copy books. A pupil does not purchase a new book until he has filled and discarded his old one. It is then immaterial to him financially whether he buy a book from the new or the old set of authorized texts. Properby speaking there has hitherto been no authorized public school text in bookkeeping. The high school text, which has been generally used, was too minute, too advanced, too theoretical and too expensive. A special public school bookkeeping text at about one-third the cost of the high school text book has now been authorized.

The new edition of the High School Grammar was issued under conditions and for reasons exactly similar to those that obtained in connection with the Public School Grammar. Changes and discoveries in the department of philology and historical grammer would alone justify the new edition. The demand for a revision of the grammars in the foreign languages came from a desire for a better arrangement of material, for more carefully selected exercises, and generally for a recognition of more modern pedagogical methods in languages.

It is not enough that these changes are advisable or necessary, or that they are insignificent in number. The Minister invariably has regard to other conditions. In the first place, changes should be asked for by teachers. No change has been made that has not been urged by the teachers in season and out of season in their country and Provincial associations; and no change has been made that has not won the hearty commendation of all true teachers. In the second place, changes should be made with as little derangement of the school life and economy as possible. For this reason the new editions, so far as compatible with the purpose to improve and correct, correspond in treatment with the old and are to be used side by side with them. With this idea the masters are urged to change from the old editions gradually, and with the least possible disturbance and expense. For this both editions are authorized, and both alike must be considered by examiners and teachers in preparing and valuing the answer papers of candidates. Finally, for this reason the regulations specially provide that any school board may by resolution retain the old edition in use. In the third place, changes should be made with due regard to the cost to the pupils. The revised arithmetic, grammar, geography and copy books of the public school list are indisputably better books mechanically—and the exellent if imperceptible influences of well-made books should not be overlooked—than the old editions, and yet the old prices remain, viz.: grammar, 25c; arithmetic, 25c; geography, 75c; copy books, seven books at seven cents each. In drawing, the new edition consists of five books at 5c each, instead of 6 books at 5c each, a decreased cost of 5c per pupil; while in bookkeeping a 60c book has been replaced by a more suitable 25c book. To the public school pupil, then, who buys all the new editions, the decreased cost is 40c. If it were possible to consider the 470,000 public school students, the saving would be $180,000.

The High School Grammar remains as heretofore at 75c. The revision of the grammars of the foreign languages was taken advantage of to amalgamate grammars and readers, with admirable results to the convenience of the student. This amalgamation obviates also the evil of annual changes in the selections to be read, and decreases the cost of text books by one-half, as can be seen by a reference to the cost in 1899 and 1901 or 1902. In 1899 the Latin Grammer, with the required selections from Caesar and Virgil for Forms I., II., and III., of the high schools, cost $2.25. With the new edition they cost $1.50. In French the corresponding amounts in 1899 and 1901 are $2.50 and $1.25; in German, $2.25 and $1.50. This means a saving to a student in Latin of 75c, to a student in German of 75c, to a student in French of $1.25, or to a student in the three languages of $2.75. But other changes that are not revisions have also resulted in great savings to the high school students. The High School Botanical Note Books (Part I. at 50c, and Part II. at 60c), have been withdrawn from the list of authorized books, together with the bookkeeping blanks at 25c, making an additional saving of $1.35. When the interests of 19,000 high school students and about 20,000 students in continuation classes are considered, the total of the possible saving of $4.10 per pupil becomes enormous.

A change in ten out of fity-one text books after the lapse of more than a decade does not seem excessive. They have been much less frequent than in the United States; quite less frequent than in England, where the local school authorities practically control the text books; decidedly less than in France, where the teachers themselves may annually revise the text book lists. In the latter country it must be remembered there is much, educationally speaking, to be admired. In the cases of several of the books the revisions of which are complained of there had been no change for as long a period as from ten to fifteen years. And if changes are not numerous and not frequent, why this idle repeating of "the confusion and annoyance of endless changes?" Shouting parrot-like "new books" proves nothing. There is no magic in the use of the word "changes." Reiterating the word "changes" is not argument. The question is, have we better books than formerly, and were the changes imperatively called for in the interests of the schools.

SEDIMENT IN THE URINE

One of the Indications of Serious Kidney Trouble, That Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Completely Cures.

Sediment in the urine, no matter what its nature, whether it be brick dust, white particles floating through through it, or slimy deposits, is indicative of serious kidney derangement.

There is no remedy can so quickly clear up the urine and cure the kidney trouble as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets—the modern medicine for backache, kidney, bladder and urinary disorders.

Mr. W. Patterson, electrician, Whitby, Ont., says:—"Permit me to say that the bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets I got at the store of J. E. Willis, druggist, Whitby, has done me a great deal of good. I have tried other kidney remedies without result, and find in these just what I want. My water, that used to be dark, bad and full of sediment, is now clear, and my bowels move easily, regularly and gently, with no griping. I have worked steadily and the pain I used to suffer with is gone entirely."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

STRIKING TRACKMEN.

The Story of Intervention From Winnipeg Unfounded.

THE GREAT STEEL STRIKE.

A Meeting of Workmen and Employers to Be Held in Pittsburg on Thursday From Which Great Things Are Expected — President Shaffer's Statement—Mr. Schwab May Be Present.

Montreal, July 9.—The trackmen's strike on the Canadian Pacific Railway entered upon the fourth week yesterday, and neither side has any development of importance to report. Mr. McNicoll, the General Manager, states that the reports from the General Superintendents in all parts of the system show that the men are steadily returning to work, and that so far as Ontario is concerned the track is manned up to the full strength of the summer service. Mr. Wilson, the trackmen's President, emphatically denies the reports which appear in Toronto newspapers to the effect that there are dissensions in the committee on the subject of the strike, and that a number of them have gone home with the intention of returning to work. He says that Organizer Hooper, who has been an active supporter of the movement, has gone up west on business connected with the strike, and has not gone home, as was erroneously announced. It is also denied that the general committee ordered the strike before they received from Mr. McNicoll the company's decision to increase the wages of a certain proportion of the employes, and they say that they fully considered the announcement made by the company, and were unanimously of opinion that it did not meet their requirements. It was after this the strike was ordered.

Obtaining Men East.

Toronto, July 9.—It was stated yesterday by the Canadian Pacific officials that yesterday morning the railway filled two more sections on the main line between Toronto and Smith's Falls. The company appear to be steadily obtaining men for that section. Word was received by the Canadian Pacific officials from Montreal that there is absolutely no truth in the statement wired from Winnipeg that representatives of the other brotherhoods were coming east to endeavor to effect a settlement.

The Trackmen's Strike.

Toronto, July 9. — A. B. Lorne, First Vice-President of the United Brotherhood of Railroad Trackmen, was in Toronto yesterday. He is confident the striking trackmen will win their cause, and will remain firm.

General Superintendent Timmerman was advised yesterday that the men on the eastern division were returning. Two section gangs were reported to have gone back at Smith's Falls.

THE GREAT STEEL STRIKE.

Settlement Expected to Be Reached Within the Next Five Days.

New York, July 9. — It is expected that the great steel strike will be settled within five days, the program being to hold a meeting in New York or Pittsburg on Wednesday or Thursday. The expected settlement will be the result of J. Pierpont Morgan's efforts.

May Prevent a Settlement.

Pittsburg, July 9. — The temporary dismissal on Saturday of twelve members of the Amalgamated Association at the Wellsville plant of the American Steel Company may seriously affect the reported settlement this week of the iron and steel strike. President Shaffer said there would be no conference until the men discharged are reinstated.

If the Wellsville matter can be settled it is believed the conference will be quickly arranged and the strike declared off before the end of the week. Fully 12,000 men returned to work yesterday.

At the offices of the combine it was learned that nothing had been heard of President Shaffer's new move. The arrangements for the conference were going on, and next Thursday will likely be the day set.

100 Cars Block Traffic.

Reading, Pa., July 9. — The strike of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company freight handlers is still on. The company has over 100 cars blocking traffic in the yard here.

The men requested that their wages be advanced from 14 to 18 cents an hour. They want a 9-hour day and double time for overtime on Sundays or holidays, and time and a half on other overtime.

The Reading Iron Company's strike, involving 2,600 men, is still unsettled.

Acting President Welch sent another offer to the strikers yesterday afternoon. He gives them until today to return to work, and agrees to pay them three days' wages. The striking shop hands met and rejected the offer.

Strike Over at Youngstown.

Youngstown, Ohio, July 9. — The mills of the Republic Iron and Steel Company and the Bar Iron Combine resumed yesterday, and 25,000 men went back to work. The men get an advance of 5 per cent.

SPEEDILY SETTLED.

President Shaffer Issues a Statement Expressing Hope For Strike Ending.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 9. — "That which I believe will prove a most important conference in the history of capital and labor will open in Hotel Lincoln, Pittsburg, next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, when the highest officials of the Amalgamated Association gathers from all parts of the country, will meet high officials in the iron and steel industries to settle grave questions. Every vice-president of the Amalgamated Association from Alabama north is hurrying toward Pittsburg on my telegraph order. I have considered it best that they be called to confer at this time instead of the regular conferers who have usually met to adjust differences.

"As yet I am in ignorance as to who will constitute the committee representing the steel people, the employers. I have been informed that President Charles M. Schwab of the United States Steel Corporation, will be present in person, but do not know this to be a fact. The laboring man is at present confronted with some peculiar conditions, which, I hope will be adjusted at the coming conference.

"I believe the strike will be speedily settled. Theodore J. Shaffer."

The above is the statement made by President Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association late last evening.

THE COMMONEST OF ALL TROUBLES.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are Used More for Backache Than for any Other Kidney Affection.

Bright's Disease not so Frequent of Late Years—Dodd's Kidney Pills Undoubtedly the Cause—Diabetes Also far Less Prevalent.

Matane, Que., July 7. — (Special.)— Not only in this neighbourhood but throughout the Province of Quebec, there is a marked decrease noticeable in the number of cases of Bright's Disease reported. This fact is undoubtedly due to the wide use of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the earlier stages of Kidney Disease.

Bright's Disease at one time was the cause of a large proportion of the deaths in this province. It was considered incurable and until Dodd's Kidney Pills were introduced, it was incurable. Not so, however, now. Dodd's Kidney Pills have almost wiped the disease out. Nor is Diabetes heard of now to any great extent.

The most common form by which Kidney Disease manifests itself is Backache, and here Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing their most active work. They are recognized as the surest and quickest cure for Backache ever invented. They work on the sound principle of going to the root of the trouble — the Kidneys—wherein they differ from all other backache medicines except imitations of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They do more than merely relieve. They positively and permanently cure, as thousands of people are ready to testify.

O. Dionne, a well-known resident of Matane, says, "Dodd's Kidney Pills have made a grand success in curing me of Backache, and I recommend everybody to keep them in the house. They are a wonder as a remedy for Backache and Disease of the Kidneys."

Is Your Piano in Tune?

The change of season affects pianos as well as everything else. Mr. Geo. Gumpricht, practical piano maker and tuner, with twenty-eight years' experience, attends to all orders left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drugstore.

Can Get the Purse.

The party that lost pocket book on Hunter street on Saturday, June 29th, can have the same by calling at the Examiner office and learning address. The little girl that found it had no intention of keeping it. If the party had advertised at once it would have saved the child a great deal of trouble, as she was out two afternoons making inquiries.

Trackmen Still Out.

The strike as far as the local division of the C.P.R. is concerned, remains about the same. The men between Toronto and Smith's Falls are still out, so it is said. There are "scab" section hands working out of Burkton, Peterborough, Havelock, and Leaside Junction, but these are the only ones between Smith's Falls and Toronto. Of course a patrol train goes over the road each day.

A Local Man's Loss.

AMERICAN VISITORS.

A Boys' Choir From Near Pittsburg was in Town This Morning.

Peterborough was to-day invaded by a party of about twenty-five juvenile Yankees who were on their way to the back lakes on a two weeks' outing. They belong to an Episcopal church choir near Pittsburg and are being brought to Canada by Mr. J. R. Dodworth, who has this summer built a handsome summer cottage on the Dummer shore. The boys attracted considerable attention on the streets this morning as they paraded around, awaiting train connections. They were quite conversational with the citizens who took a deep interest in the boys. They made an onslaughter on the Peterborough Hardware Company and the procession to the station was made as they were laden down with all kinds of fishing tackle.

To a representative of the Examiner Mr. Dodworth expressed himself as highly pleased with his former trips to Stony Lake, so much so in fact that he had built a cottage of his own. He had been asked he said about having his choir come down to Peterborough on Sunday and take the musical service in St. John's, but such an arrangement could not be carried out. He was bringing the boys out for recreation and he wanted to see them get it. However some evening the boys might sing at the pavilion if the cottagers so desired.

MID-SUMMER HEAT.

It's a little earlier than usual this intense heat, sent perhaps as a reminder that we're going to have a summer just the same as usual and giving you notice that you had better prepare for it.

KEEP COOL.

You'll find the heat will not effect you much if you have cool things to wear. We have some of the best values you can find in lightweight, breezy stuffs for cool costumes. Ladies are comfortable in them and are satisfied over their purchase. The assortment is still very complete.

15 PIECES beautiful Light Coloured Muslins in entirely new patterns. They are decidedly cheap at 20 cents a yard, but we're selling them at 12½ cents a yard. You had better see them.

25 PIECES Dark Coloured Muslins, navy blues and royal blue grounds, with polka dots, in three or four different sizes of dots; elegant, fine quality, light weight stuffs. Just the thing for cool Wrappers, Dresses, Waists, etc. The regular price of them is 25 cents per yard, and they are on sale now at 15 cents per yard. That is a genuine bargain, so you had better see them.

HOW MUCH OF IT.

We are displaying some particularly beautiful Neck Ribbons, extra widths and extra weights, in Satin, Duchesse and Taffeta makes in fast colours and delicate shades, and better still we can recommend them to you for their washing qualities. They have all been tried and tested and our guarantee goes with them. You could not find better ribbon value if you looked the country over, and you should not neglect this chance to get them at these prices:—

SATIN DUCHESSE RIBBONS in the correct widths for neck ribbons, all shades, 30 and 35 cents per yard.

TAFFETA RIBBONS in the correct widths for neck ribbons, all shades, 25 and 35 cents per yard.

A POINT TO REMEMBER.

Our ready-to-wear White Underskirts are made of the best bleached cottons. They are well made and trimmed with embroidery that is meant to stand the wear. They are worth all they cost and more—and will give comfort and pleasure to the wearer.

WHITE UNDERSKIRTS, well trimmed with embroidery at $1.25.

WHEN GOING FOR A TRIP

Don't forget to take along either a Steamer Rug or one of our Kelvin Capes. You'll find them useful as a wrap, although the weather is intensely warm, the evenings are cool, so be careful.

We show a wonderful bargain in a Cape in regulation Tartans at $6.00 each. See it.

HOUSTON INQUEST AGAIN ADJOURNED.

Those Who Saw Houston's Fatal Step.

LAST NIGHT'S EVIDENCE.

A Brother-in-law and Niece Testify—An Adjournment Until To-night—Nothing Startlingly New.

The inquest on the death by drowning of George Houston in the Otonabee River on the night of Monday, June 25th, resumed last night in the County Council Chamber before Coroner Gray.

The Crown's interests were looked after by County Crown Attorney Wood. Mr. A. E. Dixon represented the deceased's relatives, and Mr. G. W. Hatton was present on behalf of Mr. H. Calcutt, owner of the steamer Water Lily.

The following jurors answered to their names: R. H. Kells, foreman: Thomas Ellis, A. E. Micks, T. C. Elliott, J. W. Butcher, John Lockhart, Wm. Fair, Wm. Yelland, J. H. Ames, J. S. Boswell, John Irwin, John Armour, J. C. Smith, John Fowler.

The first witness was Louis Johnston. He was on board the steamer Water Lily the evening of the accident, and he corroborated what Mr. Mulligan had said, so far as he himself had seen.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan was re-called. Cross-examined by Mr. Hatton, he stated that the excursion was under the auspices of the Canadian General Electric Co. Glee Club. They had charge of the arrangements for the hiring of the boat, the details of which took place in Mr. Calcutt's office. They were to have the boat for $10, and a scow for $5. They had not control of the boat, only the finances. At the time of the hiring of the boat there was something said about how the scow was to be attached. The captain of the boat said the scow must be towed behind the steamer.

Dr. McClelland, who performed the post mortem examination, submitted his report, which showed the body to have been in a healthy condition, and that death was due to drowning. The post mortem examination was signed by Dr. McCullough, who assisted in the performance of the same.

WHAT ROBERT REID SAW.

Robert Reid was called. He was also on the boat the night of the accident. He saw the deceased on a plank going across to the boat from the scow. He did not seem to be walking, but merely standing, and suddenly he fell in front of the plank into the water. Witness, who was on top of the scow at the time, immediately got down with one hand on the boat and the other on the scow in an attempt to save him. He could not, however, reach him. Witness again got up on top of the scow and saw Houston about 30 feet behind the same.

To Mr. Wood, witness said that deceased fell forward. He would judge that the scow and the boat were about three feet apart. The accident occurred about five miles down the river; it was on the return trip to town, the boat being about half a mile on its return trip. Continuing witness said that he saw a bench floating in the water about ten feet from him. He saw a life boat start after Houston.

To Mr. Hatton, witness said that he was about 15 or 20 feet from the deceased when the accident occurred. He admitted that the scow and boat may not have been any more than 18 inches apart. He saw no floats on the scow, but there may have been some.

To Mr. Dixon, witness could not say how wide the plank was that ran from the boat to the scow. He was down to the scow next day and saw no notices of where life preservers were to be found. There was only one person in the life boat when it went out first; it came back, and a second man got in.

ANOTHER WHO SAW IT.

J. E. A. Fitzgerald was next sworn. He was also on the excursion. He crossed over and back from the boat to the scow. He would judge that the distance between the boat and the scow was about two feet and a half. The plank was about twelve inches wide, but was sound. It was raised up on a rope, but witness himself placed the plank underneath the rope. A person could fall from it quite easily; there was nothing to prevent them. The night was quite bright by moonlight; did not think there were any lamps. He saw witness fall in; nobody pushed him in anyway. He appeared to step off the corner of the plank, as it went on the scow. Deceased missed his footing from all appearance. Witness then shouted that there was a man in the water.

To Mr. Hatton, witness thought that the plank was a dangerous place. He did not, however, call the attention of the crew to it. He was about three feet from the man when he fell in. It was a bright moonlight night, and as far as he knew there was no need for lamps. There was an open space in the railing for people to pass.

MR. HILL'S EVIDENCE.

William Hill, another excursionist, said that he was in the act of pushing a bench down from the top of the bow of the scow for the accommodation of some ladies when the accident occurred. He saw a man falling into the water between the scow and the boat. He with others gave the alarm to have the boat stopped, and then they made their way to the rear of the scow and saw deceased struggling in the water about 25 feet behind them. Some one then threw out a bench, but it did not alight sufficiently near him for him to reach it. About from three to five minutes elapsed before the life boat was put out for him.

To Mr. Hatton, witness again said that it was from three to five minutes between the time the man fell into the water and the time the life boat was landed. There appeared to be some difficulty in lowering the boat, more than witness thought there should be. Witness did not see the plank that ran from the scow to the boat, which was the only means apparently that there was of getting from scow to boat or from boat to scow.

To Mr. Dixon witness said that there was about three or four feet distance between the scow and the boat.

ROBERT SHEPPHARD TOO.

Robert H. Shepphard was on top of the scow along with the previous witness, when the accident occurred. He saw a man step on the plank and then fall into the water. The man appeared to miss his step and fell towards the bow of the boat. Witness' evidence was much the same as that of the preceding witness, excepting that Shepphard said that deceased cried back that he could swim. Sheppard asked him if he could swim and he cried "Yes." He did not see why he did not get to the bench. He seemed to be going towards the shore. It was witness who placed the plank from the scow to the boat. Witness was a member of the committee. The plank was placed in this position at the wharf before starting out. He placed it there because some ladies wanted to get across and there was apparently no other way of getting across. The scow was towed after getting into Little Lake and then the plank was replaced again. He would judge from where he was that the distance between the scow and the boat was about three feet at the point where the plank was placed. He did not consider that it was a safe place to cross. He though that it was about three minutes time before the boat was lowered. He saw no life preservers on the scow and he also though that had deceased wanted to catch anything he would have caught the plank. Witness had his coat off ready to go to his assistance had deceased not said that he could swim.

DECEASED'S NIECE.

Miss Minnie Meharry, niece of the deceased man, told of having gone to the excursion with her uncle, George Houston. She was near him when he fell in. She was on the steamboat and her uncle was coming off the scow to the boat. She was looking right at him. He did not step on the plank. He was looking at her in the bow of the boat. The distance between the scow and the boat was such that she could not step over it as she subsequently tried to do so. She then was helped across by three or four men. She observed the plank to be wet and slippery. She asked to see the Captain when she came to Peterborough and that gentleman said that her uncle certainly reached the shore and that he thought that he would be home at two o'clock. Witness saw no life preservers around.

To Mr. Dixon witness went on to say that Capt. Calcutt was in her opinion the worse of liquor, which opinion she formed by his manner and conversation, as well as the fact that she smelt liquor.

To Mr. Hatton witness said that she was sure that she smelt liquor off Capt. Calcutt when she was talking to him at Peterborough. She could not say that the boat and the scow were any further apart when she tried to cross than when the accident occurred. She did not like the Captain's manner when he was talking to her. He seemed very unconcerned. She mentioned to her friend, Miss Robertson, who was with her at the time that the Captain was under the influence of liquor. "Do you know as a matter of fact that the young man does not drink at all?" asked Mr. Hatton and the witness replied that she did not know.

Miss Ada Robertson, the young lady who was with Miss Meharry when they were talking to Capt. Calcutt, corroborated the previous witness' evidence. She thought that Capt. Calcutt gave them very little satisfaction and appeared to be very little concerned over the matter. She could not say that there were any evidences that the Captain was under the influence of liquor. He might however, have spoken in a more concerned manner. Witness crossed the plank as the boat was leaving town. She again insisted that the Captain was quite indifferent as to the matter. It did not strike her at all that he had been drinking.

Miss Gertrude Sanderson, another young lady who saw the accident, was coming out of the door of the cabin close to the plank. She saw deceased fall into the water. He was coming from the scow to the boat, but she did not know whether he had stepped on the plank or not.

A BROTHER-IN-LAW.

William H. Meharry, a brother-in-law of the deceased, was called. He told of having gone to see the captain of the boat next day after the accident. He asked Captain Calcutt, to show him where the accident occurred, but he would not go that day. Witness drove down that same day, and the following day he went down on the boat with Capt. Calcutt. He made the remark to the captain, "This is a terrible affair," and Capt. Calcutt replied, "It is no terrible affair at all; things like this are happening every day." Witness saw no notices on the scow as to where life preservers could be found. He admitted having insinuated to the Captain that had he been attending to his business the accident would not have occurred, whereat Mr. Hatton asked him if it was any wonder that the captain was short with him? He saw no life preservers either on the boat, or on the scow the day he went to interview the captain.

This was all the evidence that Mr. Wood had to offer, but Mr. A. E. Dixon, on behalf of the deceased's family, wished to call several more. As it was nearing 11 o'clock, the coroner decided to further adjourn the investigation until this evening. Mr. Hatton intimated that he had a number of witnesses he wished to call on bshalf of Mr. Calcutt.

Arrangement for the Visit of Grand Master Lewis on Thursday Night.

At the joint meeting of Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges on Monday evening, it was decided that on the occasion of the visit of Grand Master Lewis, on next Thursday evening, July 11, that the Degree Team of Otonabee Lodge should put on the Second Degree and Peterborough Lodge the Third Degree. The proceedings will begin at eight o'clock sharp and it is hoped everyone will be present at that hour.

Light refreshments will be served at the close, followed by speeches, songs, etc.

Every member of the order in and around Peterborough is most cordially invited. Invitations have also been sent to Norwood, Havelock, and Ponecypool lodges.

EAGLES AS PROPERTY.

Ownership of Birds and Nests Respected by Pueblo Indians.

Among the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico and Arizona there is a property right in eagles. Each clan claims ownership in several eagles' nests which may or may not be near the place where the clan lives. When the nests are distant from the villages where the Indians claiming them live, it has been found that the ancestors of these Indians came in former years from the localities where the nests now are, and they point to the fact that these nests are theirs as proof that they also, by inheritance, own the land round about them.

Driven into new locations by marauding Navajoes and Utes, these Pueblo Indians have steadily contracted their occupied territory, but they still visit the old nests, as their forefathers visited them before the white man came to Mexico. Some of the Pueblo Indians—the Zunis, for instance—keep eagles in cages, treating them as domestic fowl, but most of the tribes procure their eagles by taking the young from the ancestral nests. These Indians keep turkeys also, but neither turkeys nor eagles are kept for food. With the feathers of the birds the Indian decorates himself and his "prayer sticks" on occasions of religious ceremony. The various tribes respect one another's rights in certain nests and the birds which are hatched in them, and a heavy punishment is provided for an Indian killing an eagle not his own.

Sometimes the nests are 50 miles from where the tribe lives, but investigation always shows that the tribe lived once where the nest is. Generations without number the eagle builds his nest in the same spot and rears his young there. So the title of the Pueblos reaches back into the twilight of American history. Those Pueblo Indians speak of their eagles as they do of their sheep, their dogs or their horses. Though the king of birds may be flying wild half a hundred miles from the Indian's abode, yet it is the Indian's eagle.

When an Indian visits one of his nests to secure a bird, he does not take all of the young, but leaves some, so that the breed may be perpetuated. Returning home with his eaglet, he strips it of its feathers and kills it. The body of the eagle is not thrown on the rubbish heap, but it is buried in a special eagle burying ground. The ancient Pueblo Indians used to keep parrots as domestic birds, probably only for their feathers, which were used in decoration for religious service. These parrots they obtained by barter with the Mexicans south of them. It is known that the Aztecs kept a variety of birds as domestic fowls and used them for food, as well as eating their eggs, but the Pueblo Indians seem to have kept their domestic birds for their feathers solely.

THE INSPECTOR SMELLED A RAT.

And Detected an Ingenious Scheme For Stealing From a Mint.

The sight of vast quantities of coin has a stimulating influence on human wits, to such an extent that Uncle Sam is kept busy "coppering" efforts of geniuses to "do" the various mints. Some of the schemes devised are so smooth that the government officials are unwilling for their nature to be divulged, at least until the law has been twisted into shape to fit the new form of theft. Time and again methods have been evolved for which no legal antidote is discoverable and which can only be punished by dismissal, not by criminal prosecution. One of the latter types was recently worked on a western mint, according to the report of a late arrival via the Southern Pacific. It was this way: The gold is rolled into strips from ingots in the rolling room and carefully weighed out again. The "in" and "out" figures should tally; so they did until recently, when a sudden daily deficit appeared. Each evening there was a loss of $10 or $20, and the director of the mint grew hot in the collar. A personal search was made of every one leaving the room, but the shortage continued.

Finally, one day the inspector in the coinage department smelled a rat, a real rat, which had fallen a victim to the jaws of a deadfall during the night. Although it was still early in the day, the rat asserted itself until it dawned upon the inspector that decomposition had progressed with remarkable rapidity for a one day corpse. The trap, he knew, had been emptied of another rodent the evening before, for he remembered seeing an employee pick up the thing by the tail and toss it through the small slot above the window.

A flash of intelligence came to the official, and he waited. Later a "stamper" approached the trap, remarking jocularly, "'Nother rat," bent over, fooled with the trap and then tossed the creature out of the window. The inspector was out in a flash and reached the ground just in time to see a "gent" pick up a defunct rodent, slip it into a leather grip and decamp.

The commotion made by the inspector put the employee on his guard, and he threw no more rats.

He was soon dismissed for cause and went away damning his own laziness, for, instead of getting busy and keeping a supply of fresh rats on ice, he used and reused the same fellow until he became faisande and put the authorities "next" to his game. However, he justified himself by saying that was the only rat he had found with a mouth large enough to hold $25 worth of gold.—Exchange.

Nervously Exhausted.

Sleepless, poor digestion, easily tired, blue as indigo, that's how you feel. Do you want to feel strong, make plenty of blood, enjoy buoyancy, strength and vim. You can do so by using Ferrozone. How it sharpens the appetite and imparts a feeling of buoyancy, strength and vim! Improves the appetite, digestion, assimilation, sleep. How surely Ferrozone does this, you can ascertain by using it. Ferrozone is a blood builder, nerve strengthener and brain invigorator. Sold by only Ormond and Walsh.

A Contrast.

"A resolution adopted at the last session of the Kansas legislature," says the Kansas City Journal, "declares that the sergeant at arms is hereby instructed to procure additional ice water tanks with filters, cuspidors for the committee rooms and some thermoautomatic regulators for the heat registers.'

"On Jan. 27, 1857, the territorial legislature, meeting at Lecompton, unanimously adopted this resolution: 'The secretary of the territory is ordered to buy a new stove, a shovel and tongs, a water bucket and tin dipper and some spit boxes for the use of the members.'"

A Freak Growth.

In a little handful of earth in the crotch of the branches of the big elm in front of a store at Norway, Vt., is a currant bush. The shrub has been growing there for two or three years and has obtained a vigorous size. Last year it bore fruit for the first time. There is but a small amount of soil in the hollow, so that the bush in part must be a parasite growth.

Candles in Mexico.

Candles are extensively used in Mexico owing to the great expense of petroleum. A bookkeeper may be seen making his entries in a great ledger by the light of a single candle. A Mexican printer can work with a candle stuck carelessly into one of his boxes, and two tailors in the small shops can be seen sharing the rays of a single dip.

MERELY AN EYEWASH.

The Chemical View of Tears Differs From the Poetical View.

Tears have their functional duty to accomplish, like every other fluid of the body, and the lachrymal gland is not placed behind the eye simply to fill space or to give expression to emotion.

The chemical properties of tears consist of phosphate of lime and soda, making them very salty, but never bitter. Their action on the eye is very beneficial, and here consists their prescribed duty of the body, washing thoroughly that sensitive organ, which allows no foreign fluid to do the same work. Nothing cleanses the eye like a good, salty shower bath, and medical art has followed nature's law in this respect, advocating the invigorating solution for any distressed condition of the optics. Tears do not weaken the sight, but improve it. They act as a tonic on the muscular vision, keeping the eye soft and limpid, and it will be noticed that women in whose eyes sympathetic tears gather quickly have brighter, tenderer orbs than others. When the pupils are hard and cold, the world attributes it to one's disposition, which is a mere figure of speech implying the lack of balmy tears that are to the cornea what salve is to the skin or nourishment to the blood.

The reason some weep more easily than others and all more readily than the sterner sex has not its difference in the strength of the tear gland, but in the possession of a more delicate nerve system. The nerve fibers about the glands vibrate more easily, causing a downpour from the watery sac. Men are not nearly so sensitive to emotion. Their sympathetic nature—that term is used in a medical sense—is less developed, and the eye gland is therefore protected from shocks. Consequently a man should thank the formation of his nerve nature when he contemptuously scorns tears as a woman's practice. Between man and monkey there is this essential difference of tears—an ape cannot weep, not so much because its emotional powers are undeveloped as the fact that the lachrymal gland was omitted in his optical make up.

Makes the Blind to See.

An epoch marking discovery in training children born blind to see has been made by Director Keller of the Institute For the Blind in Vienna. He exhibited before the Physicians' society a 7-year-old boy who was born blind, but with perfectly organized eyes—brain blind, as the doctors call it—whom he has taught in four months to discern colors, forms and objects and to read with his eyes. He was induced to attempt the work because he had taught 70 deaf and dumb children with normal ears to hear and to speak by working on the brain.

The method consists in first teaching a child in a perfectly dark room by means of a movable disk of light to distinguish light from darkness. This is developing a faculty of which the pupil is not conscious and takes months of patient treatment. Next, objects which a blind person knows by feeling are placed against a light disk, and the child is told what they are called. Then colored glass placed before a lamp teaches him colors.

Geometrical figures on a disk are shown in a dark room with rays of light falling on them. From this point the sight is gradually accustomed to the daylight.

It Retains Old and Makes New Friends.

Time was when Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil had but a small field of distribution, but now its territory is widespread. Those who first recognized its curative qualities still value it as a specific, and while it retains its old friends it is ever making new ones. It is certain that whoever once uses it will not be without it.

Savages and Marriage.

Savage man is almost everywhere a marrying man. Often he is a very much married man. He abhors the single state. Old maids and old bachelors are rare in all savage and barbarous communities. The rule is to marry early and sometimes also to marry too often. Here is one point of difference, and a notable one, between uncivilized and civilized societies.

PIANOS AT SEA.

Thousands of Them Afloat In One Part of the World and Another.

"Take them the world around," said a piano manufacturer, "and I guess you find in use thousands of pianos afloat. You will find them on ocean steamers in the passenger trade everywhere and on steamboats in inland waters. You will find them on merchant sailing vessels, ships and barks, and in the spacious cabins of the big modern schooners.

"If, for instance, you happened to find lying in South street a ship whose master carried his wife with him on his voyages, you would find in the cabin, very likely, a piano. Here, with the vessel tied up and in still water, you might see standing on the piano a vase of flowers. You would scarcely see the flowers there when the vessel was rolling in a seaway, but you might, if you were aboard, hear the piano played under the equator or off Cape Horn, and the vase of flowers would reappear when the vessel was once more lying securely in port.

"And then there are lots of pianos in these days on yachts, both steam and sail; the greater number, naturally, on steam yachts.

"The pianos carried at sea are commonly uprights, and most commonly small uprights, space being taken into consideration on almost any vessel, however large. Pianos for yachts are often built to order, to fit into some jog or space in the vessel's cabin.

"The life of a piano carried at sea is comparatively short; it is scarcely likely to preserve its original quality more than five years, even though it was a good piano to start with. Carried at sea the piano is subjected to severer trials than it could possibly be anywhere else. It is subjected constantly to the influence of dampness and to changes of climate and temperature.

"Pianos may be bought for sea use out of the regular stock. Those made to order for sea use are made with details of their construction especially adapted to that use. The steel pins, for instance, that the wires are stretched on are nickel plated to prevent them from rusting, and with the same purpose brass screws are used where they can be in place of steel screws. Sometimes we rivet the ivory tops of the keys and the ivory tips on the ends to the body of the key. Even with the best and most faithful construction these ivory coverings on the keys are liable to curl up at sea."

WEAKNESS OF MEN AND WOMEN

Could we read the hearts of every man we meet, what a load of sorrow and despair would be disclosed. Indiscretions and Blood Diseases have caused more physical and mental wrecks than all other causes combined. They strike at the foundation of manhood; they sap the vital forces; they undermine the system, and not only do they often disrupt the family circle, but they may even extend their poisonous fangs into the next generation. If you have been a victim of early sinful habits, remember the seed is sown, and sooner or later you will reap a harvest. If your blood has been diseased from any cause do not risk a return later on. Our New Method Treatment will positively cure you and you need never fear any return of the disease. We will give you a guarantee bond to that effect. We would warn you sincerely against the promiscuous use of mercury, which does not cure blood poison but simply suppresses the symptoms.

WE CURE OR NO PAY.

Don't Let your Life be Drained Away, which weakens the intellect as well as the body. There is no room in this world for mental, physical or sexual dwarfs. Our New Method Treatment will Stop all Unnatural Losses, Purify the Blood, Invigorate the Nerves, Restore Vitality, and make a man of you. If you are in trouble, call and consult us. Consultation is Free. We treat and cure Drains, Blood Diseases, Varicocele, Stricture, Unnatural Discharges, Gleet, Kidney and Bladder Diseases. No cutting or operations. No detention from business. Everything confidential. Consultation Free. Books Free. Question Blank Free for Home Treatment.

I was gloomy. In my pocket I had the only letter I had ever received from Gretchen. Every hour fate outdoes the romancer. The story she had written for me was a puzzling one. And the finis? Who could say? Fate is more capricious than the novelist. Sometimes you can guess what he intends for an end; what fate has in store, never. Gretchen's letter did not begin as letters usually do. It began with "I love you" and ended with the same sentence. "In November my marriage will take place. Do not come abroad. I am growing strong now. If I should see you, alas, what would become of that thin ice covering the heart of fire? We have nothing to return, you and I. I long to see you. I dare not tell you how much. Who knows what the world holds hidden? While we live there is always a perhaps. Remember that I love you!"

"Perhaps," I mused absently.

"Perhaps what?" asked Pembroke.

"What?" I had forgotten him. "Oh, it was merely a slip of the tongue." I poked the matting with my cane. "It is high noon. We had best hunt up a lunch. I have an engagement with the American military attache at 2, so you will have to take care of yourself till dinner."

Let me tell you what happened in the military club that night. I was waiting for Colonel J. of the Queen's Light, who was to give me the plan of the fall maneuvers in Africa. Pembroke was in the billiard room showing what he knew about caroms and brandy smashes to a trio of tanned Indian campaigners. I was in the reading room perusing the evening papers. All at once I became aware of a man standing before me. He remained in that position so long that I glanced over the top of my paper.

It was Prince Ernst of Wortumborg. He bowed.

"May I claim your attention for a moment?" he asked.

Had I been in any other place than the club I should have ignored him. I possessed the liveliest hatred for the man. "If you will be brief."

"As brief as possible," dropping into the nearest chair. "It has become necessary to ask you a few questions. The matter concerns me."

"Whatever concerns you is nothing to me," I replied coldly.

He smiled. "Are you quite sure?"

I had turned the sword on myself, so it seemed. But I said: "I answered some of your questions once. I believe I was explicit."

"As to that I can say you were—startlingly explicit. It is a delicate matter to profess one's regard for a woman before total strangers. It is not impossible that she would have done the same thing in your place. Her regard for you"—

I interrupted him with a menacing gesture. "I am extremely irritable," I said. "I should regret to lose control of myself in a place like this."

"To be sure!" he said. "This is England, where they knock one another down."

"We do not murder on this side of the channel," I retorted.

"That is unkind. Your friend was a very good shot," with a significant glance at his useless arm. "But for my arm and his nerves, which were not of the best order, I had not lived to speak to you tonight."

"So much the worse for the world," said I. "Your questions?"

"Ah, who was that remarkably beautiful woman under your distinguished care Thursday evening?"

"I see that our conversation is to be of the shortest duration. Who she was is none of your business," rudely. I unfolded my paper and began reading.

"Perhaps, after all," not the least perturbed by my insolence, "it were best to state on paper what I have to say. I can readily appreciate that the encounter is disagreeable. To meet one who has made a thing impossible to you sets the nerves on edge." He caught up his opera hat, his cane and gloves. He raised the lapel of his coat and sniffed at the orchid in the buttonhole.

Some occult force bade me say, "Why do you wish to know who she was?"

He sat down again. "I shall be pleased to explain. That I mistook her for another who I supposed was on the other side of the channel was a natural mistake, as you will agree. Is it not strange that I should mistake another to be the woman who is so soon to be my wife? Is there not something behind this remarkable, unusual likeness? Since when are two surpassingly beautiful women, born in different lands, of different parents, the exact likeness of each other?"

Now, as this was a thing which had occupied my mind more than once I immediately put aside the personal affair. That could wait. I threw my paper on to the table.

"Do you know, sir," said I, "that thought echoes my own?"

"Let us for the moment put ourselves into the background," said the prince. "What do you know about her serene highness the Princess Hildegarde, her history?"

"Very little. Proceed."

"But tell me what you know."

"I know that her father was driven to a gambler's grave and that her mother died of a broken heart and that the man who caused all this wishes to break the heart of the daughter too."

"Scandal, all scandal," said the prince. "Who ever heard of a broken heart outside of a romantic novel? I see that the innkeeper has been holding your ear. Ah, that innkeeper; that innkeeper! Certainly some day there will come a reckoning."

"Yes, indeed," said I. "Beware of him."

"It was 20 years ago," said the prince. "It is beyond the recall. But let me proceed. Not many years ago there was a prince, a very bad fellow."

"Most of them are."

"He married a woman too good for him," went on the prince, as though he had not heard.

"Another is about to do likewise."

"There was some scandal. When the princess was born, her father refused to believe her to be his child. Now, it came to pass, as they say in the Bible, which I assure you is a very interesting book, that there were vague rumors immediately after the birth of Princess Hildegarde that another child had been born."

"What!" I was half out of my chair. "Another child?"

"Another child. The fact that the prince swore that when children came he would make them counterparts of their kind and loving father lent color to the rumor that the princess had had one spirited away to escape this threatened contamination. And one of the nurses was missing. Whither had she gone remained a mystery and is still a mystery, for she never has returned. Did she spirit away the other child, the other girl? I say girl advisedly. If there had been a son, the mother would have retained him. Two years after this interesting episode the princess died, and dying, confessed the deception. But the curious thing is nobody believed her. Her mind was not strong, and it was thought to be a hallucination, this second child. Now, let me come to the present time. Twins are generally alike. One mirrors the other. When they mature, then comes the deviation, perhaps in the color of the hair and the eyes. Behold, here are two women but for their hair and eyes were one. Tell me what you know of the other." He bent forward with subdued eagerness.

"Do you think it possible?" I cried excitedly.

"Not only possible, but probable. She is a princess; at least, she should be."

Then I told him what I knew about Phyllis.

"America! Born in America! It cannot be." He was baffled.

"I have known her for eight years," said I. "She was born in America as certainly as I was."

"But this likeness? This rumor of another daughter? Ah, there is something here I do not understand. And this uncle of hers, this Wentworth Who is he?"

"A retired banker, very wealthy and at present with the American ministry at your own capital."

"To him we must go, then." He rose and walked the length of the room, stopped a moment at the chess table in the corner, then resumed his chair. "You are wondering, no doubt, what it is to me, all this?"

"I confess you have read my mind correctly."

"Then listen. I am a prince without a principality—a prince by courtesy, my brother ruling the principality of Wortumborg. Thus being without a principality, I am necessarily without revenues. I must replenish my very low exchequer by a marriage—a marriage not so distasteful as it might be." He met my darkening eyes with serenity. "Since Thursday night I have not been so certain of my wife's dowry. If there are two princesses, twins, they must govern jointly, or one may abdicate in favor of the other. Her serene highness the Princess Hildegarde is the one who will be most likely to relinquish her claims to Hohenphalia. If your friend is proved to be her sister"—He stroked the orchid reflectively.

"Well?" I cried, my pulse quickening.

"I shall withdraw my claim to the hand of the Princess Hildegarde. I do not care to rule half a principality or share half its revenues. There are better things left than that. It is my hope, however, that no proofs can be found and that your banker-diplomatist will show conclusively that his niece was born in America. Until this question is definitely settled my fortunes shall not undergo any risks. This is what I wanted to say to you, why I wanted to know who your friend was. Will you help me to get at the bottom of things? We are both concerned. The result will mean all or nothing to you and me. Ah, believe me, but you are a favored mortal. The friendship of the one and the love of the other! No, do not look angry. With all my sins, it cannot be said that I lack frankness and truthfulness. You love the Princess Hildegarde. I offer you an equal chance to win her. Is not that remarkably good nature? Till the affair is settled my marriage is postponed. Now, to our personal affair. You cannot blame me if I give you all my honest hatred. I am at your service after, of course, the respective positions of the princesses are assured. I should take more pleasure in shooting you or running a sword through your body than I took in the affair with your friend. His courage was truly admirable. I had nothing against him. But you have grievously wounded my self love. We forgive all wrongs but that. I warn you that the affair will not be conducted after the French mode. You have perhaps a fortnight in which to improve your marksmanship. The matter which shall carry us abroad will conclude within that time. I shoot and fence with my left hand as well as I did with my right."

"I shall be only too happy to meet you," I replied. "I prefer the pistol, there is less exertion, and it is quicker."

"You shall have every advantage," said the prince. "You will have that to nerve your arm which I shall not have—a woman's love." With a bow which was not without a certain dignity and grace he walked from the room.

Phyllis a princess! Gretchen free! I sent for my coat and hat and went out. I forgot all about my appointment with Colonel J—— of the Queen's Light and that I had left Pembroke playing billiards in a strange club, where I myself had been but a guest. The crisp October air blew in my face as I rapidly walked up the mall, and it cooled the fever in my veins. But my mind ran on rather wildly. Gretchen free! Phyllis a princess! Gretchen's little word, "perhaps," came back and sang into my ears. Yet, win or lose, I was to meet the prince in mortal combat. If Phyllis was not proved Gretchen's twin sister, I should care but little for the prince's bullet. On the other hand—well, I should trust to luck. Before I was aware of my destination I stood fumbling the key in the door of my apartment. I wanted my pipe. At 11 by the clock Pembroke came in.

"Hang your apologies!" he said.

Read the two sides of this story and then give a verdict on the evidence as to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

WHAT MRS. HAYTER SUFFERED.

"I had been sick for more than a year with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Lucy Hayter, of Jacksboro, Jack Co., Texas. "Several different doctors treated me, but none did me any good. One doctor said that I never could be cured, that I had Bright's Disease. I suffered nearly death at times; had spells the doctors called spasms. Was bed-fast most of the time for six months. My mother begged me to try Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

WHAT DR. PIERCE SAID.

"With but little hope I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and he said 'he could cure me.' I began to take his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and although I had given up to die, I began to improve from the start, and by the time I had taken twenty-two bottles I was entirely cured. I weigh more than ever before in my life and am entirely well."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases of heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, etc., which have their origin in disease of the stomach and its associate organs.

Sick persons are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is no form of Kidney Trouble from a Backache down to Bright's Disease, that DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS will not relieve or cure. tu

JUNK DEALERS' METHODS.

Young Frost Pleaded Guilty of Stealing Weights.

Police Magistrate Dumble's Remarks Concerning the Policy of Junk Dealers—Should Keep Record.

At the police court this morning, Thomas Frost, a boy of apparently 15 or 16 years of age, pleaded guilty to three charges of theft of weights which were taken from the packing house of the George Matthews Co., on three different occasions.

Young Frost at one time worked for the Matthews Co., and consequently knew the run of the place. He has made frequent visits to the establishment, and after each visit several large brass weights, used in connection with the scales, were found to be missing. A search through the junk shops of the town revealed the fact that the weights had found their way there through the efforts of young Frost, who was then placed under arrest.

A. W. Leavis, a semi-professional junk dealer was charged with receiving from Frost, goods, knowing the same to be stolen. He was represented by Mr. E. B. Stone, and acquitted of the charge.

Frost is already out on suspended sentence and will come up a week from to-day for a final sentence.

The trial this morning lasted several hours and was interesting, inasmuch, as Police Magistrate Mr. Dumble, told what he thought concerning the position that junk shop dealers are in towards the public. He said that the fact that this boy, without any question, was able to sell perfect brass weights to no less than three junk dealers, naturally gives rise to the question as to how far the habit of the junk dealers is an inducement to boys and dishonest persons to get articles which they know they can readily sell. Boys nowadays are selfishly self-indulgent and want money to gratify their appetite in the pastry shops, in cigarettes and cheap shows. The knowledge that they can sell anything that is marketable, is a temptation to take what honesty would forbid, and he was satisfied that the whole system is a school where bad education is cultured. In most places the municipalities pass a by-law licensing junk dealers and compelling them to keep a record of all purchases, the description, and the name of the seller, and in some cases the junk dealers are compelled to make a return to the Chief of Police of all purchases of the previous day. This has a wholesome deterring effect on buyer and seller and facilitates the police in the search for stolen goods. The Town Council of Peterborough can not do a better service than to enact such a bylaw, especially as an influence to save the boys from temptation.

CHARLOTTE STREET LEAGUE.

A Very Interesting Meeting of the League Was Held Last Night.

Last night's meeting of the Charlotte street League proved very interesting. Mr. G. J. Tovey presided, the topic for the evening was "The Influence of Common Lives."

Mr. Armstrong dealt in an able manner with the common lives portrayed in the New Testament, showing the lasting influence of the humble fishermen and others of that time.

Mr. Pringle reviewed the lives of men of the present day.

A large and appreciative audience was present and found much in the meeting for their profit.

All interested are reminded of the bicycle run this evening at 7.30.

BOWLING.

The skip competition after about six weeks of play, has been decided as subjoined, the players mentioned having qualified as skips: Dr. Boucher, R. C. McHarrie, Ed. Brown, T. E. Bradburn, Robert Kerr, W. G. Ferguson, Judge Weller, Samuel Belcher, Dr. Moher, Alex. Elliott, Dr. Bradd, W. J. English, M. Green, K. Houston, Dr. Neill, H. Armstrong, E. W. Cox, F. C. Complin, E. B. Edwards, R. Waddell, A. H. Stratton, Alf. Terrill, W. Pringle and E. Otes.

A general meeting of the club will be held at the Green to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, when the skips will select their rinks for the season. Skips will choose their vice-skips before the meeting.

Mr. Harry Allen of Toronto, has sent down word that he will bring down five rinks from Toronto in the course of a week or so to bowl against the local players. The match should be very interesting.

LACROSSE.

Butterworth of the Capitals met with a painful accident in the Cresceus game, when he had his jaw broken by a crosscheck from Wall. He will be pretty much out of the game for the rest of the season.

The Capitals had a great time of it last week. On Monday they beat the Nationals in Ottawa, on Wednesday, downed the Torontos in Buffalo and on Thursday stowed the Crescents away and wound up by defeating Montreal on Saturday by 2 to 1. Four wins in six days is pretty good work.

BASEBALL.

The Kingston Ponies have written to the secretary of the local club for a game here on July 19th.

Port Hope has promised to come out on July 17th with the Sunday school excursion from that town.

Cobourg will be here for a game with the locals on Saturday.

There was a splendid practice of the Peterborough nine last night. Nearly all the men were out, and a redhot game was indulged in.

The Junior Auburn Baseball team hereby challenge any junior team in town. Can play at any time. Address E. Goslin, Secretary-Treasurer, or Examiner Sporting Editor.

LAND BY THE WHOLESALE.

Ontario Government Opens Fourteen More Townships for Settlement.

The demand of settlers for land in the Temiscaming region led Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands, on Monday to declare 14 more townships open for settlement, and to arrange for the surveying of another township to the west of Bucke. This makes a total of 24 townships in the region now open for settlement, the only remaining one unoccupied being Lorrain, to the south of Temiscaming Lake. The rush of settlers to that pioneer and at present remote region has been very great this year, and must have its effect in the future policy of the Government concerning the immediate construction of a railway from Older Ontario.

DEATH OF MR. J. HASKILL.

Father of Messrs. Edward and Al. Haskill of Town.

(Port Hope Guide.)

One by one they go. To-day it becomes our duty to record the death of another of Port Hope's old and respected citizens. Mr. Jedathan Haskill, the subject of this notice was born in Port Hope in September, 1819, and has resided here ever since. He was a quiet, inoffensive man, a good citizen, a Liberal in politics and a member of the Baptist church.

In addition to his aged widow he leaves four sons and three daughters, together with a number of grandchildren, to mourn his departure:—Edward, of the G.T.R.; Wilkins, at home; Allan and Fred in Peterborough; Ellen, (Mrs. D. Chestnut) Lindsay; Minnie, (Mrs. Adamson) and Maud, Port Hope. The funeral takes place on Wednesday afternoon. The Guide joins with their numerous friends in extending sincere sympathy.

Killed in Toronto.

Toronto, July 9. — Two fatal accidents were recorded in Toronto yesterday. The victims were Harold Robinson, a 10-year-old lad, who lived at 49 Bolton avenue, and Frederick Smith, whose home was at Hanlan's Point. Both met violent and instantaneous deaths while at work. The front wheel of Robinson's bicycle wobbled while he was delivering a message and he was thrown under the rear wheel of a lorry heavily laden with scrap iron. The wheel of the wagon passed over the upper portion of the boy's head, terribly crushing the skull. Death was instantaneous.

Frederick Smith was engaged yesterday morning by Fred H. Gooch to make some alterations to his boat-house at Hanlan's Point. It was proposed to raise one side of the roof about four feet, and while so engaged Smith was instantly killed.

Thank You Very Kindly.

London, July 9. — When asked in the House of Commons yesterday as to what public acknowledgement was intended of the gift by Bernard Baker of Baltimore, Md., of the hospital ship Maine to the British navy, A. J. Balfour, the Government leader, said the utmost publicity of the thanks of Great Britain for this most noble and generous gift had been given by the First Lord of the Admiralty, the Earl of Selborne, in the House of Lords, and by the secretary to the Admiralty, H. O. Arnold-Foster, in the House of Commons, adding:

"I am not aware of any Mode of giving publicity to our national thanks that is more effective than this."

Why It Won.

A shoe that has won the highest award at the Paris World's Fair ought to be good enough for a lady to wear.

Beauty, comfort, style, appearance and durability are the points that won the gold medal.

Its price and value make it the choice of thousands of ladies who know how to dress tastefully and comfortably.

$3.00 and $4.00 per pair.

THE LIBERAL TRUCE.

Vote of Confidence in Leader of the British Party Passed.

MR. ASQUITH SUPPORTED IT.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman Made a Conciliatory Speech—Asquith' Regrets and Regards—Liberal Party's Position on the Ending of the Boer War—Trouble Temporarily Ended.

London, July 10. — The much-discussed meeting of Liberals called by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader in the House of Commons, with the object of ascertaining whether he still retains the confidence of the party, was held at the Reform Club yesterday afternoon, and resulted in a vote of confidence in the leader of the Opposition. All factions of Liberals attended. The Liberal-Imperialists, headed by H. H. Asquith, were there almost to a man, but Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Sir William Vernon Harcourt were the only two who received any marked recognition on entering. The crowd watching the arrivals greeted them with cries of "How's your friend, Kruger?"

Sir Henry made a conciliatory speech. The Imperialists showed that they would not be associated with any anti-national policy, but the gathering was harmonious, and seems to have resulted in a temporary clearing of the air.

During the course of his speech Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman met the Imperialists so far as to say the war must be brought to a victorious conclusion, but he thought the Liberals ought to insist on amnesty in the settlement. While the country had the sword in one hand it ought to have the olive branch in the other, and show a disposition to come to terms with an enemy which had fought so bravely.

Mr. Asquith expressed the highest appreciation of the qualities of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, but at the same time he regretted that the Liberal leader in the House had not been more outspoken in a policy of honest difference rather than in an impossible attempt to reconcile differences. He urged that those taking the views which he himself held should be free to express their opinions within the pale of the party. Mr. Asquith then supported the resolution of confidence in Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman.

Schalk-Burger and Steyn.

London, July 10.—The British Government has issued further South African correspondence concerning the peace negotiations, which concludes with the text of the proclamation of Messrs. Schalk-Burger and Steyn, cabled by Lord Kitchener to the Government July 2, and read by Mr. Brodrick in the House of Commons the night of July 4. Messrs. Schalk-Burger and Steyn affirm in this proclamation that Mr. Kruger and the Boer deputation abroad make satisfactory reports; that peace would be worthless without independence; that no peace should be accepted whose price was the national existence, and that in the interests of the colonial brothers the war would be vigorously prosecuted.

Three Did Confer.

Cape Town, July 10. — Four Boer prisoners, who were yesterday brought to Bloemfontein, report that Generals Botha, Delarey and Dewet recently held a conference at a point on the Vaal River.

Honor to an American.

Newport, R. I., July 10.—It was learned here yesterday that the real reason for Mr. James J. Van Alen's departure is to receive a decoration at the hand of King Edward VII. When the Boer war broke out Mr. Van Alen, who was in England, organized and equipped at his own expense a hospital corps which he sent to South Africa, and which rendered valuable service during the worst of the campaign. In recognition of Mr. Van Alen's generosity the King has decided to honor him with the decoration of the Order of Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem and upon his arrival in London he will be so decorated.

British to Hire Negroes.

New Orleans, La., July 10.—The British officers engaged in shipping mules and horses from New Orleans to South Africa, after trying all kinds of labor, have finally concluded to employ American negroes in caring for the animals.

The Liegar Election Trial.

Manitou, Man., July 10.—The Liegar protest trial was continued yesterday.

Several other witnesses were examined and gave evidence of minor character. At conclusion of afternoon sitting counsel for petitioners announced that they had no further witnesses to call. It is stated that Richardson will go in the witness box to-day, and after examination of one or two other witnesses, evidence will be closed and argument will take place.

10 TAILOR-MADE SUITS at $5.00.

These Suits include light and dark oxfords, browns, blacks and navys, in good reliable cloths, well tailored and made to retail at $10.00 and $12.50, but must be cleared and $5.00 will do it quickly.

5 ONLY WASH SUITS at $1.75.

No, it would not be possible to buy the material for the money, let alone the making and trimmings. They were in the five to six dollar catalogue, but what of that—they must be cleared.

7 ONLY SILK WAISTS at $2.87.

Waists that would have been dropped from our list had we had any idea that they would have had to be sold for this price, but we make mistakes sometimes, and this one is your gain. $2.87 for a Taffeta or Florentine Silk Blouse.

MR. WILSON'S LETTER

Says C. P. R. Trackmen's Position is Stronger Than Ever.

COMPANY TELLS CONTRADICTORY

Reports That the Strike, So Far as It Is Concerned, Is Practically Over—Mr. McNicoll Has no Information of a Compromise — Other Strike News.

Ottawa, July 10.—Mr. John T. [illegible] the Brotherhood of Railway Trackmen, in a letter to a friend here makes the following statements: "I consider our position stronger to-day than it has ever been. While a few men have weakened and returned to work in the vicinity of Toronto, a great many who did not go out when the suspension of work was ordered have since applied for membership in the organization and deserted their sections. The track is getting rough. Several trains have been derailed according to reports received by our committee. Members of other organizations are becoming alarmed, and have held union meetings at various places and sent requests to the Chairman of their protective boards to bring about a settlement for their protection, as well as for the protection of the traveling public."

Both Sides Are Winning.

Toronto, July 10.—The strike of the Canadian Pacific trackmen was unchanged yesterday. The men say they are standing out and are as firm as when the strike commenced. No more trackmen returned to work yesterday, reported the strikers.

General Superintendent Timmerman reported that every day sees a number of trackmen return to their duties. The places of the strikers, he said, were being filled. A C. P. R. official of the Union Station, who has been out among the strikers, states that the men are a splendid lot of fellows. He says that they would not attempt to injure any of the company's property, and if any damage was caused as a result of the strike, he believes it would be done by outsiders.

FROM C. P. R. SOURCES.

No Compromise Negotiations in Progress as Alleged.

Montreal, July 10. — Mr. McNicoll when seen last night about the item which appeared in an evening paper to the effect that both parties desired a compromise and that negotiations towards that end were in progress, said:

"I know of no such negotiations. So far as the Canadian Pacific Company is concerned, the strike is practically dead. The position of the company is the same now as at the first. The officials received the men readily, discussed all matters freely with them and made them considerable concessions both in rate of pay and conditions. While many places have been filled by old men and some by new, those places still open will be filled as applicants present themselves, the old men, be they committee men or otherwise, getting the preference."

"I am sorry," he added, "to have seen so many of our men misled. The strike was absolutely unwarranted, indeed childish."

General Superintendent Spencer, when seen last night, stated that over eighty per cent. of the regular force of trackmen on the eastern division are now at work, and he feels sure that before the end of the week his division will have its full complement of trackmen, apart from his extra gangs employed on new works.

It was learned last night at the Canadian Pacific head offices, that several foremen had returned to work yesterday with their men on the western, Lake Superior and eastern divisions.

Organizer Hooper Fails.

London, Ont., July 10. — The efforts of Organizer Hooper, of the Montreal Committee, to induce section foremen who have returned to work to again quit have met with no success here, the men on the Ontario division feeling that the strike, so far as they are concerned, is ended, the advances which the company granted to take effect on June 1st last being accepted.

Critic of Spanish Rule.

Madrid, July 10.—In the Senate yesterday, the Duke of Tetuan, one time Minister of Foreign Affairs, declared that the present Government could not be considered a guarantee of the integrity of the country. "Among the errors of the Liberal party," continued the duke, "must figure the recall of Weyler at a very difficult moment."

Little Tot Drowned.

Brampton, July 10.—A little child, 2 years old, daughter of Louis J. Bull of this town, wandered down the creek immediately behind the house, and was drowned.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The public accounts for the last three years are a reply to the contention that the increase in the customs receipts indicates an increase in taxation. In the year 1897-98 the receipts from customs were $21,704,892. In the following year, 1898-99, they were $25,316,841. As the Globe points out, according to the Conservative argument this must have been due to an increase in the rate of taxation. But the only change had been a reduction, caused by the increase of the preference from 12 1-2 to 25 per cent., which took effect in 1898. As it may be contended that this was offset by the restriction of the preference to British imports, we take the next year, 1899-1900, when the customs duties were increased by three millions. There had certainly been no increase that year, but the 25 per cent. preference had been in operation all year. This year there is a slight increase; the chief change in the tariff was a further reduction of the duties on British goods by the increase of the preference to one-third.

The second number of "The Ontario Tory" has been issued, and, as in the first number, the Opposition is touched up with lively prods, similar to the following excerpt:

"But before the present leaders can expect any large degree of support, financially or otherwise, from the rank and file of the party in Ontario, they must give some better evidence than they have shown up to the present time that they possess the energy, the intelligence and the vitality to carry the province in the face of the powerful influences opposed to them.

"The deadliest enemies of the Conservative party to-day are not outside its ranks. They are a miserable crew of discredited politicians who find a place within the party councils by virtue of no superior intelligence, but solely on account of historic associations. At the best these men were never great, but simply rose to prominence by clinging to the skirts of the immortal dead. When they tried to stand alone, they fell like withered branches from the tree of time, discredited, defeated, dishonoured forever in the eyes of every lover of the party. Their day is past. They shall not lead us longer. The Tory has no desire to waste any time or space in discussing them. We have a greater and creative work to do. But let them not stand in the pathway of progress. They must not play with fire."

THE NEW OXYGEN TREATMENT.

Maybe you read the other day an account of an "Oxygen Hospital," and the manner in which scientific men are applying this element to the cure of disease. Medical men are beginning to understand that we can do a lot of things with oxygen besides breathe it.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is demonstrating every day the many different applications oxygen can be made use of in relieving disease.

In treating stomach disorders, dyspepsia, dysentery catarrh, and other summer ailments Powley's Liquified Ozone is invaluable. It can be made a most refreshing beverage, and it prevents other and more serious disorders by keeping the system healthy.

John Small, Esq., Collector of Customs for the port of Toronto, has given us permission to refer enquirers to him as to the value of Powley's Liquified Ozone in curing stomach and summer ailments.

You should experience the cooling effect of drinking diluted Ozone whenever you feel overcome by the heat. It refreshes you wonderfully.

HALL'S GLEN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The North Dummer Football Club are to play against the football team of the 9th Line of Dummer, at the picnic there on July 10th, in the afternoon.

Mr. Ira Snelgrove, of Toronto, has been visiting friends here last week, but has now returned home.

Mr. R. W. Payne, a prominent farmer of this neighbourhood, has been putting up a hay barn this summer which is now shingled ready for his fine crop of hay.

Mr. Archie Carveth, on the 2nd inst. made a bicycle trip to Peterborough, from which he returned in a some what exhausted condition.

Mr. R. Little, of Pine Grove factory, has returned from an extended business trip in the northern part of the county.

Miss Ida Carveth has lately returned from a visit to friends at Pine Grove factory.

Mr. D. Crowe has been making a bicycle tour in the vicinity of Apsley, but finds wheeling rather difficult owing to the depth of sand on the roads in that locality.

Mr. A. C. Carveth, an enterprising young farmer of this community, who has for some time past been engaged in travelling through the country, has just resumed the more lucrative, though possibly more arduous occupation of agriculture.

Mrs. J. White and Mrs. L. Payne returned home on the 5th inst. from a very enjoyable trip to Paisley, Bruce County, Ont., where they spent a couple of weeks visiting their many friends in the vicinity of that place.

CORONATION OATH AGAIN.

Suggested Form Said to Offer Catholics a Gratuitous Insult.

London, July 10. — During the discussion yesterday in the House of Lords of the report of the select committee on the King's coronation oath, which suggests that the oath hereafter contain a declaration against the doctrine of transubstantiation, and that it declare that the invocation or adoration of the Virgin and the sacrifice of the mass as used in the Church of Rome are contrary to the tenets of the Protestant religion, the Archbishop of Canterbury complained that the Episcopal bench had no voice in the matter. He advocated that the report be referred back.

Lord Salisbury objected to this, declaring that such a course would be unprecedented. He suggested that the proper time to improve the ideas of the committee would be on the second reading of a bill founded on the report.

Earl Grey supported the Archbishop of Canterbury, on the ground that the declaration, as amended, was more offensive than it was before. He deprecated offering a gratuitous insult to the Catholics.

Earl Halsbury, Lord High Chancellor, considered that the amended declaration was inoffensive.

MURPHY HITS THE MARK.

In the Golden Penny Competition He Scores 35 Points.

Bisley Camp, July 10.—The ranges took on a lively appearance yesterday and the competition in several important contests began. The Canadians made their appearance as competitors yesterday, and in the Golden Penny Lieut. J. T. Murphy of the 1st Fusiliers got within the mark seven times, scoring 35 points. The distance was 500 yards. The first prize in this match is a gold medal and £5. There are 40 prizes altogether.

The reduction of the bull's-eye is more popular than were the suggestions for an alteration in the scoring value of hits. Lieut.-Col. Crosse, secretary, believes that the alteration of the targets will reduce the chances of many highest possible scores crowding a competition, as they once did. Another alteration tending to secure this end is the reduction in number of single-range competitions.

An important feature of the meeting is the entries from civilian rifle clubs. As many as 177 clubs have become affiliated to the N. R. A., and they represent a total of 15,000 riflemen. They will enter the ordinary events and compete with the world at large.

LIMITED EXPRESS DITCHED.

The Engineer and a Railway Mail Clerk Were Killed.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 10.—A special to The Leader from Nottingham, Ohio, yesterday, says:

One of the worst wrecks on the Lake Shore road in years occurred at 2.30 o'clock this morning in the centre of this village, 10 miles east of Cleveland. The southwestern limited on the Big Four, from St. Louis, Cincinnati and other cities, and which goes on to the Lake Shore tracks in Cleveland, was ditched through collision with a portion of a freight train. Just what caused the wreck is not definitely known, but it is thought a portion of a freight train that had broken in two had rolled onto the passenger tracks. No passengers were killed.

The dead are: Frank Anderson, engineer of the passenger train, of Buffalo, and O. G. McCullen of Cincinnati, mail clerk.

The injured: William Elliot, Buffalo, fireman of passenger train, will probably die; W. M. Baker of Columbus, mail clerk, injured on head and body; E. F. Loveless, Cincinnati, mail clerk, slightly, and two unknown tramps badly hurt.

FAVORABLE CROP REPORTS.

Farmers of Ontario Well Satisfied With the Outlook.

Toronto, July 10.—The Great Northwestern Telegraph Company has received reports of the crop outlook from every section of the Province of Ontario, and from the Maritime Provinces. The reports show that there will be an exceptionally heavy yield of hay, and wheat, barley, oats and corn will be about up to the average. The wheat crop has been damaged somewhat by the Hessian fly, but on the whole the farmers have not experienced any serious drawbacks. In the Niagara district apples will fall short, and peaches are about half a crop. Other fruits will yield well, especially grapes.

Crop prospects for Nova Scotia are very good. On the uplands there is a luxuriant hay crop, the best in some years, and on the dykelands it will be up to the average in quantity. There will be an abundance of oats and other grains. Potatoes and roots, excellent; small fruits, very good; apples, a little short. On the whole it will be a good year in Nova Scotia, with conditions about the same in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Honorary Colonels.

Ottawa, July 10. — The following promotions in the militia service have been gazetted:

Lieut.-Col. J. M. Gibson, 13th., and Lieut.-Col. J. Tilton, reserve of officers, are granted the honorary rank of colonel, in recognition of their services with the Dominion Rifle Association. Lieut.-Col. Nelles, R. O., is appointed honorary lieutenant colonel of the 37th. The appointment of Lieut.-Col. R. N. R. Reade, Commandant of the Royal Military College, Kingston, is cancelled.

Poured Coal Oil on Flames.

Carleton Place, July 10.—When pouring coal oil into the kitchen stove on Sunday, Mrs. Brian, wife of Levi Brian, was so seriously burned that she died after several hours of great suffering. Mrs. Brian was not aware that the kindling had been ignited, and the flames leaped up the stream of oil, exploding the can and throwing the blazing oil over her clothing. She was terribly burned. Deceased leaves a family of five children.

Miss Jones Voice Greatly Improved.

The many admirers of Miss Jones' singing have been greatly pleased at the improved clearness and richness of tone so noticeable in her late renderings. Miss Jones attributes this improvement to the recent use of Catarrhozone. It gives clearness and brilliancy of tone, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Prominent speakers, ministers, actors, and singers use Catarrhozone for the voice and find it of inestimable value. You breathe the medicatted air from the inhaler into the throat and lungs, where it kills disease, prevents and absolutely cures Bronchitis, Asthma and Catarrh. Catarrhozone never fails; never harms; pleasant to use, and always successful. Sold with a guarantee on every dollar package to cure these diseases or your money back. Small size, 25c. But One Acceptable Settlement of the Drink Question.

SAYS THE PROVINCIAL ALLIANCE

Criticism of the Government by the President of the Alliance, in Session at Toronto—Text of the Changes in the Executive's Report on the Situation—Proposals for Work.

Toronto, July 10.—The Provincial Prohibition convention, called by the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance at the Pavilion yesterday, was attended by about two hundred delegates. Rev. Dr. Mackay of Woodstock presided. Senator Vidal, Sarnia; W. W. Buchanan, Winnipeg; A. M. Featherston, Hamilton; J. H. Carson, Montreal, and Miss Lelian Phelps, St. Catharines, were among the prominent visiting delegates.

The reading of the executive report, the appointment of committees, president's address and provincial statement occupied the morning session.

Rev. Dr. Mackay, in reviewing the year, criticized the enforcement of the license law in Ontario as decidedly unsatisfactory. According to report there appeared to be not more than five per cent. of the Ontario hotelkeepers who observed the law, and there was more Sunday liquor selling than ever.

At the afternoon meeting of the convention, the report of the Committee on Electoral Action was read by William Munns. It was lengthy and led to a breezy discussion.

The most important change in the report was the elimination of a recommendation that prohibition conventions be held in every riding with a view to securing prohibition candidates. The report was adopted as amended as follows: That only prohibition can be accepted as a settlement for the liquor question. That, therefore, they can endorse the position of only such candidates as will support the declared policy of the enactment of the fullest measure of prohibition within the power of the Legislature, as soon as the question of jurisdiction is determined.

That in the meantime it is needful to have such further restriction of the liquor traffic, as the Legislature has unquestioned power to enact. That acceptable representatives must be prepared to support and promote such measures as will bring this into effect.

That we instruct the executive to establish branches of this Alliance in each of the ridings of Ontario, where such are not already extant to cooperate with the church and other societies to endeavor to influence public sentiment with a view to inducing political candidates to pledge themselves to support at an early date in the Parliament of Ontario the passing of a prohibitory measure of as extensive a character as the Provincial Legislature has power.

That, in order to carry into effect the resolution re the formation of branches in the ridings throughout Ontario, the executive be instructed to secure the services of a competent organizer.

That it is necessary that more attention should be given in making our influence felt in the selection of candidates, both in municipal and provincial politics, and we urge that all prohibitionists take an active part in all public affairs, where our interests are concerned.

There was considerable cross-firing before the foregoing report was agreed to.

In addition to the changes to the law recommended in the Alliance report as published, these changes were recommended.

That, in addition to the present prohibition of the sale of liquor during certain hours in towns, that barrooms be closed in towns after 11 p.m., same as on Saturday and Sunday. That applicants for licenses for premises not already under license be required to publish the names of petitioners for the licenses at their own expense, in some paper published in the chief town in the district, and that all signatures must be secured within three months of the date of application.

The convention endorsed proportional representation, direct legislation and woman's suffrage.

On motion of Mrs. Thornley of London, it was resolved that, whereas information that cannot be gainsaid has shown that the prohibition regulations affecting the canteen in military summer camps were this year in Ontario camps violated in so open a manner as to call for military investigation, and the disciplining of those who made the offences complained of possible:

Resolved, that the Dominion Government be communicated with, and the means now used to evade the regulations, such as the use of tickets instead of money as the canteen currency, the use of officers' mess kitchens as bars, shall be laid before them also, as well as the failure on the part of military authorities to punish those whose negligence or complicity shows the disgraceful conditions complained of.

The Committee on Legislation also submitted a series of resolutions for making temperance instruction in the Public Schools more thorough and recommended the appointment of a standing committee on this phase of the movement.

The recommendations will be adopted, and will be placed before the Minister of Education.

The Evening Meeting.

The public meeting last night was attended by about 600. Rev. Dr. Mackay introduced Senator Vidal as the first speaker. He was followed by Mrs. McKee, Rev. Charles Deacon, Rev. J. H. Hector, F. S. Spence, Mrs. Th..aley and Rev. G. G. Huxtable.

The election of officers was held, with this result:

President—Rev. W. A. Mackay, D.D.

Vice-Presidents—Hon. A. Vidal, Hon. J. C. Aikins, Hon. G W. Ross, Mrs. A. O. Rutherford, Hon. G. A. Cox, George H. Lees and the provincial heads of the W. C. T. U., Sons of Temperance, Good Templars and Royal Templars.

Secretary—F. S. Spence.

Treasurer—R. J. Fleming.

R. J. Fleming, treasurer, reported total disbursements of $2,971.37, leaving a deficit of $500, covered by promised subscriptions.

The Dominion Council of the Alliance meets in Richmond Hall at 10 this morning.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

The run of live stock at the cattle market to-day was moderate, 59 loads all told, composed of 947 cattle, 711 hogs, 864 sheep and lambs, and 150 calves.

The quality of fat cattle generally was much better than for the past two or three weeks.

Trade was much better than for some time past, and prices for both butchers' and exporters were firmer. The reasons for this were the better quality of cattle, space to be filled on the boats for export, more buyers from outside points, and light deliveries to-day as well as during the past three weeks.

ROBT. NEILL

TRIED TO BURN HIS WIFE.

Husband Arrested at Lancaster on a Serious Charge.

Lancaster, Ont., July 10.—On Saturday night, between eight and ten, fire was discovered on the premises of Mrs. Cooper in South Lancaster, and was extinguished without much trouble, but discovery was made that a portion of the building and woodshed had been literally saturated with coal oil. Suspicion pointed to Alfred Cooper, husband of Mrs. Cooper, between whom and his wife at times the best of feeling did not exist. Cooper was arrested, and yesterday was committed for trial at the fall assizes in Cornwall. Hitherto Cooper has borne a good character in the community.

THE COMMONEST OF ALL TROUBLES.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are Used More for Backache Than for any Other Kidney Affection.

Bright's Disease not so Frequent of Late Years—Dodd's Kidney Pills Undoubtedly the Cause—Diabetes Also far Less Prevalent.

Matane, Que., July 7. — (Special.)— Not only in this neighbourhood but throughout the Province of Quebec, there is a marked decrease noticeable in the number of cases of Bright's Disease reported. This fact is undoubtedly due to the wide use of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the earlier stages of Kidney Disease.

Bright's Disease at one time was the cause of a large proportion of the deaths in this province. It was considered incurable and until Dodd's Kidney Pills were introduced, it was incurable. Not so, however, now. Dodd's Kidney Pills have almost wiped the disease out. Nor is Diabetes heard of now to any great extent.

The most common form by which Kidney Disease manifests itself is Backache, and here Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing their most active work. They are recognized as the surest and quickest cure for Backache ever invented. They work on the sound principle of going to the root of the trouble — the Kidneys— wherein they differ from all other backache medicines except imitations of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They do more than merely relieve. They positively and permanently cure, as thousands of people are ready to testify.

O. Dionne, a well-known resident of Matane, says, "Dodd's Kidney Pills have made a grand success in curing me of Backache, and I recommend everybody to keep them in the house. They are a wonder as a remedy for Backache and Disease of the Kidneys."

Fatal Oil Explosion.

New York, July 10. — Five men were injured, two of them probably fatally, by an explosion of a storage tank in the Pratt Oil Works, Brooklyn, yesterday.

Bought From a Man.

From the remarks of Magistrate Dumble in connection with the local junk dealers, published in last evening's Examiner, it might be inferred that all the junk dealers in town had purchased stolen weights from Frost, but Mr. William Mitchell was the exception. The weights which he purchased were brought to him by a man, and not a minor. Mr. Mitchell is very careful about such matters.

CITIZENS OF PETERBOROUGH.

There have been one or two letters inserted in the evening papers I would like very much to see emphasized, setting forth the needs and asking assistance in support of rooms for the young women of our town. Surely, if this were brought forcibly before the public, every citizen would do something to help on this worthy cause.

The young men of the town have been comfortably looked after, thanks to the kind remembrance of one of our late citizens. Surely, the whole town might take up this work, and do what is in their power to help to make the young women's rooms a success.

Through the kindness of Hon. Geo. A. Cox, the building lately occupied by the Examiner office, has been given free of rent for at least a year. This is much appreciated by the ladies interested in this work. These rooms require fitting up for class rooms, parlour, reading room, etc., and should be in readiness for the autumn work not later than September. If it were only better known, how many young ladies have been helped in so many ways in the old rooms on Brock street, with such small, inefficient means. I feel sure the ladies would receive every encouragement in branching out in this larger way with light ventilation and space so much improved. The town will be canvassed by the ladies—this is anything but a pleasant task—receive them kindly and do all that is possible, in the way of contribution, please. It will be quite impossible to reach all, and if any kindly disposed would enclose their contributions to the Secretary, Mrs. Kennedy, it will be gratefully acknowledged. A few ladies have had a very up hill work for years, with very little encouragement, and it is hoped this plea will soon be followed by really handsome donations. Let me as a citizen suggest that a subscription list be opened at any of the places of business of the town, and that any and everyone will subscribe something, however little, towards furnishing these rooms. If this is taken up as it should be there will be no need of our ladies going about collecting for this purpose.

I understand there is no repairing to be done, which is a great thing. Use of these rooms is a kind donation from an ex-citizen. Let me suggest opening this list at H. S. Macdonald's drug store, and at once, so the ladies will have the support of the people voluntarily.

AT JACKSON PARK.

A Gang of Young Men who Steal Contents of Baskets.

The annual Sunday school picnic of the George street Methodist church took place yesterday afternoon at Jackson Park. The picnic proved to be very successful and was quite largely attended.

A rather annoying feature of the day, however, was the theft of the contents of many baskets by a gang of hoodlums that are constantly hovering around the park. These young men and boys live almost entirely in Jackson Park, subsisting on what they can steal from baskets of those who attend the picnics. Complaint after complaint has been made in this regard, and it is about time that something was done to bring the guilty parties to justice. Next week a large excursion from Port Hope is coming to town and would it not be well to have a couple of special constables on duty that day? This is a matter for the trustees of the Park to consider. Something should be done, and someone suggests that a caretaker of the park during the summer months would be a most useful man at a small expense.

WHERE IS COWLEY?

His Mother in British Columbia Anxious to Hear From Him.

The Chief of Police has received the following communication as to the whereabouts of Henry Cowley, who is wanted by his mother in British Columbia.

Henry Cowley, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches in height; brown heavy hair; brown eyes; walks slightly lame, owing to the loss of all the toes of the left foot; is quick and active; well educated and musical; aged 21 years. Cowley left Seattle April 24, 1900, for San Francisco by steamer, and the last letter received from him was June 12, 1900, in which he stated that he intended to leave San Francisco for Russia in a few days. Cowley is not wanted for any offence. Any information about him will be gratefully received by his anxious mother. Mrs. J. C. Cowley, Victoria, B.C.: J. M. Langley, Chief of Police, Victoria, B.C."

WEDDED AT ST. MARKS.

A Former Resident of Peterborough Joins the Army of Benedicts.

On Saturday at noon the last June wedding in Port Hope was solemnized being the marriage of the two youngest daughters of Mr. John L. Twilley, Francis street. Miss Ruth Twilley was married to Mr. Edgar Cannon, of Toronto, and Miss Emily Twilley to Mr. John S. Perry, of St. Catharines, youngest son of the late Charles Perry, Peterborough.

The dual ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. Dymond, the rector. The marriage was of a private nature only the relatives and immediate friends being present. Miss Ruth Twilley wore a dress of silver gray cashmere trimmed with crepe de chene, old rose panel velvet and bonitan lace sailor collar, a picture hat of white straw trimmed with white silk ribbon and foliage. Her going away dress was fawn broadcloth with straps of fancy stitching and a toque of fawn satin and white tricked silk and chiffon.

Miss Emily wore a white muslin trimmed with valenciennes lace and insertion and wore a toque of white tricked silk and chiffon. Her going away dress was brown serge trimmed with brown satin and cream lace ornaments and a hat of white leghorn trimmed with silk, violets and foliage. The bridesmaids looked charming in light muslin. The presents were numerous and costly.

After the ceremony at the church the party returned to the residence, where refreshments were partaken of. Mr. and Mrs. Perry left by the 2.57 train for a trip in the western cities and Mr. and Mrs. Cannon by the 7 o'clock train for the west. After the honeymoon is over they will take up their residence respectively in Toronto and St. Catharines.

GEORGE STREET S. S. PICNIC.

The Boys and Girls of the George Street and Grace Church Methodist Sunday Schools Enjoy Themselves at Jackson Park.

Yesterday afternoon was an ideal one for a picnic and the committee in charge of George Street picnic were fortunate in having chosen it, after the disappointment of last Thursday afternoon. It was intended to give an afternoon principally for the pleasure of the primary and intermediate scholars and these turned out in large numbers and all seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly. Four busses were busy during the afternoon carrying the children and their friends to the grounds. When all had arrived at the park a programme of sports was run off under the direction of Messrs. Jefferies, Dumble and Armstrong. The races were keenly contested and furnished much amusement for the participants and onlookers.

A refreshment tent on the grounds in charge of Misses S. Miller, and Eva Whiten, did a splendid business during the afternoon.

Shortly after five o'clock, the party began to break up in little groups for supper, tea being supplied to all by the committee. An abundance of good cold water was also to be had.

After supper the picnicers enjoyed themselves with the swings and a ball game until the busses arrived, shortly after seven, when the party began to disperse.

OBITUARY.

Demise of Mrs. Jesse Gray, Edinburgh Street, This Morning.

The death occurred this morning at six o'clock, of Sarah E. Wright, aged 64 years, wife of Jesse Gray, Esq., Edinburgh street. The deceased has been failing in health for over a year, the immediate cause of death being heart failure.

Mrs. Gray could relate many interesting reminescences of Peterborough having taken up residence in the town some sixty years ago with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wright. She was a native of County Cavan, Ireland. Two children survive, viz:, Mr. H. W. Gray, of Water street, town, and Mr. R. J. Gray, of Oshawa. Mr. Robert Wright, of town, is a brother, and her sisters are Mrs. John Ritchie, town; Mrs. Charles Philip, Buffalo; and Mrs. Mickleborough, Auburn, N.Y.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at three o'clock, from the residence of Mr. H. W. Gray, No. 510 Water street.

CAPTAIN OR CREW NOT CENSURED

By the Coroner's Jury in the Houston Drowning Case.

SCOWS SHOULD NOT BE USED

The Inquest was Concluded Last Night After a Long Sitting—The Evidence Which was Taken.

When the Houston inquest was reaumed last evening the jurors were all present. Crown Attorney Wood was present on behalf of the Crown, Mr. A. E. Dixon on behalf of the deceased's family and Mr. G. W. Hatton on behalf of Mr. H. Calcutt, the owner of the steamer Water Lily.

Geo. Dawson was the first witness called. He was on the moonlight excursion on the night of the accident. He was on the bow of the scow near Mr. Jack Fitzgerald and heard a splash in the water and a cry "man overboard." He asked one of the crew if they were going to lower the life boat and the man replied that they were. The deck hand spoke something to the man in the piolet house and returned to the life boat at which witness by this time was. He was standing at one end of the same. When they tried to lower the life boat they had some difficulty. The ropes would not play freely, but after some little time, with the aid of another excursionist, the life boat was lowered. The life boat was on the right hand side of the steamer and the scow was on the left side. One of the crew got in the boat when it touched the water. He went out of sight down the river. It was about three minutes time between the time that the man fell in and when the boat was lowered. He was about three feet from where the plank ran across from the scow to the boat at the time the accident occurred. He noticed no lights in particular, but it was quite moonlight. He could not say that the plank was "regulation."

To Mr. Hatton witness said that he was not a sailor and never did any sailing. He lost no time when the man got in the water to make to the life boat. There appeared to be no difficulty in freeing the bow end of the life boat at which the crew hand was. He could not say what the crew hand could have done at the stern end of the life boat had he been there instead of the witness. Where the plank went on the steamer there was no railing. There was no loss of time under the circumstances in lowering the boat in witness' opinion.

To Mr. Dixon.—I did not see the accident. I heard the splash.

WHAT MR. PATTERSON SAW.

Andrew W. Paterson was on the stern end of the steamer and he heard the commotion. He looked out and saw a man in the water. He saw a bench thrown out and saw deceased swimming towards the boat till he vanished in the dark and not under the water.

A little cross firing took place between Council as to the manner in which the witnesses should be examined. Mr. Wood said that he had nothing more to ask the witness, but when Mr. Dixon went to further examine him Mr. Hatton objected, claiming that either Mr. Wood or Mr. Dixon had a right to do so, but not both. The objection was overruled.

ANOTHER PASSENGER.

John B. Williams was on top of the scow at the time of the accident, assisting in putting a bench down for some ladies. He heard a splash in the water and later saw a man in the river. Mr. Shepphard asked him if he could swim and he replied that he could. Shepphard then put on his coat again, he having taken it off to rescue deceased, if possible.

Witness' evidence as to throwing out the plank was the same as given by previous witnesses.

THE WATER LILY OWNER.

James Drain was called to establish the ownership of the boat. He testified that he was Mr. Calcutt's bookkeeper. He made the contract for the leasing of the boat, the Water Lily to Mr. Mulligan. Mr. H. Calcutt, witness said, is the owner of the steamer Water Lily, and Mr. Charles Calcutt is the Captain. Witness knew nothing of the equipment of the boat further than to say that she was inspected a very short time previous to the accident.

To Mr. Hatton, Mr. Drain said that Mr. Mulligan was the one whom he made the arrangements with for the lease of the boat, although there were several other persons present. There was something said over the 'phone as to how the scow should be attached. He told Mr. Mulligan that they would have to tow the scow behind and the latter gentleman intimated that they would have to call the excursion off. However, the boat was chartered. The steamer was inspected a few days or a few weeks previous to the drowning of Houston, he could not say which.

To Mr. Dixon, witness said that the boat was inspected by Inspector Davis of Kingston. He is the inspector of hulls and equipment. The boat is chartered to carry 150 passengers. The scow is supposed to carry 200. He is not posted on the requirements of a boat of this kind.

MR. ERRETT'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. Richard William Errett, measuring surveyor of shipping. He has to get measurements of the boats to see that they are registered. The Water Lily is nearly 54 tons gross. It is often his duty to look after the equipment.

To Mr. Hatton witness said that he only measures a boat once. That is before it is ready to sail.

DECEASED'S BROTHER.

John Houston, a brother of the deceased, saw the body of his brother and identified it as the same body as was inspected by the Coroners jury.

MISS MEHARRY AGAIN.

Miss Meharry was recalled to say that her uncle was in a cheerful mood the evening they went down on the excursion. He was in his usual jolly state of mind and there was nothing apparently wrong with him.

Mr. Hatton then endeavoured to get witness to repeat the conversation that took place when witness gave deceased her purse. Counsel asked if Houston did not say.—"This is the last you will see of this purse."

"I will not say he said exactly that; he said some little trifling thing like that," was Miss Meharry's reply.

Wm. Fee was a passenger on board the Water Lily on the night of the excursion. He got on at the Peterborough wharf. He is Captain of the City of Peterborough and since '67 he has been Captain of different boats. He has had great experience in navigating rivers. The scow left the wharf in tow. She was taken alongside the steamer when near the cemetery, as it is a great deal safer for a small boat to enter a bridge or a lock in this manner. The law says that a scow shall be one hundred feet behind the steamer, but it is more dangerous going through a bridge or a lock in this manner. There is a side current at the locks. From the Little Lake to Yankee Bonnet it is much safer to handle a scow along side the steamer. Witness assisted in anubbing the boat and scow together. There was about twelve to eighteen inches distance between the scow and the boat at that time. There were floats and life-jackets on board the steamer, but he was not on the scow and could not say as to whether there were any on the scow. The boat was properly lighted. He was just going into the engine room when the bell rang to stop the boat, which was done as quickly as possible. The life boat passed the stern of the steamer between three and four minutes from when the alarm was given. This was good time in his opinion. He did not see the plank from the scow and boat. The scow and boat were anubbed together as close as they could be.

To Mr. Wood—The scow was towed alongside the boat until after the accident, when it was towed behind. He asked the captain going down if he would attach the scow alongside the boat, and the captain enquired of witness if he thought that it would be safer, to which witness replied that he thought it would. This was accordingly done. They thought it would be safer going through the bridges and piers.

Asked by Mr. Wood if a plank 12 inches wide was a proper means for passengers to use in going from boat to scow, witness thought that it should have been wider if it were intended to be a gangway.

To Mr. Hatton witness said that passengers are not supposed to go from scow to boat.

To Mr. Dixon witness said that if the passengers were not supposed to cross from boat to scow, or from scow to boat there should have been railings up at the gangways. He did not see any plank at all; there may have been a couple there for all he knew.

To Coroner Gray witness said that there was a life buoy on board the boat, and why it was not thrown out out he did not know. The bench of course may have been the handiest.

CAPTAIN CALCUTT.

Captain Charles Calcutt, of the steamer Water Lily was then called. He remembered the night of the 25th of June. He made no arrangements for the chartering of the boat, but got his instructions from James Drain. There was something said about towing alongside, and he told Mr. Mulligan that he would not tow the boat alongside for anyone, except he could not help himself. The reason for this was that he had received notice from the authorities not to do so. He had been captain of a boat since 1899, and before that time he had been connected with the local waters since he was 12 years of age. Since he got the notice regarding towing he dropped the scow behind where at all possible to handle it. It is much easier in some places to tow the boat alongside than behind. He changed the scow to the side just before they went into the locks to escape the current. There are two bridges and the locks to pass through and on some occasions the county bridge is not lighted as it should be. In towing a steamer behind, if a bridge were not open there would be serious consequences. It would probably smash into the steamer. The Otonabee was very high, and the buoys were pulled under the surface. Capt. Calcutt explained the difficulties he had to contend with as to the shadows, etc. He never had an accident before during his steamboat experience. His intention on coming back was to drop the scow behind. He was just getting ready to do this when the accident occurred. He had life buoys and floats on board the boat. He had 107 cork jackets, and in every manner had the boat equipped to the satisfaction of the authorities. She was inspected on the 29th of May. A float is a pine plank 2 x 10 inches and 8 feet long. He gave no instructions about the plank from scow to boat. He was continually giving orders about the passengers being on the deck of the scow, or in going from scow to boat. He got no instructions regarding the posting up of a copy of the Act.

"You have been given a hard character, Captain Calcutt," said Mr. Hatton.

"Yes, I have heard," replied the captain.

Continuing, Captain Calcutt said he felt very much the death of Houston. Replying to the charge that he was intoxicated he said that he had not had a drink of whiskey for two years and had not taken a drink of beer for over a year. He was therefore perfectly sober. He did not know who the young ladies were that were talking to him when they returned to town. Witness was confused at the time they were talking to him, as he was being asked questions by everyone. He was properly equipped on the boat as to lights. He stopped the boat as soon as possible, and went down to throw out a plank. Some person cried out, "It's no use, Charlie; he's too far out." He then went and assisted in lowering the life boat. He thought it was best to steam on home as the crowd was running around like a lot of crazy people.

Mr. Wood put witness through a cross-examination as to the method of towing the scow. He did not know of the plank that reached from scow to boat. There was none there that he saw when they came back to town. The gangways should be closed, and he did not know who opened them.

To Mr. Dixon, Captain Calcutt said that he had a crew of four. He explained the duties of the various officers, and entertained the jury in general by giving reminescences of his steamboat experiences.

Edward Wicker and J. Lajeunnesse, members of the Water Lily's crew, gave evidence which was not of a material nature.

This concluded the investigation, and the jury retired. After some minutes they brought in a verdict, as appended.

"We find that George Houston came to his death by drowning; we suggest that it is not safe, when the water is high, to tow a scow carrying passengers either alongside or behind a steamer in these waters."

THE PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH

Quarerly Session Held in St. Andrew's Cnurch Yesterday.

THE VISITING DELEGATES.

A New Church to be Erected at Cordova Mines—Mr. Kerr's Co-operation Much Appreciated.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in quarterly session on the 9th inst., in St. Andrew's church. There were present, Rev. Messrs. Bennett and Potter, Peterborough; Thompson, Hastings; Hyde, Warsaw; Lord, Grafton; Johnston, Millbrook; Reeves, Campbellford; Somerville, Norwood; McMullen, Springville; Hamilton, Havelock; McIntosh, Centreville; Hunter, Baltimore; Craw, Warkworth, Kannawin, Omemee; Sinclair, Port Hope; and Campbell, Lakefield, ministers; and Messrs. R. Harrison, Peterborough; Alex. McIntosh, Colborne, and Jas. Donald, Campbellford, elders.

Arrangements were made for the supply of the Colborne church, the pastor of which has been incapacited by illness. Sympathy was expressed with Mr. Duncan.

The following delegates were appointed to visit mission fields and augmented congregations:

Springville, etc.—Rev. Mr. Kannawin.

Havelock—Rev. Mr. Reeves.

Janetville—Rev. Mr. McIntosh.

Warsaw—Rev. Mr. Campbell.

Harvey—Rev. Mr. Thompson

Apsley and Clydesdale — Rev. Mr. Potter.

Cardiff — Rev. Mr. Oswald.

The following were appointed as conveners of the standing committees for the year:

Home Missions—Rev. Mr. Potter.

Augmentation — Rev. Mr. Lord.

Church Life and Work—Rev. Mr. Sinclair.

Young People's Societies — Rev. Mr. Kannawin.

Superintendence of Students —Rev. Dr. Torrance.

Sabbath Schools—Rev. Mr. Campbell.

Statistics — Rev. Mr. Bennett.

An interesting Home Mission report was presented by Rev. Mr. Potter.

The following action was taken, viz. Instruct the committee to proceed to the erection of a suitable Presbyterian Church at Cordova Mines immediately, and to grant leave to the committee to canvass the congregations for the necessary funds in all cases where consent has been obtained from the sessions. The presbytery agreed to express appreciation of the active co-operation of Mr. Kerr, the manager of the mines.

The next meeting of Presbytery was appointed to be held in Campbellford, on the 3rd Tuesday of September at 10.15 o'clock.

The delegates to the Assembly who were present reported regarding their faithfulness in attendance upon the session of the Assembly.

Rev. Mr. Hyde tendered the resignation of his pastoral charge at Warsaw.

The resignation will be considered at the next meeting in Campbellford.

An interesting report was read from the Secretary of the W.F.M.P. Society. The report was received and sympathy expressed with the efforts made to extend the work of Christ. The congregations in which there are no auxiliaries or mission bands were exhorted to see to the inauguration of these at as early a date as possible.

That fullness after meals promptly relieved by taking one of Miller's Compound Iron Pills after each meal. Sold by Wm. Madill, druggist.

COULDN'T CALL HIM CRAZY.

Just a Newspaper Headliner Mumbling From Force of Habit.

The young man with the haggard look sat in the rear car of an elevated train, staring and staring at one of the advertisements.

"English beauty shoes," he mumbled to his companion. "That's what he says."

"Yes," said the other, "but that's too short."

"Hm, hm," the haggard man replied. "Beautiful shoes from England"—

"That won't fit. It's long," was the curt reply.

"Well, then, 'Beautiful English shoes' "—

"That's only three words. You've got to have four, you know."

"That's so, that's so. Ah, I have it!" he cried so loud that all the other passengers in the car gave a jump. " 'English shoes of beauty,' 23 letters and spaces at last."

A compassionate old man looked up from his newspaper.

"What's the matter with your friend?" he asked. "Is the chap suffering from delirium tremens?"

"Oh, no," the man addressed replied assuringly. "You see, he's just through with his night's work on a morning newspaper. He's a headline writer, you know, and after a fellow has scribbled off headlines of 23 letters and spaces for about eight hours steady he contracts that habit and can't get over it. Every advertisement, every scrap of paper he sees for several hours afterward until his mind gets rested—well, he begins to count the letters and spaces and turn the wording into a headline that will fit. It isn't exactly delirium tremens. It's something worse. The headlines of 23 letters and spaces go wriggling around in that poor overworked brain much worse than snakes."—Chicago Chronicle.

THE BISLEY MEETING.

Entries Far in Excess of Those of Last Year.

ONLY ONE COLONIAL TEAM.

Canada Alone Is to the Fore with a Full Complement—Program for the Entire Meeting Shows That the Lessons of the Boer War Have Not Been Forgotten.

London, July 9.—The forty-second annual meeting of the National Rifle Association opened at Bisley yesterday in brilliant weather. The entries generally are satisfactory, but there is a notable absence of colonials. Canada alone furnishing a full team. The events decided yesterday are unimportant.

The program for the entire meeting shows that some of the lessons of the Boer war have not been overlooked. The rapid-firing principle has been introduced in many of the short-distance competitions, both for teams and individuals, and efficiency in firing at extreme ranges is also encouraged. In the latter case the target will be undistinguishable to the naked eye, and readily adjustable telescopic sights and artificial rests will be allowed. The most interesting competition, however, will be that founded by Lord Roberts for snap-shooting by teams, in sections or companies. The men, who are concealed behind a breastwork, will, on the sound of a whistle, rise, fire and return to concealment, the entire exposure not exceeding four seconds. The entries amount to nearly 5,000.

Mrs. Nation's Work Undone.

Fort Scott, Kan., July 9.—A jury of the most prominent business men of Fort Scott was just four minutes in finding to be unconstitutional one of the state's new liquor laws, passed as a result of Mrs. Nation's crusade. It was the inquisition law, which authorizes county attorneys to summon and examine witnesses touching their knowledge of the violation of the law.

Island Minister Resigns.

St. John's, Nfld., July 9. — It is reported that Minister of Finance Jackman, acting on the advice of Bishop Howley of St. John's, has resigned from the Bond Ministry owing to a disagreement with his colleagues over the Reid railroad question. Mr. Jackman declines to make any statement confirming or denying the report.

Four Men Drowned.

Sherbrooke, Que., July 9. — Four men are reported to have lost their lives last evening by drowning in the St. Francis River, near Brompton Falls. The names of the four men could not be ascertained here last evening, further than one of the men drowned was named Wardell, who served in the first contingent that went to South Africa. It is also stated that the men belong to East Angus.

Negro and Chinaman.

Chatham, Ont., July 9. — "Ollie" Reeves (colored), while intoxicated, gave a brutal beating to a fellow-employe, a Chinaman, at the Garner House. Reeves then procured two revolvers from his room and brandished them until he was overpowered and arrested. Yesterday he was sentenced to three years in Kingston. One Sykes, for bicycle stealing, was given a similar sentence.

Nervously Exhausted.

Sleepless, poor digestion, easily tired, blue as indigo, that's how you feel. Do you want to feel strong, make plenty of blood, enjoy buoyancy, strength and vim. You can do so by using Ferrozone. How it sharpens the appetite and imparts a feeling of buoyancy, strength and vim! Improves the appetite, digestion, assimilation, sleep. How surely Ferrozone does this, you can ascertain by using it. Ferrozone is a blood builder, nerve strengthener and brain invigorator. Sold by only Ormond and Walsh.

Wounded in a Duel.

New York, July 9. — According to a Rome despatch in The World, the Duke of Aosta, cousin of the King of Italy, and heir presumptive to the throne, fought a duel last week with a Russian prince, believed to be Duke Eugene of Leuchtenberg, grandson of Czar Nicholas I. The Russian received a severe sword thrust through the stomach.

Rosebery Visits the King.

London, July 9.—Lord Rosebery came to London yesterday and was received in audience by the King at Marlborough House. The public announcement of this visit to His Majesty soon after the former Premier's return from the continent, whence he arrived Saturday, excites much comment, in view of the political situation.

989 Deaths a Week.

New York, July 9. — The official reports of vital statistics show 989 deaths from heat for week ending July 6, in the five boroughs of Greater New York.

A Red Hot Season.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

WHAT COLOR TELLS IN HORSES.

Arabs Believe the Chestnut Is the Strongest and Swiftest.

Whether or not a horse's color is an indication of his breeding and powers of endurance is a much disputed question. The color theory doubtless originated among the Arabs, for centuries famous as horsemen. Its exponents say that it is the result of constant observation and long study, but many competent horsemen deride it as a superstition.

Be this as it may, the chestnut is the Arab idea of perfection. In this connection it is significant that the majority of successful race horses have been chestnut in color. Chestnuts also seem to have carried off the greatest number of honors in the show ring. The Arabs, like the dictionary, make but little distinction between the chestnut and the bay and considers the latter color about as desirable as the former. The dictionary defines bay as a shade of chestnut.

Horses of a rich seal brown are good to look upon, but among the Arabs rarely fetch a large price, as they are considered lacking in hardihood, prone to sickness, with little or no endurance. Roan horses are by many regarded as very hardy, but all horsemen do not concur in this opinion, and, as the race horse trainers express it, the roan color indicates a cold cross somewhere in the breeding.

The black horse is, in the American mind, suggestive of the funeral, which possibly accounts for some of the prejudice against it. A black horse is a nightmare to his groom, for his coat shows the slightest speck of dust or dirt, and a little gust of wind often spoils hours of hard grooming. When a black horse has been exposed to the sun and weather for some days, his coat fades to a rusty, washed out color.

White horses always suggest the circus. Their coats are even more difficult to keep clean than a black horse's and are seldom in presentable condition. It is most disagreeable to drive behind a gray or white horse during shedding time. Then one's clothing is sure to be covered with clinging hairs that are very noticeable.

Piebald and skewbald horses attract too much attention to the rider or driver to be considered quite the thing and, like the white horse, remind one of the sawdust ring. A mixed coat is a pretty strong indication of low breeding.

There is an ancient tale of a band of Arabs being pursued by their enemies which sums up their theory about a horse's color. Among the fleeing band was a man with unusually keen eyesight, and from time to time he would describe to his leader the horses ridden by the enemy.

"What manner of horses do they ride?"

"Black horses."

"Then there is no need of haste."

At the noon halt the leader again asked, "What manner of horse do they ride now?"

"Bay horses."

"Then we must ride harder."

A few hours later the leader asked, "Are they horsed again?"

"They ride chestnuts."

"Then we ride for our lives."

A Spider's Instinct.

A correspondent sends us a remarkable instance of adaptation of instinct in a trapdoor spider. Says the writer: "A friend of mine noticed near his camp a trapdoor spider ran in front of him and pop into its hole, pulling the 'lid' down as it disappeared. The lid seemed so neat and perfect a circle that the man stooped to examine it and found, to his astonishment, that it was a sixpence. There was nothing but silk thread covering the top of the coin, but underneath mud and silk thread were coated on and shaped convex (as usual). The coin had probably been swept out of the tent with rubbish."

Commenting on this, a contributor to Nature says: "As is well known, the doors of trapdoor spiders' burrows are typically made of flattened pellets of earth stuck together with silk or other adhesive material. The unique behavior of the spider in question showed no little discrimination on her part touching the suitability as to size, shape and weight of the object selected to fulfill the purpose for which the sixpence was used."

Into a Pail of Live Coals.

St. Thomas, July 9.—A terrible accident occurred at Rodney on Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock, when the eighteen-months-old daughter of Mathew Barnes, who was sitting on a step, fell into an ash-pail filled with live coals. The child was terribly burned from the shoulders to the lower part of the abdomen. The doctor in attendance does not believe she will recover.

Two Bodies Unidentified.

Watertown, N. Y., July 9.—A special to The Standard from Sackett's Harbor on Lake Ontario says: The bodies of two men apparently 80 years old have been found on the shore of Lake Ontario. The indications are that they have been in the water some time. Neither one has been identified as yet.

300 Lives Lost.

Tacoma, Wash., July 9. — Canton mail advices give details of the loss of 300 lives by landslides and flood, occurring at Lung Keng in June. The landslide was caused by a tremendous earthquake.

Shot His Children.

Lockport, N. Y., July 9. —Sydney Locke, while temporarily insane, yesterday morning, shot his three children, Ruby, aged 14; Howard, aged 11, and Ermine, aged 8. The three are dead.

Trooper Kean Dead.

Ottawa, July 6. — The Governor-General yesterday received the following cablegram from the High Commissioner in South Africa:

"Johannesburg, June 28, 1901.—Regret to report that Trooper Thomas Jacques Kean, South African Constabulary, died of enteric fever at Elandsfontein, 24th of June. Next of kin, father, W. F. Kean, Cambridge, Ont."

CHAPTER XVIII.

"Phyllis," said I, "do you remember the day we first met?"

We were in the morning room of the Wentworth mansion at B——. Phyllis, Pembroke and I sat before the warm grate, while Mrs. Wentworth and Ethel stood by one of the windows comparing some shades of ribbon. My presence at B—— was due to a wire I had sent to New York, which informed headquarters that I was on the track of a great sensation. The return wire had said, "Keep on it."

"When first we met?" echoed Phyllis. "Why, it was at Block Island."

"Oh," said I, "I do not refer to the time when you had shouldered the responsibilities of a society bud. I mean the time when the introduction was most informal. You were at the time selling lemonade without license and with very little lemon."

"Selling lemonade!" cried Pembroke.

"Never mind him, Mr. Pembroke," laughed Phyllis.

"It was a long time ago," I went on. "I was a new reporter. Mr. Wentworth had to be interviewed. It was one of those hot days in May. The servant at the door said that Mr. Wentworth was in the back yard—he called it the garden.—where I soon found myself. You had a small table, a glass and a pitcher. I suppose every time your uncle got thirsty you sold him a glass. You wore short dresses"—

"Terrible!" cried Phyllis, shielding her face with the hand screen.

"And looked as cool as the ice in the pitcher and as fresh as the flowers which lined the walls. I thought that if I bought a glass of you I might make my approach to your uncle an easier task. So I looked at you and smiled, and you giggled."

"Giggled!" cried Phyllis indignantly. Pembroke was laughing.

"Yes, actually giggled," I went on. "I laid down a 25 cent piece, and you poured out some water which had had nothing more than a mild flirtation with a lemon, and I gulped it down. I held out my hand, and you said that there wasn't any change. I smiled a false smile. Let me make a confession."

"Well?" mockingly from Phyllis.

"It was my last quarter. It was very pathetic. I had to walk four miles down town. I did not know your uncle well enough, or I should have borrowed car fare from him."

"And I took your last penny?" said Phyllis gently. "Why did you not tell me then?"

"I was 22 and proud," said I. "Where are you going?" for she had risen.

"I'll be back in a moment," she said as she left the room. When she returned, she put out her hand. On the palm lay two bright American dimes.

"What's this?" I asked.

"The change."

"Very good!" laughed Pembroke.

I said nothing, but took out my wallet. In opening it to put in the dimes something fell to the floor. It was Gretchen's rose.

"What is that?" asked Phyllis, as I stooped to pick it up.

"It is the end of a story," I answered. I busied myself with the fire till the poker grew too hot.

"How many romances commonplace wallets contain!" said Pembroke sententiously.

"I have two in mine," said I.

Pembroke looked at Phyllis, but the fire seemed to be claiming her attention. Then he looked at me, but I was gazing at Phyllis. He was in a puzzle.

"Do you know, Miss Landors," he said, "that I never dreamed to meet you again when I saw you in Vienna last year?"

"Vienna?" said she. "I have never been to Vienna."

I suddenly brought down my heel on Pembroke's toes.

"Ah, a curious mistake on my part. I suppose the ball at the ministry tonight will be your first on the continent?"

I gazed admiringly at him. He had not even looked at me. He was certainly clever.

"Yes," said Phyllis, "and already I believe I am going to have what they call stage fright, though I cannot understand why I should feel that way."

"Possibly it's a premonition," said I absently.

"And of what?" asked Phyllis.

"How should I know?" said I mysteriously.

"What in the world is going on?" she demanded. "You step on Mr. Pembroke's toes, you prophesy and then you grow mysterious."

My glance and Pembroke's met. He burst out laughing. A possible contretemps was averted by the approach of Mrs. Wentworth, who asked us to have a cup of chocolate before we went out into the chill air. Finally we rose to make our departure. While Pembroke was bidding Ethel a good morning, Phyllis spoke to me.

"The last flowers you sent me were roses," she said softly.

"Were they?" said I. "I had forgotten. Shall I send you some for this evening?"

It was something in her eyes that I did not understand.

"Thank you, but Mr. Pembroke has promised to do that." And then she added, "So you have really had two romances?"

"Yes," said I, "and both ended badly."

"Let us hope that the third will be of happier termination," she smiled. The smile caused me some uneasiness.

"There never will be a third," I said. "It is strange, is it not, when you think that there might have been—but one? You will give me a waltz tonight?"

"With pleasure. Good morning."

Pembroke and I passed down the broad stairs. On the street we walked a block or so in silence.

Finally Pembroke said: "What the deuce made you step on my foot? And why does she not want me to know that she was in Vienna last winter?"

"Because," said I, "Miss Landors never was in Vienna."

"But, man, my eyes!"

"I do not care anything about your eyes."

"What makes you so positive?"

"Knowledge."

"Do you love her?" bluntly.

"No."

"Because"—

"There is another. Pembroke, tonight will be pregnant with possibilities. You will see the woman you love and the woman I love."

"What do you mean?"

"Have you ever heard of her serene highness the Princess Hildegarde of Hohenphalia?"

"So high?"

"Yes."

"Then the woman I saw in Vienna"—

"Was the princess."

"But this remarkable likeness?"

"Perhaps I had best tell you all." And when I had done his astonishment knew no bounds.

"Great George, that makes Miss Landors a princess too!"

"It does, truly. Herein lies the evil of loving above one's station. In our country love is like all things—free to obtain. We are in a country which is not free. Here those who appear to have the greatest liberty have the least."

"And she knows nothing about it?"

"Nothing."

"Why tell her?" he asked, fearful of his own love affair now.

"It is a duty. Some day she might learn too late. This afternoon I shall visit the chancellor and place the matter before him and ask his assistance. He must aid me to find the proofs."

Pembroke began kicking the snow with his toes.

"I wish you had not told me, Jack."

"It is for the best. You and I are in the same boat. We ride or sink together."

At luncheon his mind was absent, and he ate but little, and I ate less than he. It was going to be very hard for me to meet Gretchen.

WASP WAISTS

Are not much in evidence among American women. The women of America are workers, and a weak waist handicaps a worker. But woman has a greater handicap than a weak waist. She may have a perfect form, beautiful and strong in all its lines, and yet be weak because her strength is undermined by diseases peculiar to her sex.

There is no room for argument as to the weakening effect of these diseases. There is also no room for argument as to the power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to cure them. It regulates the periods, stops unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It is a purely vegetable preparation, and cannot disagree with the weakest constitution. There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all narcotics.

Sick women suffering from chronic forms of female diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free, and so obtain the invaluable advice of a specialist in the diseases of women. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Words cannot tell how grateful I am for your kind advice and good medicines," writes Mrs. John Cooke, Hastings, Northumberland Co., Ontario. "I had been in poor health for four years back, and this spring got so bad I could not do my work. I went to the doctor and he said I had ulceration and falling of the internal organs, but I thought I would try your 'Favorite Prescription.' I took five bottles and three of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and I can safely say that I never felt better in my life. I have spoken well of your medicines wherever I have been."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the liver healthy. They assist the action of "Favorite Prescription" when a laxative is required.

. . . . . .

The chancellor waved his hand toward a chair. We were very good friends.

"What is it now?" he asked, smiling. "I dare not stir up the antagonists against the government to give you a story, and, aside from the antagonists, it is dull."

"I will find the story in the present instance," said I. And in the fewest words possible I laid before him the object of my visit.

"This is a very strange story," he said, making a pyramid of his fingers

"This is a very strange story," he said, and contemplating the task with a careful air. "Are you not letting your imagination run away with you?"

"Not for a moment. I ask you to attend the ball at the American ministry this evening, and if the likeness between the two women does not convince you the matter shall drop so far as I am concerned."

"Has Herr Wentworth any idea of the affair?"

"It is not possible. What would be his object in keeping it a secret?"

"Still it is a grave matter and without precedent. We must move carefully. You understand that there was no knowledge of another child, only rumor, and then it was believed to be a hallucination of the mother, whose mind was not very strong."

"Do you believe," I asked, "that two persons born of different parentage in different lands may resemble each other as these two do?"

"No. I shall let you know what stand I'll take when I have seen them together. And what will his majesty say?" he mused. "I'm afraid the matter will assume many complications. And I might add that you seem particularly interested."

A slight warmth came into my cheeks.

"Your excellency understands that a journalist always takes great interest in affairs of this sort," was my rejoinder.

"Yes, yes," pleasantly. "But this so called sister—has she not lived most of her life in America, your own country?"

"Your excellency," said I honestly, "whether she regains her own or not is immaterial to me from a personal standpoint."

"Well, one way or the other, I shall decide what to do tonight. But, mind you, there must be proofs. Though they may look enough alike to be two peas in a pod, that will give your friend nothing you claim for her. The fate of your princess rests in the hands of Herr Wentworth. Have the two met?"

"No, but during the short time they have been in the city they have been mistaken for each other. And why do you call her my princess?"

"She is not ours yet. It was a strange story, as I remember it. In those days we had our doubts, as we still have, of another child. By the way, who suggested the matter to you?"

I recounted my interview with the prince.

"Ah," said the chancellor, "so it was he? He is a greedy fellow and careful. I can readily understand his object. He wants all or nothing. I shall help you all I can," he concluded as I reached for my hat.

"I ask nothing more," I replied. And then I passed from the cabinet into the crowded anteroom. It was filled with diplomats and soldiers, each waiting for an audience. They eyed me curiously and perhaps enviously as I made my way to the street. "Yes, indeed, what will the king say?" I mused on the way back to my rooms. What could he say?

That night Pembroke and I arrived at the ministry a little after 10. I was in a state of extreme nervousness.

"I'm in a regular funk," said Pembroke. "Supposing your princess does not come?"

"It is written that she will come."

"Well, I'm glad that I looked you up in London. I would not have missed this adventure."

We found Phyllis in a nook under the grand staircase. I gave a slight exclamation as I saw her. I had never seen her looking so beautiful.

"Come and sit down," said she, making room for us. "I have had a curious adventure."

"Tell us all about it," said Pembroke.

"I have had the honor of being mistaken for a princess," triumphantly.

"Who could doubt it?" said I, with a glance I could not help, which made her lower her eyes.

SYSTEM TONIC IS A SCIENTIFIC REMEDY AFTER THE SUGGESTIONS OF THE BEST PHYSICIANS IN AMERICA, DISPENSED BY A CHEMIST.

Fac-Simile of Genuine.

It Can't be Done

In spite of the fact that a few months ago the barrel was full of delicious sweet cider, you can't by adding a little soda now since it has become vinegar, transform it back to cider. Neither can you cure dyspepsia by taking a little pepsin, or baking soda, or a few doses of Cathartic medicine. You must take Merrill's System Tonic for the whole system has undergone a change from the effects of undigested and unfermented food. The condition of the blood and of the digestive ferments, and the action of the bowels and kidneys are as unlike what they should be, as vinegar is unlike cider. Merrill's System Tonic strengthens the stomach and nerves, purifies the blood, restores healthy kidney action and cures constipation. This is just what you want. No other remedy known does it so quickly or so well or makes such a permanent cure. If you have dyspepsia, liver trouble, or headache give Merrill's System Tonic a chance to cure you.

—The busses for the dance at Chemong this evening will leave the post office at 7.30 o'clock.

—A full attendance of members of the "Royal Arcanums" is requested for tomorrow night, Thursday the 11th at 8 p.m. sharp. Regular business and initiation of candidates.

Fine Wheat.

Mr. George Payne, of Dummer, was in town to-day and left with the Examiner a remarkable stalk of wheat. It measures six feet one inch and was grown on the farm of Nathan Payne, Lot 17, Con. 2, Dummer. The variety is known as Golden Chaff and Mr. Payne has a fine field of it.

PETERBORO' CHEESE BOARD.

The Regular Sale Took Place To-day.

9 1-4 was the Highest Price Paid—Every Factory was Picked up—Adjourned for Two Weeks.

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held this morning, the President, Mr. Drummond presiding.

The following buyers were in attendance, Messrs. Clurton, Moore, Kerr, Cook, Fitzgerald, Rollins, Wrighton, and Bailey. The highest price paid was 9 3-16.

The salesman of the Brickley factory spoke a few words to the buyers regarding the factory he represented. He claimed that his factory is a new one and equipped in the most up-to-date manner. He hoped they would receive every encouragement from the buyers.

The President brought up the matter of having weekly sales during the warm weather.

Mr. Anderson favoured weekly sales during the hot weather. Some of the smaller factories perhaps would not care to sell weekly, but the larger factories favoured the idea.

Mr. Thos. Blogard, M.P.P., strongly favoured the idea of having weekly sales. We have, in the past, he thought listened to the buyers too much and not the salesmen.

Mr. Bailey did not think the recent excessivly hot spell as they had experienced, would be encountered again. They were certainly caught during the past spell, but he did not think there would be a recurrence of the same.

After considerable discussion in which buyers and salesmen took part nothing was done in the matter.

The factories boarded as follows:

Keene	150
Warminster	125
Shearer	125
Central Smith	200
North Smith	135
Villiers	125
Warsaw	155
Westwood	200
Oakdale	160
Missing Link	80
Daisy D	79
Melrose Abbey	150
Lakefield	160
Pine Grove	115
Peterborough	88
Otonabee River	84
Maple Leaf	140
Myrtle	151
Young's Point	125
Lang	190
Frazerville	155
Indian River	135
North Dummer	100
Ballyduff	46
East Emily	186
Trewern	130
Bensfort	175
Cedardale	88
Stony Lake	50
Cavanville	250
Crown	106
Mount Pleasant	112
Perrytown	70
Norwood	190
Fleetwood	250
Oak Leaf	50
Darlington Union	180
Buckhorn	154
South Burleigh	50
Hope	60
Brickley	58
Shamrock	80

The first bidding opened at 8 1-4 by Mr. Bailey and closed at 9 1-8 by Mr. Fitzgerald. He called Westwood, Villiers, Central Smith, Trewern, Fraserville, all of which accepted.

Mr. Whitton, after considerable confused bidding, went 9 1-4, and called Keene, Shearer, Lang, Bensfort, Warsaw and Ormonde.

Still 9 1-4 was the favourite figure, and at that figure Mr. Rollins took Warminster, North Smith, Oakdale, Daisy D., Maple Leaf, North Dummer, Cedardale, Stony Lake and Missing Link.

At 9 3-16 Mr. Bailey picked up Oak Leaf, Shamrock, Melrose Abbey, and Norwood.

Mr. Cook offered 9 3-16, taking Lakefield, Pine Grove, Peterborough, Otonabee Union, Indian River, and offered 9 1-8 for further selections. At that price Cavanville, Fleetwood, Young's Point, East Emily, Buckhorn and Myrtle refused, but Mount Pleasant, Perrytown, Crown and Hope accepted.

Mr. Bailey bid 9 3-16 and took Fleetwood and Cavanville. At the same figure Mr. Cook took Buckhorn, East Emily and Young's Point.

At 9 3-16 Mr. Whitton added to his selections Myrtle, and at 9 1-8 Mr. Bailey added Darlington Union.

Ballyduff sold to Mr. Kerr, at 9 3-16, Montreal inspection.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

BOWLING.

A number of scratch matches at the green last night resulted as follows:

Rink No. 1.

Harry Rush,	W J English,
Dr Moher,	M Green,
W Pringle,	H Armstrong,
G Giroux, sk...5	K Houston, sk...19

Rink No. 2.

H J Grassett,	W Bunton,

Rink No. 3.

Harry Rush,	W J English,
Dr Moher,	M Green,
W Pringle,	H Armstrong,
W Ballsbury, sk...7	K Houston, sk...1

The selection of rinks will take place at the green Friday at eight o'clock sharp. Skips who are unable to attend are requested to be represented at the drawing by their vice-skips.

The meeting for the selection of rinks which was to have been held this evening, has been postponed until Friday evening in order to give the skips more time to chose their vice-skips. It is hoped that all will come on Friday evening prepared to proceed with the selection.

CANOEING.

The meeting to make further arrangements for the Little Lake Regatta will be held in the Oriental at 7.30 o'clock this evening.

BASEBALL.

The Cobourg Baseball Team will be here on Saturday to play the locals. The game should be closely contested and will no doubt draw a very large attendance. The Peterborough team is in the pink of condition and are prepared to give a good account of themselves.

LACROSSE.

The members of the Y.M.C.A. Lacrosse Club are asked to attend full practices on the oval, commencing tomorrow, (Thursday.)

Is Your Piano in Tune?

The change of season affects pianos as well as everything else. Mr. Geo. Gumpricht, practical piano maker and tuner, with twenty-eight years' experience, attends to all orders left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drugstore.

Sympathetic Ink.

Anybody may manufacture a good sympathetic ink for himself by adding a little gum arabic to a small quantity of chloride of cobalt, the latter being obtainable from any dealer in chemicals. The mixture, when used with ink—a quill pen should be employed—makes a pink script which disappears when dry, becomes green when heated, disappears when cold and is pink again when dampened.

An expedient even simpler when one wishes to confide his secrets to paper and yet keep them is to use ordinary rice water instead of ink. It cannot be seen when dry, but turns blue when iodine is applied to it. If it be desired to make perfectly sure of the destruction of the contents of the letter after it has been read, the purpose may be accomplished by writing it with a solution of iodide of starch in water. A few days later the script will have disappeared.

MAYOR TUDHOPE NOMINATED.

Brilliant Prospects for the Redemption of East Simcoe.

Orillia, July 10.—The Liberals of East Simcoe gathered in convention at this place yesterday afternoon and unanimously nominated Mr. J. B. Tudhope, Mayor of Orillia, as the Liberal standard-bearer in the forthcoming general election. The convention was very representative, notwithstanding the haying season, which ties the farming community up closely at the present time, and a special train brought many delegates to town from along the Midland line. Mayor Tudhope was nominated in a happy manner by Mr. W. M. Harvey, who made a gallant fight under adverse conditions in the contest of 1894, and who ran so closely also in the election of 1898. No other name was proposed, and the delegates rose en masse and signified their approval of Mr. Harvey's nomination by prolonged cheers.

Mayor Tudhope, who admitted some previous doubts in his own mind as to how general the demand was that he should stand, frankly stated that, in view of the splendid unanimity of the nomination, he would accept and do his utmost to secure the return of East Simcoe to the position it once held in the Liberal column. Hon. J. E. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands, was present, and delivered a very able speech which was enthusiastically received.

But It Was Loaded.

Orillia, July 10.—Eddie Robinson, the 13-year-old son of Charles Robinson, was accidentally shot through the head by a little companion here yesterday. The latter was playing with a gun, and pulled the trigger, with a tragic result. Coroner Beaton decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

British Beat Americans.

London, July 10.—The Daily Mail publishes advices from Simla to the effect that the latest contract for 30 locomotives for the Burmah railways has been secured by British builders, whose tender as regards price and time of delivery were more favorable than those of the American bidders.

Both Perished.

Halifax, July 10.—Two children of Thomas Doucette, Tusket Forks, Yarmouth County, went in swimming Monday afternoon in the river. They were aged 8 and 11 years. The youngest child lost his footing, when his brother went to his assistance and both perished.

Brakeman Killed.

Oswego, N. Y., July 10.—Fred L. Foote, a brakeman on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad, fell from a freight train at Wallington yesterday, and was run over. He died 20 minutes later. He was 23 years of age.

And They Were Married.

Ottawa, July 10. — The Rev. J. Arthur Tancock, rector of St. Matthew's Church, on the Glebe, and Mrs. Weir, widow of the late Mr. Arthur Weir, who suicided last fall, after making a scene in Mr. Tancock's church, were married on Saturday, July 7, at Lachine, in St. Stephen's Church, by the rector,

Mr. Mulock in London.

London, July 10. — Hon. William Mulock, Postmaster-General of Canada, reached London yesterday on his way from Australia. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mulock and Master Cawthra Mulock. There are now six Canadian Cabinet Ministers in London. Hon. Sydney Fisher intends to return at the end of the week.

Bigamy Charge Dismissed.

Winnipeg, July 10.—The charge of bigamy against A. H. Davidson, Wabigoon, formerly of Wiarton, Ont., preferred by Annie Pearce, was dismissed yesterday, owing to her inability to produce the marriage certificate.

Col. Leys Again M.P.P.

London, July 10.—In the Ontario bye-election for this city yesterday, Col. Leys (Liberal), was elected by 1,652 majority over F. J. Daisch, Social-Labor candidate.

Will Resign.

Berlin, July 10.—Ambassador White, when aged 70, will resign next year.

If you take a Laxa-Liver Pill at night before retiring, it will work while you sleep without a gripe or pain, curing biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia and sick headache.

Boxer Outrages Reverses.

Washington, July 10.—The Chinese Government, through Minister Wu Ting Fang, has filed a claim for indemnity to the amount of half a million dollars on account of the alleged outrageous treatment of Chinese at Butte, Mont.

The Cause of His Awkwardness.

He—At last we are alone, and we have an opportunity to speak. I have been seeking this moment for days and days, for I have something to say to you.

She—Go on, Mr. Harkins.

He—I will. Miss Jones, you perhaps have not noticed that at times I have been constrained, uneasy, even awkward, in your presence, that I have had something on my mind that I felt I must say to you?

She (softly)—Yes.

He—That constraint, that awkwardness, Miss Jones, was due to—due to—

She—Go on, Mr. Harkins.

He—Was due to the fact that I feared you were not aware that I am engaged to your mother.

MR. R. L. RICHARDSON

Promised Money to Mr. Cleroux in the Lisgar Election.

WHISKEY WAS TO BE BARRED.

Mr. Cleroux Was Cautioned Against Corruption—He Received, However, $31 From a Tribune Reporter and He Tells How He Spent It—Mr. Richardson and Mr. Moncrieff Examined.

Winnipeg, July 11.—At Manitou in the Lisgar election trial the examination of Mr. Cleroux was continued yesterday. He said Mr. Richardson promised to give him $80 for campaign expenses, and promised to make good his expenditures, referring him to Mr. Moncrieff, his city editor, who gave him $31. He spent the money in treating and in election expenses. Mr. Richardson told him to be very frugal, also that if giving a voter a glass of whiskey would win the election he would not have it won that way. Three other witnesses, voters in Lisgar, testified to having received money from Mr. Cleroux.

Mr. R. L. Richardson, M. P., and Mr. J. J. Moncrieff, news editor of The Tribune, were on the stand in the Lisgar election trial at Manitou yesterday.

Mr. Richardson said he ran as an Independent, and was glad to get support anywhere. He had no organization, and knew of no organized effort on the part of the Conservatives to elect him. No railway tickets were paid for, but passes were supplied. He never told Mayor Williams of Carman to go to Mr. Moncrieff for funds. What money he gave to Defromant at Somerset was to pay hotel bills. He never knew of whiskey being used to elect him until he received the bill of particulars. Cross-examined by Mr. Howell, Mr. Richardson said all the money spent at Somerset was wanted for getting out votes, necessary expenses.

Mr. Howell—And you call getting out votes by hiring rigs necessary expenses? Witness—Well, it is desirable to get out votes.

Mr. Howell—If you desire to win. You thought the farmers were going to turn out in a spontaneous way? Witness—Yes.

Mr. Howell—Well, why did you want railway tickets if the farmers were so spontaneous? Witness—Well, the tickets were for the purpose of getting railway men in.

Mr. Howell—And you were glad to have them? Witness—Very glad to get the benefit of anything that would advance the election.

Mr. Howell—Yes, I should think so. You sent Williams the scrutineers' books on the 17th? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you think he was supporting you on the 20th? A.—Yes, I think so.

Q.—How did you happen to meet Williams the day after the meeting? A.—I met him on the street or at the hotel.

Q.—Did you not telephone to him? A.—I may have.

Q.—Did you go with him to Edwards' office? A.—I don't recall whether I went to Edwards' office. I thought it was the municipal office I went to.

Q.—Did you go in a barroom at all at Somerset? A.—Yes.

Q.—How many times were you in the bar? A.—Twice.

Q.—How many people were in the bar when you were there? A.—I don't know. I don't think there were twelve or fifteen.

Continuing witness said: "I told Defromant at Somerset not to pay his check for the matters he mentioned to me. It was the same check that he saw me in Winnipeg about. I did not promise him one way or the other. I don't think I told Defromant to go to Moncrieff. I hold stock in The Tribune to the extent of $12,000. I am a director, and so is Mr. Moncrieff. I am the Managing Editor and Mr. Moncrieff is the news editor. In my absence he opens my correspondence. During the election he opened my letters, and sent those on he thought I should see, and answered immediate matters. He also opened telegrams."

To Mr. Ewart: I got a letter shortly after the election from Mr. Cleroux, which I kept, as the matters therein seemed important. All other correspondence I destroyed in accordance with my usual practice.

Drowned at Toronto.

Toronto, July 11. — The treacherous Long Pond at Centre Island claimed two more victims yesterday afternoon. Walter Smith, aged 8 years, of 119 Denison avenue, went in swimming and got beyond his depth. Ernest B. McRae of Tiverton, Bruce County, who made a heroic attempt to save him, also met a watery grave. Both lads visited Island Park with the excursion of the West Presbyterian Sunday School.

HEAD-ON COLLISION.

Sixteen Killed in Chicago and Alton Accident Wednesday.

TWENTY-FIVE WERE INJURED.

Both Engineers Were Killed Instantly—Fire Added to the Horror, the Chair and the Dining Car Being Partially Burned—Feared That Other Victims Are in the Wreck.

Kansas City, Mo., July 11.—Chicago and Alton passenger train No. 7, westbound from Chicago, collided head on yesterday with the second section of freight train No. 88 going east, near Norton, Mo., 100 miles east of Kansas City.

Eight people were killed outright and about 25 more or less injured. In a fire that started from the demolished engines the dining car and one chair car were partially burned. It is feared other victims are in the wreck.

Relief trains were started from Slater at 10 a. m., and from Kansas City at 12.30 p. m., each carrying a corps of physicians.

The trains collided while going at a rapid rate. Both engines were demolished, and the forward cars telescoped.

Both engineers, the freight conductor and Baggageman Racer were killed outright, as were three passengers. Most of the damage appears to have been done in the combination smoker, following the baggage car, three cars being pushed into the space of one car by the terrific impact of the collision.

In the chair car half a dozen received scratches and bruises, but the greatest number of the victims were in the tourist sleeper. This car telescoped and fell on top of the engine. The passengers were scalded by escaping steam. The chair car piled up near by. The Pullman and the observation car remained on the track, their occupants escaping with a slight shaking up.

Wreckage was piled high, and it is feared several bodies are still underneath. The baggage car was completely wrecked, and freight cars were piled up on both engines and also caught fire.

Sixteen Are Dead.

Sixteen persons are dead, two probably fatally injured, and a large number of others less seriously hurt. Six were killed outright, four died on a train conveying them to Kansas City and three died at a hospital in this city.

Epworth Leaguers Delayed.

Chicago, July 11.—The Epworth League specials, bound for San Francisco, which left Chicago yesterday, were run as the second and third sections of the train that was wrecked. So far as known there were no Epworth Leaguers from Chicago or the east on board the first section. Their trains will be delayed for several hours.

SPENCE'S GREAT SCORE.

Made a Possible 35 in "Gold Penny" Match.

Bisley Camp, July 11.—In the Golden Penny match, Pte. C. W. Spence of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, scored 35, and Lieut. J. M. Davison of the Queen's Own Rifles, 34. The highest possible is 35.

In the contest for the Ladies' Prize, open only to members of the National Rifle Association, nominated by lady members, Lieut. Wetmore, of the 74th Sussex Regiment, scored 34 points out of a possible 50. The distance was 1,000 yards. There are five prizes of £5 each in this match.

In the Association Cup match at 1,000 yards, with 10 shots, Sgt.-Major McDougall of British Columbia made 34 points.

Gunner Fleming of the 5th Royal Canadian Artillery got 33 points in the shooting for the J. H. Steward prize at 200 yards, with 7 shots and a time limit of one minute.

SEVERE FIGHTING.

Boers Were Defeated With at Least 50 Killed.

London, July 11. — Severe fighting, according to a despatch to The Daily Express from Lorenzo Marques, has taken place between Machadodorp and Lydenburg, the Boers being defeated, with at least 50 killed.

Tried Dr. Pitcher As a Last Resort.

A Toronto Lady's Experience With This Famous Specialist's Backache Kidney Tablets.

For many years in the hospitals of Detroit and as professor of Genito-Urinary Diseases in Michigan College of Medicine of that city, Dr. Zina Pitcher gave careful thought and consideration to diseases of the kidneys, bladder, and urinary system.

So profoundedly impressed was he with the fact that many thousands of people suffer from some form of kidney derangement, who were unable to avail themselves of the services of a specialist, that he decided to give to humanity at large his famous prescription for Kidney Diseases, under the name of Dr. Pritcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

It is of these tablets that Mrs. May Goddard, 332 Adelaide street west, Toronto, speaks in the following terms:—

"After enjoying the most perfect health for many years it was a sore trial for me to realise that my health was failing. I had, in the first place, acute pains in the small of my back, and was losing flesh rapidly. Then other complications arose, which so weakened me that it was only with the greatest amount of determination that I could attend to my work. I tried a number of remedies and consulted several physicians without obtaining more than temporary relief, and as a last resort I thought I would try Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. Their beneficial action was almost instantaneous, and the results highly gratifying. The pain in my back disappeared in a short time, and my general health improved greatly. I am now feeling fine, and am glad to have this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of so valuable a remedy.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists or sent by mail, postage free.

CHEMONG.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kelly spent one day last week at Stony Lake.

Mrs. Dr. Morgan is confined to her room through illness.

Mr. George Bell and wife drove up to Lindsay on Tuesday on business.

Mr. C. H. Mann is at present visiting his home in the village.

Mr. Alphonso Fobert, of Chicago, is spending a few weeks in Canada, and came out to Chemong to spend a few days renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Charles Richor, who travels for T. Kinear & Co., Toronto, was doing business in the village to-day, accompanied by Mr. Cunningham, of Brown Bros., Peterborough.

Mrs. R. Milburn and her neice, Miss Ida Sanderson, spent Tuesday in the village.

Mr. Norton Udy, wife and child, of London, Ont., are spending a few days under the parental roof.

Rev. George Nicol preached a memorial service on Sunday evening last, on the death of the late Miss Lillie Black, taking for his text the 73rd Psalm, 24th and 26th verses.

A jolly party consisting of some seventy-five Bridgenorthites, left on Friday evening, per steamer Lady of the Lake, Capt. Noble Kelly in command, for Burleigh, it being the annual huckleberry excursion, which takes place each year. Through Mr. W. B. Kelly's kind hospitality, the steamer Lady of the Lake is given free each year for this trip. The party left Chemong wharf at 8 p.m. Friday evening, and arrived in Buckhorn at 9.30, where they put up for the night. Mr. Pearson, who has erected a large boarding house near the locks, accommodated about twenty of the party for the night, and Mr. Thos. Eastwood also accommodated a number, and some remained on board. The severe electrical storm which passed over Buckhorn that night made some of the party feel rather nervous, and the residents there say it was one of the worst storms which has passed over that country for some time. However, after a good night's rest, the part awoke to find the weather prophet had in store for them a day which was almost perfect, as the heavy rain had washed away the dust and cooled the heated mountains of rock which are to be seen on every side of that romantic country. After partaking of a hearty breakfast, which the kind ladies had provided, the party left for Burleigh, passing through Lovelock locks on the way. Burleigh was reached about 9 a. m. Saturday morning, which was the terminus of the excursion party. Here any who wished to pick berries hastened to the berry patch, while others were inclined to roam around the rocks and view the beauties of Burleigh and Stony Lake in the distance. Shortly after twelve they began to gather around the little yacht again, and each one was making enquiries as to the dinner hour. However, it was not long until the ladies had a dinner ready that would satisfy the appetite of any man no matter how hungry he chanced to be. After every one had done justice to the good things provided, they began to prepare for the return, which was commenced at 2 p.m. After a short sail the party arrived back at Buckhorn, where they remained until half-past seven, when the trim little steamer pulled out for Chemong, arriving home at half-past eight. All kinds of praise was bestowed on the ladies of the party for the abundant supply of good things in the line of eatables they had provided. No accidents of any serious nature happened during the trip, with the exception of one young man, who was crossing the lock at Burleigh, when in some way he missed his footing and fell headlong into the still water below. However, he was rescued by Mr. Will Kelly, none the worse, only a severe ducking. Our reporter could not obtain the young man's name, but his initials are Wesley Milburn. Dr. Morgan and Mr. A. Jobe had their cameras along, and got some fine views of the party along the the route. Everyone spoke in the highest terms of Capt. Kelly, and after giving three cheers for the captain and singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," they began gathering up their berries and luggage, and all expressed a wish to be able to take in the outing again in 1902.

Miss Jones Voice Greatly Improved.

The many admirers of Miss Jones' singing have been greatly pleased at the improved clearness and richness of tone so noticeable in her late renderings. Miss Jones attributes this improvement to the recent use of Catarrhozone. It gives clearness and brilliancy of tone, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Prominent speakers, ministers, actors, and singers use Catarrhozone for the voice and find it of inestimable value. You breathe the medicatted air from the inhaler into the throat and lungs, where it kills disease, prevents and absolutely cures Bronchitis, Asthma and Catarrh. Catarrhozone never fails; never harms; pleasant to use, and always successful. Sold with a guarantee on every dollar package to cure these diseases or your money back. Small size, 25c. Not a Bargain.

"How much will you charge for marrying us, squire?" asked the stalwart bridegroom, painfully conscious of his new suit of ready made clothing.

"I am entitled by law to a fee of $2," replied the justice of the peace.

"Perhaps, Alfred," timidly suggested the blushing bride, "we might get it done somewhere else for $1.98."

DOMINION ALLIANCE.

President Says Prohibition is "Delectable Mountain."

PROVINCIAL LICENSE LAWS.

Business Based Upon the Report of the Executive--A Resolution Favoring Government Control of the Liquor Traffic Overwhelmingly Defeated--Report on Political Action Adopted.

Toronto, July 11. — National prohibition was the issue before the Dominion Council of the Alliance at the convention at Richmond Hall yesterday. With the exception of J. R. Dougall of Montreal, president, and Hon. J. W. Sifton of Manitoba, the delegates were at the Ontario gathering on Tuesday, but were thinned down to representatives of provincial bodies, about fifty being present.

J. R. Dougall, in his presidential address, took the view that Dominion prohibition is "a delectable mountain," to be viewed from afar, and apparently receding in the distance, from the gaze of the prohibitionists as they grew older. In his opinion a temperance people was of more importance than a prohibitory law, and must be secured to render such a law of value.

The executive report, read by J. H. Carson, Montreal, recording secretary, described the general outlook as hopeful, but feared that the bottlers' licenses issued in Quebec would prove fatal to municipal prohibition in that province.

Rev. William Kettlewell introduced a resolution regarding government control, which was sent to the Committee on Legislation.

Mr. H. Orr reported that the receipts had been $540, leaving a shortage of $39.

At the afternoon meeting William Munns presented the report of the Committee on Resolutions. The first motion recommended the establishment of anti-cigarette leagues in the Sunday and Public Schools.

Legislators and educators were urged to stand firmly by scientific temperance education in the Public Schools.

Temperance workers were called upon to give more earnest attention to the circulation of temperance literature.

Provincial License Laws.

The Committee on Resolutions brought in a report which contained the following among other paragraphs:

"There is evidence on every hand that the restrictions of the present license law of Ontario are not being enforced, but continually and almost universally violated. Therefore, the Alliance would call on the Ontario Government to see that its inspectors and commissioners take steps to secure the faithful observance of these restrictions."

Several delegates thought the matter was sufficiently dealt with at the convention on Tuesday

After a very animated discussion, the resolution was amended so as to make its terms applicable to "the various Provincial Governments," instead of only to the Ontario Government.

Rev. T. M. Campbell proposed that ministers should be more vigilant in inculcating principles of total abstinence.

A spirited debate arose when Rev. William Kettlewell's government control was reached. It read:

That this council, while opposed to any public ownership or control of the real sale of liquor for beverage purposes, believe that the time has come for the Dominion Government to assume the entire control of the manufacture, importation and wholesale distribution of alcoholic liquors for any and all purposes; and that the executive officers of this body do their utmost to secure the legislation necessary to give effect to this policy.

Rev. J. W. Cooley of Milton, seconder of the motion, argued that it would be necessary for this action to be taken by the Dominion Government to make provincial prohibition effective.

The Council took Rev. Mr. Deacon's advice, and buried it, only Rev. Messrs. Kettlewell and Cooley and Hon. Mr. Sifton voting for it.

A motion of condolence was passed with the relatives of the late Fireman McClure, M. P., Truro, N. S.; J. T. Bulmer, Halifax, N. S.; P. H. Stewart, Barrie, Ont., and G. O. Goodhue, Danville, Que., former members of the Alliance.

Lewis C. Peake moved the report of the Committee on Political Action, which recommended:

"That, while this Council stands by the declaration that nothing short of total prohibition will be accepted as a final settlement of the liquor question, yet, in view of the resolution of the Dominion Parliament, that 'Inasmuch as it is desirable that legislation be enacted having in view the further restriction of the liquor traffic, it is, therefore, expedient, in the opinion of this House, that the Canada Temperance Act be enlarged in its scope, and the provisions for its administration perfected,' our executive be instructed to appoint a special committee to carefully revise the Canada Temperance Act, and consider necessary amendments thereto; also that their conclusions be presented by deputation to the Government before the next session of Parliament."

The foregoing plan of action was agreed to without debate.

Officers Re-Elected.

The old officers were re-elected, with some exceptions. S. J. Carter takes the place of the late Dr. Christie, M. P., as vice-president of Quebec. Rev. A. E. Green becomes vice-president for British Columbia. Hon. J. W. Sifton and J. T. Reid were added to the executive.

Dominion Rifle Matches.

Ottawa, July 11. — The Dominion Rifle Association matches will commence on Monday, Aug. 26, when 391 prizes, aggregating in value $7,006 in cash, will be awarded. A new match for the "Transvaal Challenge Cup," presented by Capt. Bell, A. D. C., to the Governor-General, will be competed for. This competition will be open to those who served in the South African campaign.

G. T. R. Yardsman Killed.

Hamilton, July 11.—Early yesterday morning Richard Callon, a yardsman in the Stuart street station, of the G. T. R., met with a fatal accident, while coupling cars. He went between the cars on the "narrow side," to release the pin by hand, when the engine hunted the end of the train. The cars came close together, and Callon's skull was fractured.

Knights of Pythias Deficit.

Chicago, July 11. — According to the report presented to the Supreme Lodge of Knights of Pythias, the endowment rank of the order has a deficit of $225,267. Before the rank can legally continue doing business as an insurance institution, this deficit must be made good.

CLOUDBURST IN MONTANA.

Loss of Life Suspected but Not Yet Reported—Town of Corbin Almost Totally Destroyed.

Helena, Mo., July 11.—A cloudburst is reported to have almost destroyed the town of Corbin, 20 miles south of Helena. No loss of life has yet been reported, but it is thought certain that the escape of all the inhabitants was impossible.

Corbin is situated close to a line of foothills of the Rockies. During the night a terrific storm prevailed. Water rushed down the hills in dense volumes, and in a short time the large Peck concentrator was partially wrecked. Houses were torn from their foundations, and reduced to debris. The water rose to eight feet in the principal streets, and only the most substantial buildings remained in position.

Traffic on the Northern Pacific and Great Northern was stopped by wash-outs, and communication was cut off.

It is estimated that the loss of the concentrator alone will run into the thousands.

Residents of this city familiar with the surroundings of Corbin are of the opinion that a loss of life must have accompanied the flood.

Port La Vaca Swept Away.

Austin, Texas, July 11.—Private telegrams state that Port La Vaca, a Calhoun County town, was swept away Tuesday night by a storm. Nearly all the houses were blown away, and a large number of boats were wrecked, but no lives are known to have been lost. La Vaca is on La Vaca Bay, Gulf of Mexico.

HELD FOR EXTRADITION.

Man For Whom Montreal Police Have Been Looking For Ten Years.

New York, July 11.—Joseph Levesque, aged 34, for whom the Montreal authorities have been looking for the last ten years, was located and arrested yesterday by the Brooklyn police and Chief Carpenter of Montreal, and will be turned over to the Canadian officials as soon as the necessary formalities of extradition can be complied with.

Levesque, prior to Dec. 1, 1891, was a trusted employe of the City District Bank of Montreal. While acting as chief book-keeper, it is charged he conspired with another employe by falsifying the accounts to rob the institution, and the two together managed to get away with upwards of $20,000, disappearing on the date above mentioned. Levesque's accomplice is still at large, and the police refuse to give his name.

The Royal Tour.

Ottawa, July 11. — It is not at all probable that the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall will spend a week in Toronto as has been expected. They will probably visit Woodstock, Guelph, London, Niagara Falls and Hamilton in the interim between their reaching Toronto and leaving on Saturday. Hamilton will have the royal party for two and a half hours. From Kingston they will take the steamer for a trip through the Thousand Islands. The statement that a company of No. 3. Battalion, R.C.R.I., will act as an escort for Their Highnesses through Canada is officially contradicted.

Fierce Heat in the States.

Toronto, July 11. — Toronto was the hottest city in Canada yesterday. At 4 p. m., the thermometer registered 90 degrees, and it looked as if the warm wave was returning. The man who attends to these things up in the observatory promised Toronto a couple of days' respite at least, even if the hot air does decide to float this way.

They are perspiring in St. Louis, Mo., under a temperature of 104 degrees. Davenport, Iowa, reports the same. Omaha and Chicago are close seconds, with 102 degrees apiece.

Sugar Growers Ask Relief.

London, July 11.—The West Indian committee of sugar growers in a letter to Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in regard to the coming conference for the suppression of sugar bounties, to be held at Brussels, urges the Chancellor, insomuch as the British Government does not intend to grant colonial sugar relief through rebate from bounty-fed competition, that Great Britain endeavor to secure an international convention similar to the Gladstone convention of 1864.

Towns to Row Gaudaur.

London, July 11.—George Towns has signed the articles of agreement for the sculling race for the championship of the world. This means that the contest, about which there has been so much uncertainty owing to the failure of the parties to come to a satisfactory agreement early in the negotiations, will take place at Rat Portage, in Northwestern Ontario, on Sept. 4. The distance will be three miles with a turn. Towns and Tom Sullivan leave for Canada on July 25, and the former will go into training on Canadian waters upon his arrival. Sullivan, who is Towns' trainer, is the best-known rowing man in England, and at one time was champion. Towns is an Australian, but has been living in England for several years. Mr. Goland, a well-known follower of the sport, is backing the Englishman in the coming race with the world's champion at Rat Portage.

95° IN THE SHADE!

You've felt it. Most of us have. Few escape. Garments are a burden, and heavy shoes a thorn in the flesh. Shed your heavy clothes and don light shoes. Not Necessarily leather shoes, though for that matter there is nothing like leather. Good sense, enterprise, and a grip of the fitness of things has placed before us a variety of cosy fitting, light and comfortable shoes, for hot weather wear. Here are a few:

Men's Tan Canvas Bals., easy, comfortable, the right shade, a very seemly shoe, and the money only.....$1.75

Men's White Canvas Bals., with the famous Goodyear Welt, an extra fine shoe, sewed sole, elastic and springy to the step. Here, per pair, only.....$2.25

Here's a capital line in Men's White Canvas Oxford Shoes, the kind that are low, airy and comfortable, and low enough in price, too,—only..$1.65

Men's Coloured Canvas Oxford Shoes, with leather strap across the foot, a very durable shoe.....90c

Men's Dongola Oxford Shoes, light, cool and graceful.....$1.50

Tennis and Bowling Shoes, the exact thing needed, at 85c per pair, mind, only.....85c

A Capital Shoe for camping and on the lakes, will do a lot of service,..55c

LADIES' SHOES.

Vici Kid, in Oxford style. This is one of the "Neill Shoes," and the best shoe of its pattern made....$2.50

Vici Kid, same style as above, with turned sole.....$2.00

Four Button Dongola, a low shoe with arched instep, stylish and neat $1.65

Ladies' Dongola Oxford Shoes, turned sole, to lace.....$1.75

These Are Shoes the Exact Thing for Hot Weather Wear.

ROBT. NEILL

Some Sayings of Napoleon.

You know my army; it is an ulcer that would eat me up if I stopped giving it other food.

You have made great use of algebra in all your campaigns. I seem to recollect that you had strength in it and that you could understand how minus multiplied by minus gives plus. I have applied this rule fairly well—Germany minus, Austria minus, Prussia minus, Italy minus—but you must allow that I make a fine plus.

Our textbook told you and me that mass multiplied by velocity gives force in action. I have what makes mass; I shall not fail in velocity, and all will be over before the sunset. The days are long in Russia when the sun shines. I shall fight two or three battles if he will stop to meet me.

A Horse Hurt.

A fine young horse belonging to Mr. John Clydesdale was badly hurt to-day, through breaking its halter in a blacksmith shop and falling over on the spokes of a wheel from which the rim had been removed. A very bad gash in the thigh was the result. Dr. McKercher is looking after the horse.

Obituary.

The sympathy of the public is extended to Mr. Edward Morency, No. 299, Rubidge street, in the loss by death of his ten year old daughter Lillian Morency. The deceased girl was ten years of age and her death was due to a chronic disease from which she had been ailing for six months or more. The funeral will take place from the family residence on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery for interment.

Very Large Funeral.

The funeral of the late Jeduthun Haskill took place on Wednesday afternoon, and was very largely attended. Mr. Haskill was one of the oldest residents of Port Hope, and was well and favourably known by a very large circle of friends, some of whom came from Peterborough, Lindsay and other places. The service at the residence and cemetery was conducted by Rev. P. K. Dayfoot. Following are the names of the pallbearers: His four sons, Edward, Allen, Wilkin and Fred, and two brothers, Charles Haskill, Fenelon Falls; and S. W. Haskill, of Hope. — Port Hope Guide.

HURRAH FOR THE CAMP.

Arrangements for the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp at Clear Lake.

Arrangements for the Y.M.C.A. boys' camp which begins next Wednesday at Clear Lake, are rapidly being completed. This year's camp promises to eclipse its three predecessors; thirty are now enrolled, and a number of other fellows are going besides. The camp leader will be assisted by Peter Jamieson, Boys' Secretary, Hamilton, Garnet Galley, Howard Goldey, and several others.

Mr. Will Pollard has been engaged as cook, and he will have an assistant.

A number of musical men are going and an effort is being made to secure a baby organ to assist with the song services.

Mr. Ayott, who has always been a good friend and helper to the boys' camp, writes to say that he will give the jolly crowd a royal welcome.

It is not too late to file applications but they should all be in this week.

Any person who wishes to help several worthy boys whose circumstances will not admit of their going, are asked to communicate with the secretary. Several kind hearted friends paid the camp fee for as many boys last year.

DANCE AT CHEMONG.

A Merry Gathering From Town at the Park Last Night.

One of the most enjoyable dances of the season took place last night in the Chemong Park pavilion. Three bus loads of young people left town at about eight o'clock and reached the park in due time.

Excellent music was supplied by the Misses Hurley, and refreshments were served by the ladies in attendance.

The floor was in excellent condition, and the evening was not uncomfortably warm. Mr. Stanley kindly loaned the committee one of his handsome pianos for the occasion.

MR. DAVIES' PUPILS.

Their Standing in the Toronto Conservatory of Music Examinations.

The whole of the candidates presented by Mr. Davies for examination in Harmony, Rudiments of Music and Musical History, have succeeded in obtaining first class honours.

The names are as follows:

Primary Theory and Rudiments of Music — Miss Eva Bradd, Miss Ethel Clarke, Miss Flo. Thompson, Ashburnham; Miss Etta Garbutt, Lakefield; Miss Jessie Anderson, Hastings; Mr. Norman Pickard, Norwood.

Junior Theory, Rudiments and History of Music — Miss Mary Andrews, Keene; Miss Helen Laing, Keene; Miss Lillian Tate, Lakefield; Mr. W. A. Staples, Peterborough.

Miss Flo. Thompson has taken the maximum number of marks — 100 per cent.

The results of the examinations in pianoforte playing will be published as soon as Mr. Davies receives the complete returns.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Two Women and a Man Arrested This Morning.

At the Police Court this morning Ethel Kendry was charged with conducting her house in a manner objectionable to her neighbours, and with selling liquor without a license. Charles Kendry and Flo Cameron were charged with being inmates of the house. They pleaded not guilty and at their own request the case was enlarged until three o'clock this afternoon.

The accused pleaded guilty to having sold the liquor without a license and were fined $20 and costs. Two young men of the town were fined a like sum for having purchased liquor from the accused.

Jim Farley a well known character was charged with being drunk. "What's the difference Mr. Dumble," said Jim. "I was not out on the street." "Well, do you think that its all right to get drunk as long as you're not on the street!" enquired Magistrate Dumble, and Jim replied that if he was left go this time he would reform. He was given a chance.

THE SHIRT WAIST.

Boncaygeon Independent.

The masculine shirt waist is gaining in popularity down south. On Sunday last Rev. Jas. N. Crutcher, pastor of the Crompton Heights Christian Church, St. Louis, appeared in his pulpit in a cool white shirt waist and delivered a sermon on Fads in Religion to a congregation composed largely of shirt waist men and hatless women.

The pastor who is only 26 years of age, is a practical man. Perceiving that the only way to hold his congregation through the extremely warm weather was to make the people comfortable. He announced that he would appear in a shirt waist and invited men to appear in similar attire, and the women to come without their hats.

They came, the church was filled, and they listened to a short crisp sermon, and went away with a determination to come again. Nothing will drive people from a church so surely as long prosy sermons. In a ten minute sermon the points can be remembered. Twenty minutes of maundering rubbish makes a man desire to kick somebody.

A SPLENDID RECORD.

The Entire Class of Candidates From Peterborough Qualified.

It is a remarkable record which the 57th Regiment has made this year in regard to the qualification of officers. Equitation certificates were taken by twelve in the spring and at the recent examinations four candidates qualified for field officers, four for captains and four for subalterns. All of the candidates from Peterborough were successful in passing their examinations.

In addition to the list mentioned yesterday Captain Hill and Lieutenant Walker were also successful in qualifying.

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT.

Demise of Mr. Wm. Rae, Aged 84 Years and 6 Months, Occurred Last Night.

The death occurred last night of Mr. Wm. Rae, at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. R. H. Adams, No. 308 Stewart street. The late Mr. Rae was in his ninetieth year and was one of the early settlers of the Township of Belmont. He was born in Belfast, and immediately on coming to Canada settled in the Township of Belmont and subsequently moved to Peterborough, where he has since resided.

He married Margaret McWilliams, daughter of the late James McWilliams. She predeceased him two years. The late Mr. Rae was a Liberal in politics and a Presbyterian in religious belief. He leaves a family of four sons and seven daughters to mourn his demise, Mr. Robt. Rae, turnkey of the local jail being one of the former.

The funeral will take place at two o'clock on Friday afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery and will be private.

MID-SUMMER HEAT.

It's a little earlier than usual this intense heat, sent perhaps as a reminder that we're going to have a summer just the same as usual and giving you notice that you had better prepare for it.

KEEP COOL.

You'll find the heat will not effect you much if you have cool things to wear. We have some of the best values you can find in lightweight, breezy stuffs for cool costumes. Ladies are comfortable in them and are satisfied over their purchase. The assortment is still very complete.

15 PIECES beautiful Light Coloured Muslins in entirely new patterns. They are decidedly cheap at 20 cents a yard, but we're selling them at 12½ cents a yard. You had better see them.

25 PIECES Dark Coloured Muslins, navy blues and royal blue grounds, with polka dots, in three or four different sizes of dots; elegant, fine quality, light weight stuffs. Just the thing for cool Wrappers, Dresses, Waists, etc. The regular price of them is 25 cents per yard, and they are on sale now at 15 cents per yard. That is a genuine bargain, so you had better see them.

HOW MUCH OF IT.

We are displaying some particularly beautiful Neck Ribbons, extra widths and extra weights, in Satin, Duchesse and Taffeta makes in fast colours and delicate shades, and better still we can recommend them to you for their washing qualities. They have all been tried and tested and our guarantee goes with them. You could not find better ribbon value if you looked the country over, and you should not neglect this chance to get them at these prices:—

SATIN DUCHESSE RIBBONS in the correct widths for neck ribbons, all shades, 20 and 25 cents per yard.

TAFFETA RIBBONS in the correct widths for neck ribbons, all shades, 25 and 35 cents per yard.

A POINT TO REMEMBER.

Our ready-to-wear White Underskirts are made of the best bleached cottons. They are well made and trimmed with embroidery that is meant to stand the wear. They are worth all they cost and more—and will give comfort and pleasure to the wearer.

WHITE UNDERSKIRTS, well trimmed with embroidery at $1.25.

WHEN GOING FOR A TRIP

Don't forget to take along either a Steamer Rug or one of our Kelvin Capes. You'll find them useful as a wrap, although the weather is intensely warm, the evenings are cool, so be careful.

We show a wonderful bargain in a Cape in regulation Tartans at $3.00 each. See it.

ST. MARKS FAREWELL.

Dr. Symonds Presented With a Handsome Arm-chair and Dressing Case.

A large number of the members of St. Mark's Church, Otonabee, met Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. Mark Graystock, for the purpose of tendering a farewell reception to Rev. Dr. Symonds.

Mr. Anthony Taylor during the evening read the following address:

Otonabee, July 2, 1901.

To the Rev. Herbert Symonds, Master of Arts and Doctor of Divinity:—

Dear Dr. Symonds,—We, the members of the congregation of St. Mark's Church, desire to express to you our deep feeling of regret at the termination of your incumbency of this parish.

We beg to acknowledge the earnest services you have rendered us in the past, your kindly visits, your faithful attendance upon the sick and afflicted amongst us, your interest in our progress, and, upon all, the teaching and instructing you have given in the way that leadeth to eternal life.

We trust you will often again visit us and am sure that the interest you have felt for the spiritual and material progress of this parish will not cease when you have left us.

We beg to congratulate you on your appointment to the very important position of head master of Trinity College School, a position for which your previous experience as a professor of Trinity College, your deep learning and your scholarly attainments admirably fit you and we are sure that the school under your charge will make material progress, and that the Church at large will benefit by the instruction in Christian truth and fellowship which the pupils will receive from you.

We beg your acceptance of the accompanying gifts as but a very slight token of the esteem and affection with which we all regard you.

We wish Mrs. Symonds, your family and yourself health and every posible happiness in the future.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,

MARK GRAYSTOCK,
DAVID LAWSON,
Church Wardens.

Accompanying the address was a gift consisting of a handsome arm chair and a gentleman's dressing case.

Rev. Dr. Symonds made a very feeling reply in acknowledgement of the address and gift. He returned his sincere thanks for the kindness that had been done him. In regard to St. Mark's Church congregation he would ever cherish pleasant memories, and in bidding farewell expressed the wish that every success and prosperity would be their portion.

The evening was further marked by much pleasant sociability. Songs and music were received with great approval. Farewell and well wishes were expressed at the close.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

GOLF.

The semi-final in the Stratton Trophy Handicap was played on Wednesday afternoon and resulted as follows:

Burnham, (0), defeated Walker (18) by 84 to 122.

Bradburn (15) defeated Hamilton (0) by 109 to 87.

Mr. J. H. Burnham's score is the record for this season. The weather yesterday afternoon was favourable for good golf, and the links were in excellent condition. Mr. Burnham's score by holes was as follows: 4, 3, 6, 5, 3, 4, 4, 5, —38 for 9 holes. 7, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 5, 4, 5—46. Total for 18 holes, 84.

Bradburn and Burnham are playing the final game for the Stratton Trophy this afternoon.

In the recent voluntary handicap competition Messrs. Burnett and Collier both made the same score as Mr. Burnham's, the better score of the scratch men, whose score was 92. Messrs. Burnett and Collier play off in this competition for the prizes.

BOWLING.

A scratch match at the green last evening resulted as follows:

H E Bradley	S Belcher
	F Oles
W Pringle	W G Ferguson
M Green, sk...16.	W J English, sk...20.

Skip Complin was in great fettle yesterday, disposing of Dr. Boucher in the afternoon and Dr McClelland in the evening.

FOOTRACING.

Mr. Bert Cameron hereby challenges Mr. Will Crowley to a series of foot races consisting of one hundred yards, one quarter mile, and one third mile. The races to take place any time next week.

LACROSSE.

Y.M.C.A. lacrosse players practise to-night.

BASEBALL.

The citizens of the town are reminded of the match which will take place on the P.A.A.A. grounds on Saturday afternoon between Cobourg and Peterborough. The game should prove to be one of the best of the season.

CRICKET.

The Lindsay Colts are expected to be in town on Saturday to play their return game with the local Colts.

TORONTO'S BIG EXHIBITION.

The Prize List for Toronto's great Annual Exposition and Industrial Fair, which this year will be held from August 26th to Sept. 7th, has come to hand. It is printed in yellow shaded with green, and presents a very handsome appearance. Upwards of $35,000 will be distributed in premiums, and $30,000 will be spent in features and special attractions. The live stock classes have been arranged in some instances and the premiums increased in others. A class for French Canadian cattle has been added. Copies of the Prize List and all information desired can be had on addressing H. J. Hill, 82 King street east, Toronto. Special efforts are being made to increase the excellence of the Exhibition this year on account of the close proximity of the Pan-American.

WATERMELONS.

Just received — some Fine, Ripe Watermelons, Tomatoes, Florida Pineapples, California Plums, Huckleberries, etc. S. A. OKE, 376 George Street.

IN GOOD HANDS.

Jackson Park Picnicers are Well Looked After but the Small Boy Cannot be Suppressed.

In connection with the theft of some baskets from the George street Sunday school picnic on Tuesday at Jackson Park, Mr. Richard Hall states that the park is under the care of Mr. John Pillar, a most careful and conscientious man, who does not permit of any exhibitions of hoodlumism.

If baskets were stolen from the picnicers the matter was not reported to Mr. Pillar, as at seven o'clock he made his report to Mr. Hall stating that no complaint whatever had been lodged. Jackson Park is under constant surveillance, and the originators of any rowdyism would be promptly dealt with, but the matter of watching small boys and preventing them from pilfering at a picnic is a task which hitherto has been given up as a bad job at summer excursions.

If people have not the forethought to group their baskets and appoint someone to look after the lot the small boy can be counted on to get in his work.

Only last week a basket was missed by a small picnic party at Inverlea. The matter was reported to Special Constable Howland, who traced the basket to the old cemetery, near the Nicholls Hospital, where it was in possession of a couple of urchins, who were too small to prosecute for the offence.

SUMMER RESORTS.

YOUNG'S POINT.

The farmers are well satisfied with the prospects for a good harvest. The hay and roots especially promise an abundant yield.

One of the Dickson Co's drives is running over the dam here at present. Mr. William Robinson, of Peterborough, is the foreman, and there are about 50,000 pieces in the block.

The fishing is very good at the Point at present, and a number of bass and lunge are being caught. A 14-pound lunge was caught on Monday by Mr. R. Latchford of Rochester.

The following guests are registered at the Lakeview: Chas H Chase, R Latchford, R J Stramly, C F Garfield, J Osborne, Rochester; W Menzies, Peterborough; P Cotton, Schnectady; C Gutterson, Lynn, Mass; Mr and Mrs E Phelan, Peterborough.

Mr. A. Smith, who has been teaching school at Buckhorn, is visiting friends here.

Mr. H. J. Kearney has returned home after an absence of nine months spent in New York.

While Mr. Kearney was in New York he was engaged in business with one of the leading dry goods firms, Stern Bros., west 23rd street. Before leaving New York Mr. Kearney decided to become a Benedict. The lady of his choice was Miss K. Brady, Brooklyn, N.Y. Although he was away from the land of his birth Mr. Kearney was none the less loyal to his country, and July 1st, Dominion Day, was appointed for the wedding day.

Mr. William O. Stead, of Baltimore, Md., is visiting friends here.

GORE'S LANDING.

Miss Nina Borradaile was a guest of her aunt, Mrs. Herald, last week.

Mr. F. Curry, Mr. Jackson and wife, returned to Toronto on Saturday.

Mrs. Dr. McNichol and daughter were at the White House a few days last week.

Mrs. and Miss Norah Hunt, Mrs. G. H. Dunscomb and little son, who were guests at the White House for a week, returned to Cobourg on Tuesday.

Mr. W. S. Edwards, Montreal, is spending his holidays with friends in the village.

Mr. G. S. Hayward left on Tuesday on a trip to Montreal and New York.

Mr. William Rosamond and family are enjoying an outing on Tuck Island

The Rob Roy brought down a party from Peterborough on Saturday evening, who remained at the Rice Lake House until Saturday afternoon.

Little Miss Bessie Herald is visiting her aunt, Miss O'Connor at Cobourg. The following guests have registered at the Rice Lake House during the past week: Dr. E F Torrance and wife, Peterborough; G R Salter, Norfolk, Neb.; S H Mitchell and wife, Peterborough; Mrs. Peter Campbell, Gordon Campbell, Alan Campbell, Peterborough; Miss Lundy, Miss Dover, Ashburnham; Miss Barlee, Miss Halliday, Peterborough; A G Goodall, Toronto; W K Barlow, Rochester; J Russ Saratoga; John English, A H Reynar, Cobourg; D. A PRACTICAL JOKER.

The Trick Which Cured Him of His Fondness For Such Pranks.

"I never indulge the practical joke habit," said a gentleman who is visiting the city, "and I have a good reason for taking no sort of stock in such things. There was a time in my life when I was fond of playing pranks, and I have turned some clever tricks along this line. But it has been several years since I made my last effort. I was living in a small town up in Arkansas and at the time was boarding with an aunt, who was even fonder of the practical joke than I was. Along about Christmas time a young man came out to the town in which I lived to spend some time with his friends. He was a dudish sort of a fellow and was just at that period of life when the gold watch and chain he wore impressed him as being the most important thing in the world.

"My aunt was quick to perceive his weakness. She hatched a plot. I was to slip into his bedroom and steal the watch and chain after he had fallen asleep. The night was fixed, and my friend retired about 10 o'clock. He always hung his vest, which contained his watch and chain and other valuables, on the bedpost at the head of the bed. My aunt knew exactly where I could find it, and about 10:30 I slipped stealthily into the room, found the vest and began to rifle the pockets. My friend raised up quickly as he ran his hand under his pillow. Bang, bang, bang! I was shot. I was shot three times, with the revolver pressed almost against my breast. I could feel the holes in my back where the bullets had come out, and the blood was trickling down my spinal column. My aunt came rushing into the room. 'My God!' I said. 'Auntie, I'm shot.'

"She got the camphor bottle. I told her the bullets had passed clear through me and had rolled down into my shoes. They could stand it no longer, and, to my amazement, my aunt and my friend broke out in a perfect spasm of laughter, and by degrees the real situation dawned on me. My friend had expected my visit. He had extracted the lead from three cartridges in the pistol, at the suggestion of my aunt, and had turned the tables on me. Since that time I have played no jokes."

The Same Williams.

"Now, sir," began the attorney for the defense, knitting his brows and preparing to annihilate the witness whom he was about to cross examine, "you say your name is Williams. Can you prove that to be your real name? Is there anybody in the courtroom who can swear that you haven't assumed it for the purpose of fraud and deceit?"

"I think you can identify me yourself," answered the witness.

"I! Where did I ever see you before, my friend?"

"I put that scar over your right eye 25 years ago when you were stealing peaches out of my father's orchard. I'm the same Williams."—Pearson's.

Education Versus Money.

If the youth who starts in business at 17 or 18 gets so far ahead that the college boy can never catch up with him, the collegian, on the other hand, receives an equipment which has no possible equivalent in dollars and cents and which is more enduring than any form of material gain.

TO MAKE MONEY it is necessary to have a clear, bright brain, a cool head and strong nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills invigorate and brighten the brain, strengthen the nerves, and remove all heart, nerve and brain troubles. th

THE COOKING SCHOOL.

It is said that the young shoots of the hop vine, cooked as asparagus is cooked, are very excellent eating.

To keep stews and soups add a good pinch of carbonate of soda to every quart, and they will keep sweet for days.

The knuckle of veal is the best part for soup, the neck and breast for stewing, and the fillet should be boned, stuffed and roasted.

A meat roast is as good the second day as it is the first if incased in a well greased paper and placed in a moderate oven till well warmed through.

A delicious paste for sandwiches may be made by creaming together half a cupful of grated cheese, a tablespoonful of butter, one-half saltspoonful of paprika and a teaspoonful of anchovy paste.

Raisins that are not finely chopped before cooking or which are not used in some way requiring long, slow cooking should be soaked and stewed gently until tender before being used in pies or quick puddings.

A chocolate cake covered with white mice is sure to be hailed with appreciation by the youngsters at a child's party. A layer cake with chocolate icing should be used. The mice are made of marshmallows, pinched into shape and finished with white icing for tails and chocolate dots for eyes.

History of Weather Vanes.

Weather vanes for new buildings are now being made in highly ornamental designs. Some of them are real works of art.

A curious fact is that weather vanes go back to the times of the Romans. On towers and castles the weather vane took the shape of a banner, but on ecclesiastical edifices it generally took the shape of a rooster.

"Vanes," writes Du Cauge, "were anciently made in the form of a cock (hence called weather cocks) and put up in papal times to remind the clergy of watchfulness."

There were symbolic reasons for the adoption of the figure of a cock. The cross was surmounted by a ball to symbolize the redemption of the world by the cross of Christ, and the cock was placed upon the cross in allusion to the repentance of St. Peter. Gramaye states that the "custom of adorning the tops of steeples with a cross and cock is derived from the Goths, who bore that as their warlike ensign."

Extreme Reluctance.

"Young man," the rising statesman said to the reporter, "newspaper notoriety is exceedingly distasteful to me, but since you have asked me to give you some of the particulars of the leading events in my life I will comply. I do so, however, with great reluctance."

Here he took a typewritten sheet from a drawer in his desk and handed it to the reporter.

"I suppose, of course," he added, "you will want my portrait, and, although I dislike anything that savors of undue publicity, I can do no less than comply with your wish."

Here he took a photograph from a large pile in another drawer and gave it to the reporter.

"When this appears in print," he said, you may send me 250 copies of the paper."

Nervously Exhausted.

Sleepless, poor digestion, easily tired, blue as indigo, that's how you feel. Do you want to feel strong, make plenty of blood, enjoy buoyancy, strength and vim. You can do so by using Ferrozone. How it sharpens the appetite and imparts a feeling of buoyancy, strength and vim! Improves the appetite, digestion, assimilation, sleep. How surely Ferrozone does this, you can ascertain by using it. Ferrozone is a blood builder, nerve strengthener and brain invigorator. Sold by only Ormond and Walsh.

MILTON RELICS AT HARVARD

Signature in an Autograph Album and the Poet's Copy of "Pindar."

The Harvard library numbers among its treasures an autograph of Milton and a copy of "Pindar" annotated in Milton's own handwriting, with marginal notes in Greek and Latin. Both of these rarities were bequeathed to the university by Charles Sumner.

The "Pindar" is dated 1620 and was doubtless used by Milton during his stay at Cambridge university. At the end he has added an alphabetical index in manuscript, occupying two closely written pages of all the authors cited in his notes, with references to the pages in which their names occur.

Milton's autograph is found in the pages of an autograph album or visitors' book kept, according to a custom common in the sixteenth century, by a Neapolitan nobleman, Camillus Cardoyn by name, who resided in Geneva from 1608 to 1640, where Milton, apparently, visited him. Another autograph in this same album among the hundreds which it contains is that of Thomas Wentworth, the unfortunate Earl of Stafford. Milton's signature is dated Jan. 10, 1639, and is appended to a Latin motto—"Travel changes one's sky, but not one's mind," it may be freely rendered and a quotation from his own "Comus:"

"If Virtue feeble were,
Heaven itself would stoope to her."

The most notable Milton manuscript known to exist is a little book now owned by Trinity college, Cambridge, England, which contains the poet's copies of his so called minor poems, including "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso." In this country, however, it is said that the only original memorials of the great author of "Paradise Lost" are to be found in these two time stained volumes in the possession of the Harvard library.

A Cement Which Resists Acid.

In some branches of industry a cement which is proof against the influence of acids is absolutely essential, and such a substance can be prepared by melting together one part of India rubber with two parts of linseed oil. This should be gradually incorporated with three parts of white bole so as to form a plastic mass. This when heated softens but very little. Though it does not easily dry upon the surface, when once set it is not affected at all by hydrochloric acid and but very little by nitric acid. Its drying and hardening is materially promoted by mixing with one-fifth of its weight of litharge or minium.

If you ever contracted any blood disease you are never safe unless the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. At times you see alarming symptoms, but live in hopes no serious results will follow. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore Throat, Ulcers on the Tongue or in the Mouth, Hair Falling Out, Aching Pains, Itchiness of the Skin, Sores or Blotches on the Body, Eyes Red and Gritty, Dyspeptic Stomach, Sexual Weakness—indications of the second stage. Don't trust to luck. Don't ruin your system with the old fogy treatment, —mercury and potash—which only suppresses the symptoms for a time, only to break out again, when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our New Method Treatment is guaranteed to cure you. Our guarantees are backed by bank bonds, that the disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our New Method Treatment for over twenty years. No experiment, no risk—not a "patch-up," but a positive cure. The worst cases solicited. We treat and cure Nervous Debility, Sexual Weakness, Ulcers, Blood Poison, Stricture, Varicocele, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, and all diseases peculiar to men and women.

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

"Moreover," she continued, this time looking at Pembroke, "the gentleman who committed the error was the Austrian embassador. What a compliment to take home!"

"And who was the princess?" I felt compelled to ask, though I knew perfectly well.

"The Princess Hildegarde. Do you recall the night in London," to me, "when the same thing occurred? I am very anxious to meet this princess who looks so like me."

"You will have that pleasure immediately after the opera," said I.

Pembroke's eyes said something to me then, and I rose.

"There is Mr. Wentworth. I wish to speak to him. Will you excuse me?"

"With pleasure!" laughed Pembroke.

I threaded my way through the gathering throng to the side of Mr. Wentworth.

"How d'y' do, Winthrop?" he said, taking me by the arm. "Come into the conservatory. I want you to see some of the finest orchids that ever came from South America. The girls are looking well tonight. I suppose you noticed?"

"Especially Phyllis." Our eyes met.

When we entered the conservatory, he suddenly forgot all about the orchids.

"Jack, I'm worried about her—Phyllis. You see, she is not my niece. There's a long story. This morning a gentleman visited my department. He was Prince Ernst of Wortumborg. He began by asking me if Phyllis was my niece. That started the business. He proceeded to prove to me, as far as possible, that Phyllis was a princess. I could not say that it was all nonsense, because I did not know. Some 20 years ago a strange thing happened. I occupied the same residence as today. It was near midnight, and snowing fiercely. I was looking over some documents, when the footman came in and announced the presence of a strange woman in the hall who demanded to see me. The woman was young and handsome, and in her arms she carried a child. Would I, for humanity's sake, give a roof to the child till the morrow? The woman said that she was looking for her relatives, but as yet had not found them, and that the night was too cold for the child to be carried around. She was a nurse. The child was not hers, but belonged to a wealthy family of the south, who were to have arrived that day, but had not.

"The thing seemed so irregular that I at once consented, thinking to scan the papers the next day for an account of a lost or stolen child. She also carried a box which contained, she said, the child's identity. Now, as I am a living man, there was nothing in that box to show who the child was—nothing but clothes; not a jewel or a trinket. I looked through the papers in vain. And the woman never appeared again. Much against my will I was forced to keep the child. I am glad I did, for I have grown to love her as one of my own. I had a married sister who died in Carolina, so I felt secure in stating that Phyllis was her daughter, therefore my niece. And that is positively all I know. And here comes a fellow who says he knows who she is and, moreover, that she is a princess. What do you say to that?"

"What he said was true," gloomily. Without proofs Gretchen remained as far away as ever. I told him what I knew.

"I must see this princess before I move. If they look alike, why, let things take their course. As a matter of fact, Phyllis is to share equally with Ethel. So, whether or not she proves to be a princess, it will not interfere with her material welfare. And, by the way, Jack, isn't there a coldness of some sort between you and Phyllis?"

"Not a coldness," said I; "merely an understanding. Let us be getting back to the ballroom. I am anxious to see the two when they meet."

I left him in the reception room. As I was in the act of crossing the hall which led to the ballroom I was stopped. It was the prince.

"Well," he said, smiling ironically, "the matter is, sadly for you, definitely settled. Your friend may in truth be a princess, but there are no proofs. In the eyes of men they are sisters; in the eyes of the law they are total strangers. I shall not ask you to congratulate me upon my success. I shall now wed the Princess Hildegarde with a sense of security. Come—have you seen her yet? She does not know that you are here. It will be a surprise and a pleasure. As to that other matter, I shall send a gentleman around to your rooms in the morning to arrange the affair."

I shivered. I had forgotten that I had accepted a challenge.

"Take me to her," said I. "She will be happy indeed to see me, as you know." I laughed in his face. "How convenient it would be for both of us—her and me—should my bullet speed to the proper place! Believe me, I shall be most happy to kill you. There are many things on the slate to wipe out."

"I see that you are a gentleman of spirit," said he, smoothing the scowl from his brow. "Ah, there she stands. Look well, my friend; look at her well. This is probably the last night you will see her save as my wife."

"If I loved you, I should follow you to the end of the world."

The sight of that dear face took the nerves from me and left me trembling. Even in the momentary glance I detected a melancholy cast to her features. She was surrounded by several men who wore various decorations.

"Your highness," said the prince, mockery predominating his tones, "permit me to present to you an old friend."

Was it because her soul instinctively became conscious of my presence and nerved her for the ordeal that she turned and smiled on me? The prince appeared for a moment crestfallen. Perhaps the scene lacked a denouement. Oh, I was sure that implacable hate burned under that smile of his, just as I knew that beneath the rise and fall of Gretchen's bosom the steady fire of immutable love burned, burned as it burned in my own heart.

"Ah, hero you are!" said a voice behind me, giving me an indescribable start. "I have been looking high and low for you. You have forgotten this dance."

It was Phyllis.

And then a sudden hush fell upon the circle. The two women stood face to face, looking with strange wonder into each other's eyes.

CHAPTER XIX.

Phyllis and I were sitting in one of the numerous cozy corners. I had danced badly and out of time. The music and the babel of tongues had become murmurous and indistinct.

"And so that is the Princess Hildegarde?" she said after a spell.

"Yes; she is your double. Is she not beautiful?"

"Is that a left handed compliment to me?" Phyllis was smiling, but she was colorless.

"What do you think of her?" suppressing the eagerness in my voice.

"She is to be envied," softly.

And I grew puzzled.

Life at Stake

Somewhere in the world life is at stake every minute of the day. Right at our own doors, perhaps, is going on a struggle as grim and fierce as any fight or flight on record. You hear the hollow tearing cough; see the ooze of blood which tells of the wounded lungs; mark the emaciated body and hectic cheek, and know a life is at stake.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has saved many a life in just such a crisis. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, stops the hemorrhage, strengthens "weak" lungs, and restores the emaciated body to its normal weight and strength.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"I desire to send you this brief, unsolicited testimonial," writes Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Barium Springs, Iredell Co., N. C. "In 1898 one of my daughters was suffering on account of a severe cough, hectic fever, wasting of flesh and other symptoms of diseased lungs. I promptly gave her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with gratifying success, and she now enjoys excellent health. This experience caused me to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to my neighbors, who, without exception, used them with favorable results."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only, or if cloth bound volume is desired send 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Jack, for a man who has associated with the first diplomatists of the world, who has learned to read the world as another might read a book, you are surprisingly unadept in the art of dissimulation."

"That is a very long sentence," said I in order to gain time enough to fathom what she meant. I could not. So I said, "What do you mean?"

"Your whole face was saying to the princess, 'I love you!' A glance told me all. I was glad for your sake that no other woman saw you at that moment. But I suppose it would not have mattered to you."

"Not if all the world had seen the look," moodily.

"Poor Jack, you are very unlucky!" Her voice was full of pity. "I feel so sorry for you, it is all so impossible. And she loves you too."

"How do you know?"

"I looked at her while she was looking at you."

"You have wonderful eyes."

"So I have been told. I wonder why she gave you that withered and worm eaten rose?"

"A whim," I said, staring at the rug. I wondered how she came to surmise that it was Gretchen's rose? Intuition perhaps.

"Do you love her well enough," asked Phyllis, plucking the lace on her fan, "to sacrifice all the world for her, to give up all your own happiness that she might become happy?"

"She never can be happy without me—if she loves me as I believe." I admit that this was a selfish thought to express.

"Then why is it impossible, your love and hers? If her love for you is as great as you say it is, what is a king, a prince or a principality to her?"

"It is none of those. It is because she has given her word, the word of a princess. What would you do in her place?" suddenly.

"I?" Phyllis leaned back among the cushions, her eyes half closed and a smile on her lips. "I am afraid that if I loved you I should follow you to the end of the world. Honor is a fine thing, but in her case it is an empty word. If she broke this word for you, who would be wronged? No one, since the prince covets only her dowry and the king desires only his will obeyed. Perhaps I do not understand what social obligation means to these people who are born in purple."

"Perhaps that is it. Phyllis, listen, and I will tell you a romance which has not yet been drawn to its end. Once upon a time—let me call it a fairy story," said I, drawing down a palm leaf as if to read the tale from its blades. "Once upon a time in a country far from ours there lived a prince and a princess. The prince was rather a bad fellow. His faith in his wife was not the best, and he made a vow that if ever children came he would make them as evil as himself. Not long after the good fairy brought two children to her godchild, the princess. Remembering the vow made by the prince, the good fairy carried away one of the children, and no one knew anything about it save the princess and the fairy. When the remaining child was 2 years old, the princess died. The child from then on grew like a wild flower. The prince did his best to spoil her, but the good fairy watched over her just as carefully as she watched over the child she had hidden away. By and by the wicked prince died. The child reached womanhood. The good fairy went away and left her. Perhaps she now gave her whole attention to the other." I let the palm leaf slip back and drew down a fresh one, Phyllis watching me with interest. "The child the fairy left was still a child for all her womanhood. She was willful and capricious; she rode, she fenced, she hunted; she was as unlike other women as could be. At last the king who was her guardian, grew weary of her caprices. So he commanded that she marry. But what had the fairy done with the other child, the twin sister of this wild princess? Perhaps in this instance the good fairy died and left her work unfinished, to be taken up and pursued by a conventional newspaper reporter. Now this pro tem. fairy ascertained that the good fairy had left the lost princess in the care of one of a foreign race. Having a wife and daughter of his own, he brought the princess up as his niece, not knowing himself who she really was. She became wise, respected and beautiful in mind and form. Fate, who governs all fairy stories, first brought the newspaper reporter into the presence of the lost princess. She was a mere girl then and was selling lemonade at—at 25 cents a glass. She"—

"Jack," came in wondering tones, "for mercy's sake, what are you telling me?"

"Phyllis, can you not look back, perhaps as in a dream, to an old inn where soldiers and ministers in a hurry and confusion moved to and fro? No; I dare say you were too young. The Princess Hildegarde of Hohenphalia is your sister." I rose and bowed to her respectfully.

"My sister, the princess? I a princess? Jack," indignantly, "you are mocking me! It is not fair!"

(To be continued.)

What do we Eat?

First we must build up the tissues in the growing body and reconstruct those worn out by use; second we must supply nervous, muscular and digestive force to the different parts of the body. Scott's Emulsion plays a very important part as regards both objects. All delicate and rapidly growing children need it.

AN INVOCATION.

Which Broke up an Expansionist Meeting in the United States.

At a recent meeting of expansionists on Mount Washington, Pittsburg, John Sims, known as "Deacon," took advantage of an opportunity extended to him in the way of a joke. It was suggested by some one that the "Deacon" open the meeting with an invocation. No sooner had the suggestion been made than John Sims being an anti-expansionist, was on his feet and responded. Before he had finished, one-third of the audience had left the meeting, and the remaining ones were so chilled that the meeting proved a failure. The following is the invocation:

"O Lord God, born in the Jehovistic age, reborn in the Oriental age, and largely worshipped in this, the modern age, we wish to make a few suggestions for your consideration, and then have you transfer the same to the Filipinos. Tell the Filipinos that they do not know what a good thing they are missing by not wanting to become citizens of this grand country of ours. There isn't anything like it under the sun. Tell them to send a delegation over here to see us — this beautiful Christian land of the free; land of churches pointing skyward and 400,000 licensed saloons and 'speak easies'; Bibles and guns; houses of prayer, and licensed houses of prostitution; millionaires and paupers; clergymen and thieves, deacons and liars; Christians and cut throats; politicians and poverty; trusts and tramps; money and misery; homes and hunger; virtue and vice.

"O Lord God, born in the Jehovistic age, reborn in the Oriental age, and largely worshipped in this, the iron or modern age—Thou who knowest everything, yet knowest nothing, will you be so kind to transfer also to the Filipinos that here, in our land of the free, a Bible can be bought for 25 cents, and a bad drink of whiskey for 5 cents; where we have men in Congress with three wives, and a number in the penitentiaries for having two; where we make canned beef out of horses and sick cows, and corpses out of soldier boys; where we put a man in gaol for stealing a goose from off the common, and put a man in the United States Senate for stealing the common from the goose; where we have a Congress of 400 men to make laws and a court of nine men to set them aside; where good whiskey makes bad men, and bad men make good whiskey; where newspapers are paid for suppressing the truth and made rich for telling a lie; yea, this Christian land, where preachers are paid $25,000 a year to dodge the devil and tickle the ears of the wealthy and the politician; where trusts hold you up and poverty holds you down; where the girl who goes wrong is made an outcast and her male friend — the prodigal — is made a gentleman and invited into society; where men vote for a thing one day and cuss it 364 days; where we have prayers on the floor of our Capitol buildings and whiskey in the cellars; where we spend $5,000 to bury a rich Congressman and $10 to bury an honest workingman who is poor; yea, verily, in this land, where to be virtuous is to be lonesome, and to be honest is to be called a crank; where churches make Christians, and honest men make infidels; where we pay $15,000 for a dog, and 15 cents a dog, to a poor woman for making shirts; where in four of our large cities 35,000 of our young ladies pay $5 a week for board and are compelled to work back of counters for $4 per week; where in New York city alone 37,000 women are making livings for their husbands. Yea, Lord God, have the Fillies come to us; we have more guns, more whiskey and more Bibles than we can make use of; we can give them a dose of religion, and on that a dose of hell."

ENNISMORE.

A number of our citizens have already returned from the Pan-American, and are giving glowing descriptions of it to their friends.

The schools closed on Friday, June 29th, to re-open on Monday, Aug. 19th.

The school children of S. S. No. 2 regret to learn that Miss Scollard has resigned her position as teacher. A number of friends as well as the pupils assembled on Friday evening, when Miss Miss Kitty Gannon read the following address and Miss Vivian Galvin presented a handsome lady's toilet set in a beautiful leather case.

Dear Teacher, — We, the pupils of S. S. No. 2, approach you on this the eve of your departure, with feelings of deep regret at your unexpected removal from our midst. During the short period of a year and a half there has been implanted in our hearts feelings of friendship which we feel can never be banished. We cannot allow this opportunity to pass without showing you in some way the high esteem in which we hold you. We will therefore ask you to accept this toilet set as a slight appreciation of the many acts of kindness shown to us by you during the short period you have been amongst us.

With unfeigned regret we offer you our final adieu, wishing you every success in your future undertaking.

Signed on behalf of S. S. No. 2.
KITTY GANNON,
VIVIAN GALVIN.

Miss Scollard in reply expressed her appreciation of the handsome little gift, and assured them that though they could no longer meet as teacher and pupils her sentiments of friendship would remain unaltered.

THE STRIKE CONFERENCE.

Whether or Not, Shall Steel Mills Be Unionized.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—The steel strike situation was quiet yesterday, pending the conference called for today in this city. Everything is ready for the meeting. All details have been arranged and the indications point to a short session and an amicable adjustment of the differences. There will be but one point presented—whether all the mills of the two companies shall be unionized or not. For this reason the amalgamated people will not enter the conference for the purpose of adjusting wages, but as executive officials to outline the policy of their organization.

Two more signatures to the amalgamated scale were received yesterday. They were the Standard Chain Company of Columbus, Ohio, and Monongahela Iron and Steel Company, Homestead, Pa.

Wages Advanced.

Youngstown, Ohio, July 11.—At the bi-monthly wage conference here yesterday between representatives of the Amalgamated Association and Secretary Nutt of the Labor Bureau of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, the wages for builders were advanced from $4.87½ to $5.25 per ton. Finishers were given an advance of about five per cent. The increase dates from July 1, and affects about 40,000 employes, including workmen employed in independent bar iron plants, as well as employes of the Republic Combine.

An All Miners Strike.

Paris, July 11.—A meeting yesterday of delegates from the various labor corporations summoned by the Federal Committee of Miners, to discuss the advisability of an eventual strike of all the miners of France, adopted a resolution expressing complete agreement in regard to the useful effects of such a strike.

Machinists Will Not Return.

Newport News, Va., July 11.—The striking machinists were in session yesterday morning two and one-half hours, and voted not to return to work this morning. A telegram was received from President O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists, promising assistance.

TWO GREAT METEORS.

Astronomers Anxious to Learn Something of Their Course.

Mr. J. H. Weatherbe, 21 Langley avenue, Toronto, who closely observed the two great meteors that flashed across the sky on Tuesday night, sends some particulars with the request that out-of-town observers supply to the Secretary of the Astronomical Society any facts that may assist in locating the meteoric bodies which produced such a brilliant spectacle. The first meteor as seen by Mr. Weatherbe, came into vision at 10.22, and its flight took almost half a minute. It traversed the sky from Ophiuchus, (the Serpent Bearer), as far as Coma Berenice (Berenice's Hair,) a very large section of the northern heavens, and ended in two balls of white looking fire. The second meteor was seen at 10.27, almost at the same starting point as the first, but its course was not over a third of that of the first. It travelled at an angle that would have taken it through Virgo. The cloud of gaseous vapor in the tract of the meteors lasted quite ten minutes and disappeared in a curling cloud.

NO SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

C.P.R. Officials Optimistic—Nothing New in Situation.

Toronto, July 11.—The strike of the Canadian Pacific Railway trackmen goes on and both sides continue to claim they are winning. Nothing new transpited yesterday.

Chairman D. Wilkinson of the local committee states that the men are nobly standing out and are still confident of victory. According to reports received the men on divisions east of Toronto are standing firm. Mr. Wilkinson has sent out a circular to the strikers urging them to remain out as victory is certain.

Officials of the company claim that the strikers are gradually going back. A gang of twenty Italian laborers were sent out to North Bay from Toronto yesterday to work on the track.

Fined For Interfering.

Smith's Falls, Ont., July 11. — Ex-Yardman Langan was yesterday fined five dollars and costs for interfering with Lucas, a C.P.R. section foreman.

Mr. McNicoll Contradicts.

Montreal, July 11. — A flat contradiction was given by General Manager McNicoll last night of the press despatch, dated from Montreal, which was published in the evening papers in Toronto, Winnipeg and along the line of the C.P.R., to the effect that he had been waited upon by a deputation from Winnipeg representing all the other railway organizations on the road with a view to settling the trackmen's strike. "There is no truth whatever in the statement," he said. "The report is evidently concocted to stop the return of strikers to work that is daily taking place, and it is not the only report that is being circulated for that purpose. That one, in the evening's papers stating that 17 gangs on the Qwen Sound section had been induced to again go out, is equally false. The reports I have of returning workmen," he continued, "are most encouraging. It is an old story, perhaps, but I can only repeat it."

FED ON MILK.

Could Eat Absolutely Nothing—Kept Body and Soul Together With Milk—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have Worked a Wonderful Change.

Many a sufferer from Dyspepsia cannot eat the foods of ordinary healthy mortals. Certain meats, certain dishes of various kinds, must not be taken. "It disagrees with me," explains the victim when pressed to take some, oftentimes, quite ordinary and wholesome article of diet. "I never touch it." Pains and penalty follow if this rule is disregarded.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets liberate such people from slavery, the tyranny of ailing digestion. This is their usual everyday work all over the world, and may almost be taken as a matter of course it happens so often.

But the case of Joseph J. Arbour, of Perce, Quebec, is greater than this. For six months Mr. Arbour could not eat a scrap of solid food. His stomach had absolutely broken down. He was literally starving. Life was kept in his body only by feeding him milk.

This man was not only saved from slavery by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. He was saved from death by slow starvation. There is no doubt about it. Reduced to a glass of milk a day, and digesting that with more and more difficulty as time went on, Mr. Arbour positively could not have kept body and soul together had it not been for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

To-day Mr. Arbour's stomach can digest anything in the way of food he likes to eat. He used seven boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They digested the food while the stomach rested; he was able to eat solid nourishment; he grew strong, and his stomach finally regained its power of perfect digestion.

"I cannot recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets too highly."

In cases where Dyspepsia is accompanied by Constipation the small, brown tablets included in every box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will be found of inestimable value. They act on the liver firmly but gently, stimulating that organ to do its duty securing a prompt easy movement of the bowels.

Niagara Falls Mecca For Thelves.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 11.—A Norwegian named Peterson, hailing from Minnesota, was robbed of $120 in a Midway resort yesterday afternoon, this being the fourth case of the kind reported to the police in two days. The robbery was reported to Supt. Welch of the State Reservation, but when the officers went to the resort the thieves had escaped to Canada. It was stated last night that somebody had returned part of Peterson's money.

Supt. Welch stated that the condition of the town is "damnable," and many visitors complain of the presence of a gang of thieves.

Washington Crop Statistics.

Washington, July 11.—Crop statistics compiled by the Department of Agriculture, show a reduction in the acreage of corn of 5 per cent. from last year. The condition of the crop is not as favorable as last year. The amount of wheat remaining in the hands of farmers on July 1 is estimated at about 31,000,000 bushels, or 5.85 per cent. of the crop. Wheat averages slightly better than last year; oats show a decrease; barley an increase, and rye is above the average.

CONCEALMENT POLICY

Affairs in Cape Colony Much Worse Then Reported.

MURDERING THE WOUNDED.

Lord Kitchener Reports That Seven Men Swear to the Facts—Yeoman Officer Also Corroborates the Charge—Fifty Boers Killed—Sharp Fighting and the Enemy Defeated.

London, July 12.—Referring to the Government's admission that they had information respecting the shooting of our wounded at Vlakfontein so long back as June 11, The Daily Mail, whose correspondent was first to make the news public, states that this is only a small portion of the policy of concealment now being carried on. It professes to have abundant evidence that almost the whole theatre of war is in much worse condition than the public is allowed to know. The state of affairs in Cape Colony in particular is said to be one of a most serious nature, due almost entirely to the belief among the Dutch that the constant efforts of the Government to propitiate them prove they are tired of the war. While the Government are constantly saying in public that the war will be fought to a finish they are, says The Daily Mail, continually making offers of peace to the Boers.

Proof of Boer Atrocities.

London, July 12. — Official corroboration of the charges that the Boers murdered the British wounded at Vlakfontein promises soon to be forthcoming.

In the House of Commons yesterday, replying to questions of Henry Norman (Liberal), the War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, read the telegraphic correspondence with Lord Kitchener on the subject.

The latter at first declared that the reports were unfounded, but he subsequently telegraphed the statement of a wounded Yeomanry officer, corroborating the reports.

And, finally, Lord Kitchener on July 9 informed Mr. Brodrick that he had the testimony of seven men to the effect that they saw Boers shoot the wounded.

Lord Kitchener added that sworn testimony was being forwarded.

British Left Their Tents Standing.

London, July 12.—A Yeomanry trooper, in a letter describing the Vlakfontein affair, May 23, when the garrison of Vlakfontein, on the Johannesburg-Durban Railroad, had 174 men put out of action by the Boers under Gen. Delarey, adds the startling intelligence that the British, the night after that fight, discovered that the Boers were surrounding their camp, and the British were obliged to retreat, leaving their tents standing and their wounded behind them.

Forced to Witness Hanging.

Cape Town, July 11.—Maraias, the well-known Cape rebel, was hanged at Middleburg, Transvaal Colony, to-day. By order of the military authorities the execution was witnessed by prominent residents of Middleburg.

Kruger Still Talking.

New York, July 12.—The News prints the following from The Hague: Your correspondent yesterday had an interview with Herr Van Lier, Gen. Botha's last messenger to Dr. Leyds. He confirmed former President Kruger's belief that the Boers would eventually win. He said:

"The British are completely demoralized, and the 30,000 burghers in the field are in the most hardened condition."

Herr Van Lier added: "The Boers recently captured 170 cases of dynamite from the Doughlas and Balmoral coal mines near Middleburg, which will be used for train destruction."

Boer Refugee Free.

New York, July 12.—David Stephen du Plooy, a Boer, who escaped from the British prison at Darrell's Island, one of the Bermudas, and stowed away in the steamer Trinidad; was yesterday released from Ellis Island. He is now free to become the assistant janitor in a Harlem apartment house. If he does not like that manner of life he has the option of going to a ranch in Colorado.

In the Judge's Hands.

Manitou, Man., July 12. — The addresses of counsel in the Lisgar election petition were concluded yesterday.

The court then adjourned. It is expected that judgment will be delivered next week.

Another Sunday Trip.

Niagara Falls, July 12. —Graham, the barrel artist, claims he will go through the rapids next Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

To Be Rebuilt.

Niagara Falls, July 12. — It is stated that the Clifton House may be rebuilt within a year. Several parties are after the site.

DISASTROUS FIRES.

Sixty Families Homeless and Destitute in Temiscaming.

FLAMES SWEPT 8 TOWNSHIPS.

The Destruction of Buildings and Crops in the Newly Settled Liskeard District Complete—The Settlers Lost Everything—Heavy Rains Save Several Villages from Destruction on Wednesday.

Toronto, July 12. — About 60 families have been rendered homeless by the disastrous bush fires in the Temiscaming District. Eight townships have been swept by the flames, and several villages were only saved from destruction by the rains of Wednesday last.

The fires occurred in the district near Liskeard. The residents of the village were kept in great suspense for several days, their chattels being packed ready for flight. Flames swept the townships of Hudson, Kerns, Dymond, Halley, Harris, Casey, Armstrong and Hilliard. Some of these townships were extensively settled and many clearings were under crop. The settlers have lost everything, and it is likely an appeal will be made to the Provincial Government for aid.

Fortunately the heavy rains quenched the fire before it had a chance to spread to the great timber forests adjoining the settled townships.

TWO CANNON FROM CHINA.

A Present to Canada From the Imperial Authorities.

Ottawa, July 12.—Canada is to have two mementoes of the exciting times in China, which but a short time ago riveted the attention of the entire civilized world. These mementoes are a couple of Chinese guns captured from the troops of the Empress-Dowager by the British during the advance of the International troops to Pekin to relieve the beleaguered Legations. The captured cannon are not Krupp guns of the latest pattern, but their antique pattern gives them far more interest than if they had just been cast. They are brass 8.25 smooth-bore guns, weighing four hundredweights, and being five feet in length. The weapons are engraved with quaint Chinese inscriptions, and have rings cast on them. Information concerning the guns is contained in the following, which the Governor-General has received from Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alfred Gaselee, commanding the British contingent China field force. The letter reads as follows: "Sir,—I have the honor to inform you that the principal ordnance officer of the China field force has, under instructions from me, despatched the two guns shown in the attached statement for presentation to the Canadian Government. The guns were shipped at Taku on the 9th of May, and have been consigned through to Ottawa, via Shanghai and Vancouver, to the address of Colonel Pinault, in charge of the militia defences." No word of the arrival of the guns has yet been received, but they are expected any day now. It is thought they will be placed in the Parliament grounds here.

Oil Stove Exploded.

Dundas, July 12.—Mrs. Fred Wield had a most miraculous escape from being burned to death a few days ago. She was using a large coal oil stove, and while attending to the cooking of the meal the stove exploded, burning her face, head and one hand, one finger of the latter being burned almost to the bone. The house would have been destroyed but for the prompt action of Frank Lennard and George Lees, jr., who were close at hand at the time of the accident, and carried the stove out of doors.

Threw Babe Into a Hole.

Ottawa, July 12.—A Syrian woman, a pedlar, is under arrest at Shawville, on a charge of infanticide. With another woman of her own nationality, she arrived at Shawville on Tuesday night and secured a room at the house of a Mrs. Murray. She threw the babe, almost immediately after its birth, into a hole at the rear of the house. The mother is quite ill at the Pontiac House, and the other woman is in jail, pending orders from the Attorney-General of Quebec.

Japs Gained the Victory.

Vancouver, B. C., July 11.—The striking white and Indian fishermen of the Fraser River followed 1,000 Japanese boats yesterday, with the intention of interferring with the latter, but were forced to return without accomplishing anything. Fifteen patrol boats of the strikers followed the Japanese boats, but they had only got started, when 30 Japanese boats, manned by 300 Japanese, everyone showing a rifle, put out into the river, and the strikers retired without a shot being fired.

FRIDAY, JLUY 12, 1901.

CANADA'S ADVANCEMENT.

The first Dominion Day of the twentieth century is a convenient mile post at which to pause to note the progress made by this country. Canada is a little more than the space of a generation in age, but she has made strides in advance which are truly remarkable. The material progress has been particularly striking and this is made all the more so when we remember the comparatively slow growth of population, which was about three and a half millions at Confederation and is about five and a half millions now. Our population is small but it is the quality that counts. A hundred well disciplined, well trained and well knit regular soldiers is worth a thousand raw, untrained, undeveloped and undisciplined recruits. It will be interesting to note what has been accomplished the past thirty-four years by the hardy, energetic and intelligent people of Canada. In that time we have increased the milage of our railways from 2,087 miles to 17,824 miles in 1900. Our railways in 1867 carried 2,784,596 passengers and 2,272,309 tons of freight. In 1900 the passengers carried had increased to 21,500,175, and the freight carried had grown to 35,946,183 tons. In addition to these evidences of advance it may be mentioned that the Ontario Government makes it a condition of aid to new railways that the steel rails and railway supplies used must be of Canadian manufacture. Our canal system has been completed and now ocean steamers completed and now ocean steamers by their use can carry a cargo of grain from Fort William, on Lake Superior, direct to Liverpool. Our foreign trade has increased from 131,027,542 to $381,517,326, an increase of $150,489,694. Canada comes out well in a comparison of its total trade according to population with other countries. Our total trade being 381 millions, gives us $70.95 per head. At this ratio, the total trade of the United States lauded as the highest type of growth and enterprise, would be fifty three hundred and twenty-one millions, whereas the total trade of the United States is only twenty-two hundred and twenty million dollars, or the population of the United States being 75 millions, $29.11 per head. That is Canada's ratio of total trade is over three times greater than that of the United States, Canada's being $70.95 per head and that of the United States only $29.11. Great Britain is the only great European country whose rate of trade per head exceeds that of Canada, being $97.74. France's rate per head is $40.34, that of Germany, $41.14, while Russia, with her teeming population of 128 millions, has a trade per head of only $6.54. Our trade with great Britain Britain has increased by $49,258,454, and with the United States by $88,655,197. There has been an increase in the deposits in chartered banks of $282,022,306—from $33,653,594 to $521,354,459. There has been an increase in the assets of our banks of $441,493,483 and the public revenue has grown from $13,637,928 to $47,000,000. The value of animal and agricultural products exported in 1868 was $19,341,287. The value of the same products in 1899 had increased to $81,858,450. Of the exports of these products in 1868, 61.40 per cent went to the United States, and 32.17 per cent to Great Britain. In 1899 the percentage going to the United States had fallen to 8.62, and the percentage going to Great Britain had risen to 85.60. The increase in the amount of insurance placed is another evidence of improved material conditions. The fire insurance placed has grown from $188,359,800 to $936,269,660 in 1899—an amount about equal to the total value of farm property in Ontario, which is given for 1899 as $947,513,360. The life insurance in force in 1869 was $35,680,080, and in 1899 this had grown to $404,135,593. With such achievements to our credit in one short generation, we may well look forward with confidence to a great future and speculation is at sea in forecasting what the record will be at the begining of the next century.

LIFE AT THE OUTSET.

(Kingston Whig)

It makes one really tired to read the crude criticisms that are passed upon the kindergartens and by people who ought to understand them. Thus a New York educator is represented as having said that she dreaded the arrival in her room of graduates from the kindergarten, because, as a rule, "they were disorderly and flighty." The editor of the Whig has sat or stood in the room where these little pupils have been at work, and he has been impressed with the perfect order which has prevailed. He does not know what kind of schools New York possesses, but he does know that Kingston's kindergartens are places where the youngest children are led on persuasively and kindly, from one stage to another, and with a precision and care which cannot be too highly commended.

But, says another, the trouble is that the kindergarten is not taken seriously. "Children are taught to believe that they are in a play house," and as they are promoted "they view each grade with the same degree of levity." Queer nonsense. Nothing more, and nothing less. The little folks are taught to use their eyes, their minds, their hands, by changes in the programme which suit their tender years, and when they pass into the classes above the kindergarten it is universal testimony that they are fitted for better work, and that as a rule they do better work, and the one thing to be commended is their discipline, their quickness of action, their application to study, their desire for progress. The people who regard the kindergarten as "our loud carnival" do not understand it, and in talking it down they are doing it an unwarrantable injury.

Finally, a western paper complains that it should be taught—presumably in the kindergarten—that the world is a place for work, (not a playground) for analysis, for just reasoning, for skill in the use of hands and eyes.

In other words, little children of four and five years should be treated as if they were fourteen and fifteen, and at the very threshold of life they should be burdened with serious talk and serious excercises! Here is a demonstration of the fatuity of the reasoning. Let the children have a chance to grow, in mind and stature, before they are saddened with worry. Let them pass through the processes wise men and women have devised for interesting them in school and its studies. Let them, for mercy's sake, have a little sunshine as they awake to the fact that they can learn and do something, leaving analysis and application and the other things that bring heart and head aches for the experience of later days.

Country Life

Ought, it would seem, to give exemption from the diseases which prey upon the residents of thickly populated cities. But there is no exemption from disease, and in the country, as in the city, one may see the cheeks grow hollow and the eyes grow dull while the frame wastes away with that terrible disease, consumption.

Weak lungs are made strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures obstinate and stubborn coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs and other symptoms which, if neglected or unskillfully treated, terminate fatally in consumption. The action of Golden Medical Discovery in the curing of wasting diseases is entirely philosophic. Emaciation, and consequent loss of weight, are among the most striking symptoms of what are known as wasting diseases. The body is not being adequately nourished, and the cause of this lack of nourishment is not lack of food but lack of ability in the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition to prepare the food for the assimilation and nutrition of the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and the organs of digestion and nutrition, and so enables the body to be nourished back to strength in the only way by which strength can come; that is, by food perfectly digested and assimilated.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine or any other narcotic.

Accept no substitute for "Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for you, though many things may pay the dealer a larger profit.
